U. S. DEBT PACT AGREED TO BY FRENCH DEPUTIES

Senate Still to Pass on Mellon-Berenger Agreement to Pay $4,025,000,000 in 62 Years.

RATIFICATION BY IT SEEMS ASSURED

Measure Carried in Lower House by Only 8 Majority—Teeth of Reservations Drawn.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 21. — (Sunday) — The President of France early today was authorized by the Chamber of Deputies to ratify the agreement for payment of war debts to the United States.

The ratification was carried by the slim margin of eight votes. The count was 300 in favor and 292 against.

The measure must now go before the Senate but the majority of the Government has generally been much stronger in that body. It thus appeared certain that the agreement concluded in Washington in July, 1926, would take effect.

Text of the Bill.

The text of the bill, which the Government of Premier Raymond Poincare had made a question of confidence, follows:

"The President of the Republic is authorized to ratify the agreement concluded at Washington on July 29, 1926, between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of the French Republic for the consolidation and repayment in 62 annuities of the debts contracted by France with the United States of America."

The balloting brought to an end 11 days of stormy discussion in the Chamber, in the course of which Premier Poincare himself spoke for a total of 37 hours. Poincare was forced to retire completely exhausted.

Foreign Minister Aristide Briand took charge of the measure in Poincare's absence. He appealed to the gratitude of the Deputies for the tremendous assistance the American armies had given France in the World War and declared that these fresh forces reached her shores barely in time to prevent her destruction.

The Foreign Minister argued that America, because she was an ally, should not receive less consideration than any other creditor of France.

Teeth of Reservations Drawn.

The Government had won a major skirmish preceding the final battle for ratification last evening. By a vote of 301 to 275 the Chamber agreed that any reservations it might have to the ratification bill would be limited to mere suggestions from the Chamber to the Government. There had been a strong effort, in which the usual party lines were forgotten, to attach to the ratification bill a condition that payment of the war debts should only be with money received from Germany in reparation for war damages.

The Chamber went into its final session at 10 p. m. last night, faced with the determination of the Government that in that session it should make known its will. Premier Poincare was still without the strength to appear again in favor of the measures. He has weathered many political storms. but never before had felt the strain so much. His Government was often close to defeat as sudden waves of emotion swept Parliament. The final vote was taken at about 1 a. m.

No such difficulty was encountered in obtaining a vote for ratification of the Caillaux-Churchill agreement for the payment to Great Britain over a period of 62 years of £653,127,900 (about $3,265,000,000). A similar bill was voted by the Deputies by show of hands after the American agreement had been disposed of.

France to Pay $4,025,000,000.

Although three years have elapsed without ratification since Ambassador Berenger concluded with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon an adjustment of the French war debt France had paid the United States "on account" up to Nov. 15, 1928, $82,851,171. A total of £18,000,000 (about $90,000,000) had been paid to England on the same basis.

Under the Mellon-Berenger

ONE KILLED, THREE HURT WHEN PIONEER ENGINE BLOWS UP

Party of 240, Including Gov. Caulfield, Stranded on New Hampshire Mountain Top.

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N. H., July 20.—Daniel P. Rossiter, a Boston newspaper man was killed, three other men were injured and a party of 240, including several Governors and their families, were stranded on the summit overnight, following the runaway and explosion of "Old Peppersass," the original Mount Washington cog railway engine, which was rededicated at exercises on the mountain top earlier in the day.

The injured were Edward C. "Jack" Frost of Concord, engineer who took the engine up the mountain for the first time in July, 1869; W. I. Newsham, his fireman, and W. H. Cote of Swampscott, Mass., a press photographer.

The trains carrying the Governors and other officials were unable to make the descent after the accident. Two of the trains backed up the mountainside to the top while three others were stalled for lack of steam.

Gov. Caulfield of Missouri was one of the seven Governors in the party.

THREE BOUND ON FISHING TRIP BURN TO DEATH IN PLANE

Party From Youngstown, O., Going to Pontiac, Mich., in Crash Near Perrysburg, O.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., July 20.—Three persons were burned to death when an airplane fell and was destroyed by flames near Perrysburg today.

The dead: J. B. Detchon, his son, Carl, and Charles Jones, all of Youngstown. They left there this morning on a fishing trip to Pontiac, Mich. The plane was owned by Carl Detchon. Jones also was a pilot.

CHARING CROSS STATION TO GO

Will Be Removed to Clear Way for New Bridge.

LONDON, July 20.—The most ambitious scheme of London improvement in many years has been advanced a long step further by a provisional agreement between the Ministry of Transport and the Southern Railway Co., under which the famous Charing Cross station and its railway hotel will be removed to the south side of the Thames. This will clear the way for construction of a great new bridge across the Thames for road traffic.

The agreement provides that the London County Council will acquire freehold of the land on the Surrey side near Waterloo for the railway company and will meet all outlay incurred by the railway in removing the station and hotel, including provision for a new railway station and hotel to provide accommodation while the work is proceeding. The council will also pay $1,615,000 compensation to the company.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 20.—Property of Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion pugilist, was attached here today in a $500,000 suit, brought by John S. Fogarty of Fort Worth, Tex., charging alienation of affections. Fogarty is the former husband of Mrs. Catherine Fogarty, who is suing Tunney for a like amount, alleging breach of promise.

ST. LOUIS ROBIN'S ENDURANCE FLIGHT ENTERS 9TH DAY

Jackson and O'Brine Break All Records but One—Missouri Robin Aloft for 87 Hours.

TWO FLYERS WORK ON THEIR ENGINE

Careful Preparation, Skill of Pilots and Expert Refueling Help Account for Achievement.

Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, who were beginning their ninth day in the air this morning, have remained aloft longer than any other aviators, with the exception of two, Loren Mendell and Roland Reinhart, whose record flight of 246 hours and 43 minutes is the mark the St. Louisans are seeking to better.

Three endurance records set previously during the year have been exceeded by Jackson and O'Brine. The marks they have beaten were those established by the army tri-motored plane, Question Mark, and the civilian planes, Fort Worth, and City of Cleveland. The Question Mark, manned by a crew of five stayed up 150 hours, 40 minutes. The Fort Worth, with Reg Robbins and James Kelly aboard, was up 172 hours, 32 minutes. Roy Mitchell and Byron Newcomb, in the City of Cleveland, raised the mark to 174 hours, 1 minute. Mendell and Reinhart established their record July 6, in the Angeleno, at Los Angeles.

Jackson and O'Brine, in the St. Louis Robin," completed 186 hours in the air at 1:17 a. m., and Jackson has expressed a desire to remain up three weeks. Good weather, careful preparation and skillful handling of the refueling plane by C. Ray Wassall, former commander of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Unit, have all contributed to their success.

They Make Repairs.

It has not been a matter of sit and "hold the stick," however. They have changed spark plugs, getting out on the "catwalk," a pathway four inches wide alongside the engine, and have made daily inspections and checks of controls, engine and other working parts. Yesterday Jackson ordered new wires for the spark plugs. The original wires became oil soaked, he explained, and the engine was beginning to miss a bit. The wires were lowered to O'Brine's outstretched hands from the refueling plane and the latter made the replacement.

W. Gentry Shelton Jr. and Joe Hammer in the Missouri Robin started last Wednesday 99 hours behind their friends. They experienced difficulty in making refueling contacts and, because their 176-gallon fuel tank refuses to give up the last 40 gallons it contains, they have had to refuel more often than is required with the St. Louis Robin. Since Dan Robertson, brother of Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Mfg. Co., sponsors of the flights, has taken over the refueling plane for the Missouri Robin the contacts have been better.

Refueling at 6 P. M. Today.

Field Manager Parks announced last night that the planes would drop low over Lambert-St. Louis Field for refueling at 6 p. m. today for the benefit of the large crowd that is expected to visit the airport. Prior to the refueling one of the planes is scheduled to fly over the C. M. T. C. encampment at Jefferson Barracks and a message will be droped to the student soldiers.

The two planes were refueled over the field at 7 o'clock last night, after which the Missouri Robin departed for the East Side to spend the night over Parks Airport.

The St. Louis Robin's crew dropped a note which announced, "motor going good as ever after making minor repairs." James Kelly of the Fort Worth crew, which once held the refueling record, dropped in at the field yesterday just as the St. Louis Robin passed the Fort Worth's 172-hour mark. He sent up a note of congratulation.

Telegrams and letters from aviation officials and "air fans" throughout the country are coming in for Jackson and O'Brine in particular. The messages, including one from C. M. Keys, head of the Curtiss Aircraft Interests, who is in Italy, have been sent up to the flyers. A downtown candy store sent out a dozen boxes of sweets for the aviators and other gifts

CHAIN OF ROCKS HIGHWAY TOLL BRIDGE OPENED

New $2,000,000 Structure Provides Additional Connections for Traffic in North End of City.

TWO ROUTES TO DOWNTOWN DISTRICT

Span Also Is Accessible to the West End Through the Kingshighway Boulevard System.

The new $2,000,000 Chain of Rocks highway toll bridge, providing a new route for local and transcontinental motor traffic at St. Louis, was opened for business at 1:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Until late in the evening steady streams of traffic moved in both directions over the bridge, many of the motorists being tourists from distant states.

The new bridge enters the city at the extreme northern end, between the Chain of Rocks waterworks and the North Shore Country Club, at Riverview drive. Broadway and Riverview drive connect the downtown district with the bridge, but it is accessible from the Kingshighway boulevard system, and because of the geography of the city, it is a comparatively short distance from the West End.

Roads on Illinois Side.

On the Illinois side, the bridge opens to a four-mile paved road, a part of the project, which connects with the junction of Illinois Highways Nos. 3 and 4 at Mitchell in Madison County. No. 3 leads to Alton. Jacksonville and Northwestern Illinois and No. 4 to Edwardsville, Springfield and Chicago.

By winter two new routes across the northwestern part of St. Louis will be paved to reach the bridge. One is the combination of Bircher-Kingshighway and Kingshighway Northwest, running three and one-quarter miles between Kingshighway, at Penrose Park, and Hall's Ferry road. The other is Goodfellow avenue, connecting Delmar boulevard and Hall's Ferry road.

Part of the pavement of the former route is in place and the remainder is graded. The additional work is to be contracted for by the city soon. Goodfellow is completed south of Lillian avenue and between West Florissant and McLaran avenues; concrete is being laid on it now between Lillian and West Florissant and between McLaran and Hall's Ferry. Goodfellow and Kingshighway Northwest meet at Hall's Ferry road at a point about half a mile southwest of the intersection of Broadway and Riverview drive. That half-mile gap cannot be replaced by a boulevard until the city finds money to build the Maline Creek sewer.

Cut-Off Mentioned.

However, a short jog north on Hall's Ferry road leads the motorist to the newly opened and paved Chain of Rocks drive, which runs between Hall's Ferry at Jennings Station road and Riverview drive. The builders of Chain of Rocks Bridge have talked of establishing a cut-off from Chain of Rocks drive to the junction of Goodfellow and Kingshighway Northwest to facilitate traffic.

The Missouri Highway Department projects a paved road to connect Chain of Rocks bridge with the Lewis and Clark bridges and another one to connect it with the belt highway in St. Louis County, for convenient access to the main routes, west, north and south without entering the city.

From Chain of Rocks bridge there is a fine view of the city, and conversely the structure, coated with aluminum paint, is visible from downtown office buildings. By use of this bridge travelers avoid congestion, numerous grade crossings and some unattractive scenes on the East Side, and the route shortens the distance between North St. Louis and Edwardsville by 15 miles. It is 7½ miles from the bridge to Kingshighway and Lindell boulevard and by water the new crossing is 10½ miles upstream from Eads Bridge, the first one over the Mississippi River, now 55 years old.

Work Started in 1927.

Congress sanctioned the project two and a half years ago and work began in October, 1927. Six months were lost recently because of ice and high water. John R. Scott and Tom J. Scott, brothers, control the Chain of Rocks-Kingshighway Bridge Co., the owner. Baxter L. Brown and Edward B. Fay were the engineers. Tolls are comparable to those on McKinley Bridge. The bridge and the road to

LIQUOR RUNNERS KILL U. S. GUARD IN BORDER FIGHT

Mexican Smugglers Routed by Six of American Patrol Two Miles East of El Paso, Tex.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., July 20.—Ambushed by a large force of Mexican liquor runners on the Rio Grande, two miles east of here, six members of the American border patrol drove off the attackers. Inspector Ivan E. Scotten, 25 years old, of the border patrol was shot to death. One of the attacking party was wounded but escaped.

The encounter occurred at San Elizario Island. Shots were exchanged across the river, which forms the international boundary.

The fight was one of the most desperate of a long series of armed clashes which small squads of border officers have had in the last few years in guarding almost 3000 miles of desolate country along the international boundary against cattle thieves and smugglers of liquor, narcotics, aliens and guns.

Guards in Ambush.

Scotten, who recently became a member of the patrol, and five other border guards, were lying in wait for liquor smugglers, following information that a big cargo was to be carried across the line just before dawn.

Capt. H. J. Horsley, chief inspector, stationed the six men at the island with instructions to halt the smugglers. Shortly before dawn, the patrolmen noticed a horseman leave the Mexican shore and start for the United States.

As is usual in most cases when a large consignment is smuggled across the border, a decoy is sent out from Juarez to draw the attention of the "Gringo guards" as the Juarez smuggling ring calls the U. S. agents.

Positive that the horseman was a decoy the patrolmen kept themselves hidden until he had almost reached the United States side.

One patrolman then jumped from his hiding place and called on the horseman to halt. The command was answered by shots from the Mexican side of the river.

Surrounded by Smugglers.

The Americans returned the fire, unaware that they were surrounded by smugglers stationed on the American side to receive the contraband. The smugglers then began to pour bullets into the hiding place of the American agents.

When Scotten fell at the first fire, the American patrol rushed into the open and charged the Mexicans on the American side of the border. In the meantime the Mexican horseman had joined the fight and charged the United States patrolman with an automatic pistol in each hand.

One patrolman shot the horse, but only wounded the rider, who under cover of fire from the Mexican side escaped across the border.

CONVICT FREE 14 YEARS FOUND AS CHIEF OF POLICE

Wink (Tex.) Officer Returned to Oklahoma to Complete Term.

By the Associated Press.

McALESTER, Ok., July 20.—Fourteen years of illegal freedom for Joseph Reocket, several years of which he spent as Chief of Police of Wink, Tex., under the name of Bob Williams, were at end today with Reocket back in the State penitentiary here, from which he escaped in 1915.

At Wink Chief Williams was looked upon as a competent officer. All went well for him until the arrest of an Oklahoma fugitive, who made his getaway. Prison authorities here, according to Dr. John Q. Newell, warden, were not satisfied with the story of the fugitive's escape and started an investigation, which disclosed the real identity of the police chief.

Reocket was sent to the Oklahoma penitentiary from Okfusgee County upon conviction of robbery.

TWO FLEET BOATS TO RACE UP MISSISSIPPI TO ST. LOUIS

Start at New Orleans Today; Wager of One Nickel Is Only Stake.

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—Two fleet boats, George Cox's Martha Jane, and Dr. Louis Leroy's Bogie, will start up the Mississippi River from the foot of Canal street at 3 p. m. tomorrow in an effort to lower the record of the Robert E. Lee, in the run from New Orleans to St. Louis.

The $150,000 craft will strain their motors against the current of the river for a wager of one nickel. The vessels are widely different in type, the Martha Jane being a handsome new express cruiser and the Bogie a small speedy runabout. Previous attempts to break the record of ninety hours and 31 minutes failed because of driftwood in the river.

HENRY FORD INTIMATES HE SOON WILL INCREASE WAGES

$6 a Day Minimum Certain to Be Raised, Manufacturer Says in Interview.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Henry Ford regards the $6 a day minimum wage paid to his automobile factory employes as certain to be raised at no very distant time.

In an interview published in the current issue of the North American Review, Ford says: "It is from the $5 a day payment that our real business dates. We think a minimum is safer than a maximum. It prevents any possibility of our slipping backward, while it does not hinder us going forward. I regard the $6 minimum as certain to be raised again at no very distant time."

The $5 wage was established in 1914 and later increased a dollar.

BREMEN MAKES RECORD DAY'S RUN OF 704 NAUTICAL MILES

Best Previous Mark Recorded of 676 Miles Was Set by the Mauretania.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The ocean liner Bremen, now on its maiden trip to New York from Cherbourg on what is expected to be a record run, made 704 nautical miles from noon Friday to noon today, a radio message from an officer of the North German Lloyd line aboard the ship to the line's offices here today said. The best previous day's run by a liner recorded is that the Mauretania, which logged 676 nautical miles.

OBJECTS TO USE OF U. S. GUARDS IN CAR STRIKE

President Green of Federation of Labor Protests Against New Orleans Situation.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Juy 20.—Repeating his charge that hundreds of armed deputy United States marshals are used in behalf of the street car company in the present strike of New Orleans street car men President William Green of the American Federation of Labor has called upon Attorney-General Mitchell to reconsider his decision that the Department of Justice cannot take action in the matter.

In a letter to Mitchell yesterday, Green declared that the deputy marshals could not have been employed unless the Department of Justice had authorized the procedure.

"How long is this policy in New Orleans to be followed?" Green asked. "How long will hundreds of deputy marshals be employed and directed to ride the street cars, patrol the streets and perform local police duty while the public utility corporation is experimenting with strike-breakers?"

In a letter to Secretary of Labor Davis Mitchell recently contended that newspaper estimates of the number of deputy marshals employed were inaccurate, and that those who were employed were for the purpose of enforcing the injunction issued by United States Judge Borah restraining the striking street car men, their sympathizers and friends from doing certain things.

Protests Against Federal Guards.

"It is against this policy," Green said, "which I most vigorously protest, in the name of and in behalf of the officers and members of the American Federation of Labor. The issuance of an injunction, in my opinion, is no justification for the employment of hundreds of deputy marshals and the assignment of these deputy marshals to assist and help the public utility corporations to operate street cars for the purpose of breaking a strike. The inauguration and adoption of such a policy leaves the impression that the Federal Government and the deputy marshals employed in large numbers are serving to assist a powerful corporation in a contest with working people who are fighting for the enjoyment of decent living standards.

"It is not enough to assert that deputy marshals may be employed in large numbers, riding upon street cars operated by strike breakers, patrolling the streets, on the mere assumption that an injunction may be violated. No crime has been committed against the dignity of the Court issuing the injunction until some overt act has been committed. It is our opinion that it is the duty of the United States marshals to arrest individuals charged with a violation of the Court's order upon in-

CHINA PUTS END TO ALL RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA

Council of State Decides to Recall Its Representatives and Dismiss Soviet Envoys.

ISSUES STATEMENT OF ITS POSITION

This Is Said to Refer to Kellogg Pact and to Alleged Propaganda-Spreading in Manchuria.

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, China, July 19 (Delayed)—The State Council of the Nationalist Government tonight decided to sever all relations with Russia. Russian diplomatic officials will be requested to leave China. The Nationalist Government has requested Germany to take over direction of Chinese affairs in Russia since all Chinese diplomatic officials will be withdrawn.

The council drew up a proclamation explaining the position of China in the present crisis. It will be made public after it has been signed by the presidents of the five Yuans.

Although the text has not yet been released it is understood that it says that since China and Russia signed the Kellogg pact renouncing war as an instrument of policy China had been forced to take peaceful means to terminate Russian propaganda in Manchuria; that Russia has moved to interrupt international communications between the two countries and that if war becomes inevitable the responsibility will rest solely on the Russians, despite their signifying their agreement with the Kellogg pact.

President Chiang Kai-shek, as commander-in-chief of China's military forces, appealed by telegraph tonight to the country's military leaders and to the public to "stand united against the menace of Soviet Russia."

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek branded Russia's actions in the recent crisis as "contemptuous toward China." China's revolutionary army, he declared, had never adopted an aggressive attitude.

"Despite the actions of the Soviet representatives we continue to hope that war will be avoided," said the appeal. "However, when national rights, independence and equality are endangered the entire nation must rise united to fight foreign aggression."

In a separate dispatch Gen. Chiang Kai-shek addressed to the military leaders along the northwest frontiers of China, he exhorted them to act "as a united safeguard of the border against Red imperialists seeking to penetrate China."

Summary of Developments in Russo-Chinese Situation.

By the Associated Press.

Russia and China through official spokesmen have pledged their loyalty to the Kellogg anti-war pact. However, each made it clear that its position depended upon the absence of overt acts by the other.

Commissar Rudzutak, acting head of the Russian Government and Foregn Minister C. T. Wang of the Nationalist Government, declared their nations had not forgotten the obligations of a signatory of the pact. Both made their peace pledges conditional on abstention of their opponents from what Rudzutak described as "warlike acts."

Foreign Minister Wang said that "any move on the part of the soviet to place troops within Manchuria will be viewed by the Chinese people and Government as an act of war."

French consular officials at Shanghai said they had a report from the French Consul at Harbin that Russian troops had actually crossed the frontier at the eastern end of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

A similar Harbin report to the Japanese newspaper Asahi was officially denied by Moscow. Direct Japanese reports from Manchouli, Manchuria, the scene of action, declared the news incorrect.

Japanese News Agency dispatches said that four Soviet gunboats had moved down the Amur River to its junction with the Sungari River on which Harbin is situated. Three Chinese gunboats were sent down the Sungari to re-

NEWMAN SAID TO BE DIVIDING TROLLEY LINES WITH PARTNER

Kansas City Star Says New York Firm of Newman, Saunders & Co. Is Being Progressively Liquidated.

ST. LOUIS FOR NEWMAN K. C. FOR SAUNDERS

Firm's Banana Business Said to Have Gone to Saunders Also, Who Is a Greek Scholar as Well as a Banker.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 21.—The Kansas City Star publishes today the following story to the effect that the New York banking and promoting firm of Newman, Saunders & Co., which reorganized both the Kansas City and St. Louis street car companies recently and has since controlled those properties, is dividing the firm's holdings between the two partners, Newman and Saunders:

Greek and street cars, bananas and banks, queer assemblage of life interests, form the workday background of a man with whom Kansas City will get better acquainted, Dr. P. H. Saunders, who now holds nearly all of the former Newman, Saunders & Co., interest in the Kansas City Public Service Co.

Just what that interest, and just how closely it is knit with certain eastern holdings, never has been definitely stated.

But whatever of the Kansas City system Dr. Saunders actually may own, it is a fact he now becomes the only outside "overlord" the property knows. In a recent division of holdings "Jake" Newman took all the firm's interest in the St. Louis Public Service Co. while Dr. Saunders was accorded nearly all of the firm's holdings in the Kansas City Public Service Co.

Saunders Regularly on Job.

Dr. Saunders has been a regular attendant at the monthly directors meetings for more than a year. And when he sits down at the table he not only is the only out-of-town man present, but the only director with large personal holdings of the railways stock. The other directors are Peter W. Goebel, chairman; Powell C. Groner, president; James Ketner, James E. Chandler, C. W. Allenderfer, Henry N. Ess, Charles M. Howell, George Morris (employes' representative) Col. E. M. Slayton and Henry Hanssen, the latter two city-designated members.

Dr. Saunders did not come into the Kansas City picture until the property was taken from William G. Woolfolk's control in the fall of 1927. "Jake" Newman had been the "man behind the bonds." He was, as reorganization manager, an enigma, for he never had seen the city in whose affairs he had elected to play an important part. Only twice has Mr. Newman been in Kansas City, on June 29, 1927, when the reorganization was completed, and the rehabilitation program well under way and in October of that year when he came here on the issue with Mr. Woolfolk.

It is peculiar the street railways directorate represents no control over the railways property beyond the year term of its members. Stockholders have no voice until July 1, 1931, when a five-year voting trust agreement expires. And it is J. K. Newman, not Dr. Saunders, who is one of the five trustees.

Newman's Flair for Trolleys.

"Jake" Newman has had a flair for street car companies ever since the day when as a young man he was thrust into the presidency of a troublesome railway property by his father, Isadore Newman, still recalled in New Orleans as a respected banker and merchant.

Dr. Saunders, B. A., Ph.D. whose post-graduate studies were completed in a German university at 35, quit a Greek professorship in a Mississippi college to become a Laurel, Miss., banker. He became in a few years a New Orleans banker, a partner first of the elder Newman and then of "Jake" Newman in Newman, Saunders & Co. He became an authority on fruit importation from Central America and a large operator. He is also chairman of the Hugo Stinnes Corporation.

With "Jake" Newman possessed of an almost irresistible urge to mess around with street railways, especially properties in a none too secure status, and with Dr. Saunders knowing his bananas as well as he knows Greek, it was natural that Newman should play the railway game here.

But when the Newman-Woolfolk row was in full bloom a year ago last fall, it was Dr. Saunders, tactful and astute, who finally took command and evolved a local directorate, of which he became the Newman-Saunders member.

In what seems to be a gradual division or liquidation of the Newman-Saunders holdings, the New Orleans banking end of the concern was put into a corporation in which Dr. Saunders soon will be active. Dr. Saunders kept his pet, the fruit corporation. And he got the Kansas City street car securities, or most of them. The problems here were already his. Dr. Saunders is 58 years old.

Washington Expects Kellogg Pact to Avert War.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Extensive plans announced by the White House late today for the proclamation ceremony Wednesday when the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war will become effective were interpreted in diplomatic circles as indicating that President Hoover is convinced the pact will be the means of averting war between Russia and China.

Secretary Stimson, who has taken steps to call to the attention of both governments their obligations under the pact, returned to Washington this afternoon from the President's fishing preserve in Virginia, where he had been conferring on the situation with Mr. Hoover. The Secretary immediately received French Ambassador Claudel at his hotel.

The French Ambassador communicated through his government the Secretary's word to Russia regarding its adherence to the pact and its obligations under it. The French Embassy said that so far no reply had been received by the Paris foreign office from Moscow. Ambassador Claudel, however, repeated to Secretary Stimson a message from Foreign Minister Briand on the Chinese situation which he had delivered to the State Department earlier in the day.

Chinese Minister Wu is expecting a reply from his government to the Secretary's message within 48 hours.

Secretary Stimson said today he planned to confer with Chinese Minister Wu tonight.

Official pronouncements in both Nanking and Moscow that the obligations of the two nations under the Kellogg pact would be adhered to were hailed by official circles here as the first indication of success of the treaty under the test of threatened hostilities.

Various unofficial suggestions regarding arbitration in the dispute have been put forward here. The United States Government, however, maintains a policy of not offering its good offices voluntarily in an international dispute.

Japan has also been mentioned as a possible arbiter, but it has been pointed out that Japan has extensive interests in Manchuria which, she might feel, would preclude her acting in such a capacity. Some officials feel that Germany, which has friendly relations with both China and the Soviet would be the most logical choice of the two countries as an arbiter.

John Van A. MacMurray, American Minister to China, informed the State Department that in view of the troubled situation between China and the Soviet he had decided to cancel his trip to the United States.

CAPT. HOYT REACHES NOME, STARTS BACK

Army Flyer, on Round-Trip Journey From New York, Delayed by Fog and Wind.

By the Associated Press.

NOME, Alaska, July 20.—Capt. Ross G. Hoyt, flying from New York, arrived here at 5 p. m. (9 p. m. St. Louis time) and after an hour's rest started on the return flight to Fairbanks, where he will spend the night. With rain, fog and head winds it took Hoyt 4 hours and 30 minutes to fly from Fairbanks, about 600 miles from here.

By the Associated Press.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 20.—Capt. Ross G. Hoyt, United States army aviator, flying from New York to Nome, and return, took off from here for his destination at 1:23 p. m. (5:23 St. Louis time) today.

The flyer's time from Whitehorse, Yukon, to Fairbanks was 3 hours and 25 minutes.

Hoyt, in the army plane New Alaska, took off early today from Vanderhoof, B. C., after landing there yesterday because of adverse weather. He refueled there in the afternoon and stayed overnight because of adverse weather reports.

He left Mitchel Field, L. I., at 2:38 p. m., Eastern daylight time, Thursday, in an attempt to fly the 8469 miles to Nome and return in 75 hours and 40 minutes elapsed time.

His landing interrupted a flight from Edmonton, Alta., to Whitehorse, a distance of 1090 miles. Vanderhoof is less than half way from Edmonton to Whitehorse.

Hoyt covered the first stage of 1030 miles from Mitchel Field to Minneapolis, Minn., in seven hours and 20 minutes.

TRAIN WINDOW OPENER WORKS

MILWAUKEE, July 20. — The traveling public, which has hauled and strained and cursed because some railway coach windows will not open, at last is going to have relief. S. W. Nicholson, engineer for an automobile accessory concern here, says he has invented a window opener that actually works. It is an improved ratchet lifter similar to those used on sedan automobiles. Tests have been made and the device has been declared successful. The Milwaukee Road is installing the new device in its coaches.

Free Cosmetics for Women Workers.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Stenographers at the new Foreman National Bank building can drop their worries from now on when they get up too late to put on that last dash of lipstick. Officers of the new 40-story skyscraper today announced they would furnish free cosmetics — including powder, rouge, cold creams, lotions, hairpins and manicuring equipment—to all women employes in the building.

PORTES GIL'S NEW LABOR MEASURES BEFORE CONGRESS

Mexican Legislature in Extraordinary Session to Consider Reform Pro-Program.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 20.—The Mexican Congress meeting today in extraordinary session to discuss the projected labor law drawn up by President Portes Gil last year when he was Secretary of the Interior, has in its hands one of the outstanding works of the revolution and what has been described as perhaps the greatest legislative initiative of the late Gen. Alvaro Obregon.

President Portes Gil disclaims any major credit for the project, explaining he merely put into black and white the ideas of Gen. Obregon, constituting an innovation calculated to guarantee to the working classes the living and laboring conditions that the revolution has promised them.

Observers see in the new labor code an experiment of world interest second in its radical departures from precedent only to certain legislative measures adopted in Communist Russia. Opinion is divided as to the results it will bring, but all agree that whatever they may be they will have far-reaching effect on the present world tendency toward emancipation of labor.

Labor Courts Created.

Several months ago the plan was submitted to a mixed conference of workers and employers, undergoing some changes which, however, did not include noteworthy alteration of the principal chapters.

The project provides for creation of a system of labor courts with branches in all parts of the country, the courts to be made up of representatives of employers and workers and presided over by especially qualified "labor judges."

Joint committees of employers and employed in the individual factories would endeavor to solve labor disputes in their particular units of national industry. Upon failure of these committees, or in cases of disputes involving the personnel of more than one factory, the matter would come before a district labor court, then a state and finally a national or supreme court of the kind.

All to Learn a Trade.

This is the most salient point set forth in the initiative to come before Congress, but there are others also of extraordinary importance. For instance the law would give the Government the right to conscript labor in time of emergency, would oblige every Mexican citizen to learn a trade or profession, would establish compulsory insurance for workers, paid partly by the worker out of his wages and partly by the employer on a percentage basis as the worker's share in the concern's profits, and would give protection and care to women workers on occasion of childbirth, stipulating that for a certain period preceding such an event the woman employe be given only light work and for a certain period afterward she be allowed a vacation at full pay.

The new law would give the workers a voice in business management through committees which would "co-operate" with the management in matters connected with the progress and prosperity of the concern.

TWO EX-OFFICERS OF MINERS' UNION CONVICTED AT MARION

MARION, Ill., July 20.—John Terry, former president, and Elmer Myers, financial secretary of Madison Local Mine Union No. 12, were convicted late today of conspiracy to embezzle union funds.

Oscar Hudgens and Sylvester Hooper, Negro officials tried with Terry and Myers, were acquitted.

GILBERT REPORT ON ANNUITIES IS OPTIMISTIC

Reparations Agent Thinks Young Plan Provides Essential Basis for Further Progress in Germany.

BERLIN, July 20.—The interim report of S. Parker Gilbert, agent-general for Reparations, covering the first nine months of the fifth annuity year to June 1, 1929, which was announced today, contains a distinctly optimistic note concerning Germany's future.

It also expressed the opinion that the Young plan "provided an essential basis for further progress of peaceful reconstruction."

The difficulties of the German situation are admitted in the introduction of the report. "German credit and business conditions during most of the period," it is stated, "have been dominated by exceptional influences arising on the one hand from the unprecedented severity of the winter and budgetary difficulties of the Reich, and, on the other hand, from attraction exercised by the high level of money rates in New York and the suspense incident to the work of the experts committee for the final settlement of the reparations problem."

Where the Money Went.

The report states that Germany "as in previous years loyally and punctually made the payments required by the terms of the Dawes plan." During nine months Germany paid 1,800,000,000 gold marks ($450,000,000), of which approximately 1,083,000,000 went to France, 397,000,000 to Great Britain, 142,000,000 to Italy, 99,000,000 to Belgium, 70,000,000 to the United States and smaller amounts to other creditors.

Transfers of all kinds during the nine months amounted to about 1,680,000,000 gold marks, as compared to 1,252,000,000 during the same period of the fourth annuity years. Gilbert finds the tendency is toward the transfer of an increasing proportion of the annuity in foreign currencies, the latter absorbing 58.22 per cent of the total transfers.

Deliveries in Kind.

As to delivery in kind, France is most interested, according to the Gilbert report. Her contracts are principally for coal and coke lignite, but also cover many items, such as boring and equipping a coal mine in Lorraine, doing construction work for the canalization of the Moselle River, and building a motor ship for the French steamship line. Still other items are the building of a shed in the port of Marseilles, the construction of a dam across the Rhine at Kembs and the asphalting of roads in Haut Rhin.

Belgium ordered chiefly fertilizers, chemicals and machinery on the reparations account. Serbia ordered 110 locomotives and other railway material and agricultural machinery; Rumania obtained railway and sanitary material; Japan, sulphate of ammonia; Portugal, dredges, tugs and barges; Greece, motor ambulances and motor workshops; Italy, coal dyestuffs and pharmaceutical products, while Poland obtained horses.

The agent-general again warns Germany to keep down expenditures. "Characteristic of the budgets of most administrations in recent years has been a great productivity of the revenues and at the same time a constantly increasing level of expenditures, going even beyond the rising revenues."

He said that this necessitated extensive borrowing and resulted in much tension in the finances of Germany. He was convinced, however, that all budgetary difficulties have thrown no doubt on the essential soundness of the finances of the Reich.

Russo-Chinese Dispute Recalls U. S. Occupation

Ten Years Ago American Forces Were Sent to Asia to Handle Situation Similar to One Today.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Scattered over the United States are 10,000 Americans, a few of them women, who know intimately Eastern Asia, which again seethes with unrest as Nationalist China and Soviet Russia quarrel.

They are the veterans of the United States own Siberian occupation ten years ago when as a sideshow of the World War an adventurous page was written in American military and political chronicles.

Pogranichnaya, Blagovyeschensk Vladivostok and other Slavic polysyllables are familiar to ex-doughboys and Red Cross nurses of the Siberian A. E. F., for they were there ten summers ago.

The Chinese Eastern Railway was the football of international politics in those days, as it is now; also it was the goal of ambitious Eastern militarists and, incidentally, the despair of business men and financiers who saw in the system the means of developing the vast natural resources of Eastern Asia.

More Complicated Then.

The present dispute between the two great powers of the Asian mainland is clear cut compared to the chaos existing in 1918 when the United States government agreed with Japan to send expeditions of 10,000 men into Siberia to guard Russian railways and hold the port of Vladivostok open against all comers, so beleaguered Czech legions in Central Siberia, 2000 miles away, could start round the world to join Allied armies on European fronts.

International rivalry and jealousy, plot and counterplot with even more puzzling complications than today, kept the Far Eastern question to the fore among international problems. Red Russians fought white, pink local partisans and Siberian independents under a banner of green had brief moments of power, while a dozen foreign expeditions of occupation, from Cochin China, Hongkong, Czecho-Slovakia, Britain, France, Japan, China, Canada and the United States attempted to untangle the Russian situation.

Always in the background was the line of steel rails stretching across Asia, of which the Chinese Eastern is a link and the key to power on the continent. Along this trans-Siberian route Russian and foreign armies maneuvered from the time of the breakup of Czarist Power in 1918 until the Soviet Government finally gained control of the Siberian littoral in 1921.

The A. E. F. Occupation.

For nearly three years, part of which time an interallied agreement was effective for guarding the trans-Siberian system, American doughboys dotted the right of way, lounged at the little log cabin stations in the Russian backwoods, helped pile locomotive tenders high with the logs used for fuel in some districts, or flirted with Russian girls. At sun-baked stations on Manchurian plains, where some stations are built like Chinese temples with roofs turned up at the corners, They bargained with Chinese peddlers or watched long caravans for shaggy camels and trains of Chinese carts bring wool from Mongolia or furs from the North.

As in the present Manchurian crisis, no war was declared, but there was bloodshed in keeping the weekly Omsk Express running. Ten years ago this month 20 Americans were killed just out of Vladivostok when "partisans," or local independent military forces, attacked a camp of American soldiers.

Forces Stayed Two Years.

The first American troops arrived in Siberia in the summer of 1918 and the last ones left in April, 1920. The Twenty-seventh and Thirty-first Regiments of regular infantry from the Philippines and recruits from the United States formed the expedition, augmented by a corps of railway engineers, a large Red Cross unit and other auxiliaries.

The Thirty-first Infantry held Vladivostok while the Twenty-seventh traveled the length of the Chinese Eastern system and on to Verkhne Udinsk, nearly 2000 miles from the port, to help guard the important sections near Lake Baikal.

Open breaks among Russian and foreign forces were narrowly averted, and failure to obtain co-operation in guarding the railways handicapped the foreign expeditions.

Gen. William S. Graves followed to the letter his instructions from Washington to maintain neutrality toward warring Russian factions. As soon as the Czechs were out of the country he advocated withdrawal of American troops. He said the Siberian situation would clear up when foreign troops left the country.

"APRICOTS FROM HOOVER'S FARM" LABEL CALLED FRAUD

Ranch Manager Says Legal Steps Will Be Taken to Stop Practice.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., July 20.—L. W. Sims, vice president of the Poso Products Co. and manager of the Hoover ranch near Wasco, said today that apricots were reported selling on the New York market under the fraudulent label "grown and packed on President Hoover's ranch near Wasco, Cal.," and that legal steps would be taken to stop it.

Sims said that in the first place the ranch is not owned by Mr. Hoover, although he is a stockholder in the New York holding company which controls the Poso Products Co. which owns the ranch. The manager said that the apricots were grown on the Hoover ranch but not packed there.

YOUNG COMMUNISTS JEER BOY SCOUTS

Three Arrested in Demonstration at New York Steamship Pier.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—One hundred youthful Communists, including many girls, today made a demonstration on the Cunard docks in the Hudson River, delaying the sailing of the liner Samaria 20 minutes while they jeered 237 Boy Scouts departing for the scouts' world jamboree in England.

Carrying banners, describing themselves as members of the Young Pioneers of America, a Communist organization, the demonstrators marched to the waterfront and there clashed with regular and reserve police who attempted to disperse them. The girls led the attack on the police, scratching and kicking with considerable effect, but three young men were the only persons arrested.

The demonstration began as the scouts were boarding the Samaria from the dock. The scouts marched aboard and then lined the rail to watch the police disperse the Young Pioneers, whose jeering had attracted a crowd of 2000. The demonstrators' banners, one of them denouncing the scout movement as "supported by the bosses to create cannon fodder," were thrown into the river.

The Young Communists paid no attention to the liner Cedric, sailing from a pier a block away from the Samaria with 125 other Scouts. Aboard this vessel were a group of American Indian Scouts from Muskogee, Ok., and Donald Forbes of Honolulu, who is traveling 8000 miles to attend the jamboree. Other scouts from various sections of the country made up the remainder of the boys departing on the two vessels.

Among those arrested were Harry Eisman, 14, and Murray Silver, 23, who, police said, were born in Russia. Authorities said efforts would be made to have them deported.

DRY AGENTS AFTER RAIDS, HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGE

By the Associated Press.

MILLER, S. D., July 20.—Two prohibition agents from Sioux City, Ia., who went out to celebrate their success in rounding up liquor law violators in this vicinity, were in jail today on a charge of giving liquor to minor girls. The mother of one of the girls filed the complaint.

The agents, Joseph Wilshire and C. L. Marlette, are held in default of $1000 bond each.

The agents caused the arrest of seven persons in this vicinity. Two pleaded guilty and paid fines while the others were put under bond.

According to the complaint, the agents later went riding with two girls and induced them to drink beer and alcohol.

HANK WEEKE'S NAME TAKEN OFF PAROLE RECORD

Card Showing Release of Man by Politician's Son-in-Law, Judge Butler, Is Altered.

COURT EMPLOYE ORDERS THE CHANGE

Prisoner Sentenced for Using Counterfeit License Plate Is Back at "Friend Hank's" Hotel.

"Hank Weeke, friend."

These words have been removed from the court records in the case of Joseph Oldani, former bartender, paroled from the Workhouse by Judge Edward E. Butler of Court of Criminal Correction.

Oldani, saved from the South Broadway "hotel" maintained by the city for law violators, lives at the Olive Hotel, 2605 Olive street, owned by Hank Weeke, Republican politician and father-in-law of Judge Butler.

Hank, aside from being a friend to his hotel guests, has friends at the Municipal Courts Building. This was emphasized when reporters, learning Oldani had been paroled quietly, inquired for the records in the case last Friday.

Inquirers Referred to Weeke.

Like a true friend, Mrs. Ruth Hartley, Chief Probation Officer, refused to show the records. Judge Butler was out of the city on a fishing trip, she explained, and permission would have to be obtained from Hank Weeke.

Mrs. Hartley later admitted she had made a mistake—she should not referred anyone to Weeke for he has no official standing in the court.

In the absence of Mrs. Hartley, her assistant, Mrs. Maude Oswald, consented to show the records to two Post-Dispatch reporters. Across Oldani's parole card were written the words: "Hank Weeke, friend."

Judge Butler's stenographer, H. L. Sternberg, learned of this and he, too, did a friendly deed for Hank and the Judge, ordering the original card removed from the court files and a substitute prepared, without the three significant words on it. This was done.

Hank Denies Doing a Thing.

The comedy and confusion were multiplied when reporters sought to learn what had preceded the parole. Judge Butler, ardent fisherman, could not be reached. Oldani recalled that when he signed his parole papers, Hank Weeke was "hanging around," although he was not sure that Hank said anything.

As for Hank, who has built up a political following and a hotel business through doing favors, he was indignant at the suggestion that he might have whispered in the judicial ears of his son-in-law.

"Why, I haven't asked anything from the Judge since he went on the bench," protested Weeke, with his customary humility.

Oldani, arrested originally as the driver of an automobile which did not stop after killing a pedestrian, was freed for lack of positive identification, but was given a six-month Workhouse term by Judge Butler on July 9 for having old 1928 license plates which had been repainted and altered to counterfeit 1929 plates.

"Good Behavior."

Oldani denied he had altered the plates asserting he had received them in the altered condition from a friend whose name or address he did not know.

"I don't believe a word that you say," replied Judge Butler. "You ought to realize how serious a thing like this is. If you struck and killed somebody in a car bearing changed license plates, the police would have no way of tracing that car."

Four days later Oldani, lodging temporarily in the City Jail, was paroled from the Workhouse sentence for "good behavior" and again hung up his hat and parked his car at Hank Weeke's hotel.

What Endurance Flyers Think About Disclosed In Notes They Drop

FOREST O'BRINE.

Jackson and O'Brine Display Good Humor, While Gentry and Hammer After Some Complaints, Are Enjoying Themselves.

INTERESTING sidelights of the thoughts and tribulations and personalities of the two teams of endurance flyers, who are plugging away over St. Louis in the hope that either the St. Louis Robin or the Missouri Robin will set a new endurance flight record, may be obtained from the notes the flyers toss to earth as they swing their planes low over Lambert-St. Louis Field.

Dale Jackson, stockily built, red-haired and 23 years old, and his companion, Forest O'Brine, 10 years Jackson's senior, but retaining much of the exuberance of youth, usually begin their opening communication of the day as follows: "Good morning, everybody. Everything went fine last night. Send up the gas and oil and don't forget breakfast."

Jackson and O'Brine have written many notes since they took off eight days ago. The majority are addressed to the ground crew, whose duty it is to keep them happy and their plane supplied. Others read: "To the gang," and there are also missives for Mrs. Elsie O'Brine, who visits the field twice daily with neat packages of fried chicken, potato salad and other food for her husband and "Red," and for Mrs. Sally Jackson, a constant watcher at the flight headquarters.

"Cold for No Reason at All."

"It sure was cold last night for no reason at all," a recent morning communication from Jackson announced. "I put on all of my clothes and part of O'Brine's. I'll bet he almost froze. Everything is going just fine. Had a few plugs go bad, but that's about all. We had to run the motor a little faster because it was so cold."

Yesterday Jackson sent down a note addressed to P. V. Chaffee, who handles the hose on refueling plane No. 1. "Shorty, are you getting tired of your job? So far we are not. If there is any way I can fly to make it easier for you in refueling, let me have your suggestion. Once we get the hose we will follow you, even if Maj. Wassall starts a loop."

Some of the difficulties of handling a heavily loaded small plane are disclosed in a note from the St. Louis Robin. "I'm not proud," Jackson wrote, "but sometimes its a job and a half when we get loaded and she starts to buck. It's hard to stop her on account of the gas in the big tank, but we get by."

"Red Sure Is a Sleepy Head."

Hope that they will succeed in breaking the record was expressed by O'Brine yesterday. "We are going on our eighth day and I just hope that old motor holds out a while longer. Have Elsie send up two packs of cigarettes."

Some of the things the flyers do out of sight of the field are set forth in a communication to Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Co., makers of the Robin monoplane. "We use the catwalk every day to inspect the motor, drain the sediment bulb, oil the mags and keep the exhaust stacks tight. We fly high to keep the engine cool. The tail surface vibrates a bit, but Red is asleep; he sure is a sleepy head."

"This morning air sure is fine," Jackson wrote. "Wish I had a cup of coffee. O'Brine is pounding his ear, but all I have to do is ring the bell for breakfast and he will be on the job. See you Christmas."

"$1000 Reward for Outlaws."

"I see our boy friends are doing their stuff," the crew of the St. Louis Robin wrote after the Missouri Robin, manned by W. Gentry Shelton, flying enthusiast, and Joseph Hammer, air mail pilot, went aloft last Wednesday. "We wanted to watch them refuel, but they hid somewhere. If they looked for us on the East Side last night we were not there—too much smoke, and we don't like the smell."

Accompanying a newspaper photograph of themselves and a clipping announcing that residents of a county community had complained that the noise of the engine bothered them, Jackson and O'Brine dropped a crude poster, reading: "$1000 reward for these two outlaws. They will be found flying a Robin monoplane."

Shelton, who learned to fly "for fun," and Hammer, veteran airman now employed on the Chicago-Atlanta air mail route, had a tough time of it the first two days they were up and showed it in their notes.

"I feel tough and my goggles don't fit. Send up a good pair of goggles and a quart of milk," Shelton wrote the second day.

Another Complaint.

"After this fly a little slower," Shelton wrote the refueling crew. "You go so fast you act like we were after you with a summons."

"Get me a carton of cigarettes at Louie's," Shelton directed, adding, "they ought to pay for that."

Following a difficult regueling contact during the early part of their flight Shelton inquired, "Who flew the refueler the other day? I bet Joe that it was the night watchman, but he said he thought it was 'Blinky' Robinson."

Concerning the appearance of himself and his companion Shelton informed the watchers below, "Joe looks like Robinson Crusoe and I look like Friday."

Despite their "crabbing" Shelton and Hammer have settled down to the business of breaking any record their friends may succeed in making. Shelton was air sick the second day, but displayed his grit by overcoming the ailment with the aid of the milk, requested in his note. Hammer, who learned to fly before the war, and was an instructor in the navy, a barnstormer, and flying instructor before becoming an air mail pilot, has also been a bit "under the weather," but is determined to carry on.

Technical Notes.

Many of the messages dropped by the flyers give technical details concerning the oil pressure and temperature, engine speed and other matters of interest to the experts who are watching the flights and expect to check the engines later. Before each refueling contact is made the flyers send down a note giving the quantity of fuel desired.

Jackson had a rabbit's foot in his pocket when he took off more than a week ago and has received another luck piece, a four-leaf clover, since. "Everything helps," he wrote in acknowledging receipt of the clover.

Shelton and Hammer have no luck charms with them, but appear able to get along without such aids.

CHILD TELLS HOW SHE KILLED HER FOSTER MOTHER

Grace Gerber, 9, Says She Pulled Trigger Because She "Wanted to Hear the Noise."

Nine-year-old Grace Gerber, who shot and killed her foster-mother, Miss Anne Schmille, an elderly nurse, Thursday, while playing with a friend's revolver, testified at an inquest yesterday that she pulled the trigger "because I wanted to hear the noise."

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned, discharging the child from technical custody. She is being cared for by the Mother-Superior at St. Ann's Maternity Hospital, Page and Union boulevards, where she was born and from which Miss Schwille adopted her, preserving her life by skillful nursing and tender care.

Funeral services for Miss Schwille were held from the hospital yesterday morning, with interment in Calvary Cemetery. She was more than 50 years old, and is not known to have had any surviving relaives. The inquest established that the child's family name was Gerber, not Berger as previously reported, but no light was thrown on her parentage. Miss Schwille and Grace roomed at 1396 Union boulevard.

Hard of Hearing.

Clad in a white and red flowered dress and white straw hat, and wearing eye-glasses with thick lenses, the frail, undersized girl was the center of attention at the inquest held at an undertaking establishment at 2525 State street, East St. Louis.

She had put a bullet through her foster-mother's arm and heart while they were visiting at the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Callaghan, 475 North Twenty-fourth street, East St. Louis, firing Callaghan's revolver, picked up from a table.

"Do you know how the shootin happened?" inquired Assistant State's Attorney John Roberts.

Grace shook her head, puzzled. Attendants explained she was hard of hearing. The question was repeated louder.

Her Story of Shooting.

"Well, I was playing," the child began.

"Why did you play with a gun?"

"Well, I just wanted to hear the noise."

"Where did you find the gun?"

"It was on a table—on a little table."

"Did you point the gun at anyone?"

"Yes."

"Did you point it at your mother?"

Grace shrugged her little shoulders, not comprehending.

"Show us just how you held the gun," suggested Roberts, holding the barrel of Callaghan's .38 caliber revolver and extending the butt end toward the witness.

Grace grasped the weapon by the handle, using both hands, her fingers in a position to pull the trigger.

"That way," she said simply.

"Did you want to shoot her?"

"No."

No Sign of Fright.

The witness' calm demeanor gave no indication that she was suffering from fright or grief. Apparently she has not yet missed "Nurse Schwille."

Callaghan, who required the revolver in his work as packing plant watchman, testified he was alone in the house and sleeping when Miss Schwille and "Gracie" called. He admitted them to the house and, after a brief conversation, left them to prepare ice water in the kitchen. Hearing a report, he returned and found Grace holding his revolver, which had been on a table at the head of his bed. Miss Schwille, fatally wounded, was slumped in a rocking chair.

Police summoned by Callaghan arrived a few minutes later to find Grace playing outside with other children.

DETROIT YOUTH ADMITS KILLING AND IS SET FREE

Prosecutor Decides Roydon MacKilligan Shot Architect Walter Balko in Self Defense.

By the Associated Press.

PONTIAC, Mich., July 20.—Roydon MacKilligan, 22 years old, of Detroit, told Prosecutor Norman C. Orr late today he had shot and killed Walter Balko, 35, landscape architect, near the Birmingham Golf Club the night of June 24. MacKilligan was released and exonerated. He told the prosecutor he went to a dance at a club near Pontiac the night of the shooting, accompanied by Miss Fay Williams, 18, of Detroit. At 10 p. m. they drove to a side road near the Birmingham golf course. While they were parked at the side of the road Balko came to the car and turned a flashlight on them, MacKilligan said. Balko was armed with a revolver. He ordered MacKilligan to give up the key to the automobile then orederd Miss Williams to get out of the car.

MacKilligan reached to the back seat where he had a revolver hidden and fired at close range, the bullet striking Balko in the mouth. The youth and girl took the automobile key from the landscape architect's pocket and drove away without ascertaining whether he was dead.

Several persons were arrested following the finding of Balko's body the next day but all were released.

Today MacKilligan went to Bruce McDougall of Detroit, a friend who was acquainted with Prosecutor Orr. McDougall arranged an interview. Miss Williams corroborated all of MacKilligan's statements and the prosecutor pronounced the killing a clear case of self-defense.

Lena Pythlinski Suffers Fracture of Arm Upon Walking From Loading Platform.

Miss Lena Pythlinski, 18 years old, 1921 South Sarah street, suffered a fracture of the left arm and a possible fracture of the skull when she was struck by a street car after she stepped off a loading platform at Wren and West Florissant avenues at 11:45 o'clock last night.

She was taken to City Hospital.

CHAIN OF ROCKS HIGHWAY TOLL BRIDGE OPENED

Opening Moved Up.

The time for opening the bridge had been announced as 4 o'clock, but earlier in the afternoon the owners decided there was no reason for delaying several motorists who were waiting to cross. A St. Louis press feeder happened to be first in line and paid the first toll at an ornate tollhouse placed in the center of the roadway at the west end of the bridge.

There were no formalities connected with the opening beyond the fact that John R. Scott, one of the owners, collected the first toll. It was observed that no speed rules or other warnings had been posted, the only sign on the bridge being a small "No Pedestrians" sign near the east end.

The Illinois Highway Division has proposed a subway to Mitchell to eliminate a multiple grade crossing. When Illinois paves a new route, No. 160, between Hamel (near Edwardsville) and Greenville, St. Louisans will have a new short cut to Indianapolis and the East, avoiding the congestion on the National Highway near St. Louis Four miles of No. 160 have been paved between Hamel and Alhambra, but the remaining 15 miles have not even been surveyed.

There are five spans over the river, the longest, across the channel on the Illinois side, being 1400 feet. A pier supporting the middle of that span, one of six in the stream, is just above the Chain of Rocks intake tower. At the west end of this span there is a 22-degree angle in the bridge, required by the Government to prevent interference with navigation. The river piers have a maximum height of 60 feet from bedrock. The bridge proper is 5350 feet long and contains 6400 tons of steel, with 18,000 cubic yards of concrete in the piers and abutments. The river there is the swiftest water between Keokuk, Ia., and New Orleans, flowing normally eight miles an hour.

SINCLAIR ENDS FIRST TERM ON 26TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Oil Magnate Continues to Mix Pills as He Prepares to Serve Second Jail Sentence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Harry F. Sinclair, multimillionaire oil magnate, today observed his twenty-sixth wedding anniversary and the completion of his three-months' sentence for contempt of the Senate by quietly going about his duties of mixing medical compounds in the district jail.

The head of Sinclair Oil began his three months' sentence May 6, and an allowance of five days off each 30 for good behavior shortened the period in which he settled his claims with the law for refusing to answer questions propounded by a Senate Committee.

In the meantime, however, he received six months for contempt of court in connection with jury shadowing and this sentence began June 22, running concurrently with the other. With good behavior, he will be allowed 30 days off on the sentence he is now serving and will be out in time for Thanksgiving dinner on his Long Island estate.

Mrs. Sinclair has visited her husband since started serving his time, but she was not a visitor on the wedding anniversary.

SIX KIDNAPERS EXECUTED

Mexicans Fall Into Police Trap When They Go for Ransom.

MEXICO CITY, July 20. — El Universal Grafico says six kidnapers were executed by a firing squad at the city of Colima after falling into a trap set by the police. Alberto Lepe, Colima business man, had been abducted. His wife agreed to pay a ransom of 6000 pesos (about $3000) but at the same time notified the police. The kidnapers were arrested, tried and executed when they came to town to collect.

Juan Anaya, a wealthy Colima resident, also was kidnaped a few days ago but his fate has not been learned.

have been received. In the event the record is broken it is not unlikely that a new airplane will be included among the gifts. As both crews are determined to stay up until "something busts," the result probably will remain in doubt for some time.

A report that one of the planes had been forced down sent a number of searching aircraft scurrying into the air yesterday morning. Fifteen minutes later both endurance ships appeared over the field and the searchers were unable to locate any other airplane in difficulties near the field.

Lambert Goes Fishing.

Jackson and O'Brine have been up so long that Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, official observer of the flight, believes the barograph in the St. Louis Robin has run down. Maj. Lambert had so much faith in the ability of the pilots to remain up that he spent three days last week fishing near Hayti, Mo. He brought back a fine catch and has promised both endurance crews a supper of fried fish this evening.

In addition to Maj. Lambert and his assistants, the flights are being watched anxiously by the flyers' wives and experts representing the Curtiss Engine Co. S. K. Prince, Buffalo, N. Y., is head of the group of experts and plans to examine the engines carefully when the flights are terminated.

Special motor busses will be run from the Wellston loop to Lambert-St. Louis Field by the Public Service Co. beginning at noon today.

Shreveport Plane, KWKH, in the Air 80 Hours.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 20.—The endurance flight monoplane, KWKH, piloted by W. Currey Sanders and Van Lear Leart, had been 80 hours in the air at 6:30 o'clock tonight. The aviators reported that the plane motor was working smoothly.

HOUSTON, Tex., July 20.—Just prior to rounding out its seventy-seventh hour in the air, the Houston endurance plane "Billion Dollar City" successfully completed its seventh mid-air fueling, taking on 125 gallons of gasoline, five gallons of oil, two of water and 12 cowling screws. While the flyers had requested the latter, they mentioned no definite trouble with the motor covering.

SEVERE STORM BREAKS DROUTH IN ENGLAND

Three Persons Killed—Shortage of Water Has Threatened Industry.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 20.—The drouth and heat wave in Southern England were broken tonight by a severe electrical storm. Three persons were killed, 10 seriously injured and hundreds drenched. One death was caused by a 20-foot wave which swept the sea front at Folkestone and Hastings at the height of the storm.

Considerably property damage was done by the downpour. It remained to be seen whether sufficient rain fell over a general area to relieve the serious situation. English municipalities anxiously conserved during the last week such water supplies as they had left.

A man fishing at Folkestone was washed out to sea by the wave and drowned. Two women and two children were injured at the same time. Another man was killed by lightening at Essex and at Acton a woman was seriously hurt by lightning.

Kew Observatory registered a rainfall of 1.42 inches. The Kew bridge line of the Southern Railway was flooded and service suspended. The storm, following the hottest day of the year, drenched hundreds of holiday makers at Brighton.

The water shortage had become so serious that garden hose, outdoor taps and sprinklers were prohibited and an industrial suspension was threatened. A man who washed his motor-lorry in the Northern England lake district today was fined $5.

FRENCH DEPUTIES RATIFY U. S. DEBT PACT BY 8 VOTES

agreement France agreed to pay $4,025,000,000 of which $685,000,000 is accrued interest. The first two annuities were to be $30,000,000 each increasing to $125,000,000 in the seventeenth year and continuing until the last payment in the sixty-second year of $117,675,000.

The American Congress had approved a measure whereby if the war debts settlement were ratified by Aug. 1, payment of the bill for surplus war stocks purchased by France might come under its funding provisions. If not, the sum of about $400,000,000 was due the United States on Aug. 1, 1929.

Some advocates of ratification had held this as a club over the heads of the opposition. It will probably be some day next week before the upper house goes through the motion of expressing its sentiments, which are generally regarded as in favor of ratification but the Aug. 1 bugaboo ceased this morning to disturb the Government financiers.

The much debated reservations which members of the Chamber advocated in the end came only to the recommendations that the Government arrange to collect German payments of reparations to cover its debts to the Allies.

When the vote was finally announced with its bare majority of eight, there was an amusing scene, as both winners and losers appeared happy. Both sides applauded the winners because they won and the losers because they had made such a good showing.

ST. LOUISANS REPORTED HELD IN $15,000 THEFT

Three Accused of Robbing Los Angeles Theater Messenger —4 Others Arrested.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 20.—Five men and two women, said to be from St. Louis, are held by police here in connection with the $15,000 holdup of a theater messenger last Monday and a series of recent gambling house robberies.

One of the men was captured in a running gun fight following the holdup and the others were arrested in a series of raids early today by Hollywood police. Several revolvers and $6000, thought to be part of the theater loot, were seized.

The prisoners gave their names as Lawrence McMullen, Walter W. Price, Marvin Michaels, John E. Roth, John Phipps, Gladys Carter and Ethel Harris, alias May Davis, known to her associates as "The Mill." Three of the men are held as suspects in the robbery of the messenger. The others were booked as suspected of robbery.

St. Louis police think that Michaels is Marvin Michael, member of the Cuckoo gang frequently arrested in connection with robberies in St. Louis and who has escaped twice from the Boonville Reformatory. Lawrence McMullen is thought to be Lawrence McBride, wanted here in connection with the $10,000 payroll holdup of the Procter & Gamble Co., several months ago.

The name of Walter Price has appeared frequently on the St. Louis police books on charges ranging from traffic violations to "suspected of robbery." Records also show a young woman giving her name as Gladys Carter was rarested on May 11 as a robbery suspect. No record of Phipps appears, but the names of John Roth, Ethel Harris and May Davis are to be found in numbers.

Budget of Little Known Mark Twain Anecdotes

Cyril Clemens, Cousin of Humorist Retells Some of Those Gathered From All Parts of World in Recent Contest

"And that reminds me," Mark Twain used to say. His second cousin, Cyril Clemens of Webster Groves, had occasion to repeat it more than once in retelling, yesterday on the cool veranda of his home at 37 Gray avenue, stories about "Sam" Clemens submitted from this country and Europe, Hawaii and the Virgin Islands, in a contest of the Mark Twain Society. Such is the wealth and permanence of Mark Twain anecdotes that the society was able to select 100 so interesting and little known as to merit publication, Clemens announced. As president of the society, he is preparing the material for the printer.

"That number of little known Mark Twain stories is remarkable when one considers how many books have been written about him," Clemens remarked. "Every biography includes at least one or two anecdotes. It's a wonder there are so many good ones left.

"The contest showed how people treasure these stories about Mark Twain. Each tells his story with evident admiration, as though it were a personal possession of which he is very proud. It is clear that they all look on Mark Twain as a personal friend."

First prize, as previously announced, was awarded to John Dallam of Philadelphia. His story was about Twain's encounter with a child autograph hunter in Washington who mistook him for Chief Justice Fuller of the Supreme Court and did not realize her error until she looked in her autograph book and found Twain's signature, with the line: "It's glorious to be full but it's heavenly to be Fuller."

How Mark Twain "Improvised."

"Dallam's story was selected not only for its humorous quality," Clemens explained, "but also because it was characteristic of Mark Twain and had not, so far as we could learn, been published. When friends found him reading or writing in bed in the morning, he used to say with a wink that he was 'improvising for the evening.' That line was one he could not possibly have improvised ahead."

The other story considered most in selecting the winner concerned a barber who, when the humorist dropped in for a haircut before a lecture, remarked, "We are going to have a wonderful lecture this evening."

"Is that so? Who is speaking?" asked Twain.

"Mr. Mark Twain," replied the barber. "And if you want to hear him you'll have to hurry. There's 'standing room only' now."

"It's a funny thing," meditated the humorist, "but when that fellow lectures I always have to stand."

Mrs. Cleveland Helped Out.

The prize for anecdotes submitted by children went to Mary Russ, 14 years old, of Derby, Conn. She related that when President and Mrs. Cleveland invited Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clemens to the White House, Mrs. Clemens was unable to go. The literary celebrity went alone and insisted that his hostess, Mrs. Cleveland, place her signature on a slip of paper without seeing what was written above. When she at length and with serious misgiving consented, he allowed her to read: "This will certify that Mr. Clemens did not wear his Arctics in the White House."

Several persons submitted the story of Twain's statement to a newspaperman that the report of his death had been "exaggerated," remarked Cyril Clemens, who reeled off the anecdotes from memory. "One said that it occurred in Hartford, Mark Twain's home for 30 years. Another said it happened out West, and the late Dr. Stuart P. Sherman thought it occurred in Bermuda.

"Actually, it happened when Mark Twain was staying in London, and the relative whose illness gave rise to the report was my father, Dr. James R. Clemens. My father had never met Mark Twain until he read a London newspaper report that Twain was stranded in the city, without funds and deserted by his family. That was as untrue as the report of his death, but my father wrote to him offering aid and they became fast friends.

"My father said that at that time Londoners finding Twain in the theater would look more at him than at the stage. He called very often at my father's boarding house. One night he told the story of the Jumping Frog. He warmed up with the story and spoke rather loudly. Next morning the landlady announced that she did not like such noisy visitors in her house."

His Dollar-a-Word Story.

A woman mailed Twain a dollar, one story went, explaining that she understood he wrote for a dollar a word. His reply was, "Thanks." Another contestant related that the humorist, weary of debates about punctuation, proposed to include all known punctuation marks in a preface and let the reader scatter them through the volume at will.

"George Haven Putnam, the New York publisher, wrote that he took Mark Twain to Washington in 1906 to aid in putting through some improvements in copyright law," said Clemens. "He expected Twain to work wonders with the Congressmen, but urged him to stick to the point.

"When they heard that Mark Twain was in the committee room, they deserted the floor and came in to hear him. One story reminded him of another for three hours. The Congressmen looked at their watches and discovered it was long past time for them to get back to work. Not one word had been breathed about copyright. Putnam and Twain had to leave Washington without accomplishing anything whatever toward their only object in going there.

"Twain began a lecture on the history of painting one time with the remark that Adam never sat for a portrait. That reminded him that he had an old dog named Adam. That reminded him of an old cow he had. Adam was as far as he got with the history of painting."

Considerate of the Cook.

Mark Twain's relations with his neighbors in Hartford were concerned in several of the anecdotes submitted. He built his Hartford residence with the kitchen facing the street, and explained this was so that "when a circus parade goes by, the cook, who is rather heavy, will not have to run through the whole house to look at it and shake us to death."

One was the story that, surprised and shocked to learn that he had paid a call on Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe without first donning collar and tie, he hurried to his room for them, bundled them up and sent them to her with the note: "Herewith receive a visit from the rest of me."

Another was the comment of his first and considerably delayed call on a new neighbor. The great Sam Clemens stood at the door, declined an invitation to come in and courteously apologized for not calling some months earlier. The neighbor was overwhelmed. His excited attempts to talk to the celebrity, and Twain's drawling graciousness, had consumed a full ten minutes before the humorist recalled his errand and interrupted: "By the way, do you know your chimney is afire?"

Doubling for Twain.

"Mark Twain once was unable to keep a speaking engagement where his address was to be followed by a temperance lecture," Cyril Clemens related. "The lecturer apologized for the humorist's absence and announced that he would speak on temperance.

"The audience smiled. He began his prohibition speech. It was a high-falutin' speech. They chuckled. He attempted to stare them down. He grew more and more earnest. He talked louder and louder. They laughed. He wound up in a thundering peroration, and the meeting ended in an uproar. They thought he was Mark Twain."

EDWARD P. WARNER DEDICATES WILLIAMSPORT (PA.) AIRPORT

Former Naval Air Chief Makes Address; Kansas Cityan Flies 991 Miles to Ceremony.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 20.—The Williamsport airport was dedicated this afternoon in the presence of a large crowd. More than 75 planes were on the field. The dedication address was made by Edward P. Warner, formerly Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics.

F. W. Soule, Kansas City, Mo., was declared the winner of the "on to Williamsport" event, having traveled 991 miles to reach the airport. Maj. J. P. Wood, Wausau, Wis., was second with 713 miles and Art Davis, Ishpeming, Mich., was third with 668 miles. The event was decided on distance and not speed.

MILLIONAIRE'S SON SAFE AFTER DRIFTING ALL NIGHT

G. M. Heckscher and His Party in Disabled Speedboat Reach Rye.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20. — After drifting all night in a disabled speedboat on Long Island Sound, G. Maurice Heckscher, son of August Heckscher, millionaire philanthropist, and three friends, reached Rye today, putting to an end a search which had been startd by a general police alarm and broadcasting of the news that the boat was missing.

With Heckscher, whose wife is Luella Gear, musical comedy actress, were Cyril Hatch, art dealer, broker and divorced husband of Barbara C. Rutherfurd, daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt; Elliott White Springs, author and wartime aviator, and Art Fowler, actor and aviator.

The four men left the Heckscher home at Bayside on Long Island yesterday and traveled in the 30-foot speedboat, Lola, to Watch Hill, Rhode Island, a summer resort. En route back they stopped at New London, Conn., where Heckscher telephoned his home that he would return within three hours. When the party had not returned late last night the elder Heckscher began an investigation. This afternoon Heckscher telephoned his father's home saying he and his party had reached Rye safely. A spark plug on the motor of the craft had failed, Heckscher said, and an auxiliary outboard motor also refused to function. They were adrift until today.

EDITH MASON, SINGER, DIVORCES POLACCO

But She Will Appear With Chicago Troupe With Ex-Husband in Pit.

CHICAGO, July 20.—A divorce was granted today to Edith Mason, prima donna of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, from Giorgio Polacco, director of the company. The decree, granted by Judge Hugo Friend, gives Miss Mason custody of their 4-year-old daughter, Grace Edith. A property settlement was made out of court.

Polacco did not appear although he was represented by an attorney. The suit was not contested. A short statement from Polacco was: "I have nothing to say but that I am heart-broken. This terrible situation is certainly a dreadful blow to me. I am sure that during my absence some misunderstanding brought this about. I wish Mrs. Polacco every happiness and shall always hold her in the highest regard and affection."

"I certainly wish him every happiness," she said in comment. "We both have contracts for the coming season with the Civic Opera Company, and I will sing while he is conducting the orchestra. It will give me very great pleasure to sing with him."

She said he attempted a reconciliation. The suit was filed while he was in Europe and made public shortly before his return early this month.

Polacco continuously swore at his wife, hurled abusive epithets at her, nagged and found fault with her until her nerves were ruined and she was on the verge of collapse, she told the court.

"He told me," she testified, "that wives and cattle should be of one's own country."

Enumerating a number of acts of mental and physical cruelty, the opera singer charged his abusive conduct so weakened her that she collapsed in the midst of a tour through the Southwest and was unable to continue with her contract. When Polacco sailed for Europe last April, she testified, he threatened her and told her that when he arrived in Italy he intended to cut her name from his will.

Polacco, under the terms of the divorce, is to have a voice in the education and training of their daughter.

Rupert F. Mills-Ex-Athlete, Drowns

LAKE HOPATCONG, N. J., July 20.—Rupert F. Mills, famous athlete of more than a decade ago, was drowned in Lake Hopatcong today. Mr. Mills, prominent in New Jersey politics, was an end with Knute Rockne on the Notre Dame football team and later was a major league ballplayer.

Objects to Use of U. S. Guards in Car Strike

formation legally and properly filed.

"We do not understand that either the Court or any deputy marshal should anticipate the violation of the Court's order. We hold that the working men involved in this strike in New Orleans are endowed with certain rights that should be respected and in an uneven contest with a powerful public utility corporation even-handed justice should be accorded them. The public utility corporation in New Orleans is the beneficiary of the services of hundreds of United States marshals, heavily armed, paid by the Federal government, riding the street cars operated by strike breakers.

"While I would not charge that it is the purpose and intent of the Federal Government to supply deputy United States marshals and arms for the purpose of assisting the public utility corporation to operate its cars with strikebreakers, nevertheless, under the pretext that an injunction has been issued against the strikers, the same result is obtained through the employment of hundreds of deputy marshals paid by the Federal Government, heavily armed, and equipped by the same Government.

"I do not feel that the Department of Justice can escape responsibility in this matter by stating that the employment of a large number of deputy marshals in New Orleans, assigned to ride street cars, comes under the discretion of the Federal court. The facts are that these large numbers of deputy marshals could not be hired and paid unless your department authorized such a procedure.

Criticises Bureau's Attitude.

"It is regrettable that in the light of all these facts and nothwithstanding my personal and official protest you state in your letter to Secretary Davis: "Under all the circumstances, it seems to me there is no action which this department could properly take in the matter.' How long is this policy in New Orleans to be allowed and how long will hundreds of deputy marshals be employed and directed to ride the street cars, patrol the streets and perform local police duty while the public utility corporation is experimenting with strike-breakers?

"Furthermore, if your department may assign hundreds of deputy marshals in this case, would it not be possible to employ additional hundreds or thousands if, in the discretion of the department, it became necessary, and if this course can be followed in this case it is reasonable to conclude that the same course can be pursued by the Federal Government in all industrial controversies. Is this to be the settled policy of the Federal Government in dealing with strike and industrial controversies?

Pleads for Arbitration.

"There is a department of the Federal Government created for the purpose of mediating and of bringing about a settlement of industrial controversies upon a rational, peaceful and modern-day basis. The workers in New Orleans have offered to submit the whole controversy to arbitration and abide by the decision of an arbitration tribunal. They have, without reservation, agreed to submit all questions in dispute to the Secretary of Labor for final decision and to abide by this decision, the street car corporation to resume operation pending the settlement by such arbitration tribunal.

"In spite of this fair proposal on the part of the workers, the arbitrary, powerful, public utility corporation at New Orleans sees fit to flaunt public opinion, to reject arbitration and to compel, by force of arms and unlimited money, submission on the part of the workers to their dictated terms.

"I repeat again, in the name of and in behalf of the American Federation of Labor, my solemn protest against the employment of large numbers of deputy United States marshals and the assignment of these United States marshals, heavily armed, to ride the street cars along with strikebreakers and to patrol the streets doing ordinary police duty."

About One-Sixth of Normal Trolley Service Maintained.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—Today, the nineteenth of the street car strike, found New Orleans served with less than one-sixth the normal number of trolley cars and busses and these were scantily used by the public. About 50 cars operated by loyal crews and strikebreakers are running.

The Public Service, Inc., and the carmen's union are hopelessly deadlocked over a new contract, and city government and citizens groups are unable to force a settlement. Next Tuesday 35 unions will meet to consider a general strike.

While disorders culminating in rioting, burning of street cars and other public service property, the killing of two persons and injury to many others, marked the first attempts of the strikers to prevent the company from resuming service, there is practically no disturbance now. Strikers and their sympathizers are obeying the Federal injunction under which the company now is operating.

The street car company is still unmoved from its determination to operate under open shop and without a contract with the union, which it will refuse to recognize. The carmen's union stands firm for a closed shop, full recognition of the union, precisely the same conditions of employment prevailing under the old contract which expired July 1, with an increase in wages.

The company ignored the offer of Secretary of Labor Davis to act as sole arbiter to adjust the dispute, which was acceptable to the union.

THREE BOYS AT PLAY SHOT ACCIDENTALLY

Youth, in Yard Next to School, Demonstrates Weapon He Thought Was Empty.

Three boys, playing in the yard of St. John's Parochial School, 1621 South Eleventh street, were wounded yesterday afternoon when Edgar Perry, 20 years old, in the yard of his home next door at 1612 South Eleventh street, pressed the trigger of a double-barreled shotgun which he thought was unloaded.

Perry was showing his shotgun to a friend. Demonstrating its easy action, he raised the weapon to his shoulder and pulled the trigger twice. The second pull discharged the shell.

The boys suffered minor wounds which were dressed at City Hospital.

They are: Emory Oross, 14, 1509 Menard street; John Ludwig, 15, 1036 Carroll street, and Peter Kopich, 11, 1600 Menard street. Perry was arrested and booked suspected of affray.

OPEN VERDICT IN HERRIN DEATH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HERRIN, Ill., July 20.—An open verdict was returned in the death of Virgil Dye, whose burned body was found in his car last Sunday. The verdict read "Death from unknown causes."

Authorities are convinced that Dye was killed before being placed in the car. The inquest brought out that Dye had been a suitor of Elsie King in front of whose home the body was found.

JUDGE NICHOLAS J. SINNOTT OF COURT OF CLAIMS DIES

Appointed by President Coolidge After Serving Many Years As Congressman From Oregon.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Nicholas J. Sinnott, Judge of the Court of Claims, many years a member of Congress from the Second Oregon District, died suddenly today at his home in Chevy Chase, Maryland. Although his health had not been good in recent months, his condition was not considered of a serious nature.

Judge Sinnott was born in the Dalles, Oregon, Dec. 6, 1870. After serving three years in the Oregon State Senate he was elected to the sixty-third Congress and served continuously until about a year ago, when he was appointed to the Court of Claims by President Coolidge.

For a number of years he was chairman of the House Public Lands Committee.

Judge Sinnott is survived by his widow, two daughters, Marguerite and Gertrude, and a son, Nicholas B. Sinnott.

LOAN UPTURN PACE SLOWER THAN STOCKS

Figures Suggest That Relatively a Smaller Proportion of Purchases in Present Market Represents Thinly Margined Accounts Than in Previous Markets Before Breaks.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"The summer's bull market and the fresh expansion in credit make the reserve situation statistically just what it was in early February. Indeed the index of 90 stocks is 25.2 points higher than it was on the day before the warning. Industrials are up 13.5, rails 18.6 and public utilities 80.9 points. Member bank loans on securities are $156,000,000 higher than on Feb. 6.

Loan Pace Slower Than Stocks.

"While the market has proceeded upward at a rapid pace for seven consecutive weeks, the expansion in brokers' loans has not reached a level usually indicating danger. In times past severe setbacks in the market have been accompanied by an increase in brokers' loans relatively greater than that in stock prices. Preceding the March, 1926, the June and December, 1928, and the March, 1929, setbacks loans ran up substantially higher than stocks. While loans in the current phase of the bull market have risen they have not moved up as rapidly as stocks. Turning the figures on brokers' loans and stock prices into relatives we find that as the week ended loans stand at 214.0 as against a level for stocks of 225.5. What this relationship suggests is that relatively a smaller proportion of the purchases in the present market represent thinly margined accounts than in previous markets just before to a severe decline. This observation is further substantiated by the absence recently of the feverish increase in volume that so frequently precedes a break.

June Industrial Production Greater.

"Meanwhile the pace of industry continues at a rate wholly unprecedented in a majority of the key industrial groups. June was the sixth consecutive month in 1929 to date to establish a new record high volume of industrial production for any corresponding month in history. Indeed not only did the rate of industry last month set a new peak for June but it came very close to the record high for any month. What makes the increase significant is that it reflects improvement in virtually all of the leading industries. The industry that has not been enjoying good gains over a year ago is the exception. With the momentum of record production and record earnings for the first half of 1929 to go on the second half of the year should round out a new high level of prosperity without difficulty. Seven weeks ago it seemed that the drop in wheat prices might impair agricultural purchasing power but a 50 per cent rise in the July options from 96 cents a bushel to $1.46 has occurred since then.

Bonds Return More Than Stocks.

"While the volume of new financing recently has not been large, stocks remain a more popular vehicle for raising funds than the sale of bonds. As recently as February, 1928, the average yield available through the purchase of stocks was 4.39 per cent and at that time the average yield available through the purchase of high grade corporate bonds was precisely the same. With the persistent rise in stocks the indicated return through an investment in shares has fallen to 3.11 per cent. Similarly the persistent decline in bond prices since a little over a year ago has increased the indicated return available through an investment in bonds to 4.74 per cent. For a time late last spring it seemed that bonds were coming into their own once more. While the financial district looks on the market in bonds as the lowest in recent history it continues to buy stocks notwithstanding the fact that the disparity between stock and bond has become the widest on record."

WAGNER ELECTRIC LEADS TRADE FOR THE WEEK

Extra Dividend a Factor in Late Activity — Brown Shoe Transactions Center Mostly in One House.

Large aggregate transactions in Wagner Electric and Brown Shoe made these two issues features on the St. Louis Stock Exchange last week. The electric company issue showed improvement late in the week following declaration of an extra dividend. Transactions in Brown Shoe were largely by one house which "crossed" the stock. The shares also are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

International Shoe closed lower after being up a little at one period. National Candy ruled from unchanged to a point and half lower but recovered and closed unchanged. Scullin Steel preference sold up more than 2 points after large turnover at 30.

Coca Cola Bottling Securities recorded a loss and Bentley Stores also was down.

Missouri Portland advanced 3 points for the week. The Corno Mills split-up stock sold at 40. There were a few shares of Jefferson Bank at 450. Key Boiler Equipment was up ¼ at 60¼. Maloney Electric was off.

COTTON CLOSES FIRM IN TRADE AT NEW YORK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Further advances met considerable realizing in cotton today, but the selling was absorbed on moderate reactions which were very nearly recovered in the later trading on covering and commission house buying. October contracts after selling up to 19.47c reacted to about 19.30c and closed at 19.44c, compared with 19.22c at the close of the previous day. The general market closed firm at net advances of 15 to 24 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 8 to 18 points on a continuation of the recent buying movement which was evidently promoted by nervousness over the further progress of the crop and private reports of increasing boll weevil infestation or damage. Liverpool did not fully meet yesterday's advance here, but traders seemed to pay little attention to the cables and the advance soon extended to 19.77c for December and 19.85c for March contracts. May again sold at the 20-cent level. These prices represented net advances of 23 to 27 points, and October contracts at 19.47c showed an advance of 152 points from the low level touched early in the week. This was evidently sufficient to attract week-end realizing, and the disposition to take profits on long cotton may have been increased by hope of rains in West Texas over the week-end. The official forecast, however, called for only showers in West Texas and the mid-morning offerings were absorbed on reactions of some 10 or 15 points from the best.

A good part of this loss was recovered on covering apparently promoted by the week-end weather report indicating generally fair weather with seasonable temperatures or higher in the west Gulf States. Closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the best on all months except December, which showed a reaction of about 8 points. Business was active at the start which probably reflected the presence of overnight buying orders in the market, while there was a considerable demand through brokers with Wall Street and local connections. Later trading tapered off considerably, with the market becoming comparatively quiet on the mid-morning decline, while business picked up again on the late recovery.

Liverpool cable said that Manchester and London buying in the market there had been supplied by Bombay selling and profit taking. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 56,000 against 69,000 last year.

A. I. T. CHEMICAL ISSUE IS BOND TRADE FEATURE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—A sensational advance of 10¼ points in American I. G. Chemical 5½s featured today's short session in the bond market. A few selected convertible rails climbed into new high ground. The market ruled steady, but closed slightly under the day's best figures.

The American I. G. Chemical 5½s have been breaking into record high ground for several successive days, and today closed at 130, the day's best price, for a gain of 10¼ points. Last Saturday they closed at 108½, and earlier in the year were publicly offered at 95.

In the railroad list Allegheny Corporation issues moved up to new tops at 110¾ on a rise of nearly a point each and closed slightly under that figure. New Haven convertible debentures reached a new peak at 135 and closed at 134 for a gain of 1¼. Southern Pacific 4½s, carrying stock purchase warrants, reached 97, a new top.

International Telephone convertible 4½s followed the stock upward to equal their previous high of 170. They closed at 169¾ for a gain of 3 points, selling above the American Telephone 4½s, which gained a small fraction at 168½.

The United States Government obligation sold off.

U. S. STEEL AT NEW TOP; GEN. MOTORS TO LOW FOR YEAR

Associated Press Indices of 20 Utilities and 20 Rails Carried a Little Higher Into Record Altitudes.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Stocks again surged forward during the first hour of today's short market session, only to be swamped by a flood of week-end profit-taking before the close, which reduced or canceled most of the early gains, and carried a wide sprinkling of issues a point or two below Friday's closing levels.

The price movement was complicated by a growing divergence of speculative sentiment, but on the whole the market held steady. The Associated Press index of 50 industrials was unchanged at the end of the session, but the indices of 20 utilities and 20 rails were carried a little higher into record altitudes.

Selective Movements.

The selectivity of the present bull movement was demonstrated by the opposite trends taken by U. S. Steel and General Motors, two of the outstanding bull favorites in recent years. U. S. Steel was sent up a couple of points to a record price at 209⅞, while General Motors was depressed about 1½ points to a new 1929 low at 67¾. Toward the close, however, U. S. Steel more than lost its gain.

The confusion of speculative sentiment was apparent in commission house advices, some seeing distribution in recent session, while others, pointing to the excellent character of earnings reports and sustained vitality of industry generally, regarded present price movements as readustments preliminary to another general advance.

Appreciation in Value.

An indication of the remarkable return during June was the New York Stock Exchange statement issued today showing an increase of $6,342,702,722 in the market value of all listed stocks from June 1 to July 1, carrying the total to the record level $77,264,128,909. Member borrowings, while they increased $406,083,350 during the month, did not, relatively, keep pace with the upsurge of prices, the ratio of borrowings to listed share values valling from 9.39 to 9.15.

The credit outlook was regarded a little more optimistically. Although the Federal Reserve condition statements have failed to show as rapid recovery from the mid-year pinch as had been expected, Wall street is now disposed to believe the Federal Reserve must ease credit before the crop moving season. Yesterday's call money rates carried over the week-end.

An outstanding item in the day's news was the rumor that Commissioner Porter of the Interstate Commerce Commission had prepared a railroad consolidation plan. Wall street saw in this if true the possibility that the commission may take the offensive in bringing about a grouping of the carriers.

New York Central Leads.

Rail stocks were again strong, under the leadership of New York Central, which rose 5 points to another peak at 245. Alleghany Corporation, Boston and Maine, Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Colorado & Southern, Erie, D. & H. and Northern Pacific were among others reaching new top prices. Soo Line was a soft spot, losing 4½ points.

Among the utilities, North American rose more than 5 points to a new top, and Public Service of New Jersey broke into new high ground, only to react and close with a loss of nearly 2 points. Coppers were again firm. A few specialties were bid up to new peaks in gains running to 5 points, including Bendix Aviation, Crown Cork and Seal, Intertype, Worthington Pump and Ingersoll Rand.

Motors were generally soft, under the influence of reports of accumulating stocks. Auburn lost nearly 6 points, and Chrysler, Packard, Marmon and Nash lost a point or two. Hayes Body ranged to a new low for the year, and National Biscuit, Wright Aero, United Aircraft and Vanadium lost 2 or 3 points.

In the commodities, wheat was again depressed by profit-taking on its recent advance, prompted by better weather conditions in Canada. Losses amounted to 2 or 3 cents a bushel. Corn sold off more than a cent. Cotton, on the other hand, was again strong, closing about $1 a bale higher.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, Sterling cables rallying to $4.85 1-16.

Week's "Bull" Market Selective.

A selective bull market, centering in the rail and utility stocks, prevailed on the stock exchange during the past week. Profit taking was heavy in various sections of the list, and price trends were irregular, although predominantly upward.

The Associated Press price indices of 20 leading rails and 20 leading utilities were carried up about 5 and 7½ points to record levels, while the index of 50 industrials fell off a point, reflecting pressure against the motors and a wide assortment of specialties.

The week's business and industrial news was generally pleasing

Motors were generally soft, under the influence of reports of accumulating stocks. Auburn lost nearly 6 points, and Chrysler, Packard, Marmon and Nash lost a point or two. Hayes Body ranged to a new low for the year, and National Biscuit, Wright Aero, United Aircraft and Vanadium lost 2 or 3 points.

In the commodities, wheat was again depressed by profit-taking on its recent advance, prompted by better weather conditions in Canada. Losses amounted to 2 or 3 cents a bushel. Corn sold off more than a cent. Cotton, on the other hand, was again strong, closing about $1 a bale higher.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, Sterling cables rallying to $4.85 1-16.

Week's "Bull" Market Selective.

A selective bull market, centering in the rail and utility stocks, prevailed on the stock exchange during the past week. Profit taking was heavy in various sections of the list, and price trends were irregular, although predominantly upward.

The Associated Press price indices of 20 leading rails and 20 leading utilities were carried up about 5 and 7½ points to record levels, while the index of 50 industrials fell off a point, reflecting pressure against the motors and a wide assortment of specialties.

The week's business and industrial news was generally pleasing, including several extremely favorable second quarter earnings statements, particularly from some of the independent steel producers, an unexpected upturn in steel production, and reports of a sustained high rate of activity in industry generally.

These developments largely overshadowed less favorable aspects of the credit situation. The Federal Reserve brokerage loan total was carried to a record level at $5,813,000,000, a gain of $58,000,000. Call money, after commanding 12 per cent early in the week, got down to 7, but was fairly firm at that figure. Time loans held at 7¾-8 per cent. New York banks made a little progress in reducing their heavy borrowings from the Federal Reserve, but less than had been expected. Rediscounts for the entire system fell off somewhat.

MORE THAN 30 CURB ISSUES AT NEW HIGHS

NEW YORK, July 20.—The curb exchange closed the week with a strong flourish as more than 30 stocks—mostly public utilities and investment trusts—were whirled to record high prices in today's two hour session, gains ranged up to 28 points. Some of the high-priced specialties were heavy. Some profit-taking crept into the market in the final hour and closing prices were a few points under the best levels of the day.

Central States Electric issues were the leaders of the advance. The Convertible preferred soared 30 points to a new top at 340 and closed at 338. Last December this stock sold at 96. The new Convertible preferred rose 15 to 170 and the new common shot up to 67⅞ and finished at 67 for a net gain of 4½. All of the up-state New York merger stocks were strong, and Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern issues and Northeastern Power established new peaks. All these stocks broke sharply on the announcement of the merger last month. New highs were reached by such issues as Allied Power & Light preferred, Columbus Electric Power, Duke Power, National Electric "A," New England Telephone and United Gas Improvement, Commonwealth & Southern rose nearly a point to close at its previous high at 29.

American Investors, National Investors, Penn Road and Rail & Light Securities, all sold at record prices. National Investors reached 115⅛ and closed at 115 for a gain of 6½ points, compared to 11¼ on July 1. Goldman Sachs rose 2 points.

In the radios, Grigsby-Grunow again broke through to a new high at 110, up more than 5 points. There were operations by a new pool in the stock.

Deere & Co. dipped 1¼ points, and Tubize Artificial Silk 14. Procter & Gamble again reached a new high, jumping 4 points to 94½.

Curb Seat $235,000.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Another new high price for a New York Curb Exchange membership was made today when arrangements were completed for sale of a seat at $235,000, up $10,000 over the previous record figure established a few days ago.

Chicago & Alton Report Better.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Net operating income of the Chicago & Alton Railroad for the first six months of 1929 was $1,404,055, compared with $841,669 in the 1928 period. June net totaled $267,865 against $173,379.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 20.—Profit taking following report of rain in portions of Canada and of slack foreign takings of North American wheat carried prices down sharply on the local market at the week-end session. Unfavorable crop news from Canada and other foreign wheat regions were disregarded.

In the cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was lower, No. 2 selling down 3c to 7c and off grades 4c to 8c, but there was a good deal garlicky and low grade wheat and some No. 3s that was very slow, if movable. There was a limited mill order call for No. 2 red at prices ranking down from $1.42 to $1.38, basis Chicago September price at 1c premium. Early No. 3s sold at $1.30 to $1.40, but the demand was quickly satisfied, and some No. 3 were offered at the finish at $1.35. No. 4s sold late at $1.30 and $1.31 and sample grade $1.20 to $1.25. There was practically no demand for heavy garlicky wheat. Hard wheat was pushed to sell at lower levels and considerably wider discounts. At the start No. 2 hard sold on a basis 6c under Chicago September price, later sales on a basis 7½c under and at declines of 4½c to 5½c from Friday's late prices, while the shrinkage in protein premiums and prices was much greater. Late sales Kansas dark hard ranging 11.85 to 12.78 per cent protein at $1.30 for No. 2, $1.29 for No. 3 and $1.28 for No. 4, about 9c to 10c under Friday's prices. White corn was unchanged to 1c lower and yellow sold off 1½c and 2½c. The demand was light. Mill and outside orders furnished most of the demand. Oats were ¼c to 2c lower. Movement was slow with elevators taking a little of the oats and a few shipping orders being filled.

Wheat futures again reacted to below previous close. Corn was unchanged to shade higher early.

Opening 1½c lower, wheat recovered the loss early and sold net higher. Winnipeg also sold net higher after 2c lower opening on October. Liverpool closed 3½d to 4d lower. Rains were reported in some sections of Canadian drouth regions.

September wheat opened at $1.39; Dec. $1.45½; Sept. corn $1.04 and Dec. corn 97½c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 361,200 bushels, compared with 259,000 a week ago and 378,800 a year ago, included 197 cars local and 67 through. Corn receipts, which were 54,600 bushels, compared with 123,200 a week ago and 147,000 a year ago, included 30 cars local and 9 through. Oats receipts, which were 28,600 bushels, compared with 26,400 a week ago and 4000 a year ago, included 9 cars local and 4 through. Hay receipts were 3 cars local and 3 through.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The New York Stock Exchange reported today that the total value of all listed shares increased during June by $6,342,702,722, reaching $77,264,128,909 as of July 1. The total number of shares listed increased from 932,325,207 on June 1 to 945,341,007 on July 1. The ratio of member borrowings against security collateral decreased 0.24 per cent to 9.15 on July 1, from 9.39 per cent on June 1.

WHEAT HAS SHARP BREAK AT THE CLOSE OF WEEK

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 20.—The tidal wave rolled back from the grain markets today and the backwash after the week's storm of buying swept wheat prices down nearly 4 cents more. Their level at the close today was but 3½ to 5 cents a bushel higher than a week ago.

A scramble for profits was the answer. Just a week ago the grain trade became keenly conscious of the critical state of the spring wheat crop, affected by the lingering drought and the baking sun over the northwest states and provinces. Through five successive days a volume of buying almost unprecedented lifted wheat futures quotations to new high records for the year. Twenty-two cents a bushel was added before the tide turned, its upward flow checked by rains in the spring wheat belt and the natural reaction from an overbought market.

The peak was reached Thursday with July wheat at $1.46¼, September at $1.51½ and December at $1.57.

The close today, near the day's low point, was at $1.34 for July, $1.37¾ to $1.38 for September and $1.44¾ to $1.45 for December.

Today, as through the week, prices fluctuated violently in a wide range. The opening was dull, but report of continued dry weather in Canada, Australia and the Argentine spurred buyers into action and a quick upturn ensued. The advance was erased in the final hour's rush to gather in profits, several houses identified as leaders of the bull movement switching to the selling side at the last. There was almost dearth of North American wheat export business.

Despite the sudden two-day reaction, wheat rested today at a level about 37 cents a bushel higher than seven weeks ago—and this in the face of a general tendency toward lower prices during the harvest in average years. July and August, over a period of years, are the low-price months because of the movement of the new crop to market.

The good influence of the passage of the Federal Farm Board bill and the disaster to the North American spring wheat crop were timely enough, this year, to buoy prices up before much of the 1929 crop had left the farmers' hands. The Illinois Agricultural Association, surveying the situation today, estimated that perhaps 10 per cent of the entire North American wheat crop had been sold. A good winter wheat crop was harvested and virtually all of this benefited at least from part of the advance that began June 1. Besides, the association pointed out, the farmers held some 45,000,000 bushels carried over from last year's crop as compared with a 24,000,000-bushel carry-over a year ago, and this surplus enjoyed the advantage of the rising market. The association believed that little of this huge surplus had been contracted for sale.

If wheat holds around the $1.37 level for July, the Agricultural Association estimated, from 85 to 90 per cent of the enhanced value will accrue to the farmers.

Prevailing estimates of the Canadian wheat yield, based on telegraphic detailed wheat crop figures of Canadian growers' pool, ranged about 260,000,000 to 270,000,000 bushels, a reduction of 40 to 50 per cent from the 1928 harvest. The drought affected the domestic Northwest, but the growing crop, now coming into the milk stage, is not yet pronounced safe and would suffer from dry and hot weather.

The harvest has now reached Nebraska on its northward course. Corn belt wheat was not up to expectations in some spots, the Illinois Association reported. Some Illinois farms gathered 25 to 30 bushels of wheat to the acre, but others in Southern Illinois reaped only 5 to 10 bushels, and some did not even cut wheat.

All grain values have been enhanced by the buoyancy of wheat. December corn crossed the dollar mark Thursday for the first time this season and then receded. The losses for corn today ranged from 1¼ to 2 cents, July finishing at 98¾ to 98⅞ cents, December at 95¾ to 95⅝ cents, and September at $1.01 to $1.01⅛.

UNION Electric strives constantly to make it easier and more convenient for you—our 300,000 customers—to enjoy cheap, dependable electric service. Years ago we did away with contracts for residence service. For more than 25 years we have offered our customers free exchange of burned out lamps. Trouble service—the making of minor repairs in the home—is prompt; the charge is small. Two years ago, we opened two service stores in St. Louis, one at Grand and Arsenal, another at Delmar and Euclid.

And now, to bring the services of our company still closer to the home, we have opened two more electric service stores: one in the thriving Cherokee business community at 2715 Cherokee, in South St. Louis; the other at 6500 Delmar. At these stores, as in all Union Electric stores, trained courteous employes are ready to extend the services for which there is the greatest demand....the payment of electric bills...the purchase or exchange of lamp bulbs ...applications for electric service and the sale of electrical appliances.

You are cordially invited to visit these stores with any inquiry regarding your electric service...They may save you a trip down town.

Electricity is Cheap in St. Louis

In the average St. Louis home, electricity to run your electric cleaner 6 hours, your electric washer 5 hours, your electric fan 20 hours or your electric sewing machine 17 hours costs only 2½ cents!

The camera caught MARIE J. DOHERTY, B. Sc., demonstrating to one of her classes, the new, speedy method of toasting ready-filled Sandwiches, made possible by the Sunbeam Toaster with flat Turnover Rack. Miss Doherty not only teaches Domestic Science, but writes, lectures, and lives it.

Girls Taught Advantages

of New Way Toasting

Favorite Delicacies Made 50% Quicker—Served Hot from the Toaster—More Delicious than Ever

Hinged Tray collects all crumbs. Snap it open and shut and the Sunbeam is cleaned. No recesses to gather refuse. Most sanitary toaster made.

AND— A Princess Traveling Iron FREE With Each Purchase

DOMESTIC Science is turning to a new and speedier way of toasting bread, of toasting crackers, plain or spread with food-paste or cheese, and of making Sandwiches "backwards"—that is, filling them first, then toasting. These ready-filled Sandwiches not only toast in half the time, but come hot from the toaster ready for serving. You've never tasted any so delicious.

All this is due to flat toasting principle, made practical by the Sunbeam Toaster's Level Turnover Rack. It grips the toast top and bottom. Hence, the filling can't spill out of Sandwiches even when you turn them. And crackers can't drop out of reach. Plain bread, too, is easiest turned this way.

Because the Sunbeam toasts two slices at once, directly over the heater where the heat is most intense, toasting is 50% quicker. Hence, without waiting, more people are served. Breakfast consumes less time. The electric bill is lower.

NEW BUILDING FOR CHILDREN AT KOCH HOSPITAL URGED

Structures to House Negroes, Employes and Nurses Also Proposed by Acting Superitendent.

The needs of Robert Koch Hospital, the city's tuberculosis sanitarium, which now has almost 450 patients under treatment and a long waiting list, are detailed in the annual report of Dr. George D. Kettlekamp, acting superintendent, issued this week. A $2,000,000 bond issue has been recommended by the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis for this expansion.

The program recommended by Dr. Kettlekamp includes:

A children's building to replace the present cottage, now filled to capacity, where it is impossible to separate the girls and boys. Older children are quartered with adult patients.

A building for Negro patients whose death rate from tuberculosis in St. Louis is about five times that of the white race.

Additional buildings for white patients.

Buildings for employes who now are quartered in basement rooms and in an overcrowded farm cottage.

A Nurses' Home to accommodate both graduate and practical nurses, relieving present dormitory space for unskilled labor.

An electric lighting system for the hospital grounds, a road plan to relieve traffic congestion and general landscaping of the grounds.

Sheltered Occupation.

"Sheltered occupation for our discharged patients, if it could be accomplished, would help our work very much," Dr. Kettelkamp said. "If there were some employment where patients who are able to work a few hours daily could engage for wages in a gainful occupation for that time, under very close medical supervision, it would shorten their stay at the institution so much that I think it would pay the community to subsidize them according to their disability.

"As it is we dare not discharge a patient until he is thoroughly 'arrested' for the severe competition which he meets outside is almost sure to result in his breakdown. This idea has been put into practice to some extent in New York City."

Under the heading "Education and Entertainment," the report stated that weekly lectures on tuberculosis were given in the patients' auditorium by staff physicians and the lectures reprinted by the Koch Joy Messenger, a monthly publication edited by patients. The staff of the Messenger handled newspaper routes in the hospital and sold old papers, netting $130, which was used to improve the patients' radio apparatus, a hookup consisting of a central set and numerous head phones. Weekly programs of moving pictures were presented in the auditorium and various organizations provided entertainment.

Views on Smallpox Cases.

Hospital Commissioner Lohr, in his general report on institutions under his supervision, suggested that the practice of isolating smallpox patients at Koch Hospital be discontinued, asserting that the disease is no more contagious than those treated at the Isolation Hospital.

"It should be remembered," he said, "that on several occasions citizens who were ordered to Koch Hospital for isolation on account of smallpox registered the most caustic criticisms and complaints about the inadequate facilities provided there for their care.

"St. Louis stands alone in this questionable practice inasmuch as the majority of other large cities in the United States and abroad house their smallpox cases in their contagious disease hospitals. I recommend that the housing of smallpox cases in the temporary wooden structures at Koch Hospital be discontinued and that they be assigned to the Isolation Hospital."

Dr. Lohr also found fault with the commissary storerooms, kitchens and dining rooms. "While it is true that some of the deficiencies in these departments have been almost unavoidable on account of more or less constant construction work here and there, the fact remains that the efficiency and the sanitary conditions in the kitchens and storerooms are not what they might be," he said. "A complete reorganization of these departments is indicated and will be taken care of in the near future."

The daily average number of patients, during the year ended April 10, was 413 as against 402 the previous year. The death rate was 18.22 per cent; the cost of operation, $394,022.15, and the per capita daily cost, $2.61.

HIROHITO EATS ROUGH RICE

Japanese Emperor Tries to Discourage Use of Polished Grain.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, July 20.—To maintain his own health and at the same time set a useful example to his subjects, Emperor Hirohito is making half-polished rice the basis of his diet instead of the glistening white grain eaten by most Japanese.

Dieticians of Japan long have been preaching the dangers of polished rice, but with little effect. They maintain that the prevalence of malnutrition diseases, such as beri-beri, and intestinal disorders among the Japanese is largely due to eating rice from which all the husk has been polished away.

LIQUOR-RUNNING AIRPLANE CAPTURED NEAR DETROIT

Fourteen Cases Are Seized; Pilot Admits Guilt but Is Silent on Origin of Cargo.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 20. — A liquor running airplane was captured by state police shortly after daylight today as it landed on a field near New Boston, a suburb. Fourteen cases of liquor were seized. The pilot, Howard Gollard, 32 years old, of Detroit, was arraigned immediately in Justice Court. He pleaded guilty of possession and transportation of liquor but refused to say whether he had taken on his cargo in Canada.

Six men in two automobiles awaiting the plane also were arrested, but later released. State police said they had known for some time that t.. planes were landing liquor at the field, but until today had been unable to reach the field at the right time.

Teacher Stabs Self to Death.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

QUINCY, Ill., July 20.—Norman Keith, 45 years old, instructor in mathematics in Lake High School, stabbed himself to death in his summer home at Perry, Ill., near here, shortly before noon today. He had been despondent over ill health. While his sister was giving a music lesson in an adjoining room Mr. Keith plunged a knife into his heart. The widow, mother Mrs. Fannie Keith, and sister, Miss Mary Keith, survive.

"Moon Rocket" Tests Lead to Prediction Of Man-Made Meteor

Dr. Goddard's Experiments Expected to Provide New Method of Collecting Atmospheric Data, Says Smithsonian Secretary.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—A day when rockets might be sent as far into the atmosphere as man desires is foreseen by Smithsonian Institution scientists as the result of Dr. R. H. Goddard's "moon rocket" tests in Massachusetts, the last of which alarmed Worcester three days ago.

Teh institution has spent more than $12,000 in the last 12 years in backing the experiments, and Dr. C. G. Abbot, its secretary, today made public from Dr. Goddard's official report the importance of the recent explosive test.

"No such wild project as going to the moon is contemplated," Dr. Abbot said. "We wish to create a method to gather meteorological and atmospheric data in outer space which man cannot reach by aerial navigation, balloons or kites."

Delicate instruments will be carried in the completed rocket, which will be equipped with a parachute. When the force of the propellant is expended, the rocket, if everything goes as planned, will float gently to earth and the instruments returned unharmed.

Ultimate Value Discussed.

What the ultimate value of the rocket is to mankind is a question of interesting conjecture to scientists, as it has been throughout the years to fiction writers and inventors with a Jules Verne imagination.

Dr. Abbot asserted that the rocket's recent flight compared with the first flight of Dr. S. P. Langley's engine-propelled airplane May 6, 1896, over the Potomac. That pilotless craft flew half a mile.

"Suppose anyone had said," Dr. Abbot asked, "Well, what good is a half-mile flying machine?' The answer is that in 1927 Lindbergh flew a 3000-mile flying machine and the other day Mendell and Reinhart flew an 18,000-mile flying machine.

"Similarly, if anyone now says: 'Well, what good is a 1000-foot flying rocket?' The answer is that, like Langley's first flight, it demonstrates the success of a new method of propulsion in the atmosphere.

"As High As We Like."

"With automatic stabilization, and carrying more fuel, rockets built on exactly the same principle as Dr. Goddard's will soon fly as high as we like and bring back precious records."

Instead of high explosives, propulsion is furnished by the steady combustion of hydrocarbons in liquid oxygen. Dr. Goddard's conquest of all the difficulties of burning hydrocarbons steadily in liquid oxygen for the first time experimentally overcame the problem of high flight.

"The last remaining obstacle in devising a suitable rocket," Dr. Abbot said, "has been passed in seven stages of development. There remains now only the final work of perfecting in field trials the guiding mechanism to insure continuously verticle flight, and of adding automatic recording instruments for observation."

What They Have to Get.

Through the medium of the rocket, science seeks to get four things: Samples of the upper air for chemical analysis; masurements of temperature and pressure in distant space; camera spectographs of the sun, beyond the ozone layer which now cuts out the region of the ultra-violet; and measurements at will of the condition of the atmosphere for aviation.

"This last problem of course, is of great practical interest," Dr. Abbott said. "A rocket which could be set to explore the meteorological condition of the air at any height, and to bring back its record to within a mile of the starting point and within an hour of its sending, would be a boon to aviation.

"Sounding balloons, although they can rise to 15 or 20 miles, often drift 150 miles from their starting point and may never be recovered with their recording apparatus, or only after days or weeks."

What Remains to Be Done.

Dr. Goddard proposed the development of the rocket to the Smithsonian in 1916. He already had worked on the problem for several years. He showed by mathematics that it was possible for a rocket to carry sufficient high-power explosive to propel itself beyond the atmosphere, which extends upward at least 200 miles, and even to go beyond recovery of the earth's gravitation. It would then become a man-made meteor in outer space.

With automatic stabilizers to insure vertical flight already designed, all that remains to complete the rocket will be the design of automatic apparatus to record meteorological measurements, a camera to photograph the sun's spectrum, and air samplers.

Legion Medal for Judge Landis.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Commissioner of Baseball and former Federal Judge, received today the highest award of the American Legion, its distinguished service medal. The medal was presented by National Commander Paul V. McNutt in the presence of hundreds of legionnaires, officials, civic leaders and friends of Landis at a ceremony held in connection with the Seventh District Legion Summer Jubilee. The golden emblem was awarded for "loyalty to the men and women of the legion" and for "service to ex-service men and women of the war."

"You have been called the ideal American's best friend, and the legion's best friend. The terms are synonymous. No tribute can be higher than that," said McNutt.

3000 FEWER BIRTHS IN MISSOURI IN 1928

Total for State Was 63,401—Increase of 4366 Shown in Deaths.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 20. — The Missouri stork is in a slump, while Old Father Time is batting heavier than ever with his sickle of death, according to a table of vital statistics issued today by Dr. James Stewart, State Commissioner of Health. During the year 1928 there were 3000 fewer births in Missouri than in 1927, while the death count was 4366 more in 1928 than in 1927. In 1928 there was a total of 45,219 deaths and 63,401 births.

Deaths of men exceeded those of women by 4545, while births of boys exceeded those of girls by 1685.

Of the 45,219 deaths reported, 4167 were of infants under 1 year of age, or 9.21 per cent of the total number of deaths. Of this number of infant deaths a distribution by age shows that 2241 occurred between 1 and 6 months and 731 occurred between 6 months and 1 year, or 4.95 per cent of the total number of deaths (45,219) occurred under 1 month, 2.64 per cent between 1 and 6 months and 1.61 per cent between 6 months and 1 year.

The death rate under 5 years of age was 5945, or 13.14 per cent of the total.

Of the 45,219 deaths reported, 4735 were colored deaths, or a rate of 24.18 per 1000 colored population.

Of the 63,410 births reported, 2574 were colored births, or a rate of 13.14 per 1000 colored population.

Of the 2574 colored births reported, 442 died under 1 year of age, or a rate of 171.71 per 1000 colored births, or 10.60 per cent of the colored deaths died under 1 year of age.

During the year 1928 there were 338 more colored deaths than in 1927. During the year 1928 there were 1131 fewer births than 1927. During the year 1928 there were 2161 more colored deaths than births reported.

Held for Killing Neighbor.

By the Associated Press.

PIERCE CITY, Mo., July 20.—John Sears, 55 years old, is under arrest here in connection with the killing early today of Charles Shrader, 50, his neighbor. The two men, both farmers, met in Shrader's pasture where Sears is said to have fired a shot from a 12-gauge shotgun at Shrader at close range. Shrader walked about 140 steps from the scene of the shooting and fell dead. Immediately after the shooting Sears walked to town and surrendered to City Marshal Zack Harper. Shrader had a wife and three small children. Sears also is married.

FRANCE BUILDS CAVES IN EASTERN FORTS

Caverns Will Protect Large Bodies of Troops From Heaviest Shells.

PARIS, July 20.—France is steadily rebuilding the belt of forts along her eastern frontier, Paul Painleve, Minister of War, has disclosed.

Lessons of the World War have been drawn upon in the new fortifications, with the result that deep caves, capable of protecting large bodies of troops from the heaviest shells, form an important feature of the new system.

Verdun remains the key point of frontier defense, the Minister of War said, with a long line of smaller forts supplementing that defence, each helated in a strategic plan to the others, and with vantage points ready for the artillery in the rear.

Painleve appealed for the defense of French children as the best defense of the country.

"Preaching about more children will not raise the birth rate," he said. "We must concentrate all our efforts to reduce infant mortality to a minimum."

U. S. AGENT IN HAITI WOUNDED TRYING TO SEIZE TOBACCO

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, July 20.—Melville Monk, Fort Dodge, Ia., an assistant director of the Internal Revenue Bureau of this republic, is recovering from serious wounds inflicted on him yesterday when he tried to seize some contraband tobacco.

Monk, with Inspector George S. Roy, both unarmed, had ordered confiscation of tobacco held by Leon Lafontant, a local merchant. Lafontant inflicted deep cuts on the arms and face of Monk with his machete before Roy drove him off. A policeman who went to the assistance of the Americans was seriously cut, but he shot Lafontant in an arm and a leg. Lafontant barricaded himself in a house but surrendered later.

Roy was only slightly cut. Commander Lucius Johnson of the United States Navy Medical Corps, gave a blood transfusion which was credited with saving the life of Monk.

CONTRACTOR ROBBED OF $1637 PAYROLL

Oliver P. Duncan Held Up by Three Youths at Office, 5920 Columbia.

A $1637 payroll of the Duncan Construction Co., 5920 Columbia avenue, was stolen from Oliver P. Duncan, president, by three young men who held him up as he stopped his machine in front of the company at 1 p. m. yesterday.

The money was wrapped in newspaper and lay beside him on the seat of the automobile. He told police that the actions of the robbers indicated they knew his method of handling the payroll.

He had not yet alighted when the automobile used by the robbers drew up beside him. Two of them leaped on the running board, and one waved a revolver. They seized the payroll money, rejoining their companion in the other machine, and fled.

DIPLOMATIC APPOINTMENTS EXPECTED IN NEAR FUTURE

MADISON, Va., July 20.—President Hoover was secluded at his Rapidan River fishing preserve today with an opportunity to give thought to the filling of several important diplomatic posts now vacant.

Announcement of appointments in that service is expected in the near future, and it was regarded as significant that the President's party this week included Secretary Stimson and Under Secretary Cotton of the State Department. Stimson started back to Washington today. He and the President were reported to have discussed the Chinese-Russian situation.

Others in the party, besides Mrs. Hoover and Allan and Herbert Hoover Jr., were former Gov. Huntley Spaulding of New Hampshire and Mrs. Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rickard of New York and their daughter, Ethel, Mrs. Stimson, Mrs. Cotton, Lawrence Richey, the President's secretary, and Lieutenant Commander Joel T. Boone, his physician.

Considerable progress has been made in providing for the comfort of the guests at the President's preserve—his personal playground, financed at his own expense—and the party does not plan to return to Washington until early Monday.

School-boy Herpetologist and His Pets

JOHN O. ELLIS, Shrewsbury, 9 years old, with two of his black-snakes, which form a part of his collection of 40 snakes and numerous other reptiles.

Nine-Year-Old Schoolboy Enjoys Collecting Snakes

When 9-year-old John O. Ellis allows one of his four-foot spreading adders to twine about his neck while he fondles an even larger black snake with one hand and cautiously holds a poisonous copperhead in the other, his schoolmates look on with wide eyes and gaping mouths, his grown brother, Gerald, whom he understudied, observes him with pride, and his sister despairingly covers her eyes and runs.

The well-built brown-eyed student, with a shock of unruly brown hair and freckles, twice has appeared as a lecturer on reptiles at meetings of the Friday Club at Lockwood School, Webster Groves, where he is a student in the fourth grade. A part of his collection of 29 garter snakes, three spreading aadders, two black snakes, six copperheads, six mud puppies, three lizards, and a miscellaneous assortment of toads and snails was put on exhibition, as he spoke learnedly of their habits, anatomical structure and value as exterminators of rodents.

But being "curator" of even a comparatively small collection and "professor of herpetology" at the grammar school requires a great amount of work. Technically it is work, but actually it is pleasure.

Feeding the Snakes.

Every two or three weeks snakes must have a feeding which requires several afternoons of hunting for toads and green spring frogs in the pond near his home at 7530 Big Bend road, Shrewsbury. They must be placed in the glass-covered box while alive for snakes do not eat dead animals. And enough must be placed in the box at one time so that the smaller reptiles will get their proportionate share. So the saving of enough frogs for a feeding, requires care of them after capture.

John has read all the books on reptiles in the school library, and frequent trips to the reptile house at the Zoo have supplemented his knowledge of American snakes and those native to other countries.

Mrs. Ellis was startled when Gerald, now 26, brought home his first snake when he returned from a summer vacation to the home of her parents, near Hendersonville, Ky., about 10 years ago. But later, after a garter snake, which had been added to the collection in the basement, crawled across her kitchen floor, sending her scurrying up the stairs, she resigned herself to the new pets—provided they were kept in tight boxes outside the house.

There was nothing left for her to do, she said, for her husband, O. A. Ellis, a Pullman conductor, encouraged their sons by bringing them horned toads from Texas.

Looking for St. Patrick.

John fearlessly followed his brother, handling snakes when he was 5 years old. But not so with Ina Lee, their sister, four years younger than Gerald. She did not give up the feud her mother abandoned so easily.

When there was another wholesale delivery from the snake box in the basement, she packed her clothing and went to a neighbor's home. When she was assured all were recaptured, she returned.

The collection became so large that Mrs. Ellis demanded a reduction in numbers, and four specimens were given to the Zoo, which already had received two alligators from Gerald. That is her only defense against being overrun with snakes as the result of trips to the woods in St. Louis County and snake-hunting expeditions in the Kentucky hills during vacations, Mrs. Ellis declared, intimating that her surrender was not complete by admitting that she sometimes wished "St. Patrick had driven the snakes out of here, too."

Gerald is purchasing agent for a radio concern, but he considers reptile collecting an avocation. John, however, says he will attend college and find employment in the reptile house of some zoo.

"The snake always has been judged wrongly," John declared. "But there are more public collections each year and that helps to destroy fear of them and make people understand that they are just as nice pets as goldfish or canaries, and a lot more useful."

THREE YEARS FOR AUTO THEFT

Veteran on Honeymoon When Arrested at Houston, Mo.

HOUSTON, Mo., July 20.—Herbert Harrison pleaded guilty of stealing an automobile in Virginia and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary here yesterday. Harrison was arrested by Sheriff Kelly at a tourist camp near here Tusday night on charges of forgery in Oklahoma and Mississippi.

Harrison was married two months ago to a school teacher in Oklahoma. They were on their honeymoon and he had represented to her that he had rented the car and the money obtained by forgery was his. After the trial and sentence she said she would be waiting for him when he served his term. Harrison is a World War veteran and said he was a member of a family prominent in national affairs.

MARY E. ALTER TO BE 100 YEARS OLD SUNDAY

Daughter of Steamboat Owner Recalls Capture of Fort Jackson.

During the last 87 of the 100 years of age which Miss Mary Eliza Alter will attain next Sunday, she has been a resident of St. Louis. The daughter of a steamboat owner, Capt. William Alter, she came here in 1842 from her native Cincinnati, O., when the Mississippi River packet trade was in its heyday.

Although Miss Alter has lost her eyesight and is nearly deaf, she is still active and, besides remembering events with clarity, she is able to aid her sister, Miss Lucille C. Alter, with whom she lives, in conducting the ordinary affairs of their home, an old stone-front house at 3821 Delmar boulevard. The sister is 88 years old.

"Until our father's death in 1854," the younger sister said, "he was always directly in charge of one of the two steamers he ran between St. Louis and New Orleans."

She was unable to recall the names of all the steamboats Capt. Alter operated, but her sister readily named them:

"They were the Saluda, Lexington, Sampson, Omega and Inda. Sampson's Point in the river near New Madrid, Mo., was named after the Sampson because this boat burned there one night. The Saluda burned, too. It was tied up here in the winter and a cake of ice made a hole in it, causing it to list. The stoves in the cabins fell over and set it afire."

Nephew With Southern Forces.

"We lived at Chouteau avenue and Thirteenth street in 1861 when the Germans took Camp Jackson," Miss Lucille Alter continued. "Like everybody else, we called them the 'Hessians.' Everyone was excited and we went over to our sister's house on Eleventh street between St. Charles and Locust. One of her sons, David Kingsland, had enlisted with the Southern troops in the camp, but he happened to be on leave at home at that time and wasn't taken prisoner.

"Our sister's husband was Le Roy Kingsland Sr. Kingsland avenue was named after his brother, George. While the two of us were there at our sister's house, with our brothers, James and John, the men took turns staying up all night for some time until things quieted down. Gen. Lyon declared martial law and they searched the house many times trying to find our guns. The men always managed to hide them. We kept the shutters closed for several days.

"The only immediate relative of ours to be in the fighting of the war was a cousin, Brigadier-General Charles Clark, in the Confederate Army. He had a cotton plantation with 500 slaves not far from Greenville, Miss. He died shortly after the war from wounds he received in battle."

A large, quarter-length portrait of the sister, Melissa, who later was married to LeRoy Kingsland Sr., hangs on one wall of the Misses Alter's modest living room. Although it has been more or less dimmed by the years since it was painted, it is a delightful study of the true belle of the days before the Civil War—decollette bodice, a cameo brooch and a brown curl trimly pendant on either side of the neck from a high coiffure.

Relatives from distant parts of the country are expected by the sisters to be in St. Louis next Sunday for the birthday observance. Cousins residing in Cincinnati are Mrs. Irene Sisson and Miss Alma Orr; nieces living in Detroit, Mich., are Mrs. Melissa Sturnn and Miss Leila Daniel, while more distant relatives are Mrs. Lucille Brown of Los Angeles, Cal., and Phosion Daniel, Newport, Ky.

A birthday cake large enough for 100 candles is to be provided by a group of friends headed by Mrs. M. J. Clarke, 7226 Princeton avenue, a worker of the Board of Religious Organizations.

SUIT OVER WOMAN'S $10,950 BEQUEST TO HER FIANCE

Relatives Seek to Set Aside Will of Fannie Bonnett, Killed in Bus Accident.

Suit to set aside the will of Miss Fannie Bonnett, who was fatally injured in a bus accident last December, near Pana, Ill., was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bonnett, two brothers and a sister.

Miss Bonnett, who lived at 4298 West Pine boulevard, left $50 to her father and gave the remainder of her estate to Joseph J. Streib, 4016A California avenue, whom she described as her sweetheart and intended husband. Her estate totals $11,000, consisting of jewelry and real estate deeds of trust. In addition, Streib, as executor, has a suit pending for $10,000 against a bus company because of Miss Bonnett's death.

In the will contest plaintiffs aver that Miss Bonnett was not of sound mind when the will was drawn, July 2, 1928, and further charge she was unduly influenced by Streib, which allegation he denies. Robert M. Zeppenfeld, attorney for the petitioners, called Probate Judge Holtcamp's notice to the filing of the will suit and Streib was placed under a $20,000 bond as executor. The will specified he was to serve without bond.

Two Boy Waders Drowned.

By the Associated Press.

KANKAKEE, Ill., July 20.—Mendel Groner, 12 years old, and Freddie Groner, 10, sons of Sol Groner of Chicago, were drowned today in Kankakee River, one mile west of Momence. With their parents, two brothers and a sister they had arrived to spend the weekend. The lads were wading in shallow water when drawn by the current into the stream.

SMOOT'S SLIDING SCALE SUGAR DUTY PLAN EXPLAINED

Provides Maximum of 2.40 Cents on Cuban Product, Same as Flat Rate in House Bill.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Interest in the controversial sugar tariff was revived today after disclosure that the sliding scale plan of Senator Smoot (Rep.), Utah, provides a maximum duty of 2.40 cents a pound on Cuban raw sugar, the same as the flat rate in the House bill.

The proposal calls for gradual reductions in duty as the wholesale price of Cuban sugar pyramids at New York. The higher and highest rates would become operative only when Cuban production reached excessive levels and prices declined.

President Hoover favors a sugar tariff that will serve the dual purpose of protecting the domestic producers and consumers. Senator Smoot's plan is designed to accomplish this by stabilizing the price at around 6 cents a pound wholesale, but it remains for majority members of the Finance Committee, which he heads, to indorse the proposition before the chairman decides to press it.

Promises to Call Witnesses.

Some Republicans on the committee are understood to look with favor on the principle of a tariff fluctuating with prices, but they have refused to commit themselves definitely until the Smoot plan is put before them for study.

It is the chairman's intention to submit the proposal to the majority when the sugar schedule is reached in the committee's executive deliberations on the House bill beginning Monday. If the sentiment is for the sliding scale, the chairman has promised the Democrats that he will call witnesses for testimony on it.

Meanwhile, speculation continues as to the attitude the Cuban and domestic producers will take on the scale idea. Testimony has been that American cane and beet sugar interests are opposed to it on the ground that it is an experiment with uncertain benefits.

Recent reports quoting Cuban spokesmen indicated that the island growers were willing to work with the domestic sugar interests in an attempt to arrive at a solution that would assist both sides. Chairman Smoot said today he knew nothing of any change in policy by the Cubans, except what he had read in the newspapers, but that there must be a change if the situation is to improve.

Interest in the foreign protests against the House bill also was renewed today at the capitol with the receipt of a complaint from Czecho-Slovakian commercial and industrial organizations against increases proposed on more than a dozen commodities.

Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, a minority member of the finance committee, requested Smoot to have all the foreign complaints printed in pamphlet form for the information of Senators.

Misstep S

NOSES OUT DISPLAY AND PAYS $17.64 FOR $2 STUB

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Misstep, courageous 4-year-old son of Upset, deserted by his followers until he went to the post an 8-to-1 shot, turned back the greatest field of stake horses assembled this year, and wrecked the pretentious invasion of Eastern thoroughbreds by winning the $20,000 added Arlington Handicap over a mile and a furlong today.

In a blistering finish, Misstep out-gamed W. J. Salmon's Display to win by a head. Buddy Bauer, E. R. Bradley's 5-year-old, was a length farther back.

More than 35,000 racing fans saw the race.

Misstep Breaks Track Record.

To conquer the great field the Lemar Stock Farm entry, smartly ridden by Jockey C. McCrossen, raced the distance in 1:50 2-5, one-fifth of a second faster than the former track record.

The post time favorite, J. F. Widener's Osmand, after setting the early pace faded in the stretch to finish eighth. Sun Beau, another Eastern horse owned by W. S. Kilmer, the second choice in the betting, wound up in twelfth place.

The race was worth $22,075 to Leon J. Marks, Lexington, Ky., owner of the winner. Display earned $4000 for Salmon and Buddy Bauer won $2000. Dowagiac finished fourth and won $1000 for Val Crane, his owner. Sun Edwin, an Easterner, was fifth.

Misstep had been neglected in the betting and paid $17.64 to win; $8.12 to place and $5.40 to show. Display, a long shot, paid $24.78 to place and $16.24 to show. The show price on Buddy Bauer was $9.42.

Display Gaining at Finish.

Osmand got away on top, but Buddy Bauer rushed into the lead closely attended by Osmand with Sun Beau third. McCrossen had Misstep in fourth place, three lengths back. Willie Garner moved Osmand into the lead at the half and kept him there until the next quarter post was passed. Misstep in the meantime had moved up to second place, a length ahead of Buddy Bauer.

As they moved into the stretch Buddy Bauer shot out into the lead and Osmand began to fade rapidly. Misstep, on the rail, saved enought ground to move out in front half way down the stretch. Then Display came from way back with a tremendous burst of speed, running on the outside. He was overhauling Misstep at every jump, but just failed to ge up, for McCrossen never let up on Misstep. Buddy Bauer hung on gamely to take third. Sun Beau, the highly regarded favorite, never found his racing legs. He got away in a tangle and trailed far in the rear for the entire journey.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM IN CHALLENGE ROUND

Van Ryn and Allison Put Germans Out by Winning in Doubles

By J. E. Angly
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, July 20.—Once again France and America will fight it out in the final battle for possession of the Davis Cup, historic emblem of tennis supremacy among nations of the world.

By conquering Germany this afternoon on the courts of the Rotweiss Club in the doubles, for their third and decisive match of the series, the players from the United States won the interzone round and the right to challenge France for the big silver bowl. The challenge play is scheduled for next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, in Paris.

Under a sun that did the "kolossal" job of producing perspiration on the unsheltered brows of 5000 spectators, Johnny Van Ryn of New Jersey and Wilmer Allison of Texas administered the knockout blow to Germany's tennis hopes for 1929. In four sparkling sets they defeated Daniel Prenn and Hans Moldenhauer by scores of 9—11, 6—2, 6—4, 6—3. The German stars, each of whom had tasted defeat in the singles yesterday against Big Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, went down with colors flying.

The remaining two singles matches of the series tomorrow, with Tilden playing Prenn and Hunter opposing Moldenhauer, have no bearing on the situation other than to carry out the schedule and help the gate receipts.

An ardent and articulate assembly of German spectators this afternoon saw some brilliant doubles and at one time almost sensed the joy of anticipated victory for the home team. This was when Prenn and Moldenhauer had carried off the long and keenly contested first set and gained a lead of 2—0 in the second set. But at this point youth began to have its way and the tide turned in favor of Allison and Van Ryn.

Audaciously advancing to the net, volleying everything and anything they could reach, often leaping high in the air to return lobs intended to drive them back, the young Americans swept aside the German challenge for six straight games and drew level at one set each.

Again in the third set the Germans got a lead of 2—1, then 3—2, as both Prenn and Moldenhauer displayed dashing skill. But on Van Ryn's service, with Allison a stonewall at the net, the Americans drew up to 3—3, then took the lead on a break through Prenn's service, after a hard deuce struggle. This was the real turning point of the match.

From then on the Americans set a winning pace, though they had to fight hard and clip off brilliant shots from all parts of the court to keep command of the situation. In the fourth and last set, the Americans won four games on their own service and twice broke through Prenn's delivery, winding up their day's work with three fine smashes that German racquets failed to touch.

The Americans were cheered lustily when they clinched the match.

Score Falsified, Golfer Is Put Out of Tourney

By the Associated Press.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., July 20.—Arthur D. Potter who returned a score of 64 in the second round of the Metropolitan open golf championship at the Lido Country Club yesterday, this afternoon was disqualified for "returning an incorrect score" and the score, which would have been course record, was expunged from the records.

The announcement of the disqualification was made by John A. Ladds, secretary of the Metropolitan Golf Association. Ladds said that Harry Hunerhoff, who played with Potter, and attested the score of 64, came forward today to say that the score was really in the neighborhood of 80.

"The score will be thrown out," said Ladds, "and no entry from either Potter or Hunerhoff will be accepted in any future events of the M. G. A."

This action makes a 67, made by Wiffy Cox today, the course record for Lido.

BAINBRIDGE WINNER PAYS $79.80 FOR $2

CLEVELAND, O., July 20.—H. Thurston, ridden by Jockey M. Wimmer, won the fourth race at Bainbridge race track near here this afternoon and paid $79.80 for $2. He ran the six furlongs in 1:13 2-5.

RUTH'S CONDITION NOT SO BAD, IN HUGGINS' OPINION

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, July 20.

ONCE again it seems that the ailments of Babe Ruth have been exaggerated and fears for his future prematurely aroused.

After rather a gloomy forecast of the situation last night, following upon another injury to ligaments in one of Ruth's legs, Manager Miller Huggins today talked more optimistically about the Babe's condition and chances of returning to the game shortly.

The big fellow himself was on the bench in uniform, growling about being perfectly able to do some pinch hitting even if he could not run very far or very fast.

Ruth, nevertheless, will not play in the exhibition game the Yankees have scheduled at Buffalo on Monday. He will accompany Huggins, Herb Pennock and several others to New York after concluding the series with Cleveland tomorrow.

RUTH BAILEY IN WESTERN FINAL; PARE DEFEATED

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Cal., youngster, today contributed the biggest upset of the Western tennis championships, and made the final round an all-California affair. The Westerner scored a surprising victory over Emmett Pare of Chicago, defending champion, in four bitterly fought sets.

To qualify for the right to meet Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, Cal., in the final tomorrow, Vines defeated the Chicago Star who was seeded No. 1 in the draw, 6—1, 1—6, 6—3, 7—5. Pare took the second set easily, but could not cope with the mixture of shots Vines exhibited.

Another upset was tossed into the women's singles by Ruth Bailey of St. Louis, who eliminated the favorite, Carolyn Swartz of Los Angeles, 6—3, 7—5, in the women's semifinals. The St. Louis player found her game after trailing 1-3 in the first set, and never was in danger thereafter.

Clara Louise Zinke, defending her women's singles title, qualified to meet Miss Bailey by conquering Catherine Wolf of Indianapolis, 6—2, 2—6, 6—3. Miss Wolf defeated Miss Zinke in the finals of the Illinois championships several weeks ago.

Gledhill and Vines will pair up in

Cornell-Princeton Track Team Defeats Oxford-Cambridge, 9-3

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Breaking the spell that for eight years has held them powerless to defeat their English cousins on track and field, the capable athletes of Princeton and Cornell rose in their might today and overwhelmed Oxford and Cambridge by a score of nine first places to three.

The American performers led by a brilliant all around star in Ben Hedges of Plainfield, N. J., Princeton captain-elect, romped to victory in all of the 12 events except the 100-yard dash and quarter-mile and half-mile runs.

These three classic cinder path events went to the Oxford and Cambridge forces but their men were outclassed in the field events and beaten even in the hurdle races where the English had hoped to make their finest showing.

Tisdall Takes Tumble.

But for a bad header taken by R. M. N. Tisdall, of Cambridge, as he leaped the final barrier five yards ahead of the field the invaders might have taken the 220-yard low hurdles. As it was John Lincoln of Princeton, who up to that moment had looked like nothing more than a good runner-up, went on to win while Tisdall struggled to his feet and smiled gamely.

Hedges cleared 6 feet, 2 inches in the high jump, half an inch better than the mark set by C. T. Van Greisel of Cambridge, in 1925. Another Princeton athlete, John E. Gore, covered the mile in the new record time of four minutes, 23 seconds flat, four-fifths of a second faster than H. B. Stallard, of Cambridge, traveled in 1921.

Orson C. Beaman, of Cornell, won the two-mile run in 9:33 4-5, bettering the 1928 mark of T. C. Fooks, of Cambridge, by a full 11 seconds. Tom Hampson, of Oxford, beat out Bob Garland, of Princeton, by two feet, giving his team one record to take back to England, his brilliant 1:56 slicing four-fifths of a second off the half-mile running mark, made by B. G. D. Rudd, of Oxford, in 1921, the year these institutions first met on the track.

Princeton Wins Five Events.

Of the 12 events Princeton won five, Cornell four, Cambridge two and Oxford one. The margin of the American victory in this last appearance of the English team here this season was even more decisive than that inflicted last week by Harvard and Yale, who won by a score of 8½ to 3½.

Two thousand persons witnessed the meet which was staged in a quiet grove on the shore of Long Island Sound.

Despite a painful heel injury Hedges won first places in the high hurdles and high jump, placed second in the pole vault and was a close third in the broad jump.

16-POUND SHOTPUT—Won by L. H. Levy, Cornell, 46 feet 4 inches; second, J. F. Anderson, Cornell, 46 feet ⅛ inch; third, P. M. N. Tisdall, Cambridge.

By James M. Gould

The Browns gave two of their finest exhibitions of pitching and fielding in the double-header against the Washington Senators yesterday and succeeded only in losing two tough games. The scores were 3-2, 2-1.

The first battle went 12 innings and the winning run came over on an infield out. In this game, Rip Collins opposed Fred Marberry and the two big right-handers were well matched.

The second game went the regulation distance and the two Washington runs were homers, one by Goslin in the first and the other by West in the seventh.

Johnny Ogden and Bob Burke, a southpaw, pitched this second classic, the former allowing seven hits and the latter only four.

The only Brownie run came in the sixth on a single by McNeely, a double by Manush and successive passes to Schulte and Kress.

Manush Gets One Hit.

It was a bad day for St. Louis hitters, Manush, tied for the league-lead yesterday, had an especially unpleasant afternoon with only one hit in nine times at bat. In the first game, Marberry walked eight and fanned seven and, in the second, Burke walked three and fanned five.

The second game saw Ogden make his first start since May 30 and he was a great pitcher.

Today in the fifth and final game of the series Alvin Crowder or Sam Gray will pitch for the Browns against either Sam Jones or Lloyd Brown for the Senators.

Tonight the Browns take to the road to be gone until Aug. 10.

How Browns Lost First.

In the first game, the Browns were away to an early lead when they scored a run in the first inning. Blue singled and McGowan walked. Manush forced McGowan and Schulte doubled to right-center. Blue scored on the hit but Manush was out trying to follow Blue over.

Collins pitched near-perfect ball in the first two innings, even though the Senators filled the bases with one down in the second. Rip Showed his class by escaping in that session but he failed to stop the Senators in the third. Boss singled to start and was forced on a great stop by Blue of Rice's smash. Goslin came through with a double to put Rice on third and two runs scored when Myer singled to center.

Right back in their half came the Browns to tie it up. McGowan and Manush were out when Schulte hit his second successive double and tallied when Kress doubled to right center.

The Senators threatened in the sixth and seventh, but the Browns

By John E. Wray

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Max Otto Adolf Friederich Schmeling, the "German Jack Dempsey," will be with us tomorrow night at the Battery A arena where he will demonstrate, with the aid of Herman Heller, a sparring partner, just why he is entitled to be considered the outstanding heavyweight title prospect today—a "coming champion." At least, that's the way many refer to Max.

Schmeling, who is Germany's first real bidder for a place in the pugilistic sun, will please the spectators, if he is as lively as he was in training quarters. Max has a lot of "pep" and considerable stuff. In order to avoid doing mayhem on his faithful man Friday, both Schmeling and Heller have been boxing in headgear, using large gloves. This enables them to let go their punches and give the onlookers a better chance to see real action without the principals risking any casualties.

It is not to be expected that, for the pecuniary reward offered—a percentage of the gate, in this case—Max would jeopardize his title chances by engaging in a real fight.

A Cheese or a Champion?

There are some authorities on boxing who, now that his fight with Paulino has passed into history, have decided that Schmeling was just the better of a couple of bums, that night.

There are others who give Max credit for accomplishing what no other fighter in history, not even the gigantic George Godfrey, was able to accomplish—beating the Basque to the verge of a knockout.

One who saw the fight could not help but recall that the supporters of BOTH views were rights—in part, at least. For the first seven or eight rounds the fight was one of the dullest the writer has viewed, where the principals were supposed to be of title quality. The Stribling-Sharkey battle was a masterpiece compared to it.

Then, after Schmeling's patient pecking at Paulino had begun to bear fruit, the bout began to assume less comedy and take on the grim hue of real slaughter. Seldom has a fighter been battered as was Paulino. In the penultimate round it seemed that human endurance could go no further and a more ghastly spectacle has not been presented to public view since Willard's seconds draped a towel over Jess' battered visage, as they led him to the dressing room in the Toledo Bowl.

Left Not So Bad.

The impression left after the Paulino fight was that Max's virtues include ability to hit hard and fast with his right hand, a modified but not finished ability to use his left hand, a Teutonic ability to follow a schedule painstakingly through to a conclusion.

He failed to show a convincing "killer" punch, his footwork was a bit jazzy, at times, and he is about three years behind Tommy Loughran in defensive technique and mastermindig. In fact, it now might be said that if Schmeling had the title and gave Loughran a shot at it, Max would stand an excellent chance of losing his crown on points.

Max's resemblance to Jack Dempsey is at times pronounced, but is in no sense substantial. He is not the same wolfish type in action and he lacks the natural ferocity and damaging power of the original Dempsey package.

It is to be recalled that Schmeling's fights in America have been against foes of the "iron man" type. His opponents in this country include: Paulino, Risko, Sekyra and two ham-and-egg tryout men. Two are of the Joe Grim sort—take it all night and bob up for more. Another was only an ordinary light heavyweight. Both Paulino and Risko have at times been considered heavyweight hopes, and Schmeling deserves credit for eliminating them.

Max hit the title highway at a time when fighters who could box were rarer than Kohinoors, and so he coasted on into fame. His rapid progress in a measure has been due to the weakness of the heavyweight division. That he could be classed with the champions of the past, Dempsey, Fitz, Corbett and Jeffries, is not to be thought of.

Max is a very smart, alert fellow, as his growing mastery of English indicates. Paulino, in all his long stay in this country, still uses an interpreter. But Schmeling has made creditable progress in the few months he spent in this country. In talkie photos of his training camp work Max delivered a long speech in English and his pronunciation was quite good.

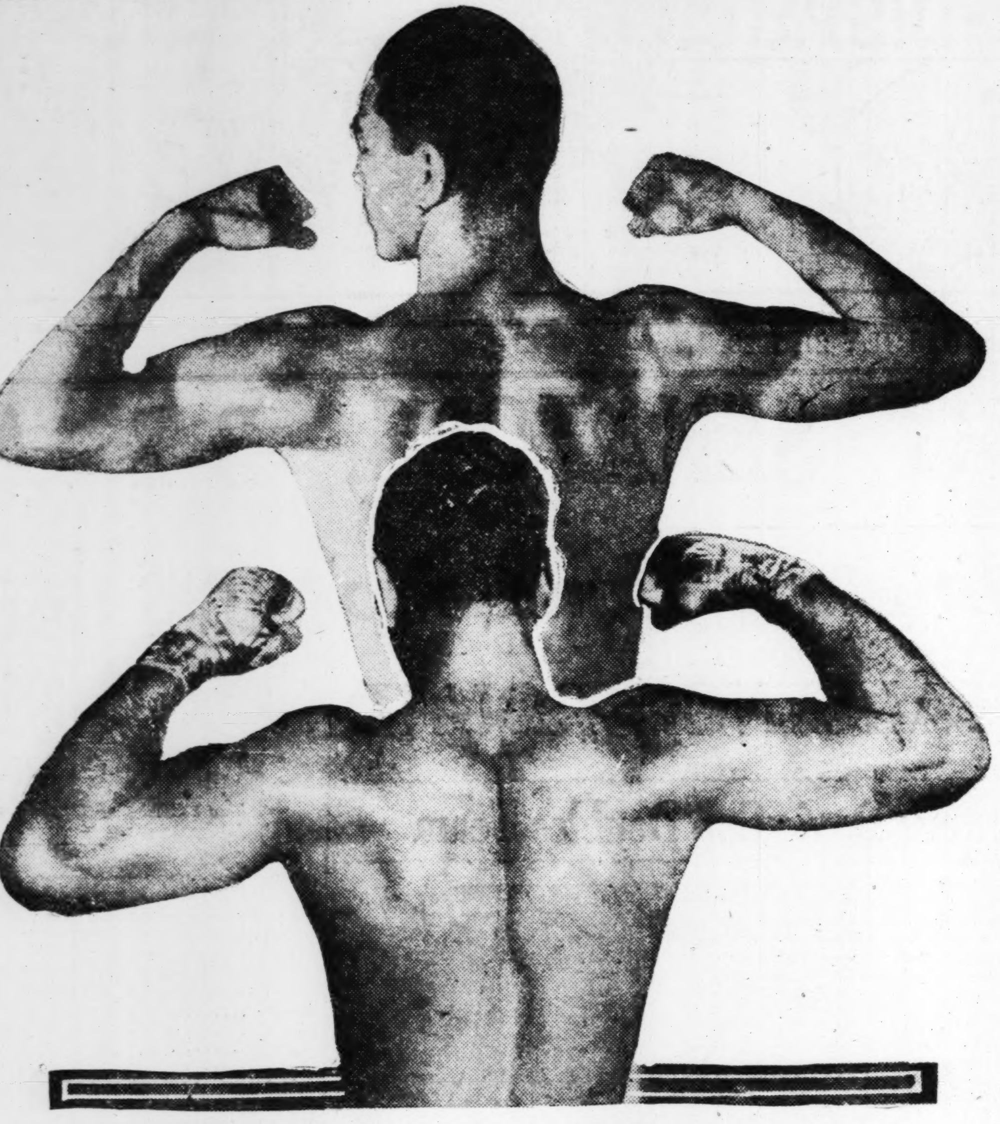
Schmeling is a great worker and is sure to advance. Being in good hands and gaining confidence in himself, he ought to be a really formidable fighter in a short time.

His display at the Battery will be of four rounds duration. Reports from other cities describing Schmeling's exhibitions indicate that he cut loose vigorously in them, as did Heller, neither sparing his mate. At Detroit a crowd of 11,000 persons gathered to watch Schmeling show his wares, and gave him a great ovation.

Promoter Tippett reported last night that an unusual advance sale here had been recorded and that the South Side has been liberally represented in the early ticket buying.

Besides Schmeling's exhibition, a card of fairly good fights has been arranged with Peewee Kaiser in the leading role against Chico Cisneros. Kaiser is fresh from knocking out Paul Steadman.

The German and U. S. Jack Dempseys Compared



The "power plants" of these two fighters, as shown above, indicate that Dempsey's (the lower) was somewhat more formidable than that of his German rival. Dempsey's shoulder, upper arm and forearm muscles (particularly the last mentioned) surpass those of any other fighter in his class.

Five Clubs to Vie for Honors In Municipal Regatta, Today

By Damon Kerby

The eleventh annual regatta of the Municipal Rowing Association, to be held on the Mississippi River this afternoon, has drawn entries from five St. Louis boat clubs, and of the five, the Century Club has the most at stake.

The reason is that an "if" has developed in the Century crew's trip to the National regatta at Springfield, Mass., Aug 2 and 3. They will likely get the trip—if they win the regatta this afternoon. As one of the club members asked: "If we can't beat local competition, what's the use to go to the National?"

Although it had been decided that the races would be rowed one-half mile, upstream, the course may be changed to the regulation mile and a quarter, downstream, it was reported yesterday.

Interested persons pointed out that some of the crews would be at a disadvantage in rowing upstream, due to the fact that the current is faster in the middle of the river than nearer the bank. The crew nearest the shore would hold an advantage over the crews farther out in he stream.

Buoys Will Not Hold.

To overcome this, it had been planned to mark off lanes in the middle of the stream with buoys where the current would be about the same for all crews, but the water is too swift and the buoys won't hold, it was said. It probably will not be known until this afternoon whether the races will be upstream or down. In either case, the finish line will be opposite Bellerive Park, 5500 South Broadway.

Besides Century's first eight, only two crews are entered in the eight-oared race. St. Louis Rowing Club has entered this event, and the Century No. 2 crew, a fast squad of youngsters, also will compete. A bit of bad luck on the part of Century's first crew, such as picking up a crab or getting tumbled over by "rollers" from passing launches, would likely put them out of consideration for the Eastern trip.

Two former first crew men of the Century Club, Bill Buder and George Antrobius, will be back in their seats in the races after a two-weeks' layoff. Antrobius was out with boils while Buder suffered an injury in a workout about two weeks ago. Both are expected to be in top condition.

To make room for them in the first shell, Harold Smith, who has been rowing at No. 2, Antrobius' position, will go to No. 4, taking Armond Foster's place, and Buder will row at his old position, No. 3, which was taken care of by Capt. John Bokel during Buder's layoff. Bokel will row at No. 5, relieving Jim Meyer.

Five Clubs Are Entered.

Boat club's entered besides Century are Western Rowing Club, North End Rowing Club, Central Rowing Club, and St. Louis Rowing Club. The races will be rowed at half hour intervals, starting at 2 o'clock. A grandstand is available for spectators which affords a view of the course. There will be no admission.

The eight-oared event will be rowed first. Then will come the single scull, four-oared, doubles, and barge events. According to the scoring system, a first place in the eight-oared event and four-oared race would insure victory for a club in the regatta.

Artie E. Eilers will be official starter.

'RABBIT' ASKED TWO-YEAR TERM AS BOSTON PILOT

BOSTON, Mass., July 20.—Judge Emil Fuchs today, without consulting Walter Maranville, announced that he was making the Rabbit manager of the Braves for its western road campaign, starting tomorrow night and that he, Judge Fuchs, would make a scouting trip, accompanied by Johnnie Evers, who in the past has been acting manager.

Maranville, after the game conferred with Fuchs and offered to accept the management provided he were given a two-year contract. This the Judge declined to give and so the Rabbit in turn declined to accept officially the temporary management.

"I have not made anyone manager," Judge Fuchs told newspapermen tonight. "However, I have to make this scouting trip and I want Evers with me, so Maranville and Gowdy will have to direct the team while it is on the road."

Maranville explained he did not wish to accept the job "on trial" for the rest of the season, but would be willing to make a two-year contract his trial.

It is common gossip here in baseball circles that Fuchs is tired of Evers as acting manager and it is suggested he would like to see the club on the road without him.

U. S. COMMITTEES TO COMPLETE PLANS FOR 1932 OLYMPIC GAMES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Los Angeles and Lake Placid (N. Y.) Olympic commitees are authorized to proceed with plans for the 1932 games, as a result of a mail vote taken by the executive committee of the American Olympic Association, completed today. They will have full power to make physical arrangements until the quadrennial meeting of the association in November, 1930, when the new American Olympic committee will be organized.

GIANTS AND PIRATES SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Giants pushed the Pittsburg Pirates out of first place in the National League today by splitting a double bill with the Buccaneers. Pittsburg won the first game, 5 to 2, but the Giants reversed the decision in the second, 8 to 4. The result put the Pirates three points behind the Chicago Cubs, who won two from Brooklyn.

Burleigh Grimes got credit for his sixteenth victory of the season in the first game, although he had to leave the fray in the seventh inning with an injured hand. Both of the starting pitchers in the second game failed to last, but the relief work of Mays and Petty featured.

Melvin Ott hit his twenty-sixth home run in the second contest and Travis Jackson got his eighteenth. The Waner brothers played the leading roles for Pittsburg, scoring four of their five runs in the opener.

22 CHICAGO YACHTS RACE TO MACKINAC

CHICAGO, July 20. — Twenty-two sailing craft, beams awash in the gentle roll of Lake Michigan, were plowing their way toward Mackinac Island tonight in the twenty-second annual racing classic of the Chicago Yacht Club.

The vessels put out into the open lake from the Van Buren street gap at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and were expected to complete their cruise in approximately 72 hours, if the wind holds. The distance is 331 miles.

Among the entrants is the Karas brothers' "Q" class sloop Siren, racing division winner for the past two years, and one of the favorites in this year's competition.

Schambach Meets Hamamoto.

LUTHER SCHAMBACH and Togo Hamamoto meet today in a 36-hole match over the 18-hole municipal links in Forest Park for the championship of the Forest Park Golf Club. Schambach was runner-up to Clarence Wolff in the St. Louis district championship tournament recently, but lost out in the elimination tournament for the six places on a team to represent St. Louis in the national public links tournament which is to be held here next month, while Hamamoto made the team.

The match today will be 18 holes in the morning, starting at 9 o'clock, and 18 holes this afternoon, starting about 1:30 o'clock.

The best field of local golfers to play in a tournament this year is expected to compete in the St. Louis open tournament at Bellerive Country Club Friday. The contest will be 36 holes of medal play, 18 in the morning and 18 in the afternoon. Entries so far number 75 and include Jimmy Manion, Normandie, present St. Louis open champion; Clarence Wolff, last year's runner-up; Elliott Whitbread, Missouri amateur champion; Clarke Morse, Missouri open champion, and practically all of the professionals of the district.

Walter Kossman, St. Clair Country Club, winner of three pro-amateur tournaments here so far this season, is an entrant and the way he has been going this year indicates that he will have to be reckoned with for the title.

Three out-of-town players have filed their entries. They are J. Marti, Robert Williamson and M. H. Jordan of the Madison County Country Club, Madison, Ill., and J. L. Dobson, professional of the Springfield Municipal Links, Springfield Mo.

As the name of the tournament, "St. Louis Open" indicates it is open to any golfer, professional or amateur, desiring to compete.

It was announced yesterday that the Bellerive course would be open Monday for entrants in the tournament to practice, and that only on that one day would the course be open.

A silver cup is to be presented to the winner, but it will have to be won three times, not necessarily in succession, to become an individual's property.

Coff and O'Brien Win.

CLARENCE COFF, Westborough professional paired with Chester O'Brien of Westborough, defeated Luther Schambach, Forest Park, and Clarence Amos Westborough in a recent best ball match 3 up over the Westborough course. Par for the course is 72. Coff shot a 71, O'Brien a 73, Schambach 74 and Amos 76. Schambach and Coff each had two birdies while Amos and O'Brien each played one hole in a stroke under par.

Crystal Lake Country Club, Bopp and Clayton roads, is conducting an interesting experiment in providing private club golf at moderate cost. It has a sporty 18-hole course, which is only a year old. The fairways of course need age to put them in the best condition, but its greens generally are in fine condition. Winter rules are played now.

There are about 300 members in the club now and it is expected the number will be increased to about 400.

By doing away with some of the attactive but unessential features of a country club, Crystal Lake has managed to hold its initiation to a minimum and dues to $5 per month.

Wyndham Munro is the club professional.

Another new course in the district is Hillcrest on Lemay Ferry road. Hillcrest had trouble during the early part of the season on account of high water but its course is now in good condition. Homer Herpel is the professional there.

Winter Rules at Westborough.

IN an effort to preserve its fairways, Westborough has decided to use winter rules at all times. The idea seems to be effective for fairways are in splendid condition.

Entry blanks for the Union Printers' International golf tournament held in connection with the annual baseball tournament are now available and may be secured from Sam Stigall, Post-Dispatch, golf committeeman for St. Louis. The golf tournament this year is to be held at the Avalon Country Club, near Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 26 to 29.

There will be four 18-hole rounds played, one each day. The system which has been used heretofore will be employed. Play the first day will decide the classes of the players while the score for the full 72 holes will be totaled to decide the winners in the various classes.

No entry fee to the tournament is charged but there will be a greens fee of $7 each for the four days.

WRAY BROWN WINS VALLEY TENNIS TITLE SIXTH TIME

By Davison Obear

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., July 20.—St. Louis tennis players figured in four of the seven Missouri Valley titles decided on the courts of the Independence Lawn Tennis Association here yesterday and today. When the tournament opened on July 15 St. Louis was represented by 19 players.

Wray D. Brown successfully defended his title in the men's singles when he won from Gustave H. "Junior" Boehmer in straight sets, 6—2, 6—1, 6—1 in the finals. As a result of his victory, Brown gained permanent possession of the Missouri Valley singles trophy. He won the first leg on the trophy in 1927 at Omaha and the second in St. Louis last year.

Brown in Another Victory.

The Missouri Valley sectional all doubles event was won by Brown and Harris Coggeshal, the Des Moines star. This combination won their third doubles title in defeating Teddy Eggmann and Junior Boehmer in this year's play.

Melicent Endicott and Lottie Hagemeyer came through in the women's doubles. They won from Mae Ceurvorst, Wichita, and Rosamond Lamb, Okmulgee, Ok., in the deciding round.

The Missouri Valley Junior doubles title went to Junior Boehmer and John McDiarmid, the Fort Worth, Tex., player.

Although not winning the title, St. Louis players reached the finals of the women's singles, girls' singles and junior singles. Miss Endicott losing the final of the women's singles to Miss Ceurvorst, 6—2, 6—2, while Merciena Weiss lost to Rosamond Lamb in the girls' final, 6—4, 6—3.

Melicent Endicott and Forrest C. Stuckman won the invitation mixed doubles from another St. Louis team, Lottie Hagemeyer and William Martin Jr. The match required three sets, the score being 2—6, 6—3, 6—2.

Coggeshal Defeats Coen.

In a special exhibition match Harris M. Coggeshall, Des Moines, defeated Wilbur F. Coen Jr., of Kansas City, 6—4, 6—4.

Following the singles exhibition a miniature inter-city match on neutral grounds was played between Dr. Frank Diekniete and Wray Brown, St. Louis, against Joseph W. Ivy and Junior Coen, Kansas City. Score was 7—5 in favor the St. Louis team, only one set being played.

the doubles final against the Chicago combination of Fred Royer and George O'Connell. The coast pair today trimmed Kirk Reid of Cleveland, and Pare, 9—7, 6—4, 9—7. Royer and Jennings reached the finals by an 8—6, 4—6, 6—1, 1—6, 6—2 victory over Leroy Weir and George Jennings, also of Chicago.

Miss Zinke and her partner, Ruth Oexman, reached the final of the women's doubles, but had trouble with Mary Zita McHale, of Dallas, Tex., and Miss Bailey. The scores were 6—1, 5—7, 7—5. They will be opposed by Mrs. Ruth Reise, Saginaw, Mich., and Mrs. Barbara Duffy, Cleveland, who today defeated Ruth Willard and Mrs. Louise Hofmeister, of Chicago, 6—2, 6—2.

Toledo Poloists Win.

SPORT SALAD
by L. C. Davis

The Real Reason.

WHY blame the Red Birds' pitching staff
For their lamented slump?
Ha! Ha! Ho! Ho! It is to laugh,
Because it was the ump!

Why blame it on the batting eye,
When in the slough they sink?
The pesky umpire is the guy
Whose sight is on the blink.

Why charge it up to Lady Luck
And say she has no heart?
Because the umpire is the duck
Who dumps their applecart.

In point of fact the team is not
To blame in any way;
The ump's the guy who should be shot
Just at the break of day.

Looks That Way.

The very fact that slump of the Red Birds has been charged to nearly everything but the umpiring shows that there is a sinister influence at work somewhere. The old game ain't what it used to be.

Any time that the umpiring isn't responsible for at least 50 per cent of a ball team's bad showing it is evident that there is too much rubber in the ball and not enough in the necks of the customers who used to stretch a point to give the ump what was coming to him.

And why not? The umps expected it and if they didn't get it they asked for it. And they always got it.

Therefore, we say, give credit where credit is due. Is it reasonable to suppose that a team that won the pennant one year would suddenly go all to pieces the following year unless the board of arbitration had entered into a plot to grease the skids for them? We ask you.

However, it's a long lane that doesn't end somewhere. Sometimes it ends in Pennantville and sometimes in Disaster.

And this time our ticket doesn't seem to be punched for Pennantville.

See where "Chuck" Klein wasted three home runs in one game against the Cubs. "Chuck" is considering an offer to go into vaudeville this fall to be starred in a sketch entitled, "The Punch that Failed."

"$20,000 Is Paid by Indians for Southpaw."

On the other hand he may not be worth a whoop.

A burglar in ransacking a Back Bay home in Boston came across a copy of Shakspeare and two bottles of pre-war rye. When the family returned they found the burglar on the sofa reading "A Midsummer Night's Dream with two empty bottles of Green River by his side. They chucked him in the hoosgow and gave him "A Comedy of Errors" to read.

In other words you've got to rubber to make your question mark in the world.

Do not be an oaf or lubber
Crash into the game and rubber.

By J. Roy Stockton

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

BOSTON, July 20.—Southpaw Ed. Brandt baffled the Cardinals this afternoon while the Braves bombarded Jess Haines for eight hits in two and one-third innings and the Redbird winning streak of three in a row was broken, Boston taking the second game of the series, 5 to 1. Brandt gave four bases on balls and the Cards had numerous chances to cut down the Boston lead, but they hit into four double plays to make it easy for the southpaw.

The defeat was the thirteenth of the trip for the Cardinals against seven victories, with two more games remaining before they journey home. Regardless of the outcome of tomorrow's double-header it will be the most disastrous road campaign for the St. Louis National League club in five years.

Hafey's double and Roettger's single gave the Cardinals the first run of the game in the second inning, but the Braves tied the score in their half. Bell singled to left and was forced by Cooney. Maguire singled to right, sending Cooney to third, and Spohrer's singled tied the score. Brandt's single to left filled the bases, but Richbourg forced Maguire at the plate on a grounder to Bottomley and Haines struck out Maranville to end the inning.

Haines Batted From Box.

Haines was not so fortunate in the third inning. With one out he walked Harper and Bell and Cooney singled to left, scoring Harper, and Maguire singled to left, scoring Bell. Spohrer then dropped a triple near the left field line, scoring Cooney and Maguire.

Fred Frankhouse relieved Haines and held Spohrer on third while he retired Brandt and Richbourg but the Braves didn't need any more runs.

Frankhouse pitched four and two-thirds innings and held the Braves to one hit and Sylvester Johnson, who hurled the eighth after Frankhouse retired for a pinch hitter, gave only one safety.

Braves' Fielding Is Brilliant.

The Braves played brilliantly in the field to help hold down the Cardinal hit total. Freddie Maguire made several spectacular stops at second and Maranville was a cat on line drives and grounders.

Southworth's men hit safely in five innings and in four of these frames, the Braves turned double plays. Maranville started two of them and pivoted at second in one of the others.

Redbird Notes.

CLARENCE MITCHELL and Bill Sherdel will pitch the double header here tomorrow, with Bob Smith and Socks Seibold likely to work for the Braves. The games will conclude the campaign on the road and the Cardinals will depart tomorrow night, arriving in St. Louis early Tuesday morning to open a series with the Phils in the afternoon.

Judge Emil Fuchs, owner of the Braves, will not accompany the Braves on their Western trip. He will do a bit of scouting and Rabbit Maranville will manage the Braves.

President John Heydler of the National League was a spectator today, interested in the effect the rubbing of the baseballs with soil would have on batting and pitching. Slow games, caused by the pitchers' poor control, caused the reinstatement of the order requiring the umpires to rub the baseballs before the games, Mr. Heydler said.

Douthit Starts With Double.

Each team booted a chance to score in the first inning. Douthit led off with a double to left, but High popped out and Marnaville made a good catch of Frisch's low liner and started a double play.

Richbourg started the Boston half with a walk and Maranville singled, but Sisler hit into a double play and High threw out Harper.

The first game tomorrow will start at 2:05 o'clock and with the state law prohibiting play after 6 o'clock, no inning will be started after 5:45 o'clock.

Maguire made a spectacular back-handed stab of Frisch's hot grounder in the third and threw him out.

Double Played to Death.

With one out in the fourth, Hafey singled and went to third on Roettger's safety, but Wilson hit into a double play.

Roettger tried for a shoestring catch of Cooney's fly in the fifth and when he missed Cooney reached third, but overslid the bag and was out, Roettger to Frisch. The official scorer's decision that Cooney was entitled to a triple was questioned.

The Cards turned an easy double play in the sixth. Spohrer walked and Brandt, bunting, thought the ball was foul. Jimmy Wilson whipped to Gelbert, who relayed to Bottomley and then Brandt learned that Umpire Jorda had ruled the bunt fair.

Wattie Holm batted for Frankhouse in the eighth and doubled to center and Douthit walked, but High forced Douthit and Frisch hit into a double play.

KLEIN AND O'DOUL HIT HOMERS; PHILS BEAT REDS TWICE

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—Frank O'Doul's home run, his 20th of the season, gave the Phillies a 3 to 2 10-inning victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the second game of the double-header today after the Shottonmen had slugged their way to a 9-4 conquest in the opener.

O'Doul's line drive broke up a thrilling mound duel between Claude Willoughby and Eppa Rixey, it being forced into 10 innings before the Phillies could capture it and make a clean sweep of the three-game series.

Willoughby held the Reds to five scattered hits, while Rixey was nicked for 12, but splendid fielding kept the runners from getting home.

Four Red flingers were badly jarred in the first game, which saw Chuck Klein swat his 29th home run of the season.

BOB GROVE WINS NO. 16, MACKS INCREASE LEAD

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 20.—Bob Grove, the league's ranking pitcher, hung up his sixteenth victory of the season, against two defeats, as the Athletics took their third straight game of the series with the Tigers here today. The score was 6 to 2 and the defeat dropped Detroit to fifth place in the standings.

Loose fielding was a major factor in Detroit's defeat. An error, an infield out and a sacrifice fly gave Philadelphia a run in the third and Johnson's misplay of Simmons' fly let in two more in the fourth.

Grove struck out eight Tigers and six of Mack's men fanned. Manager Bucky Harris of the Tigers made his first appearance of the season in the field, replacing Gehringer, who was hit by a pitched ball in the first inning.

The Macks increased their first-place margin to nine and one-half games as Cleveland broke even with the Yankees.

British Varsity Net Team Beats Harvard and Yale

By the Associated Press.

NEWPORT, R. I, July 20.—The visiting Oxford-Cambridge tennis team gained its second consecutive Prentice Cup victory here today when the Harvard-Yale forces were defeated, 15 matches to 6, in a three-day battle on the turf courts at Newport Casino.

The American net men were able to hold their own in the singles play, winning six of the 12 contests, but were overwhelmed by the smooth team work of the British pairs who won each of the nine doubles encounters.

The Crimson-Blue team trailed seven matches to two when play was resumed this morning, but they waged a stubborn battle and captured four of the six singles. The Britishers needed but two of this afternoon's matches to clinch the victory, which they did without any delay.

The Prentice Cup, first put into play in 1925, has been won but once by the American collegians. The British players gained their first leg on it in 1927. The combined teams have staged seven biennial tourneys, four of which have been won by Oxford-Cambridge.

SULLIVANS WILL MEET KUHLMANNS TODAY IN HORSESHOE FEATURE

In the feature match of today's schedule in Division No. 2 of the Municipal Horseshoe League at Fairgrounds Park, the leading Sullivans will meet the Kuhlmanns while the Rinie Dutch Boys meet the Henninger Flingers in the other match. The Morgans drew a bye.

The Sullivan-Kuhlmann tilt should be closely contested. The last time these teams met the Sullivans gained the verdict, 10 to 6. The Kuhlmann Tossers have been going at top speed lately and the best match of the season should be the result.

The standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Sullivans	81	15	.844
Morgans	75	34	.688
Kuhlmanns	42	63	.400
Rinie Dutch Boys	36	73	.330

GOLDMANS WIN FIRST GAME OF TITLE SERIES

The Goldman Juniors, city champions of American Legion junior baseball, defeated the University City team, county titleholders, by the one-sided score of 18—3 yesterday at Heman Park on Olive Street road. The contest was the first in a two-out-of-three series to determine the team to represent the St. Louis district in intersectional play.

Followers of the University City nine said it did not perform up to standard and the game was rather a rout for the county boys.

Goldman players had a total of 14 stolen bases in the nine innings and the box score shows they scored in eight frames. They belted Pitcher Feldman hard and that hurler finished up the game playing right field, with Meisel moving to the box. Butts of the winning nine knocked a home run. Each side had three triples in the battle.

Pitcher Schnurman of the Goldmans fanned three batters in the eighth inning.

The teams will met again Tuesday at Sportsman's Park prior to the Cardinal-Philadelphia game and the winner of the series will play the survivors of the Springfield-Joplin district here to determine the State championship. The State winners will compete with champions of Iowa, Kansas and Illinois for the title in District No. 5. Tuesday's game at Sportsman's Park will begin at 12:30 o'clock.

JUDGES FOR STATE KENNEL SHOW NAMED

SEDALIA, Mo., July 20.—The sixth annual Missouri State Fair Kennel Show will be held here at the twenty-ninth annual Missouri State Fair, August 17-24, Secretary W. D. Smith announced today.

Judges of the show were announced today by Director L. S. Magill of Richmond. John W. Burton of Chicago will judge all breeds and all variety groups. G. R. Perkins of Wichita, Kan., will judge the winner of "best in show" from the winners of the five variety groups.

didn't do that in the fourth, fifth and sixth. In the last of the seventh McGowan singled and after Manush popped out, Schulte walked, but West turned in a fine catch of a drive by Kress to right center and O'Rourke fanned furiously.

A Washington hit, coming after two were out, was wasted in the eighth. In the last half the Browns did the same thing under similar circumstances.

Neither team got a man on in the ninth, but in the first of the tenth Myer doubled with one out. He reached third on an infield out, and remained there when Cronin flied to Schulte. Kress led off for the Browns with a single and, after O'Rourke was out, advanced to second on a hit through the box by Brannon.

The chance was ruined when Ferrell hit into a double play. With two on and two out in the last of the eleventh, Schulte was called out on strikes.

Then the twelfth and the winning run for Washington.

Second Also Pitchers' Duel.

Ogden and Burke took up where Collins and Marberry had left off and the second game became another of those infrequent spectacles—a fight between pitchers.

Washington took the lead in the first because, after Boss and Rice were out, "Goose" Goslin cleared the right field pavilion with a homer.

Burke made no such slip and, for the first five innings, held the Browns to a single hit. Ogden was just about as good for, from the second to the sixth, inclusive, he had permitted only two other hits for a total of three.

With two down in he last of the sixth, McNeely singled to left for the second hit off Burke and Manush doubled off the screen to send him to third. A pass to Schulte filled the bases and when Kress walked, McNeely came in with the tying run. O'Rourke left the bases full when he flied to Goslin.

West Also Hits Homer.

The tie was broken when, with two down in the seventh, West planted one in the right center seats, the ball missing the protective screen by about 10 feet. Hayes doubled to left but Burke struck out for the third time.

Brownie Notes

Oscar Melillo will not go away with the team tonight but expects to rejoin it before the journey is over. No bones were broken in his right-hand little finger.

Marberry pitched four innings Thursday and was back again yesterday in the opener. Marberry, a big chap, known as "Firpo," is the "Burleigh Grimes" of the American League—always willing to work.

The combination of a single, a double and two passes seems a lot of effort to produce only a single run but, in the Browns' first of the first game, Manush was thrown out at the plate which explains it.

Collins in Traffic Jam.

Collins got in a bad traffic jam in the second but promptly pitched himself out of it. It was this way: With one out, Tate and Cronin singled and West walked. Naturally, the bases were filled and they stayed that way while Collins struck Hayes out and tossed Marberry out.

Good plays around first are usual with an artist like Lu Blue, but he made a stop of a drive by Sam Rice, in the third inning, that will long be remembered. Especially by Rice, who lost a single thereby. In the seventh, he robbed Boss of a hit by a barehanded grab behind first.

Five men faced Collins in the third and every man reached first. Three were thrown out at second.

Goslin's single in the fifth was a grounder to Blue which hopped over Lu's head. Two were out at the time and Myer, who followed, was No. 3.

West's Decision Overruled.

In the sixth, West tapped the ball and it landed just in front and to the right of the plate. He umpired for himself and called it "foul" but when Ferrell touched West, Umpire Moriarity waved him out. The ball was plainly fair.

That first game saw some fine fielding by the Browns. Blue, at first, had five assists, an unusual number while Collins, handled 10 chances. In all, the Browns handled 59 chances without a slip.

The second game marked Ogden's first appearance as a starting pitcher since May 30—nearly two months.

Goslin's homer hit the pavilion roof and skidded into the air like a "skipper" on the old mill-pond. It was a line-drive not a fly ball.

Ferrell caught both games. Wallie Schang will get back into action as soon as the team hits the road.

In the first four innings, the Senators made only two hits off Ogden which was exactly twice as many as the Browns made off Burke.

Washington is only club in either league to have three southpaws who work regularly. Johnson depends on Braxton, Burke and Brown to take their regular turns.

Two Brownies saw first in the first five innings. O'Rourke singled in the second and Blue walked in the third. Neither advanced.

Doeg Victor Over Mercur in Final Of Longwood Play

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 20.—John H. Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., defeated Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., 10—8, 6—4, 8—6, in the final match of the thirty-seventh annual Longwood Bowl tennis tournament here today.

By his victory Doeg gained a second leg on the trophy, having first won in 1927.

The only other player to gain two legs on the cup is William T. Tilden II.

In the doubles Mercur paired with J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., to defeat Bradshaw Harrison, San Bruno, Cal., and Kenneth Appel, of South Orange, N. J., 6—8, 6—0, 6—4, 6—2.

In the women's doubles, Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper and Miss Josephine Cruickshank, both of San Francisco, defeated Mianne and Sarah Palfrey of Brookline, in straight sets, 8—6, 8—6.

CUBS CAPTURE DOUBLE BILL FROM ROBINS AND TAKE LEAD

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, July 20. — The Cubs took the top rung of the National League standing today by a double victory over Brooklyn, while the Pirates were breaking even with the Giants. The pitching of Guy Bush and Fred Blake gave the new League leaders the victories by scores of 6 to 5 and 4 to 1.

Bush had to go 10 innings in the opening encounter for his 13th victory of the season. An error followed by two singles put Watson Clark on the losing end of the mound duel. After granting four runs in the first inning Bush did not allow another hit until the seventh.

The Cubs scored all their runs off Johnny Morrison in the third inning. A succession of short hits with a pair of walks composed the rally. Buzz McWeeny finished the game for Brooklyn.

Hack Wilson hit a single in each game, bringing his consecutive hitting streak up to 27 straight games.

GASTON'S ERROR GIVES WHITE SOX A GAME; SHIRES HITS AGAIN

CHICAGO, July 20. —Milton Gaston bluffed a throw to second with the winning White Sox run on third today and Boston lost its third straight game here when Cissell scored on the error, 4 to 3. Ed Walsh Jr., was the winning pitcher. he was out-pitched by Gaston, who yielded only five hits, only one of which was made after the Chicago team had counted three tallies in the first inning. Cissell was on third and Shires on first when Gaston dropped the ball faking a throw to second to get Shires. There were two out when the error occurred.

Art Shires got two hits to extend his string of games in which he has bit safely to 19.

DISTRACTION TAKES YONKERS HANDICAP, EVENING SCORE WITH VALKYR

IMPROVED COLT WINS BY LENGTH UNDER J. BURKE'S PERFECT RIDE

By Orlo L. Robertson,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Distraction, the Wheatley Stable's much improved 4-year-old colt, added his name to the illustrious roster of Yonkers Handicap winners today as he won the 1929 renewal from a small but classy field at Empire City race track.

Over a fast track that was much to his liking, Distraction reversed the decision of last Monday, when G. A. Cochran's Valkyr beat him to the wire. Today, however, the Wheatley Stable color bearer was at his best and under J. Burke's perfect ride won in a drive by a length. Valkyr was second, defeating her stablemate, Healy, by four lengths for the place.

Although the Cochran entry went to the post the favorite, there were plenty of believers in Distraction, because of his excellent work the first part of the week. Away to a good start, Distraction broke on his toes and Burke let him step along, with Valkyr trying vainly to keep the pace. But Distraction soon raced the Man o' War filly into the round and with Burke using the whip freely in the stretch, stepped out to cover the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46. The victory was worth $5170 to the Wheatley Stable.

Light Carbine, I. B. Humphrey's imported son of Galloper Light, was out to put his name on the honor role for the second time, having won the event as a 4-year-old in 1927, but he finished along with Princess Tina in the also-ran group.

YANKEES AND INDIANS SPLIT DOUBLE-HEADER

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, July 20.—The Yankees dropped to a point 9½ games behind the league leading Athletics today by dividing a free hitting double header with the Indians. Cleveland won the first game 8 to 4 behind the good pitching of Joe Shaute and the Yankees batted out an 11 to 6 decision in the second.

The champions started hitting late in the second contest. Landing on Miljus for a five run rally in the seventh inning. They continued against Hudlin and Shoffner for 16 hits. Fred Heimach did some fine relief pitching for the Yankees after he replaced Sherid.

In the first game Johnny Hodapp, Cleveland second baseman handled 16 chances, falling one short of the modern record. Babe Ruth appeared in the second game as a pinch hitter and struck out.

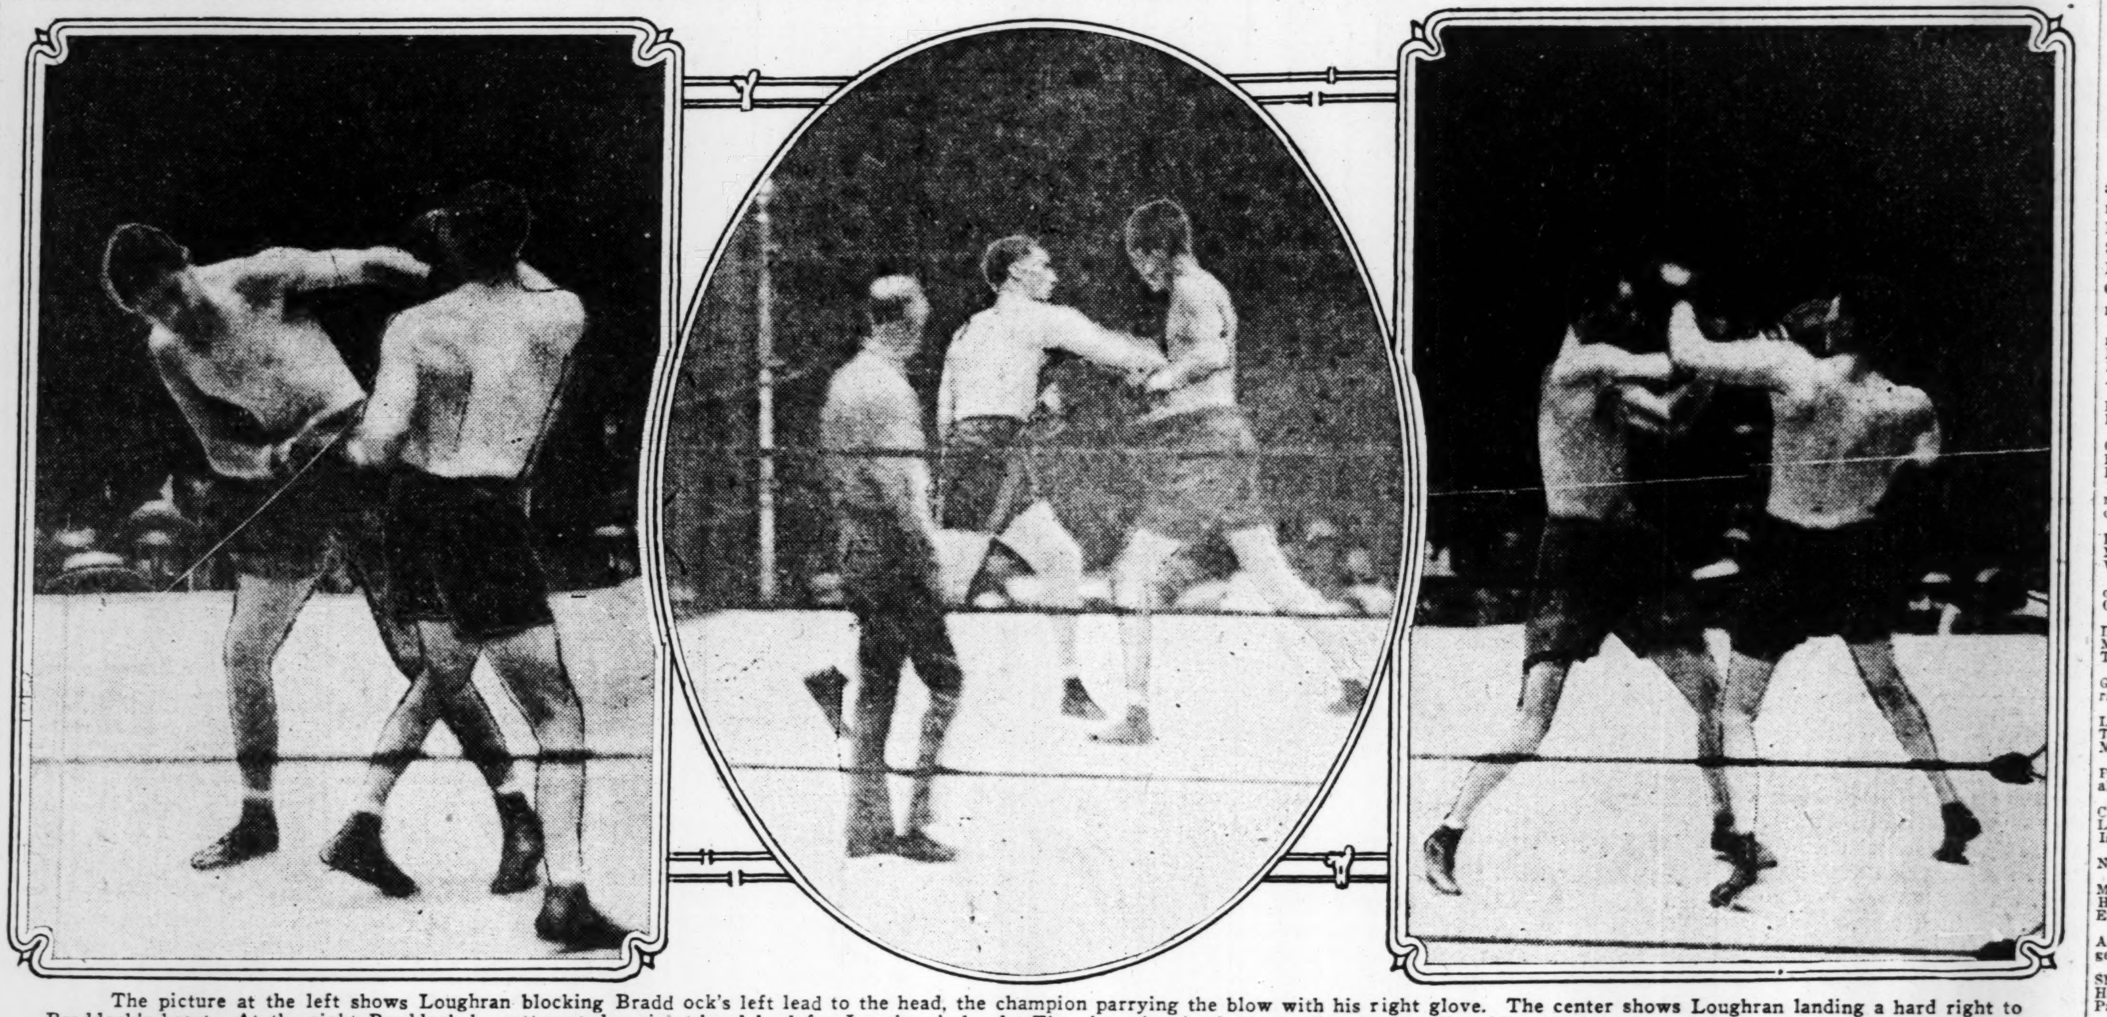
Action Snaps of the Loughran-Braddock Fight, Showing Why the Champion Won



The picture at the left shows Loughran blocking Braddock's left lead to the head, the champion parrying the blow with his right glove. The center shows Loughran landing a hard right to Braddock's heart. At the right Braddock has attempted a right-hand lead for Loughran's head. The champion is shown leaning back and avoiding the punch, at the same time starting a left-hand cross-counter for Braddock's head. Loughran completely outboxed Braddock throughout, as these pictures indicate.

Barney Benson of the Indian Polo Club, on Blue White, won the inaugural race to determine the fastest local polo pony yesterday at Forest Park. The races, each at 600 feet, will be scheduled weekly, in preparation for the National Horse Show to be held here in the fall.

J. W. McIlvain of the Missouri Stables, on Caterer, was second; Marcus Musick of the Missouri Stables, on Pinto, was third and Don Sharp of the American Polo Club, on Little Fellow, was fourth.

There were 13 horses entered in the event and Benson was presented with a trophy in token of his victory over the field.

DOWN the STRETCH

By Melvin D. Fulcher

THE victory of Misstep, the fleet racer from the stable of the Le Mar Stock Farm, in the rich Arlington Handicap yesterday, demonstrated that this horse is now at the top of his form. He ran the mile and an eighth in 1.50 2-5, a new track record, and covered the first three quarters in 1.12 and the mile in 1.37 3-5. Osmand was the one to force the issue.

Misstep's trainer, Mose Lowenstein has been a fairly fortunate man in the opinion of many horsemen.

In 1920 he brought the three-year-old Paul Weidel to the races and after defeating everything he met in Kentucky the colt continued his triumphal campaign in Canada and was about as useful a racer as any owner would want.

Fairmount Racers Win.

ULUNIU, the racer which went so well at Fairmount, beat the best field he has ever beaten when he scored in the fourth race over Prince Pat, Francis Milward and Paul Bunyan, running a mile in 1.38 flat, which places him right up with the speediest horses at the track.

Racing got under way at Bainbridge and two Fairmount favorites Germaine Chauvelot and Sport Dress scored victories. The latter showed an excellent performance, running a mile and a sixteenth in 1.45 and beating some good platers.

Salvator, the celebrated turf writer, whose signed stories sometimes appear in the Daily Racing Form, has written a very able essay on the "Lure of Racing." It was written for the Fasig Tipton Co., of New York. This organization conducts the big thoroughbred sales at Saratoga. To a lover of the thoroughbred it is a classic.

Rulings Draw Criticism.

THE tendency of the stewards at the Empire City meeting to deliberate over the result of a race before making it official as soon as possible has met with sharp criticism from some of the turf writers.

Perhaps the most unexpected ruling ever made by stewards on an Eastern track was that made following the victory of Over There in the Lawrence Realization in 1919, when they disqualified that racer and gave the race to H. P. Whitney's Vexatious.

It was charged that Over There, with C. Fairbrother up, had come over too sharply on his field when making his move at the far turn of the main Belmont Park course and had seriously interfered with Vexatious. At the finish, Over There was many lengths in front and under restraint and although the charge of interference was denied by Fairbrother, it was the grounds for the disqualification being made nearly 10 minutes after the race had been run.

It almost killed Trainer William Karrick, who had wired his boss, W. R. Coe, who was at his Wyoming ranch in the Shoshone Valley that his horse had won the $18,000 prize. When the disqualification was announced Karrick was busily engaged in cooling his horse out in the paddock and at first thought someone was "kidding" him.

MANUSH DROPS FROM BATTING LEAD TIE WITH JIMMY FOXX

With double headers along most of the line yesterday, only two members of the Big Six were able to better their batting averages. Rogers Hornsby added three points to his former mark of .360 by hitting four times in nine attempts. While Mel Ott lifted his mark the same distance to .327 with three out of six. Heinie Manush slipped out of his tie with Jimmy Foxx for the lead by hitting but once in nine tries. He went down to .381 while Foxx dropped to .386. Babe Ruth got in the game only as a pinch batsman and struck out.

SINGER'S QUEST WORKS FOR PILGRIMS AND MAKES 13 BATTERS FAN

Joe Singer pitched the Naps to their tenth straight victory in the Senior Employed Division of the Municipal Baseball League yesterday, permitting no hits and no runs. His team easily defeated the Hogans, 15 to 0. Singer failed of a perfect by walking one batter. The victory assured the Naps the title in their circuit.

Wilbert Quest of the Pilgrims was not far behind Singer in his work. He permitted no hits but his mates' three errors gave the Independents one run, in the Evangelical North Side Junior loop. Quest struck out 13 and issued three passes to first.

The Kroemekes increased their hold on second place in the Commercial League by winning two games. The Bakers were 8 to 5 victims in the first game, while the Sunshines lost, 10 to 4.

Trautwein, the pitching sensation in the Evangelical South Side Senior division, pitched five-hit ball against Nazareth to help the Ebenezers win, 22 to 4. Ebenezer committed a number of miscues that were responsible for Nazareth's scores.

WAIKIKI TANK STARS WILL SWIM FOR YALE

HONOLULU, July 20.— Yale's swimming team will get two valuable additions this fall with the registration this year at the New Haven institution of "Buster" and Bud Crabbe, two of the leading swimmers in the Hawaiian Islands.

"Buster" tried out for the 1928 Olympic swims on the mainland. They are as well known on Waikiki Beach as any of the beach boys.

MEHLHORN WINS METROPOLITAN OPEN WITH 288

By the Associated Press.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., July 20.—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, who was not wild today, played a great round of golf when he needed it to win the Metropolitan championship with a 72-hole score of 288. A magnificent achievement over the difficult Lido course, hard by the sea and subject to the vagaries of every wind that blows from the bounding surf.

To slip in ahead of Wilfred (Wiffy) Cox, a brilliant, but somewhat erratic pro from Brooklyn, Bill played his final round in 68, giving him a three-stroke edge. Cox had previously compiled a highly creditable 291 for the four rounds.

Cox, who shares the honors of the competition with Mehlhorn, placed himself in the forefront of the picture in the third round this morning when he covered the 18 treacherous holes of the Lido course in 67 strokes, a new course record. It developed when Metropolitan Golf Association officials disqualified Arthur D. Potter, who reported a score of 64 yesterday.

Mehlhorn had a great chance to tie the record which clipped three strokes from performances of 70. Two, by MacDonald Smith, and one each from Bobby Jones and Jack Forrester. Bill came up to the home hole needing a par four for 67, but he fell a victim of his putting nemesis which had not raised its head until it was too late to do him any appreciable harm. Well on the green with a great No. 1 iron shot, his approach putt went 10 feet past the cup and he missed coming back.

MacCarthy Leads Amateurs.

Henry Ciuci finishing with a great 70, slipped into third place with a score of 294 and Leo Diegel and Jim Barnes tied for fourth at 298. Bracketed at 300 were Gene Sarazen, MacDonald Smith and Craig Wood.

Maurice McCarthy Jr. led the amataeurs with a total of 302. Mike Brady and Bobby Cruickshank tied for tenth place with scores of 304.

Jock Forester, the tall Scot, had the unenviable experience of scoring 70 and 71 in each of two rounds and fishing out of the money. His other rounds were liabilities instead of assets, 81 and 84 and a total of 306 was too much. "It's a strange golf course,' said the Jersey pro, "where a man can take a 70 one day and an 84 the next."

25 Boxers Enter A. A. U. Tourney

With 25 boys entered, the third annual Western A. A. U. junior boxing championships will be held Friday night at the open-air Flori-Olympian Arena, 3547 Pine street. Matchmaker George Wilsman predicts that the final entry list will show the names of more than 50 amateur battlers.

Eddie Barth, coach of the boxers at the Knights of Columbus gymnasium in East St. Louis, yesterday entered Ed Boxley, one of the best amateurs in this district, in the bantamweight class. Boxley, runner-up to Dan Durso, senior Western A. A. U. bantamweight champion, recently scored a triumph at the expense of the titleholder.

Two entries have been received from Gillespie, Ill. They are Tom Chioleri, a bantamweight, and Elmer Willis, a lightweight. Additional out-of-town entries are expected to be sent in early this week. Boxers in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Southern Illinois are eligible to compete in the junior tournament.

In the heavyweight class, Carl Holst, formerly of Germany, stands out as the best bet. Holst, who started boxing when he arrived in this country two years ago, takes daily lessons from Kid Bandy. Al Bott, East Side representative, is expected to furnish Holst with some real opposition, however.

Mike Sansone's younger brother, Joey Sansone, is entered in the featherweight division. Joey, though only a new comer, shows a great deal of promise and should cause the older boys some trouble.

Among the welterweights are Herbert Kramze of St. Louis, and Bob Forhan of East St. Louis. Earl Keer, a Flori-Olympian, is one of the candidates in the flyweight division.

THREE GAMES TODAY IN UNIVERSITY CITY MUNICIPAL LEAGUE

Three games are scheduled today in the University City Municipal League. In games at Heman Park, the Hartys will meet the University City K. of C. nine, and the C. A. C. team will oppose the St. Louis County Bank. Starting time is 1:15 and 3:30. At Williams' Field, the Hellrung and Grimms will clash with the Uniteds, at 2:30 o'clock.

WILLIE GARNER FINED $100 FOR ROUGH RIDING

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 20.

WILLIE GARNER'S efforts to bring Osmand home first in the Arlington Handicap today cost him $100.

Garner was charged by the stewards with rough riding, and the fine imposed immediately after the race.

Two other jockeys were severely disciplined. Larry McDermott was set down for the remainder of the meeting for a careless and indifferent ride on Voltear yesterday, and L. Pichon was indefinitely suspended for a questionable ride on Blanc Seing, July 15. Since then Blanc Seing has won two races and placed in another.

MRS. HILL BEATS MISS TURPIE TO KEEP T.-M. TITLE

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., July 20.—After making a spectacular comeback in the closing stretch of her match with Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, defending champion, Miss Marion Turpie, New Orleans golf stylist, saw her efforts go for naught on the 37th hole, where she lost the women's trans-Mississippi golf championship here today.

The Louisiana woman was four down as she stepped to the tee at the 23d. There she began a game and courageous stand that was climaxed on the thirty-sixth green by a 13-foot putt, enabling her to square the match. Five consecutive fours from the 23d put her only one down as they went to the final nine.

Mrs. Hill, who now holds two consecutive Trans - Mississippi championships, became two up at the thirty-first when her opponent's putt for a half rimmed the cup and curled away. Miss Turpie pared the advantage at the thirty-third by a beautiful 40-foot putt for a birdie four.

The Kansas City player was two up again at the thirty-fourth when she chipped out of a sand trap dead to the pin and was down in par four. This put the New Orleans girl dormie two. She won the thirty-fifth when Mrs. Hill missed her putt for a half and she squared the match by iron nerve on her putt at the thirty-sixth.

The match had an inglorious ending. Going to the extra hole Miss Turpie put her second shot into the rough at the left and her third caromed off a water hose and gave her a hanging lie just off the green. In pitching out she failed to get any loft and her ball sped across the green and rolled into a bunker. Mrs. Hill played the hole in par five.

Mrs. Hill played steadily from the start of the tournament and today's final 18 holes constituted the first round in which she went into the eighties during match play.

It was Mrs. Hill's second consecutive victory in the championship.

HILL CLIMB CONTEST FOR MOTORCYCLES IS SCHEDULED TODAY

A motorcycle hill climb contest will be held this afternoon at Hilgert Hill, on Missouri Route 30, five miles south of Fenton, Mo. It will be sponsored by the American Motorcycle Association and will be open to both professionals and amateurs. The contest will start at 2 o'clock.

WASHINGTON U. PLANS TO PLAY NIGHT FOOTBALL

Night football games will be introduced in St. Louis, this fall, Washington University having scheduled two of its contests — those with Drake on Oct. 12 and with Drury on Oct. 26—at Francis Field after dark. The opening game of the season with Illinois College also may be played at night.

Washington has been considering the night plan for some months, according to Arthur E. Eilers, business manager of athletics, but decision to play them was only recently made after an investigation showed that colleges who had tried the innovation had found it successful from a financial and the spectator's standpoint.

Washington officials expect that the playing of the games at night will draw greater crowds and that the weather will be more suitable for the game especially in the early part of the season. Eilers pointed out that Drake University had proved the plan successful, a night-game with a small college having exceeded in receipts those of a day-game with Notre Dame.

The installation of the lighting plant which consists of giant floodlight projectors and 25 lights will cost Washington $5000, it is estimated.

Present plans call for the playing of the Carnegie Tech, Missouri and St. Louis games in the daytime but, if night football proves a success most of the 1930 schedule may be played under artificial light.

The 1929 schedule, one of the most attractive the Bears ever have participated in is as follows:

Oct. 5.—Illinois College at St. Louis.

Oct. 12.—Drake University at St. Louis.

Oct. 19.—Grinnell College at Grinnell.

Oct. 26.—Drury College at St. Louis.

Nov. 2.—Carnegie Tech at St. Louis.

Nov. 9.—Missouri University at St. Louis (Homecoming.)

Nov. 16.—Kansas University at Lawrence.

Nov. 28.—St. Louis University at St. Louis.

E. ST. LOUIS MUNICIPAL BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Winners of the inaugural games of last Sunday are to pair off this afternoon for the two features on the East St. Louis Municipal League's second half split season program on the Jones Park diamond.

The Slacks and Hinderbergers meet in the most promising tilt on Field No. 2, while the Zerwicks oppose the Polish National Alliance in the other feature on Field No. 3. The Westcotts meet the Pennsylvania on Field No. 1 and the Circles oppose the Stenzels on Field No. 5.

Today's attractions will whittle the number of undefeated teams to two and only nine contests will remain to be played. The Circles won the first half and thus qualified to meet the second half winners in a post-season series for the 1929 championship.

Mrs. Raymond Winner.

RYE, N. Y., July 20.—Mrs. Ruth Raymond of Baton Rouge, La., toda captured the women's invitation golf tournament at the Westchester-Biltmore Club by defeating Mrs. Hazel Martfelle of Hartford, Conn., 1 up, in the 18-hole final match.

Ted Drewes and Bill Bascom Win Doubles Title

By Glenn S. Hutchinson.

Ted Drewes and William Bascom, representing O'Fallon Park, won the municipal doubles championship for the second successive year yesterday. As a result of winning the title, Drewes and Bascom will play in the National Parks tournament to be held in Buffalo, starting Aug. 19.

Drewes and Norton defeated Robert Norton and Harry "Hap" Schaberg, also of O'Fallon, in the final, 6—0, 2—6, 6—2, 4—6, 6—3. Sidney Norton and Schaberg got to the final by defeating Smith any Joyce Portnoy of Forest Park, 8—6, 10—8, 8—6, earlier yesterday afternoon.

Drewes Friday won the singles title for the eleventh time.

25 Matches Played in "Class A" Tournament.

Twenty-five matches were completed yesterday in the Class "A" tournament held at the Jefferson Memorial courts in Forest Park. This tournament was a week late in starting because of rain and the conflicting championship tournament which was concluded yesterday. All first round matches must be completed today or be defaulted. Some second-round matches are also scheduled for today.

Yesterday's Results.

St. Louis Residents Spending Summer At Eastern Resorts

Vacationists Have Varied Interests at Watch Hill, Newport, Magnolia, Bar Harbor and Other Places.

WATCH HILL, R. I., July 20.

MISS ALICE FRANCIS, St. Louis, is the guest of Miss Mary Betts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Betts, St. Louis, at their summer home at Watch Hill. Following her visit at the Hill, Miss Francis will join her parents Mr. and Mrs. David R. Francis at Rye Beach, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betts, St. Louis, are spending the week-end at West Hampton, Long Island, N. Y., where they are guests of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Skidmore.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Overall, St. Louis, will arrive next week at their cottage at Watch Hill to remain until the close of the season.

Col. Joseph Gilman Miller and Mrs. Miller are at their summer home, Wildroot, Watch Hill. Col. Miller has returned to St. Louis for a few days, but will be at the Hill shortly to remain until September. Mrs. Fitzhugh Turner and Miss Finney, St. Louis, are guests at the Miller cottage and next month Mrs. Hayward Gatch and her three children, Katherine, Caroline and Hayward Gatch Jr., are expected for a visit with Mrs. Gatch's parents.

The women's championship tournament of the Misquamicut Golf Club was held this week with many of the cottagers participating, among them Miss Frances Shinkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, St. Louis.

Gov. Henry S. Caulfield of Missouri attended the Governors Conference at the Hotel Griswold, New London, Conn., this week. On Monday night a dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ferguson at the Fishers' Island Club. Thursday afternoon several navy ships in the harbor were inspected and in the evening the Governors and their wives were guests of the Bridgeport Chamber of Commerce at the Brooklyn Country Club, Bridgeport.

RYE BEACH, N. H., July 20.

MRS. GEORGE L. ALLEN and two daughters of St. Louis are at the their summer home at Allen's Corner for the season.

Dr. and Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd of St. Louis arrived this week to spend the remainder of the season at the Farragut House.

Wayman Allen of St. Louis is domiciled at his summer residence near Allen's Corner. Mr. Allen is one of the ardent golfers here and almost daily can be seen on the links of the Abenaqui Golf Club.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Lansing Ray of St. Louis are again occupying the Farragut bungalow. Mrs. E. G. Burkham of St. Louis, mother of Mrs. Ray, is also here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Hill and family of New York, formerly of St. Louis, are again occupying Green Gables for the summer months. Mr. Hill is president of the exclusive Beach club.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Kotany are among the latest members of the St. Louis colony to arrive at the Farragut House.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Papin of St. Louis are at their cottage on the Central road.

Rye Beach is represented by a strong baseball team this season. To date the team has lost only one game. E. Lansing Ray Jr. of St. Louis, who was a member of the Princeton freshman team the past spring, is playing on the team.

Play in the annual club championship golf tournament for the Crocker Cup at the Abenaqui Golf Club is expected to begin next week with the qualifying round. Wayman Allen of St. Louis is regarded as a strong contender for the cup this year.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 20.

The summer colony has devoted its time during the past three days to the international intercollegiate tennis tournament at the Newport Casino. Among the box holders were Vincent Astor, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons, William Henry Vanderbilt, Princess Miguel de Braganza, while among those who had umbrella seats were Admiral and Mrs. William S. Sims; Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean of Washington and Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen, whose son, William Van Alen, is a student at Oxford and has just returned for a summer at Newport. There has been much entertaining at the villas for the English players.

George Tiffany Jr., St. Louis, will be at Newport the middle of August to serve as an usher at the wedding of Miss Lily Dulany Cushing and George Crawford Clark Jr. The wedding is to take place at Trinity Church.

Mrs. William S. Sims, formerly Miss Hitchcock of St. Louis, gave an informal reception at the Newport Art Association quarters

Mrs. S. S. Pingree of St. Louis, has as her guest Mrs. R. E. Taylor, the sister of Mr. Pingree.

Miss Dorothy Bemis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Bemis, arrived early last week. Her parents are expected to arrive next week for the remainder of the season.

Mrs. Palmer Clarkson, daughter of Mrs. C. J. Kirby, is visiting her mother at the Belvedere. Mr. Clarkson will join his family for the month of August.

John P. Materne and his daughter, Cornelia will arrive this week at the Belvedere Hotel.

Mrs. James Richmond Ingham of Buffalo, formerly Miss Florence Leland of St. Louis, is with her mother, Mrs. F. A. Leland, at their cottage. Mr. Ingham will join his family after he returns from a camping trip in Canada. His small son, James Junior, is with his mother.

Preliminary steps in preparation for Charlevoix's fourth annual Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association sanctioned regatta were taken at a meeting of the Charlevoix Boat Club at Charlevoix Yacht Club.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 2, 3 and 4, were set for the regatta. This is the week end prior to the Michigan Riviera Tennis Championships and the opening event of a program to be carried out through the month of August. Following the Riviera tournament is the Charlevoix open golf tournament.

WEQUETONSING, Mich., July 20.

PRACTICALLY all of the cottages at this resort are occupied and reservations at the hotel presage a busy summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. McCluney and family are occupying their summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holland have opened their summer home for the season, and will entertain guests during the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Eaton and family arrived early last week and have their summer home ready for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clifford have joined the St. Louisans who have opened their summer homes.

Among the other St. Louis people occupying their summer homes are: Mr. and Mrs. J. O. King, Mrs. Minerva Carr, her daughter, Mrs. William L. Nichols; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wil-

Mr. and Mrs. A. Siegel, 1483 Clara avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Fay, to Maurice Cohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Cohn, 1454 Laurel place.

Miss Isabel Dougherty, 5141 Spalding avenue, entertained at a supper last Sunday evening in honor of her sister, Mrs. Emmett P. Feely. Mrs. Feely was formerly Miss Myra Jean Dougherty, her marriage having taken place on June 26 at the Blessed Sacrament Church, the Rev. Father Bradley officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Feely have just returned from a honeymoon in Colorado. Covers were laid for 20 persons at the supper.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Lenore Starke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Pryor Starke, 1444 Semple avenue, and Neil Mills of Denver, Colo. The news was told at a bridge luncheon given yesterday by Miss Helen Ruel, 51 Aberdeen place. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Eleanor Olliges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Olliges, 3332 Belt avenue, and Samuel Wade Greaves Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Greaves of the Adlon Apartments. The news was told at a bridge luncheon given by Miss Olliges at the Westborough Country Club.

Miss Olliges is a graduate of the Rosati-Kain High School. Mr. Greaves is a graduate of the Air Service Balloon and Airship School at Scott Field, and is a Lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps. He is a member of the Missouri Athletic Association. The wedding is planned for next winter.

Guests at the party were Miss Edith Greaves, Miss Dorothy Greaves, Mrs. C. L. Le Vander, Mrs. Esther Quigley, Miss Emily Housman, Miss Dulcy Barton, Miss Rose Marie Munsch, Mrs. Eugene Shuster, Miss Bernice Ruhr, Miss Katherine Burns, Miss Ruth Masson, Miss Katherine O'Rourke, Miss Ann O'Neil, Miss Rosemary d'Arcy, Mrs. E. E. Murphy and Miss Florence Shelton.

A quiet home wedding, which will take place at 11 o'clock this morning, will be that of Miss Faye Frommel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Frommel, 1149 Walton avenue, and William Schoenfeld. The guests will include only relatives and a few close friends. Among the out-of-town guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Martin H. Frommel, uncle and aunt of the bride, from Orlando, Fla.

Miss Flora E. Schlemeyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schlemeyer of Hermann, Mo., and Charles C. Smith, of St. Louis, were married July 14 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland A. Wade, 2337 South Tenth street. Mrs. Wade is the mother of the bridegroom. The Rev. Charles Guenther of the Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church officiated, and a reception followed. The celebration also included a birthday party for the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith departed that evening for a wedding trip through the East.

Weddings and Engagements

An engagement of interest in St. Louis is that of Miss Martha Ann Reed, daughter of Mortimer P. Reed, South Bend, Ind., and Harold Udell Michaels, son of Mrs. John F. Michaels, 5145 Maple avenue.

The prospective bride frequently has visited Miss Jane Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Allen, 2010 Longfellow boulevard. They were classmates at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., and were graduated the same year. Mr. Michaels is a graduate of Washington University. The wedding will take place Saturday, Sept. 7, and Miss Allen will be a member of the bridal party.

With the return of the yachts of the Eastern Yacht Club from their annual cruise along the coast to Islesboro, society at the North Shore turned to matters intellectual and charitable, attending in considerable numbers the current events lectures of Mrs A. J. George on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; the garden party of the Women's Republican Club at Mrs. William H. Coolidge's on Thursday and the annual fair for the benefit of the Episcopal Church at Hamilton on Tuesday.

The great topic among yachtsmen of the North Shore is the remarkable showing of Girard B. Lambert's schooner Vanitie in the recent races, especially that with the Resolute for the Puritan Cup. Many are wondering if she can be outbuilt by any contender in the trial races for an America's Cup defender. The cup race will be held next year in response to the challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton. Both the Vanitie and the Resolute are elegible for the trials, although the Vanitie's rig would have to be altered slightly to conform to the rules.

One of the interesting features of the Eastern Yacht Club cruise was the presence on the Vanitie of Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, who was the guest of Girard B. Lambert. Secretary Adams sailed the sloop part of the time, relieved by his son, Charles Francis Adams Jr., and by the owner, Mr. Lambert.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fox Steedman, St. Louis, have arrived at their summer home, the Longworth estate at Mingo Beach, Prides Crossing, where they will spend the remainder of the summer. Their daughter Miss Medora, is expected to visit them for a few days before leaving for Europe with friends.

Miss Eleanor Knapp, St. Louis, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Powell, Chicago, at Blue Spruces, Bass Rocks.

Mrs. Arnold Stifel and her children, St. Louis, are occupying the cottage at Hesperus and Lexington avenues, Magnolia. With Mrs. Stifel is her mother, Mrs. William D. Orthwein, also of St. Louis.

Miss Helen Ulman, St. Louis, has arrived at the Oceanside, Magnolia, where she is to conduct classes in auction and contract bridge through the summer.

Mrs. John S. Lionberger and family, St. Louis, have arrived at their summer home at Marion.

Mr. and Mrs. William Caleb Sipple and daughter, Miss Anne Sipple, St. Louis, have joined the summer colony at Hyannisport.

Also at Hyannisport for the summer are Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sheldon, St. Louis. Their daughter, Miss Kathleen, is entertaining Miss Jane Messick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Messick, St. Louis.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 20.

The Navy Department has assigned the destroyers Richmond and Cincinnati to Bar Harbor for the first week in August for the annual international maritime tennis tournament. The British vessels expected to be here are the Capetown and the Champlain. These tournaments were established soon after the World War to continue the friendships formed during the war among the officers of the two navies.

J. Pierpont Morgan's yacht Corsair was anchored in Frenchman's Bay, Bar Harbor, during the week, while Mr. Morgan was the guest of friends in the colony.

Miss Susan Mayo Ladd, St. Louis, has arrived at Bar Harbor for her annual visit and is registered at the St. Sauveur hotel for the season.

Mrs. Ephron Catlin and her daughter, Mrs. Arthur B. Shepley, St. Louis, are at their cottage on Rock End Road, Northeast Harbor, Mount Desert.

Mayor John Lodge and his sister, Miss Harriet Lodge, Detroit, Mich., uncle and aunt of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, are making their annual visit at the Poland Spring House, Poland Spring. In the library at Poland is a large photograph of the Spirit of St. Louis, which bears the inscription "Flying Over Poland, Me., July 25, 1927." This is signed by Col. Lindbergh, his mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Land Lindbergh, Miss Harriett Lodge and Mayor Lodge.

Mrs. J. B. Shapleigh and her daughter, Miss Margaret Shapleigh, St. Louis, are stopping at the Poland Spring House, Poland Spring.

liams, and children, Billy and James; Mr. and Mrs. Monroe H. Rodemeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Wells and daughter, Miss Julia Wells.

HARBOR POINT, Mich, July 20.

MR. AND MRS. BERTRAM B. CULVER and family are occupying their summer home.

Felix Gunter and family have established their home for the summer. It has a delightful view of the bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles White Scudder and family are residing at the clubhouse for the summer.

Among others who are residing at this delightful resort are: Mrs. Charles F. Bates and family; Elias Gatch and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Shapleigh Boyd and family who have Mrs. J. Percival Phelan as a guest.

ROARING BROOK, July 20.

THE quietness of Roaring Brook away from the main road and high above the bay, has attracted many people from the South. While this resort is smaller than most of those in this section, the Inn and cottages are near to the golf courses, tennis courts, stables, and docks that dot the country from Harbor Springs down through Charlevoix.

Among the guests at the Roaring Brook Inn, are the following St. Louisans: Mrs. H. Bohnsock and sister Miss Sharp. Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Clark.

Occupying cottages at Roaring Brook for the summer are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McIntyre and Mr. and Mrs. James Waterworth of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gidionsen, 3955 Wilmington road, have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Oliver T. Reilly of Chicago, whose marriage took place in Florida last month. Mr. and Mrs. Reilly are on their way to California and will also stop at their ranch in Casper, Wyo., before returning home. Many informal parties are being given in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Bruce, 4942 Potomac avenue, have returned from a visit of several weeks in the East.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton White House Guests

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.

THE President and Mrs. Hoover are almost the only midsummer residents of Washington, who continuously entertain house parties and give dinners and luncheons, the temperature having nothing whatever to do with the extent of their hospitality.

Even for them, however—and their invitations are equal to commands as official etiquette goes—expectations cannot always be fulfilled. Short notice invitations were extended this week to the Federal Farm Board members and their wives to attend a dinner at the White House, but it was found that all of the appointed members, hurrying to the capital to meet at the White House, had left their wives at home or in summer resorts.

However, Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, ex-officio member of the board, Mrs. Arthur McCalla Mac Arthur and her sons, Bowman, Douglas and Malcolm MacArthur, with former Representative and Mrs. Cleveland A. Newton of St. Louis, house guests, and Herbert Hoover Jr. and Allan Hoover, sons of the host, rounded out the party.

Later in the week, Robert A. Taft, elder son of the Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft, and his wife, who was Miss Martha W. Bowers of Washington, were entertained.

Major-General and Mrs. George Barnett, the former commandant of the Marine Corps during the World War, also are entertaining extensively and there is what amounts to a waiting list of those who want to be guests. Their estate, "Wakefield Manor," at Huntley, Va., is an ancient one and one of the most beautiful in the Old Dominion. There every week end they have from 10 to 20 guests.

They ride, walk, swim, play tennis and otherwise amuse themselves. Of course there is music and dancing as Mrs. Barnett, though a grandmother, is one of the most active women at the capital. Last week she gave the members of the Washington Arts Club a description of her presentation at the British court, giving the same line of amusing gossip she previously gave the Women's National Press Club—gowns, folks, manners and amusing sidelights.

Religious-Board To Move.

The Board of Religious Organization will move its offices from the Victoria Building to rooms 809-10-11 Plaza-Olive Building.

Picnic of Parents-Teachers.

The Rose Fanning Parent-Teachers will hold its annual picnic Friday at ground No. 3 Carondelet Park.

Children Entertained At Catholic Farm

A NUMBER of young women are spending the summer entertaining the children at the Catholic Outing Farm, Florissant and Gilmore avenues. Last week the group included Miss Betty Jane Jack, Miss Elizabeth von Phul Keeler, Miss Virginia Farrell, Miss Marie Martha O'Neill, Miss Alice Widmer and Miss Virginia Wilson. In addition, some friend of the farm donates ice cream for the children. Last Friday the donor was Mrs. E. C. Dodge.

This week Miss Susie Belle Lynch will replace Mrs. W. Douglas Henderson, who has been hostess at the home for the past month.

Miss Lucille Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Harris, 7278 Northmoor drive, is visiting in Detroit preceding her departure for the East where she will spend several weeks. She will resume her studies at Washington University in the fall.

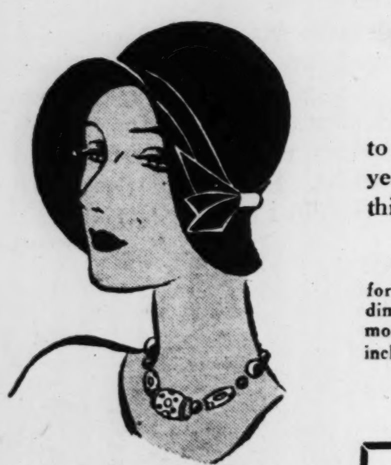
The "Joan of Arc"



The Felt Hat That Leads the Advance of Fall Fashions

It's half a thousand years since the gleaming helmet of the Maid of Orleans flashed its inspiration of victory on historic fields of France. And now a noted French designer, Marie Alphonsine, has drawn a new inspiration from that storied helmet—not in shining steel, but in softest, finest felt—a hat that will find favor with leaders of fashion.

This Hat, a copy of the original, is in black felt with a metal ornament at the side. It may be copied in any of the new shades at..................$17.50

FUR COATS

"with style predominating"

It behooves every woman who anticipates the purchase of a Fur Coat this Winter, to buy now. This event is our value-and-style feature of the season. We ask that our patrons compare our values with those offered anywhere, as we believe this to be the greatest group of Fur Coats we have ever presented—at the lowest prices we have ever quoted.

Style plus value is the keynote of this marvelous collection. A style presentation of domestic and imported Parisian models.

THE luxuriousness of the furs, the clever way they have been handled by stylists, their adaptability in expressing the current mode distinguish these garments. The new treatments of collars and cuffs with straightline, part and full flares—away-from-the-face effects—convertible cape shawls—half-shawl, Paquin and Jenny interpretations indicate their newness and chic. Never before, it would seem, have designers utilized rich peltries as subtly as this season for the new, yet softened silhouette.

Lindbergh Plane on Horse Show Ribbons

COL. CHARLES LINDBERGH'S famous airplane, "Spirit of St. Louis," will be reproduced on a bronze shield on each of the ribbons to be awarded to prize winners at the St. Louis National Horse Show which will be held this fall at the New Highlands' Arena, Manager Elmer L. Music announced today.

The championship awards are of exceptional beauty, the shield being surrounded by a large pleated rosette of blue, yellow and red silk ribbons, and carrying three long streamers.

On two of the outside streamers in gold letters appears the word, "Champion," while the middle streamer will designate the class.

Following the usual custom there will be four ribbons for each of the regular classes. A blue ribbon will be given for first prize, red for second, yellow for third, and white for fourth.

ST. LOUIS ART SHOWN IN OLD COURTHOUSE

Summer Exhibition Includes City, State and Local Museum Groups.

The rotunda of the "Old Courthouse," brightened with paintings by artists of St. Louis, presents a new appearance to the public.

A group of works from the permanent collections of the City Art Museum w installed yesterday on the ground floor of the rotunda.

The interesting collection of pictures interpreting St. Louis scenes, acquired by the Chamber of Commerce through "purchase prizes" in exhibitions of St. Louis art, has been installed in the first balcony, as the nucleus of a panorama of St. Louis interpreted by her artists. The effect thus secured with the circular arrangement is striking.

The State of Missouri is to be represented by a group of paintings acquired by purchase prizes from the annual exhibition at the Missouri State Fair, for which a collection is made up each year by the Art League of St. Louis. The State pictures with others are expected to arrive within a few days.

The Art League has covered the rotunda wall on the ground floor with burlap, to get a suitable background for the art works, and in the balcony is hanging the pictures against the painted walls from a molding.

The paintings lent by the City Art Museum include works by Oscar E. Berninghaus, Richard Miller, Frank B. Nuderscher, Tom P. Barnett, Frederick Green Carpenter and Edmund H. Wuerpel. The Chamber of Commerce collection includes other paintings by Berninghaus, Nuderscher and Barnett, and also examples by Kathryn E. Cherry, E. Oscar Thalinger, Paul F. Berdanier and Paula Fenske.

The Kansas City Institute of the Fine Arts has sent a picture by William Bauer which received the "most popular painting" prize at a recent Artists' Guild exhibition. Washington University contributes a portrait of Robert Brookings by William V. Schevill, another prize painting.

The old courthouse summer exhibition is being made up of works which have been accorded honors by the juries of exhibition and institutions in recent years, and most of the examples, therefore, are borrowed from the permanent collections of institutions and other owners.

The initial display at the Old Courthouse will continue for several weeks. The St. Louis Art League has undertaken to maintain displays until the fall, when the jury terms of the courts still occupying the building will begin. It is suggested that the public may find the new development in the Courthouse an attractive feature of downtown St. Louis and an appropriate use for the monumental old structure, in which case more extensive exhibitions may be provided in the near future.

A retrospective exhibition bringing forward the culture of old St. Louis, another "Scenic Charm of Missouri" display, and a general showing of all available forms of meritorious art production in the present-day St. Louis, said to be more extensive than is usually supposed, are among the larger collections talked of for the near future, when the courts will remove to the new building on the Twelfth street plaza. A display of municipal art and advancement also is projected, with the City Plan Commission's downtown river front improvement plans as the central feature.

ADVERTISING CLUB PARTY LEAVES TUESDAY

75 St. Louisans Will Go to Montreal, Then Sail for Tour of Europe.

Seventy-five St. Louisans will entrain at Union Station Tuesday midnight for Montreal, whence they will sail Friday morning for Liverpool in a tour of Europe arranged by the Advertising Club of St. Louis.

The tour will include the convention of the International Advertising Association, to be held in Berlin Aug. 12 to 15. R. Fullerton Place will head the St. Louis party as chairman. George M. Burbach will be vice chairman and George E. Gayou, tour director.

On the way to Montreal, the party will stop in Detroit Wednesday afternoon for a sight-seeing tour as guests of the Detroit Advertising Club. On Thursday, the St. Louisans will be luncheon guests of the Advertising Club of Montreal and will visit historic spots in and around that city.

The European itinerary provides for four days in London, with a visit to Shakspeare's birthplace at Stratford-on-Avon, a day at The Hague and a day at Amsterdam prior to arrival in Berlin where the party will remain for five days in attendance at the international convention.

To Hear Dr. Einstein.

About 1500 delegates are expected to attend the convention from the United States and all the countries of Europe will be represented by large delegations. Dr. Hans Luther, former German Chancellor, is president of the convention. Others on the committee include Dr. Gustave Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, Dr. Boess, Oberburgomeister of Berlin, and Dr. Schacht, president of the German Reichsbank.

Among the speakers will be President Von Hindenburg of Germany and Dr. Albert Einstein, famous scientist. Two St. Louisans also are on the program. Burbach will address the newspaper section of the convention and Place will deliver a paper on "Local Radio Advertising."

After the convention, members of the St. Louis party will visit various other countries of Europe, returning to the United States early in September.

Members of the Party.

The personnel of the party follows:

John Ballard, 5388 Waterman avenue; Lyman F. Barrows, 801 Boland drive; Miss Bertha Beuchel, 5035 Westminster place; Mr. and Mrs. George M. Burbach, 8 Southmoor; W. M. THOMAS T. ANDERSON FUNERAL SERVICES

Vice President of Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. Was Ill 15 Months.

Funeral services for Thomas Talbott Anderson, vice president, treasurer and a member of the board of directors of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., were held yesterday afternoon at an undertaker's chapel at 3621 Olive street. Interment will be made at his home town, Danville, Va., at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Mr. Anderson died Friday night at his home, 4399 McPherson avenue, following an illness of 15 months. Death was due to a complication of lung and heart ailments. He was 52 years old.

Following his graduation from Virginia Military Institute, Mr. Anderson went to work in the office of a tobacco company at Danville, center of the Virginia leaf tobacco market. He then went to New York with the American Tobacco Co. Later, as secretary of the American Cigar Co., he managed its affairs at Havana, Cuba, until coming to St. Louis in 1911 as one of the founders of the Liggett & Myers Co.

He also was a director of the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co. and the Boardwalk National Bank of Atlantic City. A member of the St. Louis Country Club, the Log Cabin, Racquet and Commercial clubs, he also held membership in the Hudson River Country Club of New York.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mattie E. Anderson; a son, Allan E. Anderson, and his father, Joseph B. Anderson of Danville.

POPE MAY WALK, NOT RIDE, IN EUCHARISTIC PROCESSION

Advisers Try to Dissuade Him, However, Fearing Effects of Heat and Exertion.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 20.—The Vatican city correspondent of Il Tevere has learned the Pope desires to participate in the Eucharistic procession on July 25 afoot instead of half kneeling and half seated on the podium, a platform of state carried by dignitaries, as hitherto planned.

It is intimated that attempts are being made to dissuade the Pontiff because even between 6:30 and 8:30 o'clock in the evening, when the procession will be held, the heat is considerable. The Pope will be clothed in heavy vestments incrusted with gold and will bear the host in a heavy monstrance, the transparent receptacle in which the consecrated host is shown to the multitude.

The Pontiff, however, insists that he will not be fatigued. His advisers still hope he will change his mind and not risk overexertion at 72.

Removes Freckles And Skin Blemishes

There's nothing better than ordinary mercolized wax to remove quickly and safely all complexion defects. Procure an ounce at any drug store and use as directed. At once the aged, faded, freckled, withered outside mask comes off in tiny powder-like particles, and the young, rose-like under skin is in full view. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To reduce wrinkles and restore facial contour, use as an astringent 1 ounce powdered saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel.

SHELL-SHOCKED VETERAN MISSING FROM SANITARIUM

Francis Noonan Committed to Institution After Trying to Rob Bank.

Francis Noonan, 37 years old, said to be a shell-shocked war veteran, has been sought by the police since Friday when he disappeared from the City Sanitarium to which he was committed last month by a Circuit Court jury. He is described as wearing a gray suit, blue shirt and blue necktie.

Noonan, a former inmate of a hospital for the insane in Ohio, tried to rob the North St. Louis Trust Co. last April 17 by presenting a note to a teller demanding "the large bills in neat piles." The teller sounded an alarm and Noonan was captured. At his trial, Dr. Willard Nelson, in charge of the Municipal Psychiatric Clinic, testified he was mentally irresponsible.

MAN AND GIRL ROBBED OF CASH AND AUTO IN PARK

Apparently Same Robbers, Using Car, Later Held Up Another Victim in Carondelet.

Alfred G. Hoppe, 429 North Euclid avenue, with a girl companion, was seated in a rented automobile across from Forest Park Highlands at 1:20 a. m. yesterday when two holdup men robbed him of $11, a wrist watch and a cigar lighter, and drove away in the machine.

Two robbers, apparently the same, driving in Carondelet Park 40 minutes later, held up Adolph F. Eickhorn, 3722 Tennessee avenue, taking a $50 wrist watch. The rented automobile was found in Forest Park several hours later.

STATE AUTO LICENSE OFFICE MOVED TO 1902 PINE STREET

Too Hot in City Hall Where City Plates Still May Be Obtained.

The State automobile license bureau, which has been quartered in the basement of city hall, was moved yesterday to 1902 Pine street, where it will open tomorrow. City automobile licenses will be obtained at city hall, as before.

The State bureau changed its locaiton because the heat from steam pipes leading by its old office made the place untenable in the summer. Caulfield asked for another office at city hall, but none was available. The rent for the new quarters will be $175 a month.

DAMAGES IN GRAVOIS WIDENING ATTACKED

Property Owners Charge Commissioner G. T. Kollas Is Interested Party.

Alleging that one of the three commissioners in assessing benefits and damages in the city condemnation suit for the widening of Gravois avenue east from Grand boulevard was not a disinterested freeholder, as required by the city charter, nine exceptions were filed by property owners in Circuit Judge Pearcy's court yesterday to the report of the commission.

They primarily attack the damage awards made in their cases as grossly inadequate and assert that much larger sums should have been allowed. They charge that one of the commissioners, George T. Kollas, 3542 Halliday avenue, a real estate and insurance agent, had no right to serve, since he was named as a defendant in the condemnation action as the title owner of property involved in the condemnation, for which the commission allowed damages. Because of his ineligibility the entire report of the commission, embracing 4487 typewritten pages in 10 volumes, is null and void, the exceptors aver.

Another technical objection sets forth that the condemnation petition itself was defective in that it failed to describe each parcel of property sought for the widening project. Other objections also are assigned.

Total of $1,984,722 Damages.

Otto G. Dietz and George W. Johnson served with Kollas on the commission. They were appointed three years ago by Circuit Judge Rosskopf and filed their report several weeks ago. They allowed 272 defendants, whose property will be taken, a total of $1,984,722.91, that sum being the damage assessment. To pay this the city was assessed $103,908.46 to come from bond issue funds and the remainder is to be borne by property owners in a so-called benefit district determined by the commissioners.

In the benefit district about 21,000 property owners were assessed on an average basis of 50 cents a front foot.

The project calls for the widening of Gravois from a 60-foot to a 100-foot thoroughfare and, instead of stopping at Eighteenth street and Russell boulevard, as it now does, the plans call for the extension of the street diagonally across several blocks to Twelfth boulevard and Geyer avenue. This will make a direct automobile route from Southwestern St. Louis to the downtown section.

$35,405 for Kollas' Property.

The property in which Kollas is interested is at the northwest corner of Grand and Gravois, title standing in the names of Carrie Laux, Kollas as trustee for August A. Busch, and August A. Busch individually. The commissioners allowed damages totaling $35,405 for this property.

The executors are Charles and Henry Lechner, owners of five parcels; Phillip Brenner, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Liesser, Walter G. Thielecke, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bothmann Jr. and Mary Hauser, all represented by Attorney Frank X. Hiemenz. A total of $52,000 was awarded to them.

G. William Senn, chief condemnation attorney, said the objection to Kollas would possess more merit if it had been made before the commissioners began their work. However, he said he had not yet had a chance to examine the full legal effect of the point raised. He said it might be shown that Kollas was simply a title owner as trustee with no beneficial interest in a division of the funds.

$115,000 Loss in Kansas City Fire.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, July 20.—Fire of undetermined origin early today swept through an entire block occupied by three large lumber companies and destroyed approximately $115,000 worth of sheds, equipment and lumber. Ten fire companies worked more than six hours to bring the flames under control. The greatest loss was suffered by the Lapsley-Baker Lumber Co. H. B. Lapsley, president, estimated its loss at $70,000. The Kansas City Hardwood Lumber Co. was damaged $30,000, and the Central Reserve Lumber Co. suffered a loss of approximately $15,000.

Gertrude Wood, contralto, is to be featured soloist with Maj. Bowes' Capitol Family in the concert from 5:30 to 7 o'clock over KSD. She has been a vaudeville headliner since childhood.

Miss Wood made her stage reputation under the name of Gertrude George. In private life she is Mrs. Leo Wood, wife of the song writer who wrote "Somebody Stole My Gal," "Honest and Truly," and "Cherie." Six years ago, Miss Wood appeared with her husband in one of the first radio sketches. It was written by Wood and was called "The Radio Widow."

Her program tonight will consist of Southern ballads and songs that appeal especially to children.

David Lawrence is to give his usual talk on "Our Government" from 7 to 7:15 over KSD.

Wilbur Evans, the young basso cantante who won the national radio audition in 1927, is to be the soloist in tonight's Atwater Kent concert at 7:15 over KSD. Chicago Plans Elaborate Radio Fight on Crime

Fleet of 250 Cars Equipped With Receivers and Short Wave Station to Be Used.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Police of cities which are unduly troubled with crime will watch with interest a comprehensive "radio crime detecting system" to be operated by the Chicago Police Department.

The Windy City's police have applied to the Federal Radio Commission for facilities. The plan calls for automobiles equipped with radio receiving sets to be stationed on street corners at intervals of eight blocks, some 250 of the cars within the city limits.

Plans have been outlined to the Radio Commission by an official of Chicago. He is reported to have stated that an appropriation of $150,000 had been approved by the Chicago City Council for the system, of which a large portion has been committed for the purchase of automobiles and equipment.

The commission is now in recess and has not considered the application for a short wave channel over which the crime detection and criminal apprehension system will be operated. It is a foregone conclusion, however, that it will be approved, since the commission has acted favorably on similar applications of other cities although these were not for so comprehensive a system as is planned by Chicago.

The "key" of the network, the commission was told, will be at police headquarters in Chicago. When a crime is committed, headquarters will broadcast over its transmitter to the police car stationed on the particular beat on which the offense was committed. Within a few moments the car should be on the scene since it will have an area of eight blocks, at the most, to cover.

According to the commission's informant, 150 autos and 50 precinct stations are now being equipped for the new service. It is planned to add 100 automobiles to the service next year for operation within the city proper. In the suburbs, a squad of 25 automobiles will be stationed, with a like number of precincts equipped.

The service will be operated on a channel in the continental short wave band. The Chicago Police

Motorists Find Good Roads, Pretty Scenery on 1600-Mile Tour of Wisconsin

Route Recommended by Auto Club Is Paved Half of Distance, Passing Through Milwaukee, Fond du Lac and Duluth, Minn. — Fishing, Swimming and Boating Are Popular Summer Sports.

By the Automobile Editor.

JULY heat, which makes St. Louis anything but a pleasant spot in which to spend the summer, is sending more and more persons out on the open road to seek vacations in cooler and northern states. A circle tour of Wisconsin, touching at many of the popular resort centers, makes an ideal vacation trip of two or three weeks.

In co-operation with George Drummond, manager of the Tour Department of the Automobile Club of Missouri, the Post-Dispatch has prepared a 1600-mile route that should meet almost every vacation demand. More than half of the distance is over paved roads. The other half, mostly on smoothly graveled highways, is recommended chiefly because of the scenery that one encounters. The topmost point of the route is Duluth, Minn., a delightful city perched on the side of a hill that slopes steeply into Lake Superior.

As far as Fond du Lac, Wis., the road is concrete. The following route is offered: Leave St. Louis via the McKinley Bridge and follow U. S. Highway No. 66 to Edwardsville, where Illinois Highway No. 16 branches off to Hillsboro, joining there with U. S. 51, which is taken to Rockford, Ill., 308 miles, and a possible stopover for the night. Wisconsin Highway No. 14 takes the traveler out of the level, monotonous Illinois country through Beloit to Delavan, Wis., where a tourist camp is maintained and three miles south of which is Delavan Lake, a resort.

Wisconsin No. 14 continues on to Milwaukee, 399 miles from St. Louis, and U. S. 41 leads to Fond du Lac. If the traveler has a few extra hours or a day at his disposal he might strike east from Fond du Lac on Wisconsin No. 23 to Sheboygan, on Lake Michigan. Within an hour's drive of Sheboygan are resorts known favorably over the Middle West, among them Elkhart, Crystal, Random, Crooked and Ellen. Boating, bathing, fishing, riding, golf, tennis and hiking are popular. There are many lakes and streams near this city where bass, pike, perch and sunfish, not to mention such trout species as German brown, speckled and acrobatic rainbow make fishing a pleasure.

Retrning to Fond du Lac, one continues to Oshkosh on U. S. 41. Oshkosh is at the northern tip of Lake Winnebago and the bathing beaches, golf courses and yacht clubs make it ideal.

Wisconsin No. 76 connects Oshkosh and Appleton, and from there Wisconsin No. 26 leads to New London and, ultimately, Monico. Fragrant pine woods, cool air, rippling streams and winding roads make driving a pleasure and the miles slip away almost unnoticed. The traveler is now in the Wisconsin lake country.

To the left of Monico, the lakes form the headwaters of the beautiful Wisconsin River, one of the most scenic in the United States.

About 28 miles north of Monico, on Wisconsin Highway No. 70 is Eagle River, with many boys' and girls' summer camps nearby. U. S. No. 51 continues to Manitowish, which is just 708 miles from St. Louis and U. S. No. 2 goes on to Brule, Wis., where President Coolidge spent his summer vacation in 1928. Brule is in the center of a delightful hunting and fishing country, seemingly isolated from civilization and yet offering many conveniences to tourists.

U. S. 53 connects Brule and Duluth, which is 853 miles from St. Louis and the turning point of the tour.

A good gravel road—U. S. No. 53—leads almost due south to Chippewa Falls, whence U. S. 12 continues on through Eau Claire, Humbird, Black River Falls and Tomah to Kilbourn. The famous Dells of the Wisconsin River may be seen out of Kilbourn. Along the rock-bound course of the river, flanked by dense stands of evergreen and oak, are wonderful views. Vertical, moss-covered canon walls, fantastic rock columns, overhanging ledges, caves and grottoes make this one of the most fascinating spots in the State. Miles of fragrant, pine needle paths lead in every direction and cool canon trails are the delight of hikers.

Geologists and students go there to inspect physiographic processes. The wild and primitive aspect of the rock formations arouse an interest in the origin of the Dells even in the most casual visitor. The Dells gorge, a comparatively youthful, post-glacial formation, has been carved by the river following recession of glacial ice.

Colorful, vivid and exciting is the ceremonial dance of the Win-

Pilot Licenses Total 2419 in First 6 Months

Increase of 1247 Over Same Period in 1928, Report Reveals.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Americans who have become so air-minded that they simply must associate themselves with aviation, prefer to do it by way of the cockpit; in other words, by becoming pilots. That is one of the outstanding facts visible in the Department of Commerce's statistical report on the state of aviation for the first six months of 1929.

That report shows that 2419 pilot's licenses were issued in 1929, as compared with 1172 in 1928. In the same interval, mechanics' licenses increased at a much lower rate. In 1928's first six months there were 1227 such licenses issued, while this year there were but 313 more, or a total of 1540.

It is pointed out in connection with these figures that mechanics are just as necessary to the welfare of the operating side of the aeronautic industry as are pilots. A mechanic's job, however, is not nearly so romantic as that of the man who flys the plane and, just at the moment, it is being proved that romance is not dead in aviation despite the fact that it is becoming more and more of a business.

However, it seems that no one is greatly alarmed over the situation. A mechanic in aviation gets

Post Signs Warning Motorists Against Local "Speed Trap"

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 20.—Efforts to protect tourists from arrest by an energetic Constable to Levy, a municipality on the outskirts of North Little Rock, has almost precipitated a war between Levy officials and the Arkansas Motor Club.

An ultimatum has been issued by Levy officials that the warning signs which have been placed by the Arkansas Motor Club must be removed within 24 hours or steps will be taken to remove them. The club's answer is that those steps must be taken.

The motor club erected the signs on either side of Levy as the first steps in Arkansas toward protecting the out-of-State motorists from speed traps. Spokesmen for the town objected strenuously to having their village designated as a speed trap or any other kind of a trap. One business man said that so many speeders had been warned and permitted to proceed that he did not see how the term "trap" could be applied. He said no motorist has been fined if he was traveling under 40 miles an hour and that "those going faster than 90 miles an hour have not been caught."

Other residents of the State, however, differ with these statements and the motor club has been praised by several who have complained they were victims of the Constable and paid their fines al-

Safeguarding of Health an Important Factor in Touring

Problem Requires Co-operation of Authorities, Understanding of Public and Fixing Of Responsibility.

In preparation for an automobile trip, too little thought is given to one's health and the safeguarding of it on the trip.

This cannot be too strongly emphasized, because, on such a trip, living conditions are often changed so much by exposure to inclement weather, lack of sleep, irregular hours and other factors that the bodily machine may, perhaps, become more susceptible to attack from disease than it would under the normal home conditions.

The safeguarding of the health of automobile tourists, both on the roads and in the camps, has become an important public health problem. As early as 1925 it was estimated that in 35 states there were more than 3000 camps attended by over 2,000,000 campers. In 1928 it was estimated that, in California alone, there were 1400 automobile camps. In other states, particularly those with well advertised scenic areas, there were probably several thousand others. Investment in camps of all kinds in Maine has been estimated to exceed $5,000,000. Much has been done within recent years to improve tourist camps, but there is yet much more to do. For example, in one state in 1926 there were 233 camps inspected and only 104 could be approved.

The problem is not a simple one, but involves three important factors: First, an intelligent understanding of the situation by the people; second, the co-operation of state and local authorities and the support of official and voluntary organizations, and, third, and most important, the fixing of the responsibility for the maintenance of sanitary conditions.

In many states the responsibility for the sanitation of tourist camps has been delegated to state health officers by law, and in others, those agencies have undertaken it without express authority. In a few states where the state agency is doing the work, part or all of the authority has been transferred to district or local agencies or groups. Unfortunately, there are a few sections in which the responsibility for the work has not been positively assumed by any particular department or group. However, these sections are in the minority, because within the last few years much careful thought and diligent effort has been given by health authorities as a whole to making living conditions for campers as nearly suitable for them as possible.

Such state agencies as have started tourist camp sanitation work have usually set up regulations governing the proper constuction and maintenance of this kind of camp. The three principal items in any set of regulations might be given as follows: (1) Proper camp location; (2) safe and adequate water supply; and (3) safe and efficient waste disposal.

To speak of disease when planning a touring vacation may seem tactless, but we all know the danger to health from impure water. Many camps are so located that they may have water from a public supply. That is fortunate. Others must develop their own supply from such sources as wells and springs. In doing this, there arises the possibility of unsafe water unless the development work is done in accord with accepted sanitary principles. If the tourist camp has been inspected by a Governmental agency and approved or certified, the safety of the water supply can be assumed, but if it has not, we should know the outward signs of a properly developed supply for which to look.

Open springs are generally unsafe, because they are so readily accessible to contaminating influences. If the spring is not properly protected, surface water carrying out the washings from the ground can very easily run into the spring, and often it will be used by campers for keeping foods and milk chilled. Hence, the

$418 a Year Is Average Cost of Car to Motorist

Maintenance and Operation Expense $293—Fuel Is Biggest Item, With Labor Charges for Repairs Next—Annual Tire Bill Is $34—Life of Car, Six Years, Nine Months.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—An average of $293 was spent by each motorist in the United States in 1928 in the operation and maintenance of his car, according to figures compiled by the American Motorists Association. Of this sum, $101, or 34 per cent, was expended for fuel and lubricants, the largest item.

The $293 figure does not take into account depreciation. The average life of a passenger automobile, according to computation of the Federal Government, is approximately seven years. During 1928 the average retail price of passenger cars in the United States was $875, which, based on a seven-year life expectancy, would mean an average depreciation of $125 per year. From this figure, plus the average upkeep cost of $293, it will be seen that the general average cost of operation, plus depreciation, was $418 per year, or approximately $1.14 per day. The comparable figure for 1927 shows that the average cost of operation, plus depreciation, was $365 for that year, or $1 a day.

The second largest item on the motorist's maintenance bill is for labor incident to repair work, the motorist expending in 1928, for this item, an average of $82. His replacement parts cost him $55, while his average tire bill, during the year, was $34. An average of $21 was expended for accessories, which with the $101 spent for gasoline and oil, make up the total of $293 as the average cost of maintenance for each motor vehicle for 1928.

Comparing the cost of operation in 1928 and 1927 the association's figures show that last year the cost was 28 per cent more than during 1927, when the average operation cost was $229. Comparative figures, between the two years, however, it is pointed out by J. Borton Weeks, president of the association, do not indicate that operation costs are necessarily increasing, the difference being explained primarily by the fact that with better highways available each year the average motorist uses his automobile proportionately more.

The "life" of the average automobile is six years and nine months, while the average cost of operation, for a four-cylinder passenger car, is 6.43 cents per mile, and for a six-cylinder machine 8.40 cents per mile, based upon an average mileage of 11,000 per year, according to the association.

The "mortality" figure is based upon replacement data furnished by automobile manufacturers. The cost per mile is computed from detailed cost accounting records covering 800 typical automobiles, operated in various parts of the United States.

Modern Service Station Opened By Local Firm

$225,000 Plant of Royal Tire Service, Inc., Open All Night.

One of the most modern service stations in the West was completed last week at the northeast corner of Washington boulevard and Thirty-third street and is open for business. It was built at a cost of $225,000 by the Royal Tire Service, Inc., of which T. D. Hinchcliffe is president.

The company has been in business for the last eight years at 3213 Locust boulevard, but up to last October was under a different ownership. The company is distributer in the St. Louis district of United States tires.

With a 120-foot frontage on Washington, or an entire half a block, and 124 feet on Thirty-third street, there is adequate space for car-washing, battery and tire service, Alemite lubrication, wheel alignment, brake repairing and fueling of cars.

Six 1000-watt flood lights will be turned on all night and 24-hour service will be provided. The flood lights are so arranged, according to Hinchcliffe, that no shadow may be cast in the courtyard.

The building—a one-story structure of brick and steel, will house the offices, battery department, grease racks of the latest construction, car-washing plant and tire department. A feature is the complete vulcanizing apparatus that permits the tread of any make of tire to be duplicated.

"We are paying particular attention to washing cars," Hinchcliffe declared. "It has been my own experience that my car often comes from a washing with dirty wheels, spotted fenders or streaked glass. If this happens in our place we will wash the car over again, with no charge. A woman will be able to drive her car from our washing department without soiling her white gloves.

"When we give tire service we do not allow a car to be driven out until each rim has been inspected and if necessary, repaired. This is done nowhere else in the city."

United Motors Service will also be supplied including servicing of Lovejoy shock absorbers, AC oil cleaners, AC spark plugs, Klaxon horns and Delco batteries.

Thirty employes, including salesmen, are on the payroll of Royal Tire Service, Inc. Cities Service gasoline, Quaker State, Mobiloil and Veedol oil, and Koll Motor gasoline will be sold.

An unusual feature of the washing service is that the front end of every car is hoisted from the ground and the understructure thoroughly cleaned by pressure.

President Hinchcliffe has been in the sales and manufacturing ends of the rubber business for 18 years and is a native of St. Louis.

Hudson Observes Twentieth Year Of Production

Hudson Motor Car Co. celebrated quietly today the twentieth anniversary of the shipping of the first Hudson car, which took place July 8, 1909. Car No. 1,779,360 which the company has manufactured in its two decades came off the assembly line.

Some striking figures of growth and present expansion at Hudson, gathered for the occasion, were reported as follows:

Of the nearly 1,800,000 cars produced more than two-thirds have been manufactured in the five years just passed. Twenty years ago Hudson began operations in a leased plant with $15,000 paid-in capital; it has present assets of $69,000,000 and has paid $40,000,000 in cash dividends.

It took nine months to build the first Hudson; 4107 were built in the entire first year; this is a little over two days' maximum production today.

One year after its organization Hudson stood seventeenth in point of volume; by 1916 it was sixth; the next year was fifth, while today officials describe it as the third largest unit in the automobile business.

Hudson has had but four presidents. The first was J. L. Hudson, who served only a short time; next was Roy D. Chapin, who is now chairman of the board of directors; the third was R. B. Jackson, who died recently in Mentone, France; while the fourth is the present executive, William J. McAneeny. All four came from the ranks.

Empire Employes Allowed to Buy $4,846,026 Stock

BARTLESVILLE, Ok., July 20.—Nearly 3000 employes of the Empire Gas & Fuel Co, largest subsidiary of the Cities Service Co., who were recently permitted to subscribe to $4,846,026 in Cities Service securities, only had to pay $3,446,922. Payment will be made by payroll deduction beginning Aug. 1 for 60 months.

On completion of the five-year contract each subscriber will receive as a bonus additional securities equal in value to one-fourth of the original purchase, which will amount to about $861,730

Employes who subscribed to a stock issue in 1924 of $7.7,937 in 1924 have received securities valued at $1,732,299, as a result of market advances, bonuses interest and dividend adjustments, thus profiting 141 per cent.

Prompt Attention Given Tourists by Travel Bureau

WEEK-END jaunts, vacation trips of a fortnight's duration, extended summer tours—everyone who requests information of the Post-Dispatch Resort and Travel Bureau as to such expeditions is given prompt attention.

One of the most popular adjuncts of this service is distribution of the 50-page auto trails atlas of the United States and Eastern Canada. Full-page maps of individual states, a mileage chart covering distances between cities and brief descriptions of points of interest in the various sections are included in this comprehensive atlas, which sells for 50 cents at the Post-Dispatch and 60 cents, mailed.

State maps are distributed, in pocket size, at 10 cents and 12 cents, mailed. Maps of the St. Louis street system cost 30 and 40 cents, city guides, 25 and 30 cents and maps of Greater St. Louis sell for 20 and 24 cents.

A new feature of the bureau's service is free information as to the condition of lakes and streams throughout Missouri, either for the benefit of fishermen or for those desiring to use roads which ford the streams. This data is received daily from Jefferson City, Mo., by the Post-Dispatch.

Several Promotions Announced by E. J. Johnson, Inc.

Appointment of R. L. Kingsland as manager of retail operations of E. J. Johnson, Inc., Willys-Knight and Whippet dealer, is announced by J. S. Mitchell, general manager. Kingsland was formerly sales manager.

He is succeeded as sales manager by Fred Bincel, a salesman. Gus Evers has been promoted from a salesman to assistant sales manager. J. H. White has been promoted from sales manager of the Knight division to manager of the wholesale department.

168,269 Nash Cars Shipped Since "400" Series Was Started

KENOSHA, Wis., July 20.—Rounding out one of the greatest triumphs in the history of automobile making, the "400" series Nash cars, which were introduced June 21, 1928, have completed their first anniversary of public service with a sales record greater by thousands of cars than the sales of any previous 12 months on the books of the Nash Motors Co.

C. H. Bliss, general sales manager, declares that 168,269 of these new type cars have been shipped from the Nash factories.

This was 32,748 units more than were shipped in the best previous year of Nash manufacturing.

The biggest year experienced by Nash previous to the advent of the "400's" was 1926, when 135,521 Nash cars were shipped from the factories. In 1928, half of which was devoted to the manufacture of the new series, 138,138 units were shipped.

Heed Auditor's Report.

The car owner who wants to acquaint himself somewhat with operation costs should first turn to the odometer. It is a silent auditor and its reports should be heeded always. Incidentally, if the report seems to be too high or too low, the device might be checked for accuracy. It sometimes makes an error.

Highway Building Fails to Keep Up With Requirements

Fifteen years of "good roads" effort, which has given the United States the best roads in the world, has nevertheless failed to keep pace with modern requirements, in the opinion of H. H. Franklin, pioneer automobile manufacturer of Syracuse, N. Y., and president of the company which bears his name.

"What roadbuilding needs is revolution, not evolution—and revolution which will go out boldly and sweep away boundary lines to make roads straight," Franklin says.

"Modern busines and social conditions demand fast automobile operation over long distances, yet the very nature of present day road construction tends to squeeze the highways at important points and to slow up traffic.

"Highway engineers who personally experience the need of speed with safety, know the solution to the problem. The essential thing now is to focus popular attention on the situation in order to get the co-operative action which will put the plan in general operation. As it is now many opportunities for improvement are being missed in construction now going on which will last for several years. One has merely to go out on new roads to find useless and expensive curves that are detrimental to the spirit of today's travel. These roads are not being constructed with a fine appreciation of the future of automobile travel."

Whole Family Can Go on Picnics in A Plymouth Sedan

Summer time is picnic time to the average American family. Not so many years ago, the family could enjoy only one or maybe two outings in the country a year. To go on a picnic was a task as well as a pleasure. Lunch baskets had to be carried to the street car for the hot, uncomfortable ride to the picnic grounds at the edge of the city. The more fortunate were able to hitch old Dobbin to the surrey for the slow, tiresome ride into the country—not over five miles away. Long before the day was over, spirits were dampened by thoughts of the long, dusty ride back home.

Now conditions have changed. The modern family packs the lunch, steps out to the automobile and is away on a pleasant, comfortable drive far into the country. Distance from home now lends pleasure to the picnic, for a car that is dependable, powerful and sturdy always furnishes enjoyable transportation.

"The large and roomy bodies of the Plymouth make it the ideal car for the entire family," says A. VanDerZee, general sales manager of the Plymouth Motor Corporation. "The Plymouth sedan is the real family car, for it will reel off the miles quickly and safely, while a family of five enjoys its smoothness of operation in uncramped comfort.

"When Chrysler engineers designed the Plymouth sedan, they realized the need for a real family car in the lowest price field. They knew that the family car must be dependable, economical and large enough for the entire family. The Plymouth sedan meets all these requirements. Built according to Chrysler standards of quality, it is easy to operate, so that mother and sister may drive without effort or fatigue, while the full-sized body permits of the utmost personal comfort even on the longest trips."

Gardner Exports Break All Records

Export shipments of Gardner cars for the first six months of this year broke all records, according to T. F. Fowler, director of exports of the Gardner Motor Co., Inc. "In fact," Fowler said, "an analysis of our export shipments for the first six months of 1929 shows an unprecedented increase of 179 per cent over the same period of 1928, which, incidentally, was an unusually good year for us.

"A comparison of Gardner export shipments from January to June, 1928, reveals the fact that these shipments exceeded those of the entire year of 1927 by a considerable margin. These phenomenal increases in the sale of Gardner cars abroad are a clear indication of the growing demand for these automobiles abroad despite the relatively high duty imposed on cars of American manufacture."

Johnson Tractor Co. Named Distributer Of Cletrac Tractors

The Johnson Crawler Tractor Co., 2113 Pine street, has been named distributer here of the Cletrac crawler tractor manufactured by the Cleveland Tractor Co., Cleveland, O., according to J. S. Gardner, district manager of the Cleveland company. The Cletrac tractor is used for farm, industrial and road work.

Studebaker "8" Convertible Coupe Is Winning Favor

Predictions made early this year that the convertible cabriolet would become the most popular sport car of the season are fast being justified, according to Sam Lurie of the Lurie Motor Car Co., Studebaker-Erskine distributer here. "A case in point is the popularity that has been won by the President eight convertible coupe, which has been steadily gaining in favor since its introduction in January," Lurie says.

"No other body combines in the same degree the characteristics and advantages of the sport roadster and the smart, comfortable closed car. And when such a convenient body type was offered on a chassis with the performance of Studebaker world champion President eight, its success was inevitable.

"The President cabriolet is offered on a 125-inch wheelbase chassis which has permitted Studebaker's body designers to create a car combining exceptionally smart lines with a most roomy and comfortable interior."

Pistons on Dodge Six Designed to Decrease Wear

The precision necessary in the design of pistons and the lubrication of cylinder walls where the pistons operate can readily be calculated by the fact that each piston in a new Dodge Brothers' six engine travels approximately 2100 feet a minute inside the cylinder when the car is driven 60 miles an hour.

At that speed, the engine in the Dodge Brothers' six is turning at the rate of 54 revolutions a second, and during every revolution each piston travels a total distance of seven and three-fourths inches up and down in the cylinder wall. For every 100 miles the car travels, each piston rolls up approximately 39 miles, operating in a "roadway" only three and seven-eighths inches long.

To meet this tremendous strain and insure maximum efficiency in operation, Dodge Brothers' engineers have designed aluminum-alloy steel strut pistons that offer unusual advantages over every other type. The aluminum alloy piston has the advantage of being lighter in weight, permitting lighter connecting rod assembly and resulting in less wear, more power and greater flexibility. Because the piston head is normally the hottest spot in the engine, increased heat conductivity of aluminum eliminates the chief cause of pre-ignition.

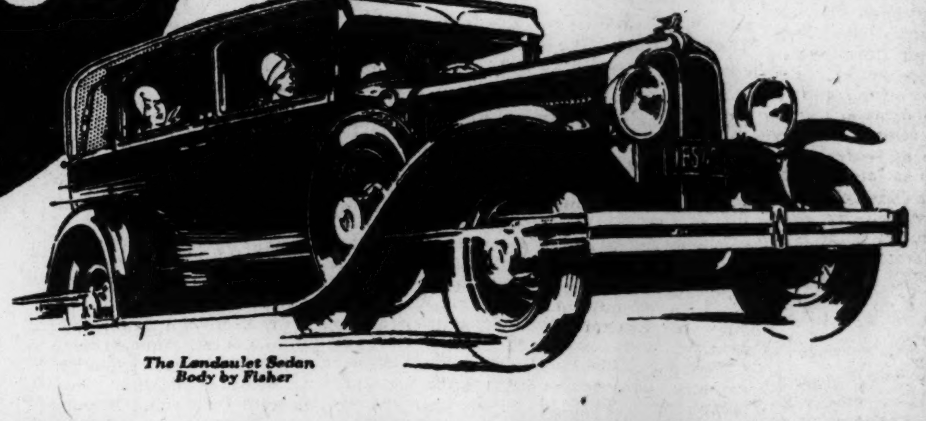
JUST LIKE SAVING $100 WHEN YOU BUY

The Pontiac Big Six at $745 is enjoying record-breaking success because it represents the greatest dollar value ever offered among low-priced sixes. Because of basic superiorities in design and construction, it provides big car style, performance, comfort and safety at small car prices. For this reason alone it clearly deserves the tremendous popularity it enjoys. But, in addition, it offers economy of operation equaled in no car comparable to Pontiac in price. According to figures compiled by a great public utilities company operating 996 automobiles of 33 different makes during 1928, Pontiac costs one cent per mile less to operate than any other low-priced six. You probably drive your car an average of 10,000 miles per year. And so, when you are comparing Pontiac with any other six at or near its price—remember that its big car qualities will cost you $100 less the first year alone—which is just like saving $100 when you buy!

CHIEF OF THE SIXES



The Landaulet Sedan Body by Fisher

PONTIAC BIG SIX at $745

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan

Five-Passenger 2-Door Sedan Body by Fisher

The Pontiac Big Six was originally introduced with both the Five-passenger Two-door Sedan and the Coupe listed at $745, f. o. b. Pontiac, Mich. And despite the fact that it is now offered in a variety of the year's most popular colors . . . despite the fact that it is the only car in the world combining big car qualities with small car cost . . . despite the fact that it is recognized everywhere as America's biggest motor car value . . . it continues to sell at no increase in prices.

Big Car Features Combined in No Other Car at or Near Pontiac's Price

Big Car Speed, Power and Acceleration . . .

Greater speed, faster acceleration, higher power than you can expect in any other six equally low-priced. Because of Pontiac's greater engine size . . . 200 cubic inches displacement. Because of its 1¼-inch carburetor with an accelerating pump . . . gasoline pump instead of a vacuum system . . . advanced design intake manifold.

Big Car Smoothness and Silence . . . .

Obtained by means of the Harmonic Balancer which eliminates torsional crankshaft vibration . . . a sturdy, short-stroke, counterweighted crankshaft . . . airplane type interchangeable bronze-backed main bearings . . . full pressure oiling to all main and connecting rod bearings.

Big Car Safety . . . .

Two completely independent braking systems. Silent, dirt-and-weather-proof internal-expanding service brakes. Separate emergency brake acting on the transmission.

Big Car Style . . . .

Big Car Luxury . . .

Interiors of closed cars upholstered in harmonious materials of fine quality and appearance. Open models upholstered in Spanish grain leather. Interior fitments by Ternstedt. Dome lights, roller shades, robe rails, foot rails, etc., in those body types in which they are appropriate.

Big Car Comfort . . .

Roomy interiors . . . wide, deep seats . . . wide doors . . . easy acting steering wheel, clutch and gear-shift lever . . . full-length springs . . . spring covers to eliminate spring squeaks and Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers at slight extra cost.

Big Car Convenience . .

Adjustable driver's seat. Foot-controlled headlights. Fisher VV ventilating windshield. Automatic temperature control. Cross-flow radiator to eliminate losses of water and alcohol. Coincidental lock—remove the key and lock ignition and transmission.

Big Car Reliability . .

Assured by the full pressure oiling system . . . the crankcase ventilating system which keeps water out of the engine oil . . . the cross-flow radiator which minimizes water and alcohol losses . . . and other features contributing to dependability.

Pontiac Big Six, $745 to $895, f. o. b. Pontiac, Mich., plus delivery charges. Bumpers, spring covers and Lovejoy shock absorbers regular equipment at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only reasonable charges for handling and for financing when the Time Payment Plan is used.

As Economical to buy as it is to operate!

Figures quoted above reveal how inexpensively the Pontiac can be owned and operated. We can show that it can be just as economically purchased. For we are prepared to offer a generous price for your present car. And this price may more than cover the down payment on the new car. Easy monthly terms for the remainder. Drives Buick To Los Angeles In 54 Hours

R. F. Jeter Averages 43 Miles an Hour to Trinidad, Colo.

R. F. Jeter, 4278 Labadie avenue, a yardmaster for the Chicago & Alton Railroad, at Venice, Ill., "just wanted to see if it could be done on scheduled time," so he drove his 1929 Buick sedan from St. Louis to Los Angeles in 54 hours and 18 minutes recenty, bettering railroad time by two hours and 42 minutes.

The car consumed 189 gallons of gasoline at a cost of $45.75 and 14 quarts of oil, costing $3.95, Jeter says. His log, carefuly kept, sas City, Mo., and 43 miles an hour between St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., and 45 miles an hour between St. Louis and Trinidad, Colo., a distance of 954 miles. The 1054 miles of mountainous country between Las Vegas, N. M., and Los Angeles were negotiated in 22 hours and 16 minutes at an average speed of 30.2 miles an hour.

Jeter had only three flat tires on the trip, two of them occurring at La Junta, Colo., and the other at Las Vegas, N. M. He saw many coyotes, a mountain lion, a bob cat and several skunks, not to mention a number of jack rabbits, on the trip.

Western Union officials in St. Louis and Los Angeles checked Jeter in and out. The Howard Buick Co. of Los Angeles inspected the car on arrival there and the Vesper-Buick Auto Co. went over it on the return to St. Louis, and both found the machine to be in excellent condition.

Jeter has owned six Buicks, all of them purchased from the Schnure Motor Co., 2216-18 Locust boulevard.

Oldsmobile-Viking Factories Increase Speed of Assembly

"Increase the speed of the assembly line 10 per cent starting Monday morning."

That and similar orders have been issued many times this year at the Oldsmobile-Viking factories, to increase production as the demand for these automobiles continued to grow larger. How these orders are carried out, however, is part of an efficiency system that has made the automotive industry the wonder of the industrial world.

At least four major assembly lines and hundreds of feeder lines must be stepped up to increase the production of either Oldsmobiles or Vikings. These four major lines are those on which are assembled axles, engines, bodies and the complete automobile. The feeder lines consist of those short lines which manufacture the various parts that go into the making of an Oldsmobile Six or a Viking Eight. These parts vary from little valve guide split units to the large engine cylinder blocks or body fenders.

In the modern Oldsmobile-Viking factories all of these small lines are machined and manned to conform in manufacturing speed with that of the four major assembly lines. In this way every part is completed and given final inspection at its allotted place on the required assembly line at a rate that insures a steady supply of these parts as the assembly progresses.

When the order to increase pr duction is issued, these smalle lines first are stepped up by in creasing the number of mechanic and, frequently, the number o machines in use. This quickly i creases the number of finishe parts delivered at the axle, bod engine and final assembly lines.

"6-63" Announced By Durant at Less Than $1000

Sport Phaeton With Special Equipment Is Offered at $1055.

The new Durant "6-63," a car conforming to Durant's established high standards of beauty, comfort, economy and dependability, is announced by the new exectuive group which recently took over the direction of Durant operations. Spacious interiors, rich upholstery, tasteful color harmonies and graceful body lines are among the characteristics which appeal to the woman buyer.

The engine, a powerful Continental, is built in unit construction with a simple single plate clutch and Durant-built, silent three speed transmission. The unit power plant is supported in pads of resilient, live rubber at four points.

Four bronze-backed, interchangeable type babbit bearings rigidly support the crankshaft and a Lanchester vibration dampener is fitted at the front, affording exceptional smoothness of operation at all engine speeds. Bore and stroke are 2⅞ by 4¾ inches, giving a displacement of 185 cubic inches with an S. A. E. rating of 19.84 horse power and an output of 46 brake horse power at 3200 revolutions per minute.

Engine lubrication is by high pressure pump through drilled crankshaft. Both the usual ail strainer at the pump and an oil filter are employed. Circulation of water through the cylinder jackets is controlled by a thermostat to maintain ideal working temperature and insure high fuel economy.

Bendix two-shoe internal expanding four-wheel brakes, inclosed to afford protection from dust, mud and water, and responding instantly to gentle foot pressure, provide safety to meet the needs of increased driving speeds and greater traffic confestion of today and tomorrow.

Front springs are 36 inches and rear springs 54 inches long, both fitted with shock absorbers as a further aid to easy riding. Shackles, both front and rear, are adjustable to take up for wear.

The standard 6-63 coupe and sedan are priced at $845 and $895, respectively, fitted with wood wheels and one spare rim. De luxe equipment, furnished at an additional cost of $130, includes front and rear bumpers, luggage rack, six wire wheels with spares and fitted with tires, tubes and covers and mounted in fender wells. A sport phaeton with the de luxe equipment is offered at $1055.

Aviation Writer Is Thrilled by Auto Ride

The thrill of covering 87 miles from Detroit to Lansing, Mich., in 100 minutes in a Durant four-forward speed sedan afforded J. McLaughlin Sheppard of the editorial staff of Air Travel News more excitement than any of the other events of his experience of flying as a press observer in the recent five-day Michigan air tour, he states in an article which appears in the August issue of that national aeronautical magazine.

Chrysler Lines Report Record Output Totals

Gain of 23½ Per Cent in First Six Months Over 1928.

Chrysler Motors continue to run far ahead of previous records in the shipment of Chrysler-built passenger cars, trucks and commercial vehicles, according to the figures released for the month of June.

Shipments for the first half of 1929 totaled 279,635 cars, an increase of 53,354 units or 23½ per cent above the 226,281 cars shipped by Chrysler and Dodge combined during the first half of 1928.

The figures show that Chrysler not only began the year with a decided gain over 1928, but steadily increased that percentage of gain in each succeeding month until in June it reached 58 per cent, the shipments in that month amounting to 42,351 compared with 26,820 for the combined Chrysler and Dodge shipments in June, 1928, an increase of 15,531 units.

The Plymouth line of low-priced cars again made the most startling gain—282 per cent over the 1928 June record—13,763 of this line having been shipped in the month just closed, with a grand total of 70,022 for the six months' period.

The De Soto line of sixes is also rapidly building for itself a most enviable record since its introduction last summer, the total shipments for the first months being 45,270, of which 8077 were shipped in June.

The Dodge lines also took a prominent part in the splendid showing made during the first half of this year, 82,713 Dodge six cars having been shipped during that period and 3011 of the higher-priced Senior line. June shipments amounted to 10,097 Dodge sixes and 498 Seniors.

The Dodge trucks, busses and motor coaches continue their popularity in the commercial field, 23,308 of these having been shipped during the first six months of 1929 as compared with 21,522 during the first half of 1928. The June shipments were 3938.

The Fargo line of trucks and commercial vehicles is also steadily forging ahead, increasing its shipments each month since its introduction last summer until in June they reached a total of 1252 cars for that month.

The Chrysler lines of cars, comprising the "65," "75" and Imperial, contributed 4628 to the June total, making a total for the first six months of 51,819 cars.

Jordan Earnings Total $151,138

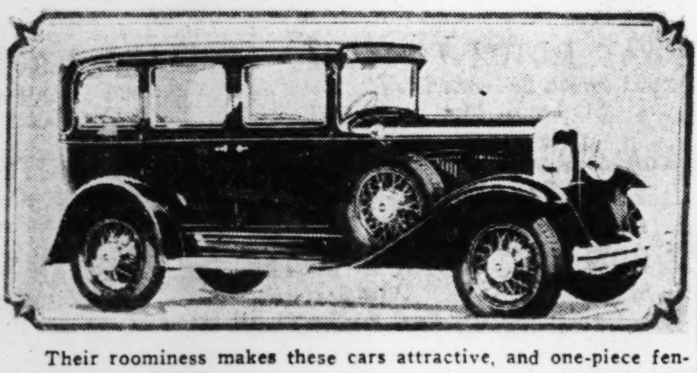
According to a statement just issued by John McArdle, vice president and general manager, the net earnings of The Jordan Motor Car Co. for the first half of 1929 total $151,138.86.

During the same period last year the company lost $473,372.61.

Net earnings for June after all charges except Federal taxes amounted to $31,034.28 as against a loss of $52,796.97 in the same month last year.

"The Jordan company now shows a profit surplus of $1,278,794.45," says McArdle, "which compares with a profit and loss deficit on Jan. 1, 1929, of $2,052,088.37."

New Durant "6-63" De Luxe Sedan



Their roominess makes these cars attractive, and one-piece fenders accentuate their grace.

Willys-Knight Great Six Given First Showing

Priced at $2095 Here, the New Models Embody Advancements.

One of the most distinctive of this year's new models—the new Willys-Knight great six—is being displayed for sale for the first time in St. Louis by E. J. Johnson, Inc., 2310 Locust boulevard, Willys-Knight and Whippet distributer. All models are priced at $2095, St. Louis, fully equipped.

Undoubtedly one of the finest cars ever produced by Willys-Overland, the great six combines many advanced features in body construction. Most striking, perhaps, is the rear seat, the center of which is arched and the upholstery pleated. Arm rests in the rear seat have been enlarged, providing greater comfort. Another feature is the new instrument board, which is higher and more compact than others in the Willys line. Interior fittings are of bronze, instead of nickel, adding an artistic touch.

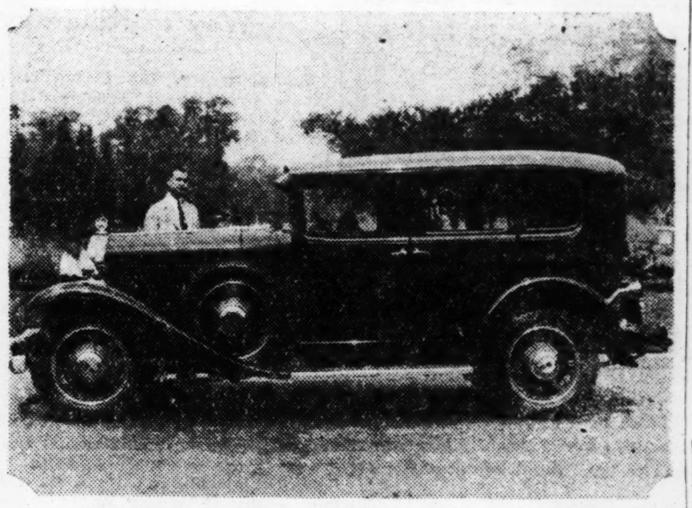
A three-spoke steering wheel has the same "finger-tip" control that is characteristic of all Willys models, the center button operating starter, horn and lights.

The car is long and low, its ligns being accentuated by the three ventilation panels that replace the hood louvres. Six wire wheels and tires, the spares set in fender wells, are standard equipment, the five-passenger coupe, corresponding to most coaches or two-door sedans, having a trunk as well. Fender lights in front take the place of more conventional parking lights.

Although exhibited in St. Louis at the winter automobile show, the great six has only recently been placed in production. St. Louisans will recall the sensation made by the great six roadster at the local showing. This is finished in green and blue, with an artistic checker board effect on the sides. The top, when lowered, is set at an angle, adding to the racy appearance.

The coupe is of two tones, blue and bluish gray, the five passenger coupe is of brown and black, and the sedan comes in several colors.

The Willys-Knight Great Six Sedan



J. S. Mitchell, general manager of E. J. Johnson, Inc., local distributer of Willys-Knight and Whippet cars, is shown with this latest addition to the Willys-Overland line. The Great Six embodies many striking new features of design.

Seiberling Shoes Help Eliminate Skidding of Tires

The skittish car that slides along the road at the slightest provocation would be a thing of the past, if every automobile wheel on the highway were shod with Seiberling "shoes," according to E. L. Meyer Jr. of the Meyer Tire Co., local distributer of Seibering tires. The famous "affinite" tread compound, which is a feature of the Seiberling special service and patrician balloon tires, reveals a new secret of non-skid protection, Meyer declares.

"Reports from motorists everywhere," he said, "show amazing non-skid qualities in the new Seiberling tires. Of course the unique tread design developed by Sieberling engineers has much to do with it. But that isn't the whole story. You can carve a banana peel in any shape you want, but the banana peel, like the old rubber tread worn to a smooth finish, will be slippery still."

Sets Mark in Reo

Despite natural handicaps and a rough detour, William Moreland, of Lansing, Mich., an endurance test driver, established a new record when he drove a Reo Flying Cloud stock sedan 649 miles to Northern Michigan and back in an elapsed time of 10 hours and 59 minutes. He averaged 59.1 miles per hour, including three stops for refueling.

Woolaroc Will Be Preserved on Phillips' Ranch

Plane Which Won Dole Flight to Be Exhibited in Special Hangar.

Assurance that one of the most important airplanes figuring in American air history will be preserved and kept in this country has been given by Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips Petroleum Co., who announces that the "Woolaroc" (woods-lakes-rocks), the airplane which Art Goebel flew from Oakland, Cal. to Honolulu on Aug. 17, 1927, to win the Dole $25,000 prize, is to become a museum piece.

Phillips is building a hangar on his 3000-acre ranch at Bartlesville, Ok., to house the airplane and keep it there permanently for future generations to study. The plane will join a collection of other historical pieces.

Two years ago the "Woolaroc" set off from Oakland, Cal., and reached Wheeler Field, Honolulu, in 26 hours, 17 minutes and 33 seconds. Some of the group of planes that took off that morning were never heard from again. Only a few made the crossing successfully.

Goebel landed in Honolulu and was very surprised to hear that he was the winner. For three days thereafter he kept his plane tuned up, begging the United States Navy for orders to go out to seek missing planes. His instructions were, however, merely to stand by.

For a time before the date of the prize race it seemed as if Col. Goebel could never start the flight across the Pacific. He lacked the necessary funds. Mr. Phillips learned of this and asked Col. Goebel to pay him a visit. Goebel came to Bartlesville, Ok., Mr. Phillips' home. Goebel was a flyer of long experience. Mr. Phillips was very much interested in the commercial development of airplanes for business use. He realized that a successful flight to Honolulu would do much to help the cause of flying in America, and cheerfully advanced the amount of money needed to pay the expenses of the flight, as his contribution to aviation.

The airship, as preserved, will carry all of the original equipment that it had when the historic trip was made. The radio, which at that time was the very latest model for control of flight through the use of a radio beacon, is already obsolete. The progress of aviation has been so rapid that some of the flying instruments that were used are already out of date. In a few more years of airplane progress people will look at this airplane with the same curiosity they now look at an old stage coach.

The plane will join a collection on the ranch which includes, among other things, a stage coach, built in Concord, Mass., in 1869 for stage line service in Montana at the time gold was discovered. It has traveled approximately 625,000 miles during its years of service. Phillips also owns the last herd of white deer to be imported from Russia, as well as deer from every nation, camels, bison and brahma.

Standards Bureau Devises Method of Gasoline Extraction

WASHINGTON, July 20. — More "pep" for the motorist's tank will be provided by a new method of extracting gasoline from natural gas.

The Bureau of Standards devised the method.

The discovery is expected to prove of far reaching importance to the refining industry and the motorist through conservation of much of the "natural" gasoline lost in the process of recovery, now estimated to amount to from 25 to 50 per cent.

Refining engineers have attempted to solve the problem of "natural" gasoline losses, but have been without accurate information as to the amount of gasoline in the untreated gas and the amount remaining after treatment.

Through use of the new method worked out by the bureau it will be possible for engineers to determine what process of extraction is the most efficient and to bring about a higher percentage of recovery.

The process of the Bureau of Standards, known as an isothermal distillation of natural gas mixture, employes methods just the reverse of ordinary distillation.

Nearly one-tenth of the gasoline produced yearly in the country is "natural" gasoline. This is not sold as a separate product, but is blended with other gasoline to give the "pep" desired by motorists. Employment of the new method, the bureau believes, will result in a greater amount of "natural" gasoline being produced and greater mixture of the product with other gasolines.

Travelers Abroad Using Own Cars

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The number of American motorists taking their cars abroad in 1929 will far exceed all past records and the number handled by the Foreign Travel Division of the American Automobile Association during the first six months of the year was in excess of the total for 1928, the A. A. A. Foreign Travel Division points out. There is no letup in the foreign exodus and all indications point to the travel continuing at a heavy rate well into October, it is stated.

Dole Flight Winner to Go Into Museum

The "Woolaroc," in which Art Goebel flew from Oakland, Cal., to Honolulu to win a $25,000 prize, will be placed in a specially built hangar on the ranch of Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips Petroleum Corporation, near Bartlesville, Ok.

Studebaker Lock A Factor in Big Decrease in Thefts

That automobile thefts are on the decrease and that the recovery of stolen cars shows a decided upward trend yearly is the interesting disclosure of a recent survey undertaken in 20 representative cities by the American Automobile Association, according to Sam Lurie of the Lurie Motor Car Co., Studebaker-Erskine distributer here.

The compiled report, published by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, shows that during the past 10 years automobile thefts increased steadily to a peak in 1926, then registered a sharp drop.

"While it is undoubtedly true that more efficient policeing methods have played a large part in the successful warfare against the automobile thief, much credit must be accorded automobile manufacturers for their share in the preventive campaign," Lurie pointed out.

"One of the most successful devices for the foiling of auto theft is the coincidental lock. As far back as 1924 Studebaker pioneered this device on all its models, and largely because of it, Studebaker owners have since been assured the lowest theft insurance rates, effecting a saving to them of as much as $24 per thousand dollars coverage."

Whippet Roadster For Four Proving A Popular Model

The ever increasing number of the new superior Whippet four collegiate roadster models that are now seen on the streets, the rural highways and at the country clubs throughout the nation is an indication of the popularity of this smart model.

Designed to carry four passengers—two in the front seat and two in the roomy rumble seat in the rear—it has won a wide acceptance, not only with the younger set but with adults as well who seek a dash of youth and spirit in their motor cars.

The water-proof collapsible top, which attaches firmly to the windshield, may easily be lowered or raised while the detachable side curtains provide utmost protection when driving in inclement weather. Metal steps on the rear bumperette and on the right rear fender provide easy entrance and exit at the rumble seat.

This roadster model also is proving ideal for summer touring purposes, with the roomy rear section for use in carrying luggage. This section is provided with a lock which insures safety at all times for the contents.

Along Auto Row

Matthew F. Morse, general manager, and George Drummond, manager of the Tour Bureau of the Automobile Club of Missouri, will represent Missouri on a tour through Kentucky, under the auspices of the Louisville Automobile Club this week.

The three-day tour of 358 miles will cover many interesting places, including Mammoth Cave, Lincoln's birthplace, Civil War forts, the E. R. Bradley Idle Hour Farm and the grave of Daniel Boone at Frankfort. The trip will be made in chartered busses and will take place tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday.

One of the important factors that contributed to success of the winning cars at the recent Indianapolis races was that most of them were equipped with Gabriel triple hydraulic shock absorbers, according to H. C. Merry of H. C. Merry, Inc., 3920 Lindell boulevard, Gabriel distributer.

The most expensive period in the life of tires, according to J. M. Vitt, manager of the Economy Tire Service, Inc., 2749 Olive street, Fisk dealer, is the last 200 or 300 miles.

"Every automobile owner tries to get the last few miles out of his tires, and gets into trouble doing it," Vitt said. "Many of my customers are getting into the habit of replacing their tires when the treads wear thin. Some boast they have covered 25,000 miles without a puncture."

The National Battery Co. reports that it has closed a contract with the Moon Motor Car Co. of St. Louis which places National batteries as standard equipment on all Moon cars.

This adds another manufacturer to the National Battery Co.'s list of car equipment supplies, and is the second to be reported in the last few months.

Harry W. Lohrum has been made general sales manager of the Lambert-Graves Motor Co., Oldsmobile and Viking dealer, it is announced by W. W. Miller, president. Lohrum was formerly associated with an Oldsmobile dealer as used car and service manager here.

The Becker-Lehman Sales Co., long established tire company here, is one of the 8500 Ajax tire dealers through the country which are participating in a campaign whereby the Ajax Rubber Co., Inc., plans to market a low-priced tire, to be known as the Ajax high-speed balloon.

Importance of batteries in automobile runs was stressed by "Cannon Ball" Baker, famous cross-country driver, at the annual U. S. L. battery convention at Niagara Falls, July 7 and 8, according to C. D. Wagener of Beck & Corbitt, who just recently returned from the gathering. For night driving particularly, Baker said a dependable storage battery is an absolute necessity.

J. M. Vitt, manager of Economy Tire Service, Inc., 2749 Olive street, announces his company has installed a new flasher sign supported by two 12-foot steel beams. The sign is seven and one-half by five feet in size.

Harry A. Schendel, formerly used car manager for several automobile dealers here, has bought a half interest in the Owl Motor Co., 3024 Locust boulevard, used car company. A branch of the company will be opened at 2653 Lafayette avenue soon. A. W. Schulz is co-partner of the company.

J. S. Sweeny of the Sweeny Tire Co., 1501 North Grand boulevard, states that during August his company will feature trade-ins on Dayton tires. It is said to be the first time in the history of Dayton tires that this has been done.

W. L. Bowcott, president of the Square Tire Sales Co., 3630 North Grand boulevard, has formed an association of 12 dealers in St. Louis and St. Louis County to distribute Marathon, Runner and Equity cord tires and Marathon tubes. By combining, members of the association will be able to buy tires in carload lots, thereby eliminating middle man expense.

The long, sweeping lines give this car an appearance of speed and power. The waterproof top and detachable side curtains protect passengers in inclement weather.

New Bridge Over Stouts Creek on Way to Killarney

Completion of the bridge over Stouts Creek, near Arcadia, Mo., has eliminated the necessity of motorists fording the creek on their way from Arcadia and Ironton to Lake Killarney, an Ozark resort.

For some time, during construction of the bridge, it was necessary to make a detour over a steep, rocky hill in order to reach the lake. The road follows Missouri Highway No. 70 to Fredericktown, where it connects with U. S. 61.

A new dining room, one of the finest and largest in the Ozarks, has been opened by William Schroeder, proprietor of Schroeder's Resort, at the west end of Lake Killarney. The lake, within three hours drive of St. Louis, is popular for one-day trips, as well as week-end jaunts or extended vacations, because of the bathing, boating and fishing. Schroeder's resort has many cottages for the accommodation of guests, and the meals are favorably known to St. Louisans.

Tires' Hardest Season.

At the end of the hot weather when the tires have undergone their hardest season, the motorist who has given them proper attention will be collecting dividends. One of the chief contributory factors to excessive tire wear during the warmest months of the year is the car owner's failure to recognize that heat is the worst natural enemy of rubber. If he does recognize this fact, he will keep them properly inflated.

Auto Tunnel in Utah.

Official opening is soon to be made of the longest non-urban highway tunnel in the United States. It is in the region of Grand and Bryce Canyon and Zion National Park in southern Utah. The project, costing about $3,000,000, is one and one-eighth miles long and is unique in construction.

St. Louisan Invents Speedometer That Subtracts Mileage

A speedometer which subtracts, as well as adds, mileage, is the invention of C. H. Dacon of 4224 Delmar boulevard.

As the car is driven further and further, the mileage on the Dacon dial of the speedometer becomes less and less. The driver thereby is able to tell how many more miles he must travel in order to reach a given destination.

The beauty of the Dacon instrument is that it relieves the motorist of the necessity of subtracting his accrued mileage from the predetermined total of the trip.

Peerless Output Grows

Peerless shipments in the first half of 1929 were 26 per cent greater than during the same period of last year. This is in spite of the fact that the new straight eight was not offered to the public until May. This model has proved to be the finest car produced so far in the big Cleveland factory.

1913 Chevrolet Is Still in Daily Use In Texas Town

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 20.—Chevrolet with a chassis built in 1913, a year before the World War began, and a motor that was assembled when our doughboys were encamping back in 1917, is still in daily use at Goliad, Tex.

It is called "Spark Plug" by its proud owner, Hugo Wilks and of the millions of Chevrolets in use today on both hemispheres it is one of the oldest.

True, the 1929 Chevrolet, with its smooth six-cylinder motor, can outclimb, outspeed and outhaul it.

True, too, that "Spark Plug" appears a bit antique when contrasted with the handsome new Fisher bodies of the 1929 Chevrolet. But "Spark Plug" can do plenty of climbing, speeding and hauling on its own account and is beyond question an outstanding example of a long-lived and dependable automobile.

On several occasions Wilks has hitched a trailer to "Spark Plug" and pulled a load of 2000 pounds, plus the 815 pounds which the trailer weighs, all the way to San Antonio, 125 miles distant.

Franklin Sales Here Increase 105 Per Cent

A. Spielberg Attributes Growth to Road Records.

Sales of Franklins in the St. Louis area have increased 105 per cent in the first six months of 1929, compared with sales in the same period in 1928, according to A. Spielberg, president of the Franklin Motor Co., distributer. In May and June of this year, sales increased 136 per cent over those of May and June, 1928, he said.

Spielberg attributes the increase to the growing popularity of the air-cooled engine. Aviation authorities, he declares, say that 80 per cent of the motors used in aircraft are air-cooled.

He also cites the number of road records held by Franklin cars as a reason for the growth in sales.

Inter-city records that Franklin cars hold include the time between Los Angeles and New York and return, New York to Chicago, New York to Miami, Los Angeles to Phoenix, San Francisco to Los Angeles, Salt Lake City to Los Angeles, Dallas to El Paso and many mountain climbs.

with De Soto Six

When the Chrysler-built De Soto Six was designed, special emphasis was placed on its easy riding.

Balanced spring suspension, a minimum of unsprung weight, low-hung body, rubber engine mountings and Chrysler-selected hydraulic shock absorbers, front and rear, make the De Soto Six the steadiest riding medium-weight motor car on the road today.

De Soto Six takes the turns safely at high speeds; does not tend to swing when suddenly slowed down; rides remarkably easily over the roughest surfaces; and at all times gives the impression of being a far larger, heavier and more expensive car.

We earnestly invite you to make your own comparison. Pick the worst road and step on the gas. For easy-riding qualities alone, apart from other features of remarkable performance, you will find the De Soto Six considerably superior to any other make of motor car that is sold below $1,000.

Bus Using Gas And Electricity Developed Here

St. Louis Car Co. Builds Revolutionary Type of Vehicle.

A new type of bus, which its makers think will prove a revolutionary step in the use of that type of carrier for mass transportation in large cities, has been completed and tested satisfactorily at the St. Louis Car Co., 8000 North Broadway, after the engineering staff had worked two and one-half years on its development.

It seats 40 passengers and has a gas-electric power plant which not only generates electricity to drive the big bus but to operate its brakes, open and close its doors, and supply its light and heat. It has safety appliances that heretofore have not been installed on busses.

The power unit is located in the rear end and consists of a six-cylinder gasoline motor which is connected directly with a generator, thus doing away with the necessity of shifting gears and eliminating the whining sound caused by this operation in the conventional types of busses now in use. The current generated is transmitted to four 30-horsepower electric motors, one of which is connected with each of the four rear wheels.

The housing for these four motors and their gear connections with the wheels takes the place of the ordinary heavy steel axle. This and the entire arrangement of the power plant is entirely new, according to the builders.

The maximum speed is 45 miles an hour. Starting from a standstill, it will accelerate up to a 20-mile rate in 11 seconds.

There are no brake drums or brake bands, but the operator stops the bus by pressing a foot lever reversing the current in the motors which work in opposition to the wheels and stops them suddenly or gradually, depending on the pressure used.

The bus cannot operate when either the front entrance door or the center exit door is open. The doors can be opened only by a push button control. The center door will open only when a passenger is standing on a metal foot tredle in the floor. If someone's hand or foot is caught in the door, the mechanism is automatically reversed and the door reopens preventing one from being dragged.

In case the chauffeur is stricken suddenly and loses control on a steep grade the door locks are automatically released and the passengers can easily alight as the speed is immediately reduced and the bus will coast at a speed of only two and one-half miles an hour.

The bus is of low construction, the steps being 13 inches from the ground and the floor 26 inches. It has a 210-inch wheel base, is 31 feet 4 inches long, 8 feet wide and 8 feet 11 inches high.

A group of the company's engineers, headed by Howard Gass, sales engineer, will leave with the bus today for the Equipment Men's Association convention at Lexington, Ky., this week. On the way they will display it at Terre Haute, Ind., Indianapolis, Ind., and Louisville, Ky.

good pay and the opportunity for advancement is considerable. These two facts, together with the fact that a mechanic's job is a good entree to actual flying, are counted upon to meet the need for men who will keep the nation's growing commercial air fleet in flying condition.

The safeguards that the Aeronautics Branch of the United States Department of Commerce throw around commercial aviation get safer all the time. That was visible in the 38 changes recently made in the airworthiness code governing the design and construction of planes intended for private use.

Among the outstanding changes are those which outline the most accurately controlled tests for the streigth of wings, ailerons, rudders, elevators and for the systems which operate them. Landing gears must prove their capacities to withstand shocks of the intensities to be expected in the particular type of plane to which they are attached.

Testing to destruction, one of the common gestures in the early days of the automobile, is prescribed for all wood members of planes that come before the department for approved type certificates. That test, of course, applies very largely to wings which in nearly every case are fabric over wood members.

Pilots on the transcontinental mail route now are getting the benefit of Uncle Sam's $350,000 weather reporting system, one of the most up-to-date in the world.

A band of 400 miles wide and extending from New York to San Francisco is covered by the service which broadcasts its information every three hours. Stations located at Cleveland, Omaha, Salt Lake City and San Francisco broadcast the forecasts which are based upon information collected at 60 strategic points along the way.

That the service will be of vital assistance to those traversing the transcontinental was a soundly established fact before it started functioning on a nationwide scale.

A. A. A. Opens Air Travel Bureau Of Information

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Another step in the direction of providing an all-inclusive travel service for members has been taken by the American Automobile Associations, with the formation of an Air Travel Division to extend to air travelers the service now enjoyed by motorists.

In announcing this service, Thomas P. Henry, president of the A. A. A., declared that there is no doubt that America is becoming air-minded. "At the same time," he continued, "there is great need for adequate travel information relating to air service, as well as for maps and schedules. There is possibly no agency in the country better equipped to enter this field than the A. A. A. with its more than 1000 affiliated motor clubs scattered over the country and with affiliations in all foreign lands.

Henry pointed out that the Air Travel Division is prepared to furnish A. A. A. members with information on the following points:

Regulations, including licensing, operation and ownership of aircraft, licensing of pilots and mechanics, marking of licensed and unlicensed aircraft, inspection of aircraft, and air travel regulations.

Aviation weather forecasts.

Aviation maps.

Schedules and tariffs for air transport, including passengers, express and mail.

spring should be tightly walled up to exclude surface drainage and should be covered so that one cannot have access to it without considerable effort. The water thus neatly housed should be discharged for the use of the camper through a pipe passing through the wall. Open dug wells, particularly those with buckets, are no better than springs When the top of a well is open, or not tightly covered, the water may be contaminated by matter reaching it from the top and, without question, it frequently is so contaminated. This may be through actions of individuals or from natural causes.

If the water is drawn from the well by means of a bucket, each time the bucket is brought up the bottom of it is probably made dirty, and then that dirt is washed off into the water when the bucket is again lowered. The dug well properly located may be protected by a water-tight raised platform with the ground surface around the platform graded away so that waste water will be led away from the well. On top of the tight platform there should be a suitable pump. The best type of small water supply is a driven or drilled well, which is cased from the top of the ground to the water bearing strata or at least to the first layer of solid rock. To the top of the casing the pump may be attached and about the casing and under the pump there may be built a water-tight sloping platform.

If, in your travels, you are not sure of the quality of the drinking water, boil it before using. After boiling, it will probably have a flat taste. This may be remedied by pouring the water from one vessel into another a number of times, which procedure permits the water to aerate itself. However, even if the water has a slightly flat taste, you will be assured that it is safe to drink.

Of all the camp facilities, the tourist will probably appreciate nothing more than a clean, safe, and sanitary method of sewage disposal. Flush toilets connected to a sewerage system of a city provide the best arrangement of all; but, if this is impossible, they may with satisfaction be connected to a septic tank. Chemical closets are acceptable if given the necessary care and attention. Cesspools as a final point of sewage disposal should be avoided, because of the danger of infecting surface water supplies. Some camps cannot be equipped with flush toilets, but must have, because of their location or lack of water, pit privies While privies often become objectionable, there is no reason why they cannot be satisfactory if they are properly constructed and adequately supervised.

Members of the senior class at the University of New Hampshire have been granted the privilege of parking their automobiles on the campus.

Chrysler Sales Winners Given Trip to Detroit

Four From St. Louis Are Among 100 Rewarded in Country.

Four Chrysler salesmen in the St. Louis territory, who were among 100 from all over the United States who won a sales contest conducted by Chrysler Motors a month ago, left St. Louis Monday for a five-day trip to Detroit, Mich., where they were the guests of Walter P. Chrysler.

The contest, which lasted from May 20 to June 30, was for the highest individual sales totals in that period. L. M. Stewart, general manager of the Midwest Motors, Inc., Chrysler distributer in this area, estimated that more than 20,000 salesmen all over the country participated.

"It is an honor for four men in our district to place among the 100," Stewart declared. "In my opinion, it means that St. Louis stands out as one of the more important Chrysler sales and distributing points. Midwest Motors is proud of the men.

The four whose sales record for the 40 days of the contest entitled them to the trip were L. G. Hood, retail salesman for Midwest Motors, Inc.; Irvin Jordan, Chrysler dealer at St. Johns; Kinney Hammond, dealer at Granite City, and Emil Lasker of Lasker Motors, Inc., Chrysler dealer at 5626 Gravois avenue.

Will Make "Talkies" On Latin Trade Trip

Complete sound and talking apparatus for the making of motion pictures will be carried on an aeronautical expedition for the first time, when the South American Trade Extension Flight takes off in its giant twin-motored amphibian this fall. Special color and sound apparatus of aluminum weighing less than 500 pounds is now being prepared for the flight in New York.

The South American Trade Extension Flight, sponsored by the American Manufacturers' Export Association and other Pan-American organizations, is being projected to increase good will between the United States and its southern neighbors. This tour of 22 Latin and South American countries will take approximately five months, and will visit 24 of the most important trade centers in these countries.

Franklin Profits Of $1,250,000 in First Six Months

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 20.—Following a record business in the first six months of the current year, indications are that profits of the Franklin Automobile Co. will amount to approximately $1,250,000 net, after taxes. With provisions made for preferred dividends, there remains $3.50 per common share for the period.

June shipments of 1405 cars was the largest June business in the company's history. In the last week of June, shipments of 499 cars exceeded all previous week shipping totals. These new high marks round out the company's record-breaking period for the half year which showed an increase of 135 per cent over the same period of last year.

A Poor Cleaner.

Gasoline used to clean spots from the closed car upholstery may prove harmful to certain kinds of fabric. A mild soap is better.

Gilda Gray, Dance Queen, Admires Viking Smoothness

Gilda Gray, who has won fame and fortune with her many dance vibrations, expresses keen admiration for the quiet smoothness of the new Viking, 90-degree, V-type eight-cylinder automobile.

"It's a real thrill to drive the new Viking," says Gilda. "After a strenuous performance it is a treat to take the wheel of a car that is so restful to drive. Not an effort is required—something which any car owner can appreciate."

Many factors enter into making the Viking a smooth, quiet and easily handled car, according to the Oldsmobile-Viking engineers who designed this new General Motors product.

The new 90-degree V type eight-cylinder engine contributes materially to smoothness and quietness. There is a power stroke at each quarter turn of the crankshaft, making a constant overlapping flow of power and smoothness of operation. The short crankshaft used in the V type engine reduces the possibility of vibration to a minimum, owing to its shortness and heavy construction as well as perfect balance.

"Adhering strictly to the soundest principles of design, Chrysler engineers have, nevertheless, developed and applied these principles in a manner just as revolutionary as the application of steam to ocean-going ships. + + + We believe that the creation of the Chrysler accomplished an all-important evolution in motor cars no less valuable than the original invention of the automobile."

WHY CHRYSLER CAN'T BE COPIED

For five years the motor car industry has striven unceasingly to emulate and overtake Chrysler—yet all its best efforts and most persistent ambitions to that end have fallen far short of their goal.

Regardless of attempts of engineering generally to pattern itself after Chrysler engineering, and despite frank borrowing of Chrysler features, the fact remains that Chrysler cars are still as different from other cars as day from night.

As time rolls on, it becomes more and more manifest that Chrysler performance can't be copied—that only Chrysler engineering and Chrysler manufacturing methods combined can produce Chrysler results.

Chrysler results are uncopiable because Chrysler engineering is of an entirely new school of thought, because Chrysler ingenuity is free from the hindering and hampering influence of out-dated traditions.

So Chrysler goes marching on, strengthening its leadership, maintaining a wide margin of superiority in performance—demonstrating a virile fleetness, an eager spirit, an unwavering stamina and an unruffled smoothness other cars find impossible to equal. We invite you to make your own tests and comparisons.

Oakland Brings Out Four-Door Brougham Type

Priced at $1195, This Model Increases Line to Nine.

PONTIAC, Mich., July 20.—Addition of a new body type, the brougham or close coupled four-door sedan, to the current line of Oakland All-American sixes, is announced today by W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales of the Oakland Motor Car Co.

Production on the new type began late in June, and the car will be shown here in a week or two.

Priced at $1195 f. o. b. Pontiac, the brougham lists at $50 less than the standard four-door sedan in the Oakland line, and brings the number of Oakland body types now on the market to nine. Colors are the latest Duco combinations.

While the wide front and rear seats offer ample room for five passengers, the brougham provides the cozy intimacy possibly only with this new type of body. The four-door construction provides for a one-piece, full width front seat, rather than the bucket type of individual seat as used in two-door sedan models. This allows for ready access to the rear compartment without disturbing front seat passengers.

Equipment is similar to that on the other Fisher-Oakland bodies, and includes a driver's seat adjustable to any position even while driving; mohair upholstery, arm rests, roller shade on rear window, smoking set, colored garnish rails, crank type window regulators, nickel plated robe rest and foot rail, side cowl ventilators, automatic windshield cleaner, non-glare rear view mirror and many other features.

The new type is particularly adapted to trunk equipment, which is supplied by Oakland-Pontiac dealers as optional equipment at slight extra cost.

Tire Blows Out, White Truck Is Not Affected

When the White Motor Co. pioneered the use of balloon tires on high speed busses three years ago, it realized that the successful use of these tires depended on the driver being able to maintain full control of the bus in case of tire failure and particularly a front tire.

Accordingly, the weight distribution was worked out to secure the proper total weight on the front tires under the worst loading conditions and the steering mechanism, the camber of the front wheels and the angle of the axle king pins were carefully co-ordinated to prevent shimmy or the locking of the steering under any condition.

How successful this engineering effort has been was demonstrated recently when officials of the White Motor Co. made a series of tests to find the answer to what happens when a loaded 40-passenger bus going 60 miles an hour "blows" a front tire.

Nothing happens. The tire goes flat and the bus continues on its way, hardly swerving from its course.

Four tests were made with different weights and makes of tires, with results about identical as far as the safety element was concerned.

A standard bus-type six-cylinder chassis weighing 24,000 pounds with its load normally distributed was driven by an experimental road test engineer. Without warning to the driver a double-barrel shot gun was discharged when a speed approximating 60 miles an hour had been reached.

The shot gun had been rigidly fastened to the front bumper with the triggers synchronized so that both barrels would be discharged simultaneously.

In the 200 yards necessary to bring the vehicle to a stop hardly a wobble was noticeable.

Hudson Coupes Used on Aerocars By Plane Express

Fleet of Five Pass Through City on Route of S. A. F. E.

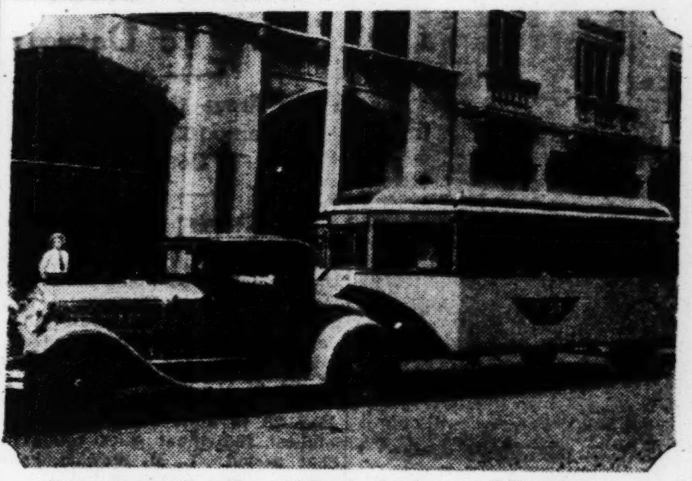
Five business men of Tulsa, Ok., acting as chauffeurs for a fleet of aerocars, which will soon be put in service by the Southwest Air Fast Express, visited St. Louis last week and were welcomed by Director of Public Welfare Salisbury.

The party was met in East St. Louis and escorted to the city by a squad of police. The fleet of cars is being taken to Dallas, Tex., by way of St. Louis, Kansas City, Mo.; Tulsa and Oklahoma City. One aerocar is being left at each point, to be used in transporting passengers to and from airports.

A Greater Hudson standard coupe supplies the motive power, the aerocar trailers being fastened to the machines by patented methods, calculated to eliminate vibration and bumps. Two telephones connect the driver's compartment with the trailer.

In St. Louis the aerocar picks up passengers at the downtown hotels and Union Station every morning, taking them to Lambert-St. Louis Field where they board the plane at 8:30 a. m. for Sweetwater, Ok. An overnight train takes them to El Paso, Tex., whence the air journey is resumed to Los Angeles.

Greater Hudson Coupe and Aerocar



A fleet of aerocars, to be used by the Southwest Air Fast Express, passed through St. Louis last week. Hudsons are used to pull these trailers.

Truck Taxis in Germany.

The freight taxi is the latest innovation in the transportation system of Hamburg, Germany. Parcels up to 2200 pounds will be transported at a cost of somewhat below 30 cents for the first mile and not quite 20 cents for each additional mile.

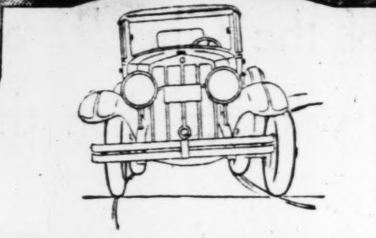
Cannon Ball Baker taking a sharp turn at high speed on Mt. Diablo



Because of air-cooling the Franklin chassis can be built with great flexibility. There are no radiator connections or other plumbing fixtures which require rigid construction for protection. When Franklin takes a turn at high speed, all four wheels cling to the ground. Franklin's flexible frame and full-elliptic springs counteract any sliding or tipping forces. There is a comfortable feeling of stability and safety

FLEXIBILITY and CONTROL have enabled Franklin to conquer all major road records

ALL THESE AMAZING ROAD RECORDS NOW HELD BY FRANKLIN

Los Angeles to New York and return—6692 miles in 6½ days—beating previous record by 10 hours, 36 minutes.

New York to Chicago—840 miles in 18 hours, 59½ minutes—beating previous record by 7 hours, 50½ minutes.

New York to Miami—1541 miles in 31 hours, 10 minutes—beating previous record by 7 hours, 57 minutes.

Los Angeles to Phoenix, Desert Derby—892 miles in 17 hours, 47 minutes—beating record by 1 hour, 11 minutes.

San Francisco to Los Angeles—412 miles in 7 hours, 32 minutes—beating previous record by 1 hour, 25 minutes.

Salt Lake City to Los Angeles—765 miles in 14 hours, 57½ minutes—beating previous record by 1 hour, 19½ minutes.

Dallas to El Paso—687 miles in 12 hours, 54 minutes—beating previous record by 1 hour, 44 minutes.

Mt. Washington climb—America's steepest accessible peak—beating previous record by 2 minutes, 10 2/5 seconds.

Mt. Mitchell climb—highest peak east of Rockies—Franklin holds also the round trip record.

Lookout Mountain climb—46% steeper than Pike's Peak—4.6 miles per hour faster than previous record.

Mt. Diablo—difficult California peak—record for up-trip and round-trip.

Franklin has shown the entire automotive industry how to build supreme comfort into fine motor cars. No other American car is comparable to Franklin in roadability, easy control and riding comfort. These tremendously important features played a great part in Franklin's capture of record after record.

The Franklin Owner is always sure of his car—he drives in greatest safety—even at high speeds. Roads are smoothed out—and sharp turns seem like easy curves. Full-elliptic springs—adding to flexibility—cradle his comfort. Perfectly equalized hydraulic brakes and finger-touch steering, emphasize security. In addition to performance, which is powerful, smooth, swift, quiet and comfortable, Franklin also affords the roominess of America's most spacious 5 and 7 passenger sedans.

Find out what Franklin's record-breaking performance means to you. Drive one yourself—anywhere—at any speed.

Marquette
BODY BY FISHER

BUILT BY BUICK
BODY BY FISHER
A GUARANTEE OF EXTRA VALUE

"Built by Buick"—only the Marquette in the moderate-price field can offer that priceless recommendation. This remarkable new six provides in every feature the unstinted goodness that has forever established Buick in the public mind as a master builder. Extra quality is everywhere—to provide extraordinary brilliance in performance, unfailing dependability in service, and unlimited satisfaction in ownership.

On its staunch and sturdy chassis the Marquette carries closed Bodies by Fisher—the latest expression of the artistry and craftsmanship of the world's greatest body builder. Smart, low-swung lines—the last word in modern good taste. Interior and exterior finishes of pleasantly blending colors. Tailoring and appointments of exceptional quality and completeness. And such value features as: a remarkable new non-glare windshield, to be found on no other automobile; adjustable driver's seat; and beautiful new rubberized mohair upholstery, waterproof, dustproof and wearproof—shown for the first time on Marquette.

The great resources and unparalleled facilities of Buick and Fisher have combined to provide, in design and construction as well as in equipment and appointments, a greater measure of extra value than any car of comparable price offers.

At the first opportunity see and drive the Marquette. Check every feature, make every test. Here is a car that proves by everything it is and everything it does that "Built by Buick" and "Body by Fisher" are double assurance of extra value.

The Marquette is easy to own. Talk to your dealer about it. You will be surprised at how economically you can buy a Marquette on the liberal G. M. A. C. terms.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT . . . BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

At St. Louis

ST. LOUIS will be one of the principal control points for the National Air Tour, which starts from Detroit Oct. 5. Approximately 40 pilots will compete for the Edsel Ford Trophy, offered as a stimulant to reliability in commercial aircraft. The tourists will reach St. Louis about Oct. 13 and will spend the night here.

Capt. Frank Hawks, cross-continent flyer, is surveying the route to be followed by the tourists. He is expected at Lambert-St. Louis Field next Tuesday.

Improving Lambert Field.

With the awarding of the contract for the concrete apron on the west side of Lambert-St. Louis Field last week and the announcement that a program for runways has been adopted, construction at Lambert-St. Louis Field will shortly be going at top speed.

Work on the apron, which will be 2000 feet long and 200 feet wide, will start in 10 days. The first runway, to be started as soon as the type of material is selected, will extend diagonally across the airport from northeast to southwest. This location meets with the approval of the majority of persons concerned.

$3,000,000 Initial Cost.

The preparation for the coast-to-coast service operated by Trans-Continental Air Transport, Inc., and the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe Railroads cost the air line more than $3,000,000, according to a statement of expenditures compiled at the headquarters here. The largest single item was for 10 transport planes and spare parts, including 16 extra engines, $813,000.

Thrush Gets Certificate.

Approved type certificate No. 160 was issued by the Department of Commerce for the Curtiss Thrush, which is to be made in the new plant now being constructed by the Curtiss-Robertson Air-

Rated as Transport School.

Parks Air College has been designated a transport school by the Department of Commerce. The college now has the right to qualify stduents as transport pilots, the highest rating, under Department of Commerce regulations.

Business Class Graduated.

The first business class in aviation was graduated from the Universal Flying School Thursday. The class celebrated with a banquet at a downtown hotel.

Universal Activities in July.

Planes of the Universal Aviation Corporation operating out of St. Louis flew 21,550 miles during the first two weks of July, carrying 5800 pounds of mail and 183 passengers.

J. L. Lambert Busy.

George Lea Lambert, vice president of the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Co., is "pepping up" that organization. In addition to his executive duties Lambert finds time to "hop" passengers and oversee activities in general.

J. T. Milliken Learning to Fly.

John T. Milliken, who formerly aspired to auto speed records in St. Louis County, has purchased a Robin monoplane and is taking a course in flying at Lambert Field.

Order for 20 Robins.

Twenty Curtiss Robins have been ordered by the sales department of the Universal Aviation Corporation for general distribution. Joe Read, salesmanager for the company, has established dealers at 15 cities covered by the Universal System.

Universal also announced the purchase of six American Eagle training planes for its schools.

and Eugene Vidal, chief inspector, had to give up their places in one of the company planes here last week because two pay passengers arrived on the scene and the plane was loaded except for the places vacated by Magee and Vidal.

Boy Scout to Police Airport.

Anticipating that a large crowd will visit Lambert Field today, Acting Field Manager Parks arranged for 75 Boy Scouts and several deputy sheriffs to assist in policing the airport. The usual entertainment program of stunt flying will be presented.

German Attache Inspects Port.

Capt. Helm Speidel, an attache of the German embassy at Washington, inspected the Von Hoffmann Flying School last week. Capt. Speidel is obtaining data on commercial aviation for his Government.

All-Air Ticket Office.

The first all-air ticket office in downtown St. Louis will be opened Aug. 1 by the Universal Aviation Corporation in Hotel Jefferson.

Preserves Historic Plane.

Art Goebel's California-to-Hawaii plane, "Woolaroc," is to be preserved in a private museum at the ranch of Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips Petroleum Corporation, at Bartlesville, Ok.

Instruction Ship Bought.

The Von Hoffmann Flying School has purchased a Cardinal fitted with dual controls for instruction purposes.

Making Planes for China.

The Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Co. is working on 10 Challenger Robins for air mail and passenger service in China. The Chinese aviation project is being partly financed by Aviation Exploration, Inc., a Curtiss-Keys concern.

Woman Flying Student.

Mrs. L. W. Gerling, 7203 St. Andrew place, is a student at the Universal Flying School. She plans to buy a plane upon completing the course.

Russian Makes High Average.

Peter A. Malt, a native of Odessa, Russia, who could not speak English when he came to Parks Air College for instruction five months ago, was one of eight students receiving pilot's licenses last week. He made one of the highest scholastic averages at the school.

Self-starter for Aircraft.

The Ryan Aircraft Corporation is experimenting with a starter, operated after the manner of automobile starters, for the Ryan brougham. First tests are reported as satisfactory.

The company also reported the sales of new Ryan broughams to the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio and the Arch Haynes Drilling Co., Shreveport, La. Other oil concerns owning Ryan monoplanes are the Midland, Texas & Pacific, Henshaw, Continental and Texon.

Theater to Show a Cardinal.

A Cardinal monoplane is to be exhibited in the lobby of the St. Louis Theater next week in connection with an aviation movie.

Rutledge Quits Garden City.

George T. Rutledge, who has charge of operations for the Universal Aviation Corporation at Garden City, Kan., has returned to the headquarters here. His successor at Garden City has not been named.

Schlee Passes Through.

Ed Schlee, Detroit airplane dealer, who flew more than half way around the world, from Detroit to Tokio, with William Brock in 1927, was a visitor at Parks Airport during the week. Schlee was a passenger in one of the two Lockheed monoplanes on the way from Los Angeles to Detroit. With him was James Kirkwood, movie actor and director, and Mrs. W. B. Hall, a member of the Women's National Aeronautic Association.

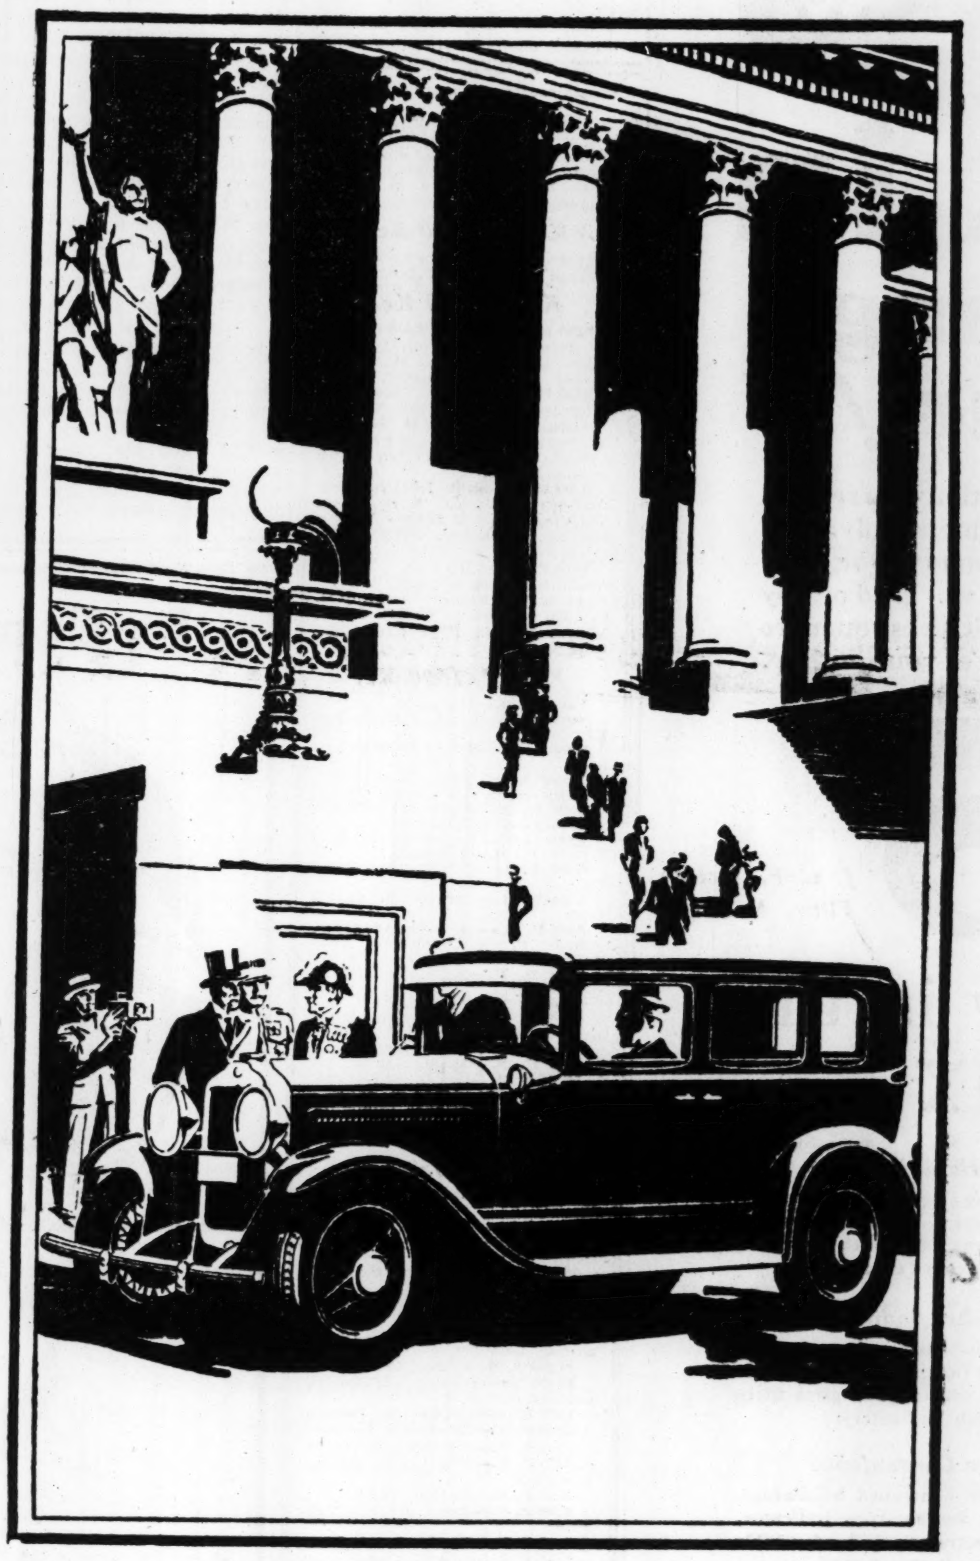
SMOOTHNESS



In a setting that rivals custom-car beauty....

The Willys-Knight "70-B" is bringing a new and higher order of pleasurable, carefree motoring to added thousands of enthusiastic owners.

The simplicity of the patented Knight double sleeve-valve engine results in remarkable smoothness and efficiency, sturdy endurance and sustained speed. An unusual degree of freedom from adjustments, carbon troubles and repairs makes the Knight engine decidedly economical to operate.

In each cylinder, two metal sleeves move quietly up and down, admitting gasoline vapor and expelling burned gases through openings in their sides. These sleeves combine with the dome-shaped cylinder head to form a tightly sealed combustion chamber, giving high uniform compression at all speeds and with any gas.

The new style Willys-Knight "70-B" is the largest, most beautiful and most powerful Knight-engined car ever offered at such a low price. In smartness of design, the "70-B" finds adequate comparison only among more expensive cars.

Hank Simmons' 'Show Boat' One Of Big Successes

His Radio Actors Show Versatility of the Oldtime Stock Companies.

By DONALD C. BOLLES,
(Associated Press Feature Writer.)

NEW YORK, July 20.—Resurrecting the old-fashioned "melodramy" popular in "father's time." Hank Simmons' Showboat company has achieved an outstanding success in the new field of drama that was born with the advent of the radio.

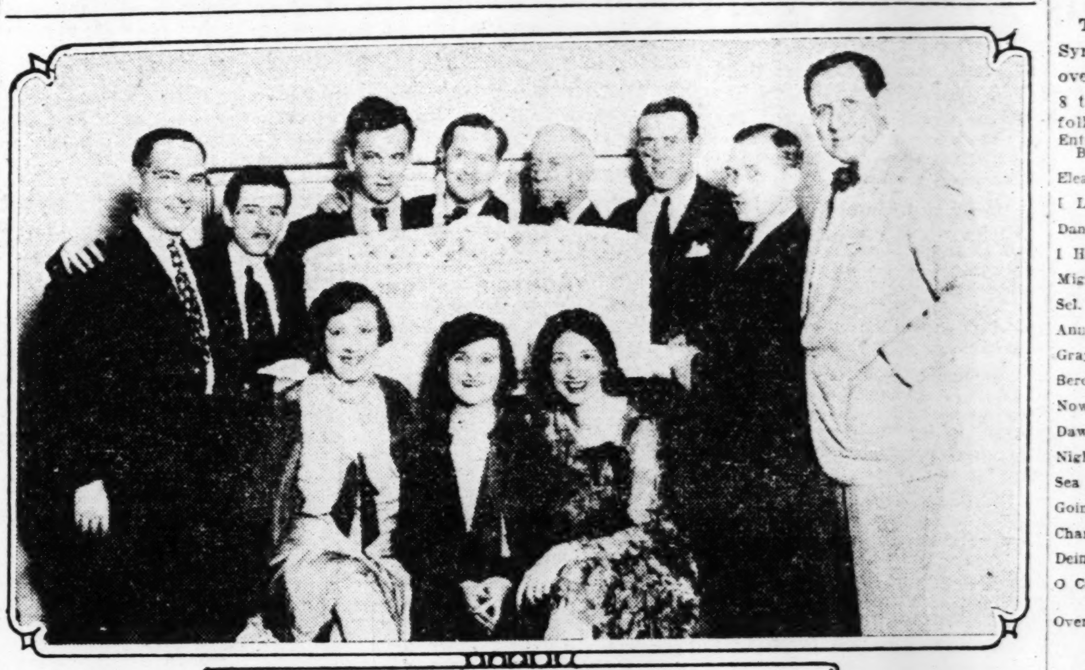
Reminiscent of days on the Mississippi when numerous palaces of amusement floated on its broad waters, the company has passed its first milestone. On the completion of the first year on the "Broadway of the air"—a coast-to-coast network of stations—the cast, still intact, cut a birthday cake July 17.

Old "Thrillers" Revived.

It claims distinction as the first company to present successfully radio drama with the realism of the stage, and the end of its record-breaking "run" on the air is not in sight.

To provide the vehicles for its weekly performances over WOR and associated stations, the company has revived and dressed in new clothes, to conform to modern demands, the "thrillers" of a quarter of a century ago. Thus the inseparable trio of melodrama—the beautiful heroine, handsome hero and plotting villain—have come back.

SHOW BOAT PLAYERS BEGIN SECOND YEAR ON AIR



Players in Hank Simmon's Show Boat Company, who on Thursday celebrated the beginning of their second year on the air. A performance of "Clouds and Sunshine," was the fifty-second broadcast from the show boat, "Maybelle."

A different melodrama has been presented each Wednesday night for a year by Hank Simmons and his supporting cast, which has displayed the versatility characteristic of stock companies of years ago. They have won the plaudits of a vast unseen audience.

The goal of the company, as expressed by Hank Simmons, who outside the studio is known as G. Underhill Macy, has been to enable its radio audience to "see" through hearing. This has required an appreciation of both the stage and the radio, and the success that has been achieved by the company is credited largely to the directing genius of Harry C. Browne, who is listed in the cast of characters as Henry Clinton.

Actors All Retained.

In collaboration with Phil Mahr, a veteran playwright, Browne adapts the vehicles to radio and directs the presentations as well as plays a leading part. He embarked upon his career in radio after many years on the stage, which carried him from the old "medicine" shows to Broadway, where he played a leading role in "The Fool" for two years. Macy played in vaudeville for many years.

All the other members of the company which is heard over WOR and network have had stage experience. Jane McGrew, the heroine, who in real life is Edith Thayer, played in several Broadway successes. Other members of the cast are "Maybelle," Elsa Mae Gordon; "George Spelvin," Oscar Ellinger; "Janet Marlowe," Eva Taylor; "DeWitt Schuyler," Lawrence Grattan, and "Happy Jack Lewis," Frank Reddig. All remain with the cast after a year's work together.

The Short-Wave Receiver.

Wires in a short-wave receiver should be as short as possible. Cross the wires carrying radio frequency currents at right angles and keep them apart as far as possible. Use a 112-A detector and 222 tubes for the radio frequency amplifiers.

Baldwin concert, with Phyllis Kraeuter, cellist, as soloist, at 7:45 p. m. Miss Kraeuter is of the eleventh generation of professional musicians in her family. She began to play the cello when she was only 6 years old. She made her debut at the age of 7 years before an audience of 2000. From 7 to 9, she was playing at every sort of public function in Columbus. At 9, she was using a three-quarter size instrument. At 12, she was the youngest student ever admitted to the classes of William Willeke at the Institute of Musical Art of the Juilliard Foundation, New York. She entered the Kneisel Chamber Music classes for five years, during which time she made frequent public appearances.

At 18, Miss Kraeuter was awarded artists' diploma, graduating with highest honors and winning the Morris Loeb prize of $1000. Later, she won the Naumburg prize, entitling her to a New York debut. Miss Kraeuter's debut at Town Hall, New York, in January, 1927, was the first of a series of concert triumphs.

The Baldwin Singers will assist Miss Kraeuter.

Crawford to Play Organ Over Chain

Jesse Crawford's Melody Hour will be a new concert feature over stations of the Columbia System, the first next on Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock.

This organist, who plays in the Paramount Theater, in New York City, was born in Woodland, Cal. His parents died when he was very young and he was brought up by nuns at an orphanage. The sisters gave Jesse piano lessons twice a week, but when the time came for him to leave and earn his own living, he did not have the training to enable him to find a job.

After walking hundreds of miles seeking work, he became a piano player in a theater in a small town near Spokane, Wash., at $5 a week. For three years he pounded the battered piano, with such results that his salary was raised to $25 a week. Then came a chance to play the organ, which he accepted, in spite of the fact that his salary was reduced to $10 a week.

Five years later, in Los Angeles, Crawford was earning more in a week than he had earned in the whole first year of his work. He now plays the largest orchestral pipe organ in the world.

Radio Survey of Farmer Preference

Service comes before entertainment in the preference of farmer listeners to WLS, a survey of 78 counties in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin indicates. On 4988 farms visited that have radios, market and weather reports are the first choice of 1834 farmers, it is shown in the report.

More farmers listen to market broadcasts before 8 a. m., between 9 and 10 a. m., and at noon than at any other time of the day, the survey indicates.

Chicago Plans Elaborate Radio Fight on Crime

The system will be a radio telephone service, as is broadcasting, but on short waves outside the broadcast band. Special short wave broadcast receivers of rugged construction will be used.

There will be two types of patrol cars. The higher powered cars will carry five patrolmen each, with "riot equipment," such as shotguns, machine guns and tear gas bombs, also cameras and finger print equipment. The smaller cars will carry two patrolmen armed with shotguns and tear gas bombs.

Chicago covers an area of 200 square miles. Its police department calculates that the new radio detection system should cover the city adequately.

WGN has been co-operating with the Chicago police in a crime service, but this has not been sufficiently far-reaching, it was stated.

In seven other cities crime detection services by radio are operated, but not on the same comprehensive scale as is planned in Chicago. These cities are Detroit; Cincinnati; Highland Park, Mich.; Baltimore; Dallas; Buffalo and Berkeley, Cal.

ABC Chain Gets California Station

The American Broadcasting Co. has added KFBK, Sacramento, Cal, to its rapidly expanding network.

Due to a "dead spot" in the atmosphere of the Sacramento Valley, numerous listeners were unable to hear ABC programs from KEX, Portland, or KYA, San Francisco. Complaints and inquiries as to why the ABC programs would not reach Sacramento audiences led to investigation by ABC engineers, they filed a report that due to mountain ranges and valleys, the carrier waves of the Hollywood and San Francisco stations would not reach residents of the Sacramento Valley with any degree of certainty.

Morning Concert Over KWK Today

The Spanish dances of Moszkowsky are among music to be played by John Meiszner's orchestra in a concert at 8:45 this morning over KWK. Emma Sampson Becker, soprano, and James Lancia, baritone, are to be the assisting artists and Allen Taylor the announcer.

The orchestral program will include:

Ever or Never Waltz .... Waldteufel
Overture to Don Juan .... Mozart
Selections from The Little Whopper. Friml
Rubber Plant Rag .... Cobb
Spanish Dances .... Moszkowsky

"HAIR-LINE" SELECTIVITY for Difficult Reception

ANY good radio will give you good service on certain stations, or when "the air" is comparatively clear and all conditions are normal.

For instance, you want to listen in on a horse race. It is afternoon, when trolleys and electric elevators are stopping and starting every other instant. Every station in America is competing for "the air."

It is then you appreciate the C. A. Earl's "Hair-Line" Super-Selectivity. Dial the station you want, and as far as you are concerned, it is the only station on the air. You are actually at the race track. You hear the roar of the crowd and the thud of flying hoofs.

Compare the C. A. Earl Radio with whatever radio you have heretofore considered the best. And then use your own judgment as to what radio you will buy.

May we send you our illustrated catalog and the name of your local C. A. Earl dealer?

Lectures for Radio Service Men Are Begun

Manufacturers' Send Engineers to St. Louis for Two-Day a Week Series.

The first of a series of illustrated lectures for radio service men, to be known as "The Manufacturers' Radio Service Conferences," were held Wednesday and Thursday at the Rankin Trades School. These lectures are to be given two days a week from 10 a. m. to noon. This week they will be given the same as last week, on Wednesday and Thursday.

The opening lectures were by R. M. Owens, an engineer for the Radio Corporation of America. This week an engineer is to come from the Grigsby-Grunow plant at Chicago to deliver the lectures. Engineers from other manufacturers will come to St. Louis on successive weeks. Each will describe fully, with illustrations, the circuit of the receivers made by his company and also will discuss servicing radio sets in general.

The lectures are free to anyone interested in radio service work as well as to service men employed by local dealers.

Questions to men who attended the opening lectures developed that many service men, even some who have become recognized as repair experts through eight and nine years of work, can service any trouble in any receiver, yet know virtually nothing about radio theory and cannot tell the why of anything they did. Consequently, considerable stress will be laid on the theory of radio reception and operation of sets, in the lectures.

It is the aim of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association, which is holding the lectures in conjunction with the Rankin School, to start a regular course in fundamentals of electricity and receiver and speaker design and operation in October. The association's Technical Committee, of which George Van Sickle is chairman, is giving a deal of attention to plans for making this course of the great practical benefit to service men.

'Cellist on WGN Tonight.

Olda Jirousek, a 'cellist of repute in Europe, and Herbert Johnson, a noted Chicago pianist, are to give a recital over WGN at 7:45 tonight.

The Bandalero, Baritone	Stuart
Ballet Suite, Sylvia	Delibes

From 9:15 to 9:45, the Cino Singers and Ralph Hartzell, baritone, will give this program:

Rolling Down to Rio	German
Songs My Mother Taught Me	Dvorak
Was Will Die Einsame Thrane,	Schumann
Dreams of What Might Have Been— Francis
Sylvia Speaks
If Winter Comes	Tennent
Ich Grolle Nicht	Schumann
Softly the Shades of Even Fall	Wilson
Scandalize Mah Name	Burleigh

Leonard Watson, cellist, is to give a recital from 9:45 to 10 o'clock.

From 10 to 11 o'clock, a Musicale Novalesque program is scheduled.

Receivers are to be placed in the rural schools of Manitoba, Canada.

Armour Series To Be Broadcast, Starting Aug. 2

New Friday Night Program to Go on Air From Chicago Over Blue Chain.

A 30-piece orchestra, a mixed chorus of 18 voices and a popular vocal trio will be among the features of a new program to be broadcast through a coast-to-coast network of National Broadcasting Co. stations including KWK.

The feature will be the Armour Hour. It will be heard from 7:30 to 8 o'clock each Friday night, beginning Aug. 2, from the Chicago NBC studios.

Every member of the chorus was selected by Don Bernard, program manager of the NBC Chicago division, because of outstanding voice quality, ability and training.

Fred Waldner, lyric tenor, will also be featured in popular songs.

The trio which will sing on the program gained wide popularity almost over night after being made known to the radio audience. This will be their first appearance on a regular coast-to-coast program. Their specialty is harmony with a background of guitar music.

Josef Koestner, leader of the orchestra and director of the production, has one of the richest musical backgrounds of any man in radio. Born in Bavaria of a musical family, he studied 12 years under some of the world's most famous teachers at Leipzig Conservatory. Graduating into orchestral work, he became conductor of noted continental groups and later was accompanist for Clair Dux, opera prima donna, and came with her to the United States. A short time ago he left his position as sound pictures musical supervisor for radio.

The new feature will be sponsored by Armour & Co.

Here and There on The Air

KATHLEEN STEWART, who has played so many piano recitals over KSD and other NBC stations, cables from London that she has given two concerts in that English city and plans to go to Paris for two more. She expects to return to London by airplane and play at Dartmouth House. Katherine Tift-Jones, who has been starred in sketches of the South over KWK and stations in the WJZ chain, is appearing with Miss Stewart.

Olive Palmer may be seen almost any day riding horseback in Central Park, New York, and occasionally riding cross-country in the fashionable Westchester section.

Sergei Kotlarsky, the violinist, who has been playing over Columbia chain stations with Mathilde Harding, pianist, used to play as "guest" soloist with Caruso for nine years.

Members of the "mobs" in NBC drama broadcasts collect $3 a night for their shoutings and cheerings.

Flavio Plasencia, baritone, who sings over WGN, says he can never answer that question, "How old are you?" because he actually does not know!

Both of Plasencia's grandmothers were Indian women, one married to a Russian and one to a Spaniard in Mexico. Sharing the old Indian idea that no one should know his age, they made the future singer's parents promise never to tell him when he was born.

Bob Pierce, who is the "Old Man Sunshine" in an NBC program, carries his love for children outside the studios. Pierce lives near a public school and half the pupils are his warm friends. They tell him everything about themselves, and partly from them he gets his understanding of modern children.

There is good reason why the Negro dialect in "Buck and Wing," a weekly KSD comedy program, is perfect. Phil Cook, who acts one of the characters, spends the hour before the program goes on the air, practicing in a control room. He rehearses the lines sometimes as many as five times before he goes to the "mike."

Devora Nadworney, a star of the National Grand Opera Co., spends much of her spare time putting into execution her ideas on interior decorating. No friend's apartment is safe—and at the expiration of her each year's lease, Miss Nadworney needs must go house hunting again so as to find new soil for her ideas for home decoration.

At an exciting moment in a recent Soconyland sketch a calmly languid man in an NBC studio casually hit a leather pillow several times with two sticks. Listeners presumably were startled by the resultant reports of pistol shots.

The champion mail getter on Columbia chain programs is said to be Henry Burbig, author and comedian, who burlesques famous poems in Ceco Courier broadcasts.

Hans Barth, one of the best known of radio pianists, is attracting worldwide attention from musicians by his periments with a quarter-tone piano, an instrument with two keyboards, one pitched a quarter of a tone lower than the other. He recently demonstrated this piano, with compositions of his own written especially for the quarter-tone, before a critical audience in New York. He plans an American tour demonstrating the harpsichord, the instrument of the past, the piano of today and the quarter-tone piano, which he believes will be the piano of 1950.

A suit against Mrs. Anne Wainwright Penfield, widow of Frederic Courtland Penfield, Ambassador to Austria in the Wilson administration, recently filed in New York, has a radio angle. Mrs. Penfield, it is said, has been acting as the financial backer of "Fioretta," produced by Earl Carroll. The musical composers of this are George L. Bagby and Romilli Johnson, the latter using the name Romilli. Bagby is said to be her nephew.

In addition to sponsoring the musical comedy of which these young men wrote the music, Mrs. Penfield is understood to have paid liberally to put them on the air.

This music was played and sung for 15 minutes Sunday afternoons for eight weeks over 15 stations of the National Broadcasting Co.

The price of each broadcast is said to have been $1427, and the total amount of the eight weeks' broadcasting, $11,419. Mrs. Penfield is said to have footed this bill in addition to everything else she has done to stage the musical comedy since the boys have written it.

Vaughn de Leath has named her newly-purchased home in Connecticut "The Hitching Post."

Countess Olga Medalago Albani, soprano and actress, who is heard in NBC programs, usually has one finger on her chin when she is singing before a microphone.

The plant equipment of broadcasting stations in the United States represents an investment of $25,000,000.

College Debate Series on WGY

Interest in intercollegiate debates proved so keen during the past two months that WGY has scheduled a series of one hour debates for the college year 1929-30, beginning in November.

W. Leon Godshall, director of debating at Union College is in charge of this feature and the Union debating team will be heard on each occasion. The schedule includes Albany College of Teachers and Bowdoin College, and the debating teams of Lafayette, Rutgers, Swarthmore, Hamilton and Temple have been invited.

Lois Bennett Sings On KSD Tomorrow

Lois Bennett is to sing in the General Motors concert tomorrow night over KSD.

Her beauty first charmed theater goers in the "Ziegfeld Follies," where she also displayed a voice of uncommon quality.

When Winthrop Ames organized the company with which he gave a series of performances of Gilbert and Sullivan operas, she was engaged to sing leading roles. ability with the fine music of livan and the crisp lines of caused critics immediately claim her as a light opera rare parts.

Labor Union's Appeal Fought By Radio Board

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The Chicago Federation of Labor "made no showing of ability to compete with existing communications services" the Federal Radio Commission declares in a brief filed in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals in answer to an appeal of the Federation from a decision of the commission refusing to relicense its short wave station.

License for point-to-point public service radio communication have been held by the federation for a station at Chicago, to communicate with stations owned or controlled by the Intercity company in the Great Lakes region on 153.8 kilocycles, from Nov. 19, 1926, until Feb. 19, 1927, and from Feb. 13, 1929, until assigned to the Intercity company. A similar license for 8050 kilocycles was held from Aug. 6, 1927, until Oct. 14, 1927. Nevertheless the station was continuously operated upon both of these frequencies from the time licenses were first issued until the commission's decision was announced on June 10, 1929.

"The Federation made no showing that existing communications facilities were inadequate to take care of the messages of the federation," the brief says.

"The federation made no showing of ability or plans as a communications company to compete with existing services but made a contrary showing that it was unable so to do.

"The federation (except for two months in the fall of 1926) has never operated its station and circuits and had no facilities for that purpose. The Intercity Radio Telegraph Co. managed the station, supplied the necessary capital, made the solicitation for and obtained the message traffic, received all income arising from operations, paid the federation a fixed rental sum for the use of the station, and finally purchased the station outright."

Radio Trade Notes

The Fuchs Appliance Co., 3607 Meramec street, has been appointed distributer of Day Fan receivers. D. Goldberg, manager of the wholesale department, will be in charge for the company of merchandising Day Fan products in the St. Louis territory.

There are three principal Day Fan models. Each uses the same chassis—a nine-tube set, completely shielded and with phonograph pick-up connection and improved dynamic speaker.

Day Fan receivers are wholly one dial controlled, there being no additional balancers or balancing condensers operated by extra tuning devices on the panels. An interesting feature is an auxiliary volume control, whereby one tube can be cut out, if desired, to reduce volume on an extra powerful local station. The regular volume control operates in the usual manner.

The dynamic speaker that is built into the cabinets was designed in the Day Fan laboratory by engineers of the speaker manufacturer, so as to match the receiver characteristics.

The four-gang variable condenser in the set is mounted on ball bearings for utmost smoothness of operation when tuning for a station. The gearing of the tuning drum has been increased to make sharp tuning easier,

There is a permanent connection for use in playing phonograph records through the audio amplifier and speaker of the set. There is a plug-in for the phonograph pick-up which can be left connected; then one need only turn a switch to operate the phonograph or back to the radio side.

Past Day Fan models have been noted for excellence of audio amplification. The new models show definite improvement even in this respect. Sensitivity and selectivity are said to be exceptional.

Cabinets are in walnut, with interesting effects in overlay and panelling.

The Staffelbach & Duffy Co. has been appointed distributer of Grebe receivers and radio products. Incidentally, the Grebe Co. is one of the oldest in the radio industry, having made receivers for some 20 years. It established WABC, New York, which now is the principal key station of the Columbia network, and has pioneered in broadcast and short wave receiver design.

AC screen grid tubes, power detection and a band pass tuning filter are features of the new Grebe receivers. The Grebe band pass tuner is designed to pass all overtones of music and at the same time be sharply selective. It is so constructed as to use a total of six tuned circuits.

The powerful signals built up in the band pass filter and the screen grid R. F. stages are passed on to a power detector, which is capable of handling great volume without overloading or distorting. This, of course, insures an undistorted signal to the audio amplifier, which uses super power tubes in push pull in the final stage.

A dynamic speaker of large size is built into the Grebe cabinets, which have been designed by an American artist of note who is regarded as an authority on decorative art and craftmanship.

Still another Grebe feature is an automatic voltage regulator. By automatically determining the amount of current passing through the set, this device lengthens tube life and efficiency.

The Grebe sets also have phonograph pick-up with an independent output transformer, which makes for better quality of reproduction.

Engineering practice for the most elaborate of public address systems is followed in one of the new Sparton receivers, which has two push-pull audio stages. The signals from the power detector of the set are fed into a first push-pul stage of two 26-type tubes which, in turn, operate into two of the 50-type suger power tubes in push-pull. The amplifier is capable of supplying several dynamic speakers in addition to the one built into the receiver cabinet, its output being about 20 watts. Yet volume can be turned down to any level desired. Incidentally, this particular set uses 12 tubes and is so massively built that it weighs 213 pounds.

Another Sparton set, which has two audio stages with two 50-type tubes in the last, gives an output of 15 watts. This set, as well as the one described above, is said to cover an audio range of 40 to 8000 cycles. It weighs 175 pounds.

Other Spartons use the 45-type tubes in push-pull audio with unusual results in volume and tone range.

All of these receivers have band pass selector tuning whereby the signal is completely selected and tuned before it reaches a tube. Thus the various functions of a receiver are separated. The signal is first tuned, then amplified in an R F amplifier that gives a voltage gain of 22,000 at 500 kilocycles and 8000 at 1500, then passed through a power detector and, finally, put through an audio amplifier. This method of tuning has distinct advantages, especially because it does not cut the overtones, yet is sharply selective.

The band selector has been improved until, it is stated, instead of a 60 per cent voltage loss of signal in the selector, as in the past, there is now a 30 per cent gain as compared with the original signal from the aerial.

A servicing feature is that various parts of the receiver are made in separate units. Any one of them can be substituted in a few minutes, so that an owner need not be deprived of the use of his set.

KMOX Notes

Woody Klose, 6340 Northwood, Clayton, has joined the KMOX staff as day announcer, succeeding Walter Rothschild, who has become managing director of WTAD at Quincy, Ill. Klose, before coming to St. Louis, was active in choir work in Minneapolis and was graduated from the Pillsbury Military Academy at Owatonna, Minn. He was director of the Pillsbury Glee Club and has been heard over broadcasting stations in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Chester Markert has rejoined the KMOX staff as organist and will play at intervals daily.

The Italian Men's Theater Group will give "The Village School," a comic operetta, from 7 to 7:30 o'clock next Saturday evening over KMOX.

Otto Gray and his Oklahoma Cowboy band have returned to KMOX to remain indefinitely, broadcasting afternoons and night

---

The growth of commercial aviation from 1903 on will be traced in an address over KMOX at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Mervin P. Bickley, traveling passenger agent of the Southwest Air Fast Express.

SINGS ON KSD

Lois Bennett, who is to be soloist in the General Motors concert tomorrow night over KSD.

No Danger That Television Will Scrap Present Sets

Fears that television, if it ever does come, will mean the scrapping of present radio receivers, seem to be groundless. The television reproducer, like the loudspeaker, will be another accessory to be plugged into the broadcast or shortwave set, depending upon the waveband on which pictures utimately will be received.

Present sets, and the future models not yet conceived, probably will be used as now.

Television reproduction needs a special amplifier, constructed to pass a much wider band of frequencies than is needed for music. Because of that fact engineers can see little prospect of a combined audio and visible set.

St. Louis Singing Contest Sept. 3

The date of the St. Louis audition in the 1929 Atwater Kent national radio singing competition has been set as Sept. 3, according to Mrs. Frederick Nussbaum, Missouri chairman. The local try-outs probably will be held at the Congress Hotel.

Sept. 3 also has been selected as the date for the local audition in the Joplin area. Mrs. W. H. Mallory of Joplin, is in charge of that area.

At these local try-outs, one boy and one girl non-professional singer, between the ages of 18 and 25 years will be selected to represent their respective districts in the state finals, which will be held over KMOX during the local radio show.

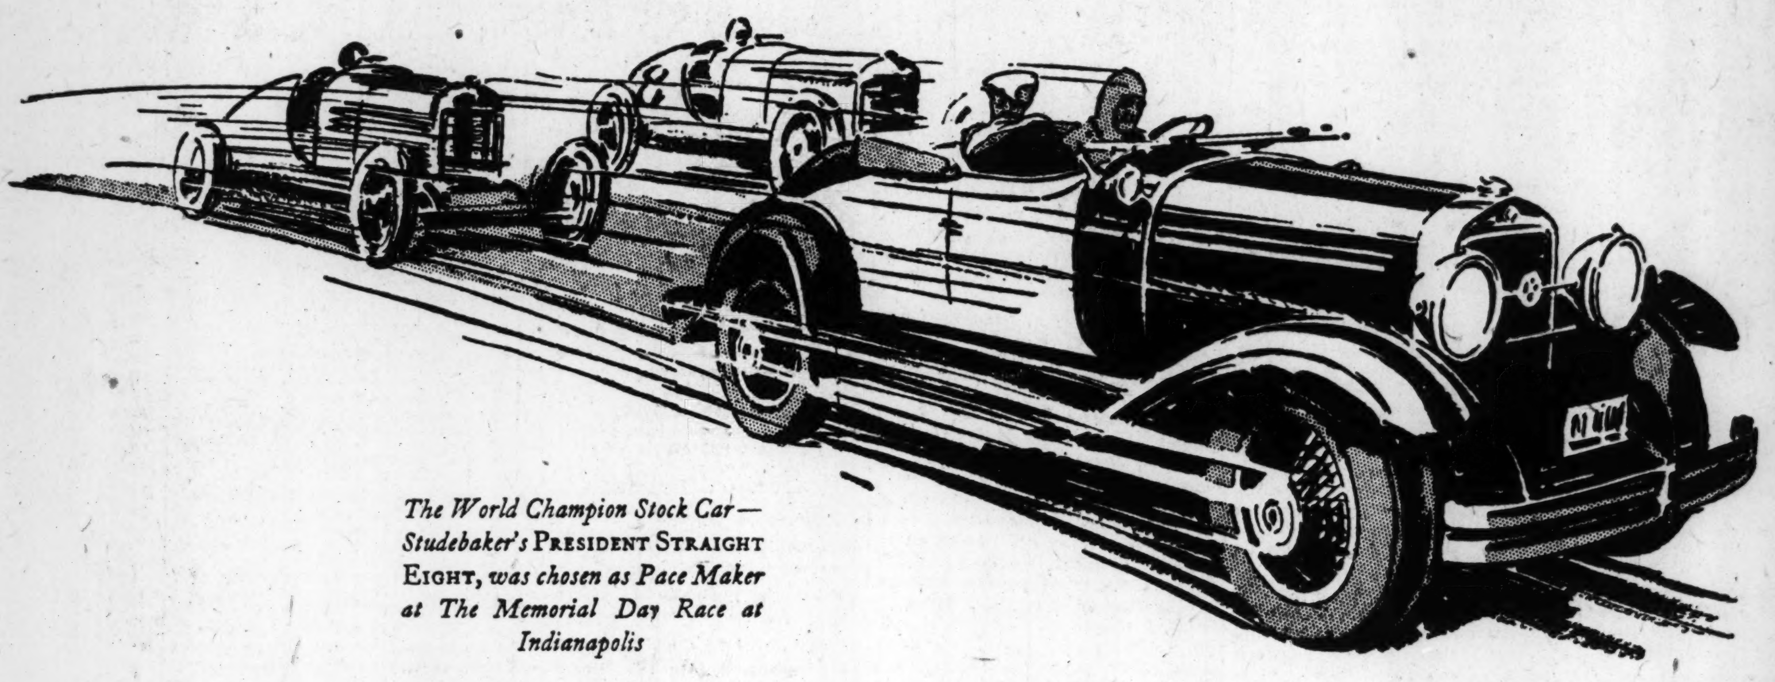
WORLD'S LARGEST BUILDER OF EIGHTS



The World Champion Stock Car—Studebaker's PRESIDENT STRAIGHT EIGHT, was chosen as Pace Maker at The Memorial Day Race at Indianapolis

STRAIGHT EIGHT wins for 9 straight years!

THIS year, as every year since 1920, a straight eight won the 500-mile Memorial Day Race at Indianapolis . . . a fact which has just this to do with your choice of a motor car—

Eights Preferred

Not only has the eight-cylinder engine become the accepted power for the finest passenger cars—the overwhelming choice of the greatest engineers of both Europe and America—but it utterly dominates the racing field, where cost is the last thing considered. Efficiency, capacity for sustained high speed, is the one and only consideration in the creation of these hand-built speed marvels.

Thus, entirely apart from its supple smoothness, the eight-cylinder motor is the choice of experts where fleetness and staying power are of first importance.

In the passenger car field, such European aristocrats as Bianchi, Bugatti, De Dion-Bouton, Isotta-Fraschini, Mercedes-Benz and Renault, are straight-eight powered because the straight eight is smoother, more flexible, more efficient, and better design.

In 1923, 10% of the makes of cars were eights. Today 41% are eights.

Today 88% of all cars built in the United States, priced at $2200 and upward, are eights

THE EIGHT IS THE CAR OF TODAY · · · AND TOMORROW!

At the recent Olympia Show in London, there were 25 makes of eight-cylinder cars, as against 13 in 1927.

At the Grand Palais in Paris, there were 27 eights shown in 1928, compared with 15 the year before!

Just as the straight eight leads the world as the preferred power for fine cars—so do Studebaker's smart champion eights lead all the eights of the world in sales, regardless of price, or type, or years before the public . . . Sales leadership parallels performance leadership! Studebaker holds every official stock car record for speed and staying power.

Aristocrat by Conquest

Studebaker's great President Eight holds 11 world and 23 international records by virtue of its feat of traveling 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes. Think of it—pressing onward for more than 438 consecutive hours at an average speed of 68.3 miles per hour.

Any normal man, woman or child can walk for hours, but running—that's another story. No athlete ever lived who could sprint for ten minutes. Any good automobile can keep in motion for an indefinite period but no automobile other than the Studebaker President Eight ever even attempted to sprint for thirty thousand miles—to race for 438 consecutive hours under the lash of terrific speed! Four Studebaker Presidents started to do this, and each of the four smashed all existing records. Nothing else except comets, suns and other heavenly bodies ever traveled so far so fast.

Strictly Stock Cars

No other car has ever established such conclusive proof of staying power! And the cars that performed this great achievement were strictly stock models selected at random by representatives of the American Automobile Association and timed and checked by that body.

Only Studebaker offers you Champion eight-cylinder cars at One-Profit prices!

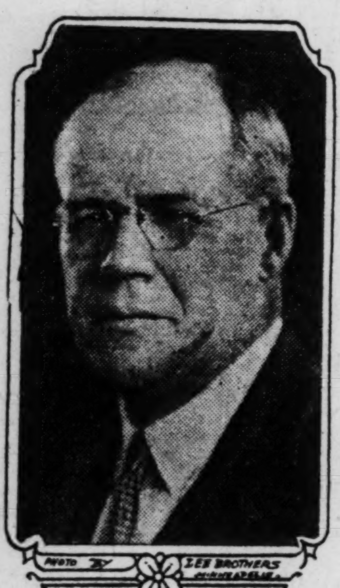
Minnesota Humorist Decides Not to Be as Funny as He Can When He Takes Congress Seat

By Carlos F. Hurd,
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 20.

FROM the land of the sky-blue water, whence they led the captive maid for radio sopranos to sing about, and whence they sent Magnus Johnson for Washington paragraphers to write about, Bill Nolan, post-humorist, is going to Congress.

He is just Bill Nolan, here in Minneapolis, where he sold papers on the streets when the Falls of St. Anthony made much more of a racket than they do now. People should call him "Governor," just as lieutenant-governors are usually called in this and other states; for Bill has been lieutenant-governor of Minnesota three terms.



REP. WILLIAM I. NOLAN.

Since they wouldn't call him "Governor" while he held second place in the State administration, Bill was thinking of running for the regular Governor's job whenever Theodore Christianson, now in his third term, should get through with it.

But last spring, when President Hoover drafted Walter Newton from the House for his secretarial staff, leaving a vacancy in the Fifth Minnesota district, Bill decided that "W. I. N., M. C." would look well on his suitcase. There was an idea for a campaign slogan—"W. I. N." Sure he would.

Poems and Anecdotes Featured in Campaign.

Newton had its own candidate for the succession, Postmaster Arch Coleman. The local Republican organization and the newspapers got behind Coleman. Another candidate in the Republican primary was "Pudge" Heffelfinger, Yale football star of the '90s. He got a good many votes that otherwise would have gone to Coleman. A fourth man, whose name nobody remembers by now, exercised his inalienable right of running in the primary.

Bill Nolan didn't reproach the local politicians, or scold the newspapers. He just brushed off the old file of anecdotes and verses, the latter mostly original, that he used in his 25 years on the Chautauqua circuit. He added those which he has used in official addresses since he has been presiding officer of the State Senate. One of them, an ode to Minnesota, would charm the cones off a Koochiching County fir tree, or draw pigiron out of the Mesabi range.

Or, if anybody didn't care about the "fields of golden grain shimmering in the autumn sun," and the "ten thousand jewels of purest water," as the ode described them, Nolan had a different kind of poem. It was a "Howdy do" lyric, with added verses which did the phrase of greeting in German, French, Irish, and—far from the least important—Swedish dialect.

By the time he finished "Howdy do," at one of his pre-primary rallies, he had most of his hearers smiling and friendly. Those who have heard Nolan frequently say there are few speakers who can so quickly put a crowd at its ease. Aimee McPherson can do it, but it is her job to get people stirred up again. Bill Nolan can jolly them so that they stay jollied.

Lacking Regular Organization Nolan Enlists Aid of Friends.

Not having the regular ward organizers to work for him, Bill enlisted friends who had known him since his paper-selling and elevator-running days, and those he had made more recently. When the politicians found that he was getting a lot of votes that way, the public began to hear the charge that Nolan was "the Backus candidate."

The spelling of the name Backus should be noted. No one charged Nolan with being the Bacchus candidate, for he is a dry advocate, and Minneapolis is one city where a candidate does not need to make a profession of wet sentiments. It would be prudent for one with such sentiments to say little about them. The Minnesota Scandinavians, who have given Volstead and Kvale to the country, are a dry-voting lot, and their branch of the Lutheran Church is almost as zealous for the eighteenth amendment as are the Methodists.

The Backus with whom it was sought to link Nolan is E. W. Backus, two-fisted power promoter, and planner of a string of dams which would affect certain lake levels, and are viewed as a menace to timber and to recreation spots. His projects have been before the Legislature at various times while Nolan was speaker of the House and Lieutenant-Governor.

Backus' name had a certain nuisance value in a campaign, and this use of it might have beaten Nolan, had he not made his denial definite. He did this / by pledging himself to support, in Congress, the pending Shipstead-Newton bill for protection and control of lake levels.

Primary day fell on June 10, the day also of a city election. Nolan went to bed that night at his usual time, 78 votes behind Coleman in the first count. He arose in the morning to learn that he had won by 182 votes.

The special election for the Congressional vacancy came just a week later. Many of Nolan's friends not much interested in politics, thought he was elected already, and did not go to vote for him again. At least, that is how Nolan's workers explain the fact that the Democratic nominee crowded him, coming within 3500 of Nolan's vote. If a Farmer-Labor candidate had not polled some 6000 votes, no one seems quite able to figure out what would have happened.

Before he can get far in a Congressional career, Nolan will have to make another campaign, probably including a primary fight. Coleman has been Federally cared for, since the June primary, by appointment as First Assistant Postmaster-General, but Heffelfinger is expected to run again, and to have strong organization backing.

When Bill Nolan set out for Washington a few days ago, to look around before taking his seat, he left his book of funny stories locked in the Lieutenant-Governor's desk in St. Paul. He is convinced that one must not be too funny in the national halls of legislation. J. Adam Bede, he thinks, might still be in Congress from the neighboring Duluth district, if he had not so far exceeded his quota of wit and humor in Congressional debates.

Newsboy, Printer's Devil And Actor, by the Way.

Nolan, as has been mentioned, was a newsboy, though not of the waif type. He had a home and went to school. One of his colleagues in promoting the street sale of local dailies was Marion Leroy Burton, who became Dr. Burton, president of the University of Minnesota and later president of the University of Michigan.

His escape from paper-selling, elevator running and print-shop deviling came by way of the stage. The variety stage, it might be called, for it varied enough, though it was never the stage of "big time" vaudeville. For a time it was recitation work with a chalk-talk cartoonist as team partner. Again it was Shakspeare, and then melodrama—"Shamrock and Rose" and the like—on a lumberjack circuit in Northern Minnesota.

Bill's acts were mostly recitation and impersonation, for he could dance but little and sing not at all. He used to relate that an old German music teacher told him, after a voice test! "I haff tried you on der white keys and on der black keys, and all der time you are singing in de cracks."

In 1894, when Bill was 20 years old, William McKinley came to Minneapolis, to open his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. Two years before, at the Republican national convention held in Minneapolis, he had been the popular presiding officer, who held his own growing boom in check to give President Harrison a bootless renomination.

At the McKinley meeting in the old Exposition Building, officially termed the national convention of Republican Clubs, there was an audience of 9000, and Gov. McKinley was the only speaker but one. That one was Bill Nolan, who was introduced to deliver an Irish dialect recitation, satirizing President Cleveland and the Democratic party. "The rooster on me hat" was its catchline.

That was the only time that Nolan spoke

Party Organization Formed in Brussels Cellars When Lenin Tried in Vain to Win Him From "Soft" Faction of Party.

Trotzky and Family in Exile

LEON TROTZKY, his wife and eldest son at Alma Ata, September, 1928.

By LEON TROTZKY.
CHAPTER IV.

MY mandate to the Socialist Democratic Party conference was from the Siberian Union. Nominally the second conference, it was in reality the first organizing assembly, for the first conference, held at Minsk in 1898, produced no result whatever as regards organization: the all-Russian debacle destroyed for a considerable time the Party's central organization. The conference called for the summer of 1903 was to consolidate the victory of the Iskra group and to reconstruct the central machinery of the Party.

In company with the delegate from Tula, Doctor Oulyanov (a younger brother of Lenin), I started for this conference, not from Geneva but, to make it more difficult to follow me, from the next small station, "Nyon," where the express stopped for only half a minute.

We awaited the train on the wrong side of the track, and when it came in we rushed and clung to the bumpers. Before we had time to reach the entrance platform the train had moved. The station master, seeing two passengers between the bumpers, gave the whistle of alarm.

The train was stopped. As soon as we were taken into the car the guard informed us that he had never seen such stupid passengers, and that we were liable to a fine of fifty francs for having compelled the train to stop. We in turn gave him to understand that we did not know a word of French. That was not literally true, but it was expedient. After angrily shouting at us for another three minutes, the stout Swiss railway guard left us. The poor man did not know that we were on our way to create the Party.

Conference Opened in Brussels Cellars.

The conference was opened at Brussels on the premises of the Workmen's Co-operative Union at the Maison du Peuple. The cellars placed at our disposal, hidden from the view of the uninitiated, contained bales of wool and we were exposed to numberless vermin, which made attendance at the session physical torture.

Even more serions was the fact that several delegates realized during the first few days they were being followed. I carried the passport of a Bulgarian whom I did not know personally. During the second week of the conference, I was leaving a small restaurant late at night with Mrs. Zasulitch (wife of one of the party leaders).

The Odessa delegate, Z., crossed our path and without looking at us whispered hoarsely: "You are being followed; you must separate, the spy will follow the man."

I immediately quit Mrs. Zasulitch and went straight ahead. In my pocket I had the Bulgarian passport and five francs. The spy followed me. It was past midnight; the street was absolutely deserted. Suddenly I made an about face: M'sieu, what is the name of this street?"

The Flemish police spy stopped with his back to the wall: "Je ne sais pas." Evidently he expected to be shot.

Jumps Into Cab to Elude Police Spy.

I went straight on along a boulevard, then ran down a lane as fast as I could. The Fleming ran after me. Having twice turned to the right I once more brought my Fleming back into the boulevard. We were both tired and angry; we went on sulkily. Near a small all-night public house a solitary cab was standing. I jumped into it.

"Go on, quick! I am in a hurry." My shadower was pricking up his ears. I gave the name of a park within five minutes' walk of my house. The spy went into the saloon and came out with the waiter, to whom he pointed me out.

Half an hour later I was in my room. I saw a letter on the table, addressed to me in my Bulgarian name. It was an invitation to "Mr. Samokovliev" to call the next morning at the police office and bring his passport. It was obvious the police had already located me the day before, and that the midnight chase was simply a piece of perfectly futile competition.

That night the other members of the conference received a similar invitation. Those who reported to the police were ordered to leave Belgium within twenty-four hours. I did not go to the police but left direct for London, where the conference was to be resumed.

Russian Dynamiter Won Legion of Honor.

Harting, who was at the time in charge of the Russian police service, reported to the Russian police department that "the Brussels police were astonished at the considerable influx of foreigners, and suspected ten men of anarchistic conspiracy." The Brussels police were "astonished" by Harting himself, whose real name was Heckelman, a provocateur who had used dynamite, had been sentenced in absentia to hard labor by a French court, and subsequently reached the rank of general in the service of the Russian "Okrana" (political police).

Under an assumed name he was given the French order of the Legion of Honor. Harting in his turn had been warned by an agent Provocateur, Doctor Zhitomirski, who was taking an active part in the organization of the conference from Berlin. It was several years later when these facts were revealed.

During this conference fundamental differences became apparent among the principal members of the "Iskra." There were "hard" men and "soft" men. Behind the scenes a struggle was waged about every single member. Lenin made every effort to win me to his side. He and K. went for a very long walk with me and both tried to persuade me that Martov's way was not the right way for me, inasmuch as Martov (Leader of the Mensheviks) was a "soft" man.

The character which K. attributed to the editorial members of the "Iskra" was so unceremonious that Lenin made grimaces while I was deeply hurt. It was decided to call a private conference of the Iskra to come to clear issues.

Only Instance Where Lenin Lost His Temper.

It was my lot to occupy the chair at the meeting of the Iskra, where for the first time the future split between Bolsheviks and Mensheviks became apparent. The nerves of all of us were on edge. Lenin left the conference and slammed the door behind him. That was the only instance to my knowledge when he lost his temper and self-command in an acute internal party struggle.

Th situation became even more acute. Differences came out at the party conference itself. Lenin made one more attempt to attract me into the camp of the "hard" men, sending to me delegate Z. and his younger brother, Dimitri. They talked to me in a park for several hours. "We have orders to bring you at any price." But in the end I definitely refused to join them. This separated me from Lenin for a number of years.

In thinking over the past in the light of later events I do not regret the break. I came to Lenin later than others, but came my own way, having gone through and thought out the experience of the revolution, the counter-revolution and the imperialist war.

I thus came to him more solidly and more seriously than those "disciples" who, in his lifetime, were always repeating, not always apropos, the words and gestures of the Master, and who after his death remained helpless "epigenes."

> Social Democracy Must Lead Peasants, Trotzky Says
> RUSSIA stands—so I wrote at the time—faced with a bourgeois democratic revolution. The basis of that revolution is the agrarian problem. Power will devolve upon that class or party which leads the peasantry against Tsarism and the landlords. Neither the liberals nor the democratic intelligentsia can do that, because they have come too late. The front ranks of the revolution have already been filled by the proletariat. It is only social democracy which through the workmen can lead the peasants. This fact opens before Russian social democrats the prospect of securing power earlier than it can be secured in Western Europe. The immediate task of social democracy will be the completion of the democratic revolution. But, having gained power, the party of the proletariat cannot confine itself to a democratic program. It will be forced to take the road of socialist measures.
> How far it will be able to proceed on that road will depend not only on the internal correlation of forces, but also on the whole state of international relations. The fundamental strategic line of action, therefore, demands that social democracy, while waging a merciless fight with liberalism for influence with the peasants, should take upon itself the task of securing the power already possessed by the bourgeois revolution. This strategic line of action, if everything secondary and incidental be excepted, was in reality following the identical direction advocated by Lenin. The year 1917 proved this sufficiently clear. The present epigenes have understood Lenin's course as badly as they have mine.—Leon Trotzky.

While the conference was still sitting the whole south of Russia was in the throes of a powerful strike movement. Peasant troubles became increasingly frequent. The universities were boiling over. The Russo-Japanese War for a time held up the movement, but the military defeat of Czarism soon mightily helped the revolution. The press became more daring, terrorist acts more frequent, the liberals became more active, the "Abanquet campaign" set in.

Faints After Reading About "Bloody Sunday."

The fundamental questions of the revolution arose acutely. Former abstractions began to become realities for me. The Mensheviks put their fondest hopes in the liberals. It was in this connection that my definite break with them on matters of principle came about in 1904, although dissensions on fundamental questions of the revolution itself were always present, strong and insistent.

Early in January, 1905, I was returning to Geneva, tired and out of sorts after a sleepless night in the train. The boy offered me the previous day's newspaper. It spoke of the procession of workmen to the Winter Palace as of a future event. I decided that it had not taken place.

An hour or two later I called at the offices of the Iskra. Martov was excited to the highest pitch.

"It has not taken place?" I asked.

"What do you mean, it has not taken place?" he snapped. "We have spent the whole night at the cafe, reading the latest dispatches. Is it possible you do not know? Look here, and here, and here," and he thrust the newspaper at me.

I read the first ten lines of the telegraphic report of Bloody Sunday. A sudden hot wave went over me. I fainted.

I could no longer remain abroad. I had no connection with the Bolsheviks and I had broken off relations with the Mensheviks. I had to act at my own peril. Through one of the university students I got a passport and, together with my wife, went to Munich, where I called on Parvus (noted Marxist leader), who offered us hospitality. He read my manuscript dealing with the events of Jan. 9 and the reading highly elated him.

"Events have fully borne out this forecast. Now it is impossible for anybody to deny any longer that the general strike is the fundamental method of struggle. The strike of Jan. 9 is the first political strike, even though it was hidden by a cassock.

(Translator's note: The procession to the Winter Palace was led by the priest Gapon. who later became a spy in the pay of the police and was "executed" near Petersburg by Pinchas Rutenberg, who is now an electrical contractor in Palestine.)

Hairdresser Helps Him to Alter Appearance.

"It remains only to speak out clearly so that the belated bourgeois revolution in Russia may put the power in the hands of a democratic labor government." With this sense Parvus prefaced my pamphlet.

From Munich my wife and I went to Vienna. A flood of emigrants was already flowing eastward into Russia. Victor Adler, head of the Austrian Social Democrats, was at that time devoting himself entirely to helping Russian emigrants to return, supplying them with money, passports, useful addresses, etc. It was at Adler's house that I availed myself of the services of a hair dresser who changed my appearance considerably, for by that time I was too well known to the political spies of the Russian Government.

At Vienna I heard the news of the assassination of the Grand Duke Serge. My wife went ahead of me to Kieff to arrange for packing and to make the necessary connections. With the passport of Monsieur Arbuoff, sub-lieutenant retired, I arrived at Kieff in February, for some weeks changing my quarters frequently, and at one time even seeking refuge in the ophthalmic hospital.

By order of the principal medical officer, who knew my real identity, the sister in charge gave me foot baths and even applied some innocent drops into my eyes. I had to conspire in a double sense: I had to write my proclamations without the knowledge of the sister, who was very particular about my avoiding all possible eye-strain.

During the daily visit the professor, having got rid of his assistant, whom we could not trust, would come into my room with a trustworthy nurse, lock the door and put a curtain in front of the window for the purpose of "examining my eyes," whereupon we were all three merry. That was the end of the medical examination of my eyes and I could resume writing my proclamation.

It was at Kieff that I first made the acquaintance of a young engineer, Krassin, who at the time was a member of the Bolshevik Central Committee (Krassin later became a prominent figure in the Bolshevik Government). He had at his disposal a large, well-equipped secret printing works in the Caucasus. During this stay at Kieff I wrote a number of appeals and manifestos which were printed by secret revolutionary printing works.

Recognized and Forced To Leave St. Petersburg.

From Kieff I went to St. Petersburg. I did not formally belong to any party or faction, but there I continued my collaboration with Krassin, keeping in touch at the same time with the local Menshevik group, who were maintaining a very strong revolutionary course of action. At that time dissensions generally yielded before common activities.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Fulton Greets St. Louis as Fellow Yap.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SURELY the St. Louis papers are not censuring the Missouri State Highway Commission and charging this body with discriminating against the Mound City in the matter of location of the State highways—the same commission which two years ago was being praised by these same publications and defended in editorials against legal action which was taken by other towns of the State who were fighting for one highway which practically meant their existence?

Has St. Louis, perhaps, awakened to the fact that the members of the State Highway Commission can make mistakes and have given the bulk of the primary highways to one section of the State? Fulton attempted to make this clear two years ago when citizens of the town took legal action to gain their own rights, but they met with defeat largely through the fight which was put up by St. Louis and Kansas City papers, and Fultonians were classed as "yaps" and other "varmints" by these publications.

Today St. Louis is protesting that Kansas City and central western Missouri are getting more than their share of the primary highways and intimate that it is because a majority of the highway commissioners live in that section. Perhaps that is true. Fulton felt the same way two years ago when it learned that a highway was built miles out of the way, near Odessa, to pass a commissioner's farm, Fulton being denied the highway for a matter of three miles. Yesterday, Fulton was fighting for her rights. Today, St. Louis is fighting for hers. From this, we infer that the St. Louis people who are fighting for the highway today and those of Fulton who took part in a similar crusade in 1927, may be classed in the same genus of "yaps." This Competitive World.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE thought has come to me that some day the flying ability of man will so far outdistance his present efforts that a comparison will be comical.

The present motor troubles and other flying troubles are due largely to haste in construction. One flyer is too eager to outdo the other. One nation is too impetuous to get the praise for some particular feat before the other.

As we advance in true civilization and when we have learned to respect all nations and races as brothers, we will naturally have become more sober minded, and the feeble, spasmodic competition of today, manifest not only in aeronautics, but in all lines of endeavor, will pass away W. R. B.

How to Farm in the Ozarks.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE been reading a lot of "knocks" on the Ozarks, the poverty of the natives and the worthlessness of the soil for general farming, and wish to offer a few remarks based on my experience as general manager of a 1500-acre orchard, dairy farm, vineyards and wine cellars located on the southern slope of the Missouri Ozarks.

The quality of the soil on unimproved timber lands can be judged by the size of the timber, large red oak and hickory on flat ridges indicating fertile soil.

This land, when timber is cut, will grow 40 to 60 bushels corn to the acre for one to three years, but if no humus or fertilizer is returned to the land continual corn cropping for 10 or 15 years will reduce its productivity to a point where it will not grow anything.

The majority of the natives follow this procedure on 30 or 40 acres of land until it is worn out and then work up sufficient energy to clear the timber off another 30 or 40 acres and follow the same procedure.

About this time someone advises this native farmer to sow clover, bluegrass and orchard grass and go into the dairy business, and he buys seed and sows it on the wornout soil and then wails that the Ozarks will not grow clover and tame grasses.

Clover and tame grasses should be sown on new land and will produce fine pasturage for dairy cows and beef cattle.

Other crops that are money-makers on land that has not been worn out are grapes, peaches, apples, strawberries, cantaloupes, tomatoes, cow peas and all kinds of vegetables.

Humus must be added to the soil by plowing under green vegetation, such as hairy vetch, cow peas, weeds, etc., but most of the farmers allow their weeds to die and shed their seeds instead of plowing them under while green.

I admit the city man usually has a sad experience when buying a wornout Ozark farm and hiring all his work done by day labor. Most of the natives will swindle the city man if they get a chance.

Some day we will have intelligent, prosperous farmers in the Ozarks and this section will be known as one of the greatest dairy, livestock and fruit sections.

FORMER ORCHARD MANAGER.

THE INTERNATIONAL BANK.

When it became plain, during the recent Paris conference, that the heart of the Young plan was to be an international bank, repeated announcements were broadcast from Washington that the United States would have no official connection with it. There was a certain crudity about this position, since the United States had never been asked to be officially represented on the bank. On the other hand a specific provision was inserted by which European directors > may invite to become members of the board of directors of the bank two nationals of any country the central bank of which is eligible under the outline to take part in forming the board of the bank but does not do so.

This was undoubedly written to admit American co-operation on such terms as would pacify the isolationist die-hards, and in anticipation of their objection to official American participation in any European project regardless.

Since Owen Young's return and his conference with Mr. Hoover, a certain softening seems to have taken place in the Administration's attitude. This is evident from an article in the New York Herald Tribune by Mark Sullivan, who is very close to the President, in which Sullivan says "that co-operation (in the international bank) by the United States is essential to our interests is a conviction held by every thoughtful person." Thus, it may be assumed, when the time comes Mr. Hoover, at least, will not frown on such unofficial representation on the bank's board as is provided in the Young plan.

What is this international bank? Short of writing a treatise on its functions and uses, it may be said it is primarily a mechanism through which reparations payments can be made without serious disturbances to enonomic or monetary equilibrium. For example, Germany promises to transfer annually into foreign currencies the sum of $158,000,000 to apply on the reparations debt. This money will be paid into the international bank to be credited to the various accounts of the Allies. If the export of so much currency should threaten to disturb the value of the mark as against the franc, the international bank may avoid such a happening by lending the money to German industry or by depositing it in the Reichsbank. Further it may be said that the bank lifts the whole question of reparations from the field of politics into the passionless field of economics.

The New Republic quotes Mr. Young as saying that the ultimate importance of such an international bank in other than reparations problems is likely to be even greater than its present importance as a means of solving problems left by the war. The New Republic adds:

> It will be to the banking systems of the world what the Federal Reserve Banks are to the banking system of the United States, or the Banks of England or France are to their banking structures. Indeed, it may easily be more than this. It can mobilize reserves, provide an elasticity to international credit, act as a clearing house for international payments and thus obviate costly shipments of gold, help to stabilize the exchange value of currencies, and indeed, support their internal values. It can aid in stabilizing world price levels and thus in flattening out the business cycle.

It would be strange if the richest nation in the world, whose continued prosperity depends so greatly on world economic and financial stability, should maintain a semi-hostile and suspicious attitude toward a financial institution of such potential value. If we may depend on the well-informed Mark Sullivan, Mr. Hoover will not do so.

A FEW BRIGHT SPOTS.

In this day, when constitutional liberties are fast becoming obscured in the mists, it is pleasant to observe a few bright spots.

Justice Learned Hand of the United States Court of Appeals, for example, has laid down the principle that violation of the Volstead act is not necessarily moral turpitude, and therefore is not sufficient reason for deporting Bernard Iorio, who had been convicted on a liquor charge. "We cannot say that among the commonly accepted mores the sale or possession of liquor as yet occupies so grave a place," he said in his opinion, "nor can we close our eyes to the fact that large numbers of persons, otherwise reputable, do not think so, rightly or wrongly."

Another cheering item is the California State District Court of Appeals decision that Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Blancett have grounds for a damage suit against three of their neighbors, who engaged in a bit of snooping when they saw many trucks loading and unloading at the Blancett home, jumped at a conclusion and called for dry raiders. Investigation showed the Blancetts were doing charity work for their church, and the trucks were bearing goods for relief of the poor.

Two New York State troopers who stopped and searched an auto for liquor because the driver had a "real red and flushed face" were criticised by Federal Judge Hazel for having committed a "shocking outrage." Two Federal agents in Omaha likewise were roundly rebuked by Municipal Judge Holmes after they brutally beat a smaller man to arrest him because he had a mysterious bundle under his arm.

Such instances of judicial enlightenment throw into relief the disgraceful happenings which the press has had to chronicle in the last few months.

THE NOISY POLAR SILENCE.

Articles written by members of the Byrd expedition before their arrival in the Antarctic told of the silent land they expected to find, but it has been a different story since the party went into camp at Little America. The polar regions in popular belief are places of dead silence, but the Byrd party has disproved that misconception. Just now the intense cold makes the snow and ice contract with sharp cracks and snaps, the bay ice booms like guns when fissures open suddenly and the high winds cause the taut wires of the radio antenna to hum shrilly. Antarctic hurricanes sweep down and fill the air with a roar that drowns all other sounds. Before winter began there was high-pitched screeching when the floes ground together and loud crashes caused by the toppling of huge icebergs.

The experience of the Byrd party has been similar to that of other explorers. Shackleton's men wrote often in their diaries: "Din, din, DIN!" and their nerves were set on edge by the continuous grinding and groaning of the ice. Stefansson says that the treeless plains of Dakota where he spent his boyhood were far more silent than he ever found the Arctic. He attributes the popular idea of the Arctic silence in part to the poet, Robert W. Service, but points out that Service never got very far north of Dawson, Alaska.

So the polar wastes of literature now are being revised to conform with the polar wastes of fact.

THE LOBBY AT WASHINGTON.

When the Senate reconvenes next month Senator Caraway of Arkansas intends to introduce a resolution to investigate lobbying in the Capital. Such an investigation would, we believe, be instructive and entertaining and would contribute something to the gayety of the nation as the leaves begin to turn in sad September.

There have been numerous unofficial reports of this industry of lobbying as now conducted at the seat of the Federal Government. Mr. Caraway himself has touched upon a phase of it to which other commentators have directed attention, namely, the "alleged influence" of the lobbyists and the pretended service they render the folks back home who furnish the money. It is mostly "fake stuff," according to Washington observers. As Mr. Caraway explains it, when a bill of a certain character is coming up, he or anyone familiar with the records of the members can tell how 90 per cent of the Senate will vote and 75 per cent of the House. "The newspaper correspondents," he adds, "do it every day that Congress is in session."

Just the same, the lobbyists flourish and multiply, and a lot of people are paying out good money which might better be spent for radios or raiment or precious jewels or whatever the fancy elects. For the results at Washington would be substantially the same, if there weren't an agent, attorney, representative, or however the lobbyist designates himself, within a thousand miles of the District of Columbia.

But not all the lobbyists belong to this esoteric school of harmless graft. There are organizations that use the big stick of political reprisal in accomplishing their purposes and whose finances and methods of operation are a proper subject of inquiry. Further, the employment of lame ducks by powerful interests is a development of sinister character that might well be exposed in monetary detail.

One of the early accomplishments of the first Wilson administration was the routing of the lobbyists who fled in confusion and found other means of livelihood until the absorption of war and the relaxing of vigilance somehow re-opened the Capital city's gates.

The proposed investigation seems to be in order.

SIGNS AND PORTENTS.

Although President Hoover has arranged for a ceremony in Washington for formal proclamation of the Kellogg pact, a spider in Kansas City was found the other day busily spinning a web in which the word "WAR" was clearly legible. Despite new hope roused in the bosoms of agriculturists by the farm relief bill, visitation of 17-year locusts is predicted for the near future, and those skilled in the lore of locusts are eager to read the message borne on the wings of the first arrivals. A letter "W," of course, means "war," while a letter "P," which might mean "peace" to the untutored, signifies "plague" to those skilled in omens. Three young fishermen, seeking shelter from the heat, visited Lake Champlain, but were frightened away when a fire-breathing sea serpent reared itseslf above the surface and snorted at them. That's a sure sign of stills in the backwoods.

Whenever good growing weather arrives, the interpreters of signs and portents become agitated over the phenomena of nature which they chance to find. But nature has a snooty way of disregarding the soothsayers, and is able to produce bumper crops and eras of peace with all the signs against it.

MR. EDGE AS AMBASSADOR.

The always interesting "T. R. B." of the New Republic professes pained surprise at the rumor that Mr. Hoover will likely appoint Senator Edge of New Jersey Ambassador to France. That correspondent thus disposes of Mr. Edge: "A tourist's knowledge of Europe, utter lack of linguistic accomplishments, and general destitution of the accepted diplomatic qualifications." Other Washington observers paint a happier portrait. They see a man of tact, graciousness, talent for friendship, with the force that has spanned the gap from office boy to wealth and established political eminence.

As to what constitutes "diplomatic qualifications," the careful commentator is today, we believe, prudently uncertain. Certainly he is not cock-sure. "Other days, other manners" have pretty well demolished the legendary formula. For distinguished example, the late incumbent of that high post. Mr. Taft's choice of Myron T. Herrick was influenced, doubtless, by personal friendship, inferentially, by party obligation, naturally, by the human desire to remember his home State as generously as the exigencies permitted. No journalist gazing into the crystal bowl could have foreseen that here was one of those historic coincidences of "the man—the hour." No one could have imagined the Cleveland banker, with "little of Latin and less of Greek," with something of the provincial still adhering to him, despite his conquest in practical affairs, was to find in this political award his "glamour of immortality." Yet so it was. The financier who had been forgotten as Governor of Ohio will be remembered as the Ambassador whom France took to her bosom and cherishes as one of her own.

However deficient in classical decor, Mr. Edge, it seems to us, has had the essential training and possesses the native gifts to carry on the ambassadorial tradition.

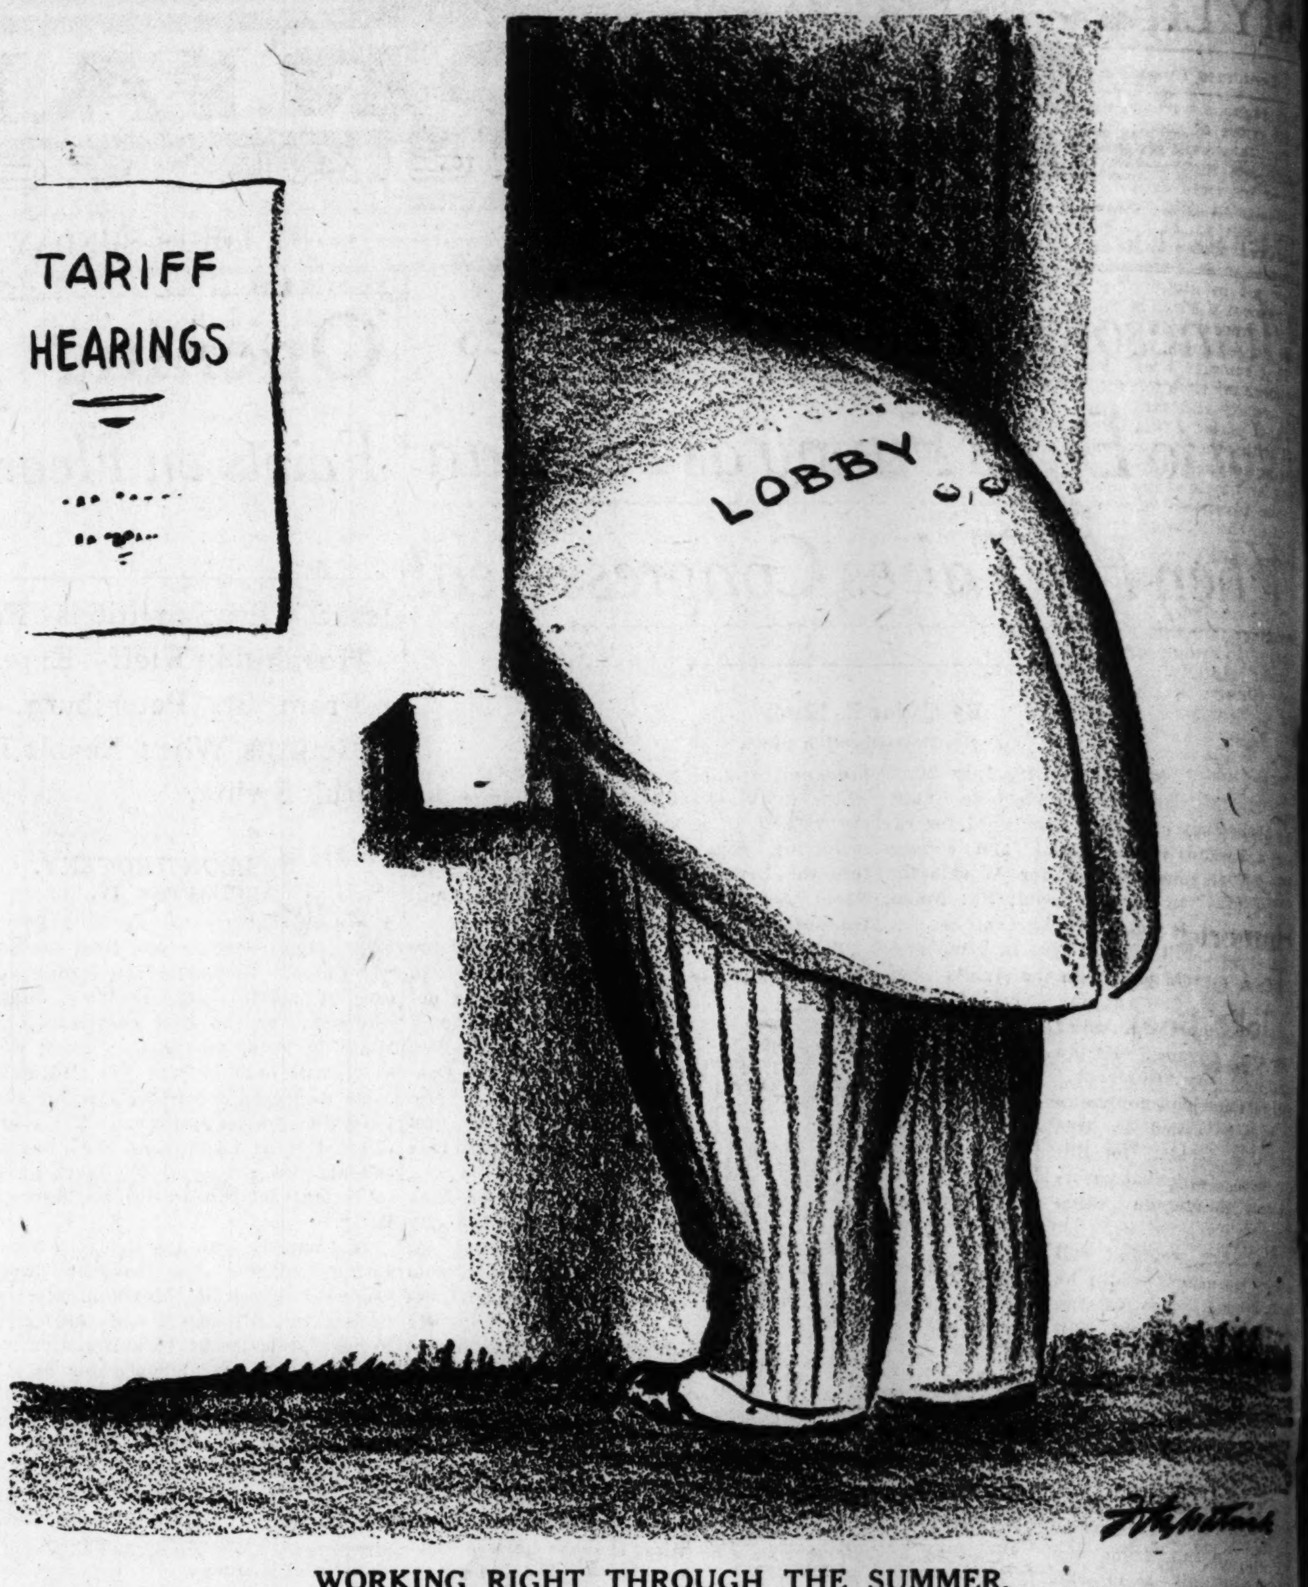
OF $60,000 BATHROOMS.

In the gay but uncultured old days when standards were not what they are now, a young man who saved up or fell into $60,000 could marry and buy a country manor with ancestral portraits, stables and a porte cochere, with enough left over for a batch of good safe securities. But now, says a writer in the Woman's Home Companion, $60,000 is about right to invest in a bathroom if one would keep up with the mode. And the favored color at present is "peachy-apricoty," the writer adds. Presumably Hollywood sets the mode, and undoubtedly there will be period bathrooms before long—early De Mille, late Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and so on. The nation is becoming bathroom-conscious and paying due attention to veined marble floors, sunken tubs with running fresh and salt water, walls with waterproof murals, to say nothing of accessories tinted to match—rubberized silken curtains, monogrammed soap, nonslip mats for the tub, waterproof books and cards for solitaire and bath salts of all colors and scents. A rise indeed from the galvanized iron tub, pitcher-and-bowl days of our fathers!



WORKING RIGHT THROUGH THE SUMMER.

Russia Abolishes Sunday

Economic, not religious considerations, principle cause of action; workmen still will have days of leisure, but not at same time, so machines may continue to run without break through week, thereby reducing economic loss and giving employment to more persons; Russia has merely formalized and extended a system already in effect in many American industries as the inevitable result of the machine age.

From the Nation.

TO distribute leisure equitably in a machine age without an undue waste of productive power is no easy task. Borrowing our practices from the pre-machine age we have accepted the notion that there is only one sound method of distributing leisure, that is to choose one day in every seven as a compulsory legal holiday and close factories, stores, banks and schools on that day. If it has occurred to some that this distribution of leisure is tremendously wasteful in view of the overhead expense required to maintain machinery in idleness, the practice has not been subject to severe attack because the institution of Sunday has seemed to be the only device that would guarantee leisure to everybody. So, while Sunday as a religious holiday has declined in the face of higher criticism and the motor car, the day as an institution of leisure has acquired new sanctions from enlightened public opinion. We have been anxious to defend it from the seven-day-a-week employer, so anxious in fact that we have not stopped to ask whether the basic idea of a universal weekly holiday may not be outmoded as the machine process enters into new areas of our life.

Now comes the Soviet Government rushing in where individualists fear to tread and abolishes Sunday as a legal holiday by decree. The decree, which is scheduled to go into operation this month, did not receive in the American press the attention that it deserves, perhaps because American editors interpreted the new policy as simply one more anti-religious gesture by an atheist government. Walter Duranty of the New York Times, however, sensed its full importance when he said:

> Whoever conceived this measure is little short of a genius, for it kills at least five big birds with one small stone. First, it will increase factory output 20 per cent. Second, it will provide jobs for workers eliminated by industrial "rationalization." Third, it will be a powerful weapon in the Soviet anti-religious campaign against Sunday and church holidays. Fourth, it will give "more backward" countries like England and Germany a new idea for their struggle against unemployment. Finally, it will reduce overhead by the elimination of the weekly "letdown" both of machines and man-power.

Of course the Soviet Government does not propose to sacrifice a single hour of the workers' rest-time by this new plan. It will try to establish in place of Sunday and Saturday afternoon a stagger plan of leisure giving every worker one day and a half to two days of holiday every week. Ultimately it expects to make the five-day week universal for the workers and the seven-day week universal for the machines.

When one asks if such a plan could be applied to American industry numberless difficulties suggest themselves. What if the courtship of John and Jane were progressing satisfactorily by virtue of mutual, languorous week-ends together when suddenly the Government or the corporations declared that Jane's holidays from the office should come on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, and John's on Thursdays and Fridays? The thought of millions of Johns and Janes and Mr. and Mrs. Johnses and little Johnses being separated from one another or from chosen friends during their holidays creates sympathy in our heart for them and for any chief distributer of holidays in an American industrial Utopia. Also, the plan is useless for farms because they could not be run economically under a stagger system of labor forces unless they were prodigiously large; and the plan implies much more social control of industry than exists in America today or is likely to exist for many years to come. The Russian Government is not only the commander-in-chief of national industry but the chief employer, directing the scope and methods of industry through the Gospian as a general directs an army. With our negative conception of government as a strolling policeman we could not put into effect a co-ordinated plan of work-distribution that would guarantee leisure. The simple, clumsy scheme of weekly universal holidays now in force seems to entail the maximum of social control that our employers will tolerate.

But when we have said that the Soviet plan of abolishing Sunday is not practical for America today we have not destroyed the prophetic significance of the experiment. Whether we like it or not, we are moving in the direction of this plan. Thousands of American industries now keep in operation seven days a week with a shifting labor force and the stagger system of leisure; for example, railroads, steamship lines, motion picture theaters, newspapers, electric and gas companies, police, fire and water systems, gasoline and repair stations, dairies, hotels, restaurants and drug stores—to say nothing of homes. As our life has become more inter-dependent and complex these industries have gradually been accepted as seven-day necessities, although many of them are not. During the war we promptly abandoned our conventional notions of Sunday and leisure as far as the factory system was concerned. In the light of these experiences and tendencies the Soviet plan of distributing leisure is neither so fantastic nor so revolutionary as it seems at first glance.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, July 21.

AMERICA'S most famous baby—little Paulina Longworth—is fast carving for herself a considerable niche in the social life of the national capital.

The daughter of Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House of Representatives, Paulina could hardly escape the inevitable attention that comes to one of such illustrious parentage. But it is fast becoming evident that she need not be compelled to rely wholly on her father and mother for recognition.

Even at the age of 4, Miss Paulina is a very much grown-up young lady.

For example, at the swanky Willett-Ha wedding in Washington recently, when her mother and father found it impossible to attend, it was Paulina who represented the family. She sent her own present, a handsome silver vegetable dish with her engraved card inclosed.

And at Atlantic City, when the photographer wanted her and her father to pose together, Paulina obligingly climbed into Father Nick's arms, smiled broadly and hugged him fiercely.

SHE has acquired some of the wit and gift of repartee that have long made her mother known as one of the most interesting persons in Washington.

When the Longworths went to their Cincinnati home during the recess of Congress Paulina, with her nurse, went in advance. Mrs. Longworth kept in touch with her by long distance phone almost every day.

Once when she called she heard a youthful voice at the other end of the line and mistook it for a young maid.

"Is that Mrs. Longworth?" asked the voice.

"Yes. Who is this?" asked Mrs. Longworth.

"This is Miss Longworth," came over the wire.

It was Paulina.

Her mother employed a New England woman to act as Paulina's governess. The two had a little difficulty in getting acquainted. Paulina found that at times her governess was hard on her nerves.

Once the governess annoyed her particularly. Paulina looked at her intently and a bit severely, and then said:

"You know, you are from New England, but sometimes I think you are so dumb that you wouldn't recognize beans in a pot with the lid off."

BUT despite Paulina's precocity she is in every way a charming and delightful child. She enjoys the things that would interest any other child of her age.

Her favorite walk is out Connecticut avenue past the old Czecho-Slovakian embassy. Surrounding the old embassy is a beautiful hedge. As Paulina walks along this hedge she glances around her to make sure that no one is looking. When she reaches a certain spot her little hand goes out and returns filled with a part of the hedge.

One of her favorite playmates is Betty Moffett, daughter of Admiral William A. Moffett, chairman of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics

Of the jokes and stories preserved in clipping form, many have a familiar sound. Probably this is because they were so good that they were copied widely. One, for instance, is about the two Scotchmen whose nationality was readily recognized, one by the way he talked, and the other because he was not spending any money either. Another is about the two women at a concert who could not agree whether the selection being played was the sextet from "Lucia" or the overture from "William Tell," when a third woman looked at the sign on the wall and announced that it was the "Refrain from Spitting."

The political and legislative themes developed with his career as a member of the Lower House, to which he was elected first in 1902, and re-elected eight times, being speaker of the House three terms, and since 1924 lieutenant-governor.

He was chairman of the Minnesota Reforestation Commission, which toured the northern and eastern states and the eastern provinces of Canada last year. He was author of the State's first child labor law, and headed the commission which outlined a reorganization of the state Government, not yet fully effected. He was chairman of the interim commission on workmen's compensation in 1919, and had a part in the making of what is considered a model compensation statute.

Speakers in his campaign argued that Nolan, through his experience in the Legislature, had become expert in "taking the blood pressure" of legislative assemblages. He knows when to press a measure to passage and when to hold it back for a more favorable time. His friends believe that if he can get through next year's primary and election safely, he will become a valuable man in the House organization by the end of his first full term.

At the end of September I went farther into Finland and stopped in the forest on the shores of a lake at a remote country sanitarium called Rauha, which in Finnish means "Quiet." As autumn approached, the great house became nearly empty. A Swedish author who had been staying there with an English actress left without paying his bill. The landlord hurried after them to Helsingfors. The landlady lay dangerously ill, her heart action kept up with champagne. While the landlord was away, his wife died. Her dead body lay in the room over mine. The head waiter departed for Helsingfors in search of the landlord. The entire remaining staff consisted of a boy. Snow fell very early and in great abundance. The fir trees put on their white winding sheets. All life in the sanitarium ceased. The boy spent most of the day in the kitchen, somewhere under ground. I was quite alone. Everywhere there was "Dauha"—peace and quiet. Not a soul, not a sound. I wrote and took walks.

One evening the postman brought a parcel of St. Petersburg newspapers. I unfolded them one after the other. It was as if a violent gale had burst in through the window. The strike was growing every day, spreading and even reaching a number of provincial towns. In the perfect solitude the rustle of newspapers thundered in my ears like the roaring of a torrent. The revolution was in full swing. I called the boy to give me my bill, ordered a horse and leaving my "peace," went to meet meet the avalanche. Soon I was addressing a meeting in the great hall of the Polytechnic Institute of St. Petersburg.

His secretary, looking in his desk at the Capitol building, could find only a list of the lecture subjects. These include "Politics," "The Constitution," "We, the People," "Spread Eagle," "Statue of Liberty," "Business of Government," "Lincoln," "Co-operation," "Making of Laws," "Public Opinion," and "Bull."

Of the jokes and stories preserved in clipping form, many have a familiar sound. Probably this is because they were so good that they were copied widely. One, for instance, is about the two Scotchmen whose nationality was readily recognized, one by the way he talked, and the other because he was not spending any money either. Another is about the two women at a concert who could not agree whether the selection being played was the sextet from "Lucia" or the overture from "William Tell," when a third woman looked at the sign on the wall and announced that it was the "Refrain from Spitting."

The political and legislative themes developed with his career as a member of the Lower House, to which he was elected first in 1902, and re-elected eight times, being speaker of the House three terms, and since 1924 lieutenant-governor.

He was chairman of the Minnesota Reforestation Commission, which toured the northern and eastern states and the eastern provinces of Canada last year. He was author of the State's first child labor law, and headed the commission which outlined a reorganization of the state Government, not yet fully effected. He was chairman of the interim commission on workmen's compensation in 1919, and had a part in the making of what is considered a model compensation statute.

Speakers in his campaign argued that Nolan, through his experience in the Legislature, had become expert in "taking the blood pressure" of legislative assemblages. He knows when to press a measure to passage and when to hold it back for a more favorable time. His friends believe that if he can get through next year's primary and election safely, he will become a valuable man in the House organization by the end of his first full term.

He Has Seven Daughters and Six Grandchildren.

Nolan, who tells an Irish story with the facility of a Free State native, claims an equal share to Scotch with the Irish in his ancestry. His wife, whom he met in his show-touring days, was of a Norwegian family. They had nine daughters, of whom seven are living, the youngest now 19. At the age of 55, he has six grandchildren. Mrs. Nolan died more than a year ago.

Nolan is solid frame, and has a massive head, with high, bare brow and friendly features. Seen at the Minneapolis Club before his departure for Washington, he professed Republican regularity, but said he shared Gov. Christianson's view, expressed by the Governor to President Hoover, that farm interests should be more thoroughly considered in framing the new tariff.

No cautious chap with the conventional lawyer-politician training for Congress could view a congressional career more soberly than does this man of catchy phrases and easy rhymes, who has made his livelihood as a public entertainer.

But wait, say his friends. Bill Nolan can't be solemn and prosaic very long at a time. Suppose that Detroit, which will be getting some new seats in the house under a reapportionment were to elect Eddie Guest to fill one of them. Then, if artistic jealousy did not arise, there would be a poets' corner in Washington's famous "Cave of the Winds."

After all, it is not inappropriate that one man should step from the Chautauqua platform into Washington official life. Plenty of congressmen, and at least one Secretary of State, have Chautauquaed with Swiss bellringers and local high school quartets. Turn about's fair play.

MONEY SAVING INFORMATION

By action of the Head Camp our rates are now being readjusted.

Your head officers have entered into a contract with a private corporation whose services will cost you and your neighbors millions of dollars.

The pay of this private corporation is a percentage of the premiums paid by you.

In our opinion it is only natural that this private corporation would instruct its salesmen to use all possible influence to collect the highest premium they can.

Many of these millions of dollars of commissions to be paid to this private corporation can be saved to you and your neighbors if each member in each individual case is properly advised as to what action to take.

This Policyholders' Protective Association (not incorporated) has been formed to furnish you with common sense advice and service.

Since this readjustment of Woodmen insurance rates affects your pocketbook, certainly you will want the information which we believe will save you money every year as long as you live. This information is of value to all Woodmen members, regardless of age or class, and you will be doing your neighbors a dollar and cents favor if you will call their attention to this service.

Details of this valuable service will be sent in response to your name and address on the coupon below.

EAST SIDE ELECTRICAL WORKERS THREATEN TO STRIKE

Will Walk Out Tomorrow Unless They Get Increases of 25 to 75 Cents An Hour.

With a new city hall, public library and school under construction at Granite City and numerous other buildings projected in other cities on the East Side, 150 members of Local 309 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers will strike, effective tomorrow morning, unless the 15 members of a contractors' association grant them a wage increase ranging from 25 to 75 cents an hour.

At the last of numerous conferences, Thursday night, the contractors refused to accept the terms stipulated in the proposed wage agreement for one year which was to take the place of a contract which expired July 15. They unsuccessfully submitted a compromise plan providing for a gradual increase over two years until the amount asked for is reached.

Workmen want $1.75 and experts and foremen ask $2.25 an hour. The union proposal also provides that contractors must post a $1000 bond to insure payment of wages, must furnish transportation to and from the place of employment and must place a foreman in charge of all jobs where two or more men are employed.

Zionist Flower Day Raised $1000.

The Flower Day of the Jewish National Fund, a Zionist agency, held two weeks ago today, netted $1000 for the fund, Mrs. Michael Golland, chairman of the campaign, announced yesterday. Prizes for collection of the largest amounts of money were awarded to the following workers: Mrs. Elia Stoliar, Mrs. Charles Lasky, Miss Bess Zimmerman, Miss Yetta Frager and Miss Dora Fogelman.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY AFTER AUTO KILLS WOMAN

Uncle and Nephew Put Under $10,000 Bond Following Inquest Homicide Verdict.

LATTER INSISTS HE WAS DRIVER

Declares Relative Was Too Drunk to Guide Car — U. S. Attorney Refuses to Take Up Case.

With an inquest verdict of homicidein the death of Mrs. Myrtle de Leal of Ramona Hills, killed by an automobile Thursday night as she stood in a safety zone at Jefferson and Eads avenue, Cleveland E. Lovelace and his nephew, Thomas D. Arnold, were held for the grand jury yesterday.

Each was held under $10,000 bond because of doubt as to which was the driver. Assistant Circuit Attorney Lennon announced the issuance of a temporary warrant against Arnold charging manslaughter on his signed statement that he was the driver. Lennon was considering a temporary charge against Lovelace also.

Whisky in the Car.

Two witnesses, who ran to the safety zone after the accident, testified that Lovelace was slumped over the steering wheel and Arnold was standing on the pavement. Policemen testified that Lovelace, at the scene of the accident, said he was the driver, admitting that he had been drinking home-made raisin whisky from a gallon jug found in the car. Arnold's statement that he was at the wheel because his uncle was "too drunk to drive" was read to the jury.

Witnesses agreed the automobile was speeding, one man estimating the rate at between 50 and 60 miles an hour when the car entered the safety zone, killing Mrs. de Leal and injuring her husband, her 2-year-old daughter and another woman.

Doubts That It's a Beverage.

Police took the whisky jug, half full, to the Federal Building yesterday seeking a Jones law warrant against Lovelace charging transportation of liquor. Assistant District Attorney Hapke said he would not burden the Federal docket with a case belonging in the State courts. The liquor, he remarked, was of such evil appearance and odor that he doubted it could be used as a beverage. Later, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Reidel issued a State warrant against Lovelace charging possession.

Lovelace, a stereotyper, 39 years old, lives at 6216 Lexington avenue, Pine Lawn; Arnold, a mechanic, 19, lives at 2043 Russell boulevard.

Identity of Driver Whose Car Killed Man Kept Secret four Months.

The secret of the identity of the motorist whose automobile killed Abner Halteman, 58 years old, a printer, in front of 3405 South Jefferson avenue, the night of March 16, was shared by four men for four months. A signed confession by Frank Dickman, 26, a trunk maker, 1230A Chambers street, made public yesterday, was obtained by city detectives after Dickman and his three companions were arrested Friday.

"At the time I made up my mind to stop but suddenly I changed my mind and went on at the same speed," Dickman said. "I told the others to keep their mouths shut. 'Don't say anything about it to anybody,' I said. 'Keep yourself out of it and if anything happens I'll take the blame.'"

Detectives refused to disclose the source of their information, explaining only that they heard some gossip which caused them to arrest the four men. The case will be presented to the grand jury.

MRS. CATHERINE V. WADE FUNERAL 8:30 A. M. TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine V. Kennedy Wade, widow of Festus J. Wade, founder and president of the Mercantile Trust Co., will be held at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the St. Louis Cathedral. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery. Mrs. Wade, who was 65 years old, died at her home on Friday, after a month's illness, from a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Wade was born in Pittsburg and educated at a convent there. She was married to Mr. Wade in 1883, shortly after he became secretary of the St. Louis Agricultural and Mechanical Association, which conducted expositions at the old Fairgrounds in North St. Louis.

Mrs. Wade is survived by a son, Festus J. Wade Jr., and three daughters, Mrs. Lee P. Warren, Mrs. Sewell Thomas and Miss Florence J. Wade.

Charles Wagner's Funeral.

The funeral of Charles Wagner, 724 Clara avenue, agent of the United States Rubber Co. who died Friday night at Jewish Hospital of cancer, will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from an undertaking establishment at 2707 North Grand avenue to Valhalla Cemetery. He was 74 years old. Two sons survive, C. Corwith Wagner of St. Louis, and Barton Wagner of Farmington, Mo.

THREE SURVIVORS ATTEND LAST MAN CLUB DINNER

Veterans Becoming So Feeble That It Is Doubtful Whether They Will Meet Again.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 20.—Three Civil War veterans gathered at the Minnesota Club today for what may be the last annual meeting of the famous Last Man's Club of B Company, First Minnesota Volunteers.

Encroaching feebleness of the aged men has made uncertain any future meetings. The veterans are: John F. Golff, St. Paul, 86 years old; Peter O. Hall, Atwater, 91; and Charles Lockwood, Chamberlain, S. D., 87.

As a centerpiece at their luncheon table was a bottle of wine, from which the last survivor of the club will drink a toast to his departed comrades. This bottle has graced every banquet table of the club for the last 43 years, and then been laid away again to await the time when the last man of the Last Man's Club shall give his final toast.

Meeting in conjunction with the Last Man's Club were eight other survivors of the 1023 men who marched to war with the First Minnesota. But their's was a table apart from where the three aged men recounted their experiences of the war between the states and more particularly the Battle of Bull Run, the anniversary of which has been marked for years by their reunion.

VALUES IN LINDELL GAIN $100 TO $800 UNDER CITY PLAN

Improvement Program Paid Larger Dividends Than Expected, Harland Bartholomew Says in Article.

WASHINGTON AND OLIVE ALSO CITED

Difficult to Get Constructive Legislation From Body Having Many Rural Members, Expert Avers

An example of "the fact that city planning sometimes pays larger dividends than might be expected" is cited by Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Plan Commission, in an article, "Planning Progress in St. Louis," in the current isue of City Planning, a national quarterly.

It is Lindell boulevard, where property values has risen from les than $100 a front foot to $800, acording to the article. However, a real estate sign near Sarah street and Lindell boulevard lately has asserted that property at that corner sold for $1500 a front foot. Bartholmoew wrote:

"One of the most gratifying results of city planning work in St. Louis has been the gradual elimination of the blighted district that formerly existed between Twelfth and Grand boulevards. This great area of rundown property has been revived by penetrating it with major streets and by gradually forcing its development for commercial and light industrial purposes through restriction of these uses by zoning in the areas west of Grand boulevard.

"In 1916 (when the City Plan Commision was formed) property values on Washington boulevard and on Olive street had receded to less than $100 per front foot and there was no market for this property. Values on these streets now run from $300 to $500 per front foot.

Apartment House Project.

"A similarly interesting result has occurred west of Grand boulevard, where on Lindell boulevard a bitter controversy turned around an attempt to commercialize this fine, wide thoroughfare containing many beautiful public buildings and fine old residences. The recommendation of the City Plan Commission for apartment house development was approved and sustained by decisions of the Supreme Court of Missouri. The case was appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States but was withdrawn just before it was to be heard.

"Property values on this thoroughfare had been less than $100 per front foot. The proponents of commercialization urged as its justification that property values could be increased to $200 or $250 per front foot. With this the City Plan Commission agreed, but felt that nevertheless it was more important to maintain the character of this, the most beautiful thoroughfare in all the city, rather than to spoil it with cheap stores and filling stations on the more important corners.

"With the apartment house zoning finally sustained, values began to rise until sales have recently been made as high as $800 per front foot. New apartment structures, worth from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000, have been built and plans announced for a similar building program. In justice it should be said that this result is far beyond the fondest hopes of the City Plan Commission and, of course, of the 'practical' real estate men. It is a example of the fact that city planning sometimes pays larger dividends than might be expected."

The 1923 Bond Issue.

Bartholomew referred to the $87,372,500 bond issue of 1923 as "the first complete budgeted public improvement program among large American cities" and a "logical outgrowth of the city plan." About half of the bond items, he explained, were city planning projects. Issuance of the bonds was arranged over a 10-year period, to avoid undue increases in the sinking fund tax rate. The engineer continued:

"In addition to the many public projects being undertaken, private enterprise has been aroused, with consequent increase in total assessed values of the city considerably beyond original expectations. This has operated to reduce the original estimates of increase in taxes resulting from the large bond issue program, with the result that there is now available additional bonding power in excess of $45,000,000."

The article added that a comprehensive new bond issue now was being discussed, including two great projects not included in the original city plan program—river-front

The 1923 Bond Issue.

Bartholomew referred to the $87,372,500 bond issue of 1923 as "the first complete budgeted public improvement program among large American cities" and a "logical outgrowth of the city plan." About half of the bond items, he explained, were city planning projects. Issuance of the bonds was arranged over a 10-year period, to avoid undue increases in the sinking fund tax rate. The engineer continued:

"In addition to the many public projects being undertaken, private enterprise has been aroused, with consequent increase in total assessed values of the city considerably beyond original expectations. This has operated to reduce the original estimates of increase in taxes resulting from the large bond issue program, with the result that there is now available additional bonding power in excess of $45,000,000."

The article added that a comprehensive new bond issue now was being discussed, including two great projects not included in the original city plan program—river-front improvement and an outer park and driveway system.

St. Louis does not enjoy good city planning legislation, the article declared, as "it has been difficult to secure constructive legislation from a body (the State Legislature) composed largely of rural members." However, Bartholomew went on, i tis hoped to adopt the existing city plan in official form, to prepare and adopt a regional plan and to obtain zoning in St. Louis County.

Cites Three Fundamentals.

Three fundamentals are essential to successful city planning, Bartholomew wrote. "Thoroughly complete and well-prepared technical plans, widespread public understanding and support, and sympathetic official co-operation in the execution of plans." The commission, he said, has been able to make plans properly, public understanding has been created and fostered and, except for one city department, there has been official co-operation. The article praised the attitude of President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks and President Neun of the Board of Aldermen especially as officials in close contact with the commission.

The exception referred to was the Department of Public Safety when under John H. Brod Jr., who was dropped from the Mayor's cabinet last May. Without mentioning Brod's name, Bartholomew said he had a "strong prejudice against zoning."

As a result of the River des Peres sewer conversion work, now going on under the bond issue, Bartholomew wrote, most of the property in the hitherto undeveloped districts along the river has been subdivided, except for one or two large ownerships, "thousands of houses have been built and the River des Peres problem has been solved."

The plan commission originally regarded its 1916 major street plan as visionary but justifiable if half of it were undertaken within 40 or 50 years, the engineer admitted, but "today about 85 per cent of the plan has been initiated and numerous projects have been completed; with but slight modification the plan stands today well suited to present as well as to future probable needs."

Cost of Street Widening.

With reference to the development of traffic arteries, Bartholomew wrote:

"The question is often asked: 'How may the costs of these various street openings and widenings be distributed between the city and the benefited property?' There are no fixed rules. Experience in this field has shown that any fixed rules hinder rather than help. The Charter provides that after the special commission of three members appointed by the court has completely and finally determined damage awards it shall then proceed to find what benefit it can (not to exceed 100 per cent of the total damages) and any remaining cost shall be paid by the city.

"This is the only fair and equitable procedure. Any arbitrary rule, such for instance as the provision of the Ohio Constitution requiring that cities pay 50 per cent of the total cost of any street opening or widening, practically prevents the city from ever undertaking a comprehensive major street plan because of the large amount of money which it would be compelled to raise for such expenditures would be quite disproportionate to expenditures for other public needs.

"In some of the street opening and widening projects in St. Louis 100 per cent of the cost has been assessed on benefited property. In other instances the city's share of the cost has been 5, 10 or 25 per cent and even as high as 40 per cent of the total cost. While the greater benefit is usually to be found upon the frontage of the widened street there is always an additional area of benefit which will bear a varying percentage of the cost. Every project produces a different set of conditions and consequently each case must be separately considered and determined without the restraint imposed by arbitrary rules."

16 PER CENT DECREASE IN REALTY FINANCING

Total for First Half of 1929 $356,923,885, Chicago Firm Reports.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Real estate bond and stock financing in the United States during the first half of 1929 totaled $356,923,885, according to a survey by the Young & Becker Co. of Chicago. This is a decrease of about 16 per cent compared with the same period of last year.

First mortgage real estate bond issues aggregated $284,028,150, a decrease of 30 per cent from the 1928 semi-annual total of $403,709,000. Financing of real estate by stock issues, however, totaled $72,896,735, a gain of approximately 21 per cent over the volume in the first half of 1928.

The Young & Becker figures, which covered deals of $50,000 and upwards in nearly 100 cities, showed that more than 67 per cent of the 1929 financing was secured by first mortgages on properties in New York and Chicago. There were 67 New York issues aggregating $120,121,900, as compared to 79 issues totaling $168,853,000 a year ago, and Chicago houses offered 88 issues totaling $70,262,000, 86, and $99,420,000 in the first half of 1928.

Statistics showing the volume of new realty financing in the first half of 1929, as compared to the some period a year ago, follow:

	1929.	1928.
Bonds	$284,028,150	$403,709,000
Stocks	72,896,735	23,081,533
Total	$356,924,885	$426,790,533

Statistics also were published showing that approximately $4,208,431,000 in real estate mortgage bonds had been issued in the last 10 years to finance new buildings and property development in the United States. This does not include the realty financing done by insurance companies and banks.

The real estate mortgage security business has increased from $57,458,000 to $835,048,000; 1928, or nearly 1500 per cent, since 1919.

100 RESIDENCES BUILT IN NORTHERN SUBDIVISION

One hundred homes have been erected in the last 36 months in Greulich's Subdivision in North St. Louis, the John C. Greulich Realty & Investment Co. announced yesterday.

The subdivision, bounded by Goodfellow and Kingshighway boulevards, the Wabash right-of-way and McLaran avenue, has gas, electricity, water, sewers and fire and police protection.

Upon completion of the street program, it will be between two major boulevards, connecting north side with central west and continuing to Carondelet. Goodfellow and Kingshighway boulevards will extend as one boulevard to Chain of Rocks on the Mississippi River. All streets are 60 feet wide and the improvement of permanent streets is now under way.

The subdivision is served by the Wabash Railway for direct service downtown and has bus service connecting with the Broadway and Bellefontaine street car lines.

100 ADDITIONAL BEDS FOR BAPTIST HOSPITAL

Construction Work to Make Institution Largest of Kind in Midwest.

Completion of the new addition to Missouri Baptist Hospital, 919 North Taylor avenue, which is expected within the next few weeks, will make it the largest private general hospital in the Middle West, its management thinks.

The new addition, costing $375,000, including equipment and furnishings, has a capacity of 100 beds. The older part of the hospital has accommodations for 400 patients. The addition will also house mechanical equipment for X-ray work, sterilization, clinic and operating rooms. It will have diet kitchens, class rooms for nurses, a drug store, barber shop, soda fountain, swimming pool and an auditorium. A large sun room at the top of the building and an adjoining flat roof will be available to patients.

An unusual feature of the building is that beds in each ward will be separated by partitions. Each room and ward will have a radio speaker connected with a central receiving set.

The hospital was founded in 1884 by Dr. W. H. Mayfield and was incorporated as a Baptist institution in 1889. It is the oldest Baptist hospital in the United States.

UNION ELECTRIC TO OPEN TWO NEW BRANCH STORES.

South Side and West End Quarters for Convenience of Its Customers.

The Union Electric Light and Power Co. will open tomorrow two additional branch stores in the St. Louis district, one at 2715-17 Cherokee street and the other at 6500 Delmar boulevard.

The South Side branch is located in the center of the thriving Cherokee street business and neighborhood community. The Delmar establishment occupies a first floor location in the heart of what is one of the most important and thickly settled residential and apartment house sections.

These two new retail branches will increase the number of service stores maintained by the Union Electric Light and Power Co. for the convenience of their 300,000 St. Louis customers, from six to eight. Three of the stores are located in St. Louis County—at Luxemburg, Wellston and Webster Groves. The remaining five, including the service department at the Union Electric headquarters at Twelfth and Locust streets, are in St. Louis. At these two new stores, as at all Union Electric branch stores, customers may pay their bills, order electric service, buy and exchange lamp bulbs, electric appliances and obtain the many other services offered by the company.

Both of the new branches have been furnished and outfitted with the latest types of fixtures and furnishings. The Delmar boulevard shop is identified by an overhead flashing electrical sign of unique design and color.

WORK BEGUN ON NEW YARD OF UNITED LUMBER CO.

Construction was begun last week on the new 12-acre yard of the United Lumber Co., at Hanley road and Dale avenue. The building and grounds cost $200,000 and the architect is S. B. Goldman. The plant is scheduled to be completed within six months.

The main storage shed is 600 feet long. A large garage is provided for the company's trucks. Railroad sidings are adjacent to the storage shed. The new yard will represent the fourth controlled by the company.

15 Sales by Franciscus Co.

The Franciscus Realty Co. reports having closed 15 sales in the last six weeks on residences, flats and bungalows.

297 Births, 187 Deaths in Week.

There were 297 births and 187 deaths reported in St. Louis last week. Fifty-nine persons died of organic heart disease, 14 of cancer, 12 of pneumonia, 10 of apoplexy, 9 of appendicitis, 9 of Bright's disease, 7 of arterial troubles and 5 of tuberculosis. There were seven accidental deaths, four of which were caused by automobiles. One homicide was recorded.

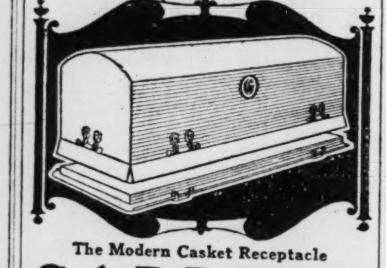
People of only moderate means will be happy to know that the remains of loved ones are protected, in the future, from all destroying elements.



The Modern Casket Receptacle

GARDNER GRAVE VAULT

Guaranteed for Fifty Years

This vault is built of Rust-Resisting Steel, one solid, rigidly tested, flawless sheet and without a seam. It absolutely prevents all ruthless elements, every form of decay, air, water and rust, from entering the casket. Gardner Grave Vault is the modern and necessary casket receptacle that is within the reach of everyone.

Suggest to your Funeral Director to provide a Gardner Grave Vault. He will.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to thank our relatives and friends for sympathy shown us in our last sad bereavement in the loss of our dear son, Edward Horwath; especially Rev. Michael Schaller, Rev. Jos. Bremenich of Holy Trinity Church, Professor Jacob Krammer and singers, the pallbearers, and for the floral offerings.
ANTON HORWATH AND FAMILY.

WE wish to thank our kind relatives, friends and neighbors for their acts of love and sympathy during our recent loss of our dear sister, Nelly Frederick, and also extend grateful thanks for the beautiful floral tributes to our loved one. We also wish to thank the Rev. Fathers Kennedy and O'Brien.
MISS ANN HAYES, MRS. JOHN LAWLER.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral tributes received from our relatives and friends in our sad bereavement in the loss of our dear husband and father, Harry Cordes. We especially thank the Rev. Press for his consoling words. The members of Blair Mutual Aid for their services as pallbearers and Suedmeyer & Sons, funeral directors for their efficient services.
MRS. HARRY CORDES AND JR.

IN MEMORIAM

BANNON—In affectionate memory of "Bud," our only brother, First Class Private Frank L. Bannon of Ninth Infantry, Co. F., Second Division, whose young life was sacrificed July 18, 1918, in the second Battle of the Marne.
Sadly missed by
HIS SISTERS. (c)

DIETZ—In sad but loving memory of our dear daddy, Harry Dietz, who departed this life one year ago today, July 21, 1928.
Dearest daddy how we miss you
Since from earth you passed away.
Sad our hearts but sweet our memories.
As we think of you each day.
We miss your cheerful, smiling face—
We miss you everywhere.
Our home is no more what it used to be
Since our dear daddy is not there.
Sadly missed by his three daughters and son-in-law.
MR. AND MRS. EARL CRAFT, ETHEL AND HARRIET DIETZ. (c)

FOPPIANO, JOHN—Passed away two years ago, July 17, 1927.
We're sad in our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
We think of him in silence,
No eyes may see us weep,
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.
Sadly missed by WIFE, DAUGHTER AND SONS. (c)

HARTMAN—In loving memory of our dear mother, Emilie Hartman, who passed away two years ago, July 24, 1927.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss her;
Our hearts cannot tell what to say.
God alone knows how we miss her.
In our homes today.
Sadly missed by
SON, DAUGHTER AND GRANDCHILDREN.

HEIDACKER—John. In loving memory of my dear husband, John Heidacker, who departed this life one year ago, July 28, 1928.
My lips cannot tell how I miss him
My heart cannot tell what to say.
God alone knows how I miss him
In a home that is lonesome today.
HIS WIFE. (c)

JOHNSON—In memory of our loving son, grandson and nephew, Milton A. Johnson, who died July 18, 1928.
THE FAMILY.

KNIGHT—In loving remembrance of our beloved daughter, Dorothy La Rae Knight, who died July 24, 1924.
Five years have passed; oh, how we miss her.
Friends may think the wound is healed;
Little do they know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
From her broken-hearted father and those who loved her. (c)

MURRAY—Loving memory of my darling husband, Silas F. Murray, who departed this life one year ago, July 16, 1928:
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps you near.
Sadly missed by his wife.
MRS. S. F. MURRAY. (c)

PFEIFER—In loving memory of dear father and brother, John and Junior Pfeifer, who died July 18, and May 2, 1928.
We are lonely just for you, dear daddy,
In that year you passed away
And we know He will always guide us
Until we meet again some day.
He is happily united with his pals, our mother and brother.
There in the beautiful Island of Somewhere.
They await their children there.
Sadly missed by children and all who loved him.
MRS. BRUNOLD AND MRS. DOLIN.

RACHER—In loving memory of my dear husband and our dearly devoted father, Joseph Racher, who departed July 24, 1927
We are thinking of you today, dear father, thinking of the past.
Picturing you in memory, just as we saw you last.
You left behind some broken hearts that loved you so sincere,
That never did nor never will forget you, father dear
WIFE, CHILDREN and all who loved him.

RECKER—In memory of our dear mother, Frieda Recker, who departed this life one year ago July 19, 1928.
Deep in our heart's lies a picture of a mother we laid to rest.
And in memory's frame we shall keep her because she was one of the best.
Sadly missed by her
CHILDREN. (c)

SCHMELIG—
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak
When all other things decay,
Our love for him will still keep green
And never fade away.
In memory of our dear son and brother, William Schmelig, who departed this life four years ago, July 17, 1925.
FAMILY.

STRESLEWSKI—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, John L. Streslewski, who departed this life three years ago, July 21.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
We miss him every day and we will treasure his memory through our lives.
Sadly missed by his wife, children and all who loved him.
Requiem mass at St. Hedwig Church on Monday, July 22, at 7:15 o'clock.

IN MEMORIAM

WACKMAN—In loving memory of my dear husband and our dear father, George Wackman, died July 23, 1923.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss you,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say,
God alone knows how we miss you,
In the home where it's lonesome today.
MRS. CLARA WACKMAN AND CHILDREN. (c)

WEBER-KUNIGUNDA—In loving memory of my dear mother, who departed this life one year ago, July 22, 1928.
You are not forgotten, mother, dear,
Nor ever shall you be.
As long as life and memory lasts
I shall remember thee.
Sadly missed by DAUGHTER. (c)

WINDMEYER—In memory of Frederick G. Windmeyer, who departed this life July 23, 1928.
Sadly missed by wife, daughter, parents and sister. (c)

Manufacturers' Salesmen and Promoters

Every specialty salesman knows the Mills Novelty Co. Our trade mark is known throughout the world, with a Dun and Bradstreet classification similar to that of Ford Motors and the U. S. Steel Corporation. Over 40 years of business success behind us. This country is in a coin vending age which is the salesman's biggest money-making field, bar none. Our tremendous advertising and sales promotion campaign will give you an enormous volume of business in the next 18 months on our brand-new coin-operated instrument. This is a $1000 per month and up proposition. Men who have sold advertising, insurance, mechanical refrigeration, cash registers, phonographs, radios, vending machines, fountains, securities and kindred lines are attracted by my proposition. Also livewire promoters are making a killing exploiting our product under a sure-hit sales policy. Cash in on our distribution program as set for the next 18 months. I need six high-class men for this high-class connection that is permanent. Call Monte Bose, Hotel Melbourne, Monday, for interview. Interviews courteously arranged but by phone only. Out-of-town applicants, write. (c)

READ THIS TWICE

Men without previous real estate experience, start with us and make $500 per month and more. They find we offer all a salesman can want in a permanent connection.

If you can sell and are looking for a real opportunity, see me, 9:00 to 2:00 any day.

R. C. McMAHAN,
1601 Boatmen's Bank Bldg. (c1)

Two Tuneful Shows Here

The Old Favorite, "Prince of Pilsen," Being Revived by the Municipal Opera in Forest Park While the Garden Theatre Offers "Spring Is Here," a New One for St. Louis, With Charles Ruggles as Star.

FOR the eighth week of this summer's Municipal Opera season, starting tomorrow night, the Municipal Theater Association will turn to that delightful old operetta, "The Prince of Pilsen," a piece presented twice previously with great success at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park. "Rose Marie," which has been drawing tremendous crowds to the open-air theater the past week is to have a final performance tonight.

Last night marked the closing performance of "Sally" at the Garden Theatre, where it did a record breaking business, the Olive Street Road show place being practically sold out every night after Sunday and Monday. It also saw the end of Leon Errol's stay here for the popular comedian is off, today, for New York to begin rehearsals in a new show which will open late in the summer. Tonight the Garden will begin a week of the musical comedy "Spring Is Here" and for the occasion Peter Greig has brought on Charles Ruggles, a well known Broadway comedian who originated the leading role in "Spring Is Here" in New York. Ruggles is to remain for two weeks.

* * * *

OLD timers will remember that Gustav Luders composed the music for "The Prince of Pilsen." The librettist was Frank Pixley and the two were prolific workers in the musical field. As colloborators they turned out, in addition to "Pilsen," "Marcelle," "King Dodo," "The Burgomaster," "Woodland" and "The Grand Mogul." The late Colonel Henry W. Savage, whose name is indelibly identified with light opera in St. Louis because of his management of the Castle Square Opera Company years ago at the Old Exposition Hall, produced "The Prince of Pilsen" in this country in 1902 at the Tremont Theater in Boston. The success of the operetta was instantaneous. Following a triumphant New York engagement, it toured the country for eleven consecutive years to undiminishing popularity.

Municipal Opera first produced "The Prince of Pilsen" in 1923 and the receipts exceeded $35,000, which is considered a remarkable intake even today. The production was viewed one evening by the late President Harding. At the end of the first act, the President's escort suggested that his party leave to keep other engagements but Harding insisted on staying until the final curtain. The operetta was revived by Municipal Opera in 1924 and again the receipts were over $30,000.

* * * *

ST. LOUIS has never seen—nor has any city outside of New York for that matter—"Spring Is Here" which comes to the Garden tonight. Charles Ruggles, the star, has many successes to his credit in the theater. He is especially known for his work in such productions as "Rainbow," "Queen High," "Battling Butler," "Ladies' Night" and "The Demi Virgin."

The book of "Spring Is Here" was written by Owen Davis, prolific and successful author of many plays and musical comedies. The music was written by Richard Rogers and the lyrics by Lorenz Hart.

The story of the show concerns certain events in the household of the Braleys, an average American family of the well-to-do type. Mr. Braley, whose character is taken by Ruggles, is the father of two very modern daughters, both of whom are in the throes of love affairs.

"Spring is Here" is reported to have been one of the most popular attractions of the past New York season. There are several song hits that found favor when the show was produced. Among them are "Sincerely Yours," "Song of My Heart" and "Rich Man, Poor Man."

* * * *

A HIGHLY interesting story, which is both romantic and humorous, and a gem studded score were responsible for the success of "Pilsen." There are any number of tuneful songs, such as "Artie," "A Season at the Shore," "The Message of the Violets," "Heidelberg," "Song of the Stein," "The Widow," "Keep It Dark," "Smoke Pictures," "Tally Ho," "The American Girl," "The Tale of the Sea Shell," "Back to the Boulevards," "Our Queen of Flowers" and "Fall In."

The part of Hans Wagner, famous for the line, "Vass You Effer in Zinzinnati?" created by John W. Ransome, and later played with great success by Jess Dandy, will be portrayed this week by Florenz Ames with Carolyn Thompson, the new prima donna, as his daughter, Nellie. The complete cast of characters for the week follows:

Carl Otto	Roy Cropper
Hans Wagner	Florenz Ames
Lieut. Tom Wagner	Pierre White
Arthur Wilberforce	William J. McCarthy
Francois	Truman Stanley
Sergeantt Brie	William C. Gordon
Mrs. Madison Crocker	Alice MacKenzie
Edith Adams	Grace Yeager
Sidonie	Sibylla Bowhan
Nellie Wagner	Carolyn Thomson

The ninth week of the opera season, starting Monday night, July 29, will be given over to Victor Herbert's operette, "The Enchantress," which years ago served to bring stardom to Kitty Gordon. "The Enchantress," has never before been produced at the Municipal Theater.

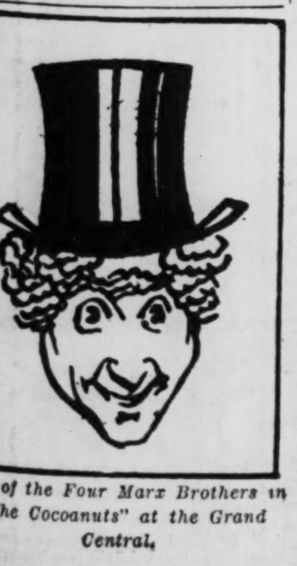
IN addition to Mr. Ruggles, the cast for "Spring is Here," will include Virginia Smith, James B. Carson, Ethlynne Bradford, Edward Garr, Sam Critcherson, Estelle Jayne, Georgette Caryll, Lew Parker, Victor Casmore and others.

For the week beginning next Sunday, the attraction at the outdoor theater on Olive Street road will be the musical comedy "Oh Kay," with both Mr. Ruggles and Louise Brown in the cast. Miss Brown was induced to remain in St. Louis to appear in one more production after the management of the Garden Theatre was swamped with a deluge of requests from theater goers asking that she remain.

Harpo Marx



One of the Four Marx Brothers in "The Cocoanuts" at the Grand Central.

Three Plays to Be Given at Toy Theater

A group of plays will be offered at the Toy Theater next Friday evening. The plays are "Pan," "Echo and Narcissus and five scenes from "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Those in prominent roles are: Warren Yost, Marie Lucke, Dorothy Pershall, Margaret Keaney, Marietta Helm, Irene Virginia Miller, Rosalind Hohn, Juanita Yarbrough, Mildred Reda Margulis, Angie Miller Pierce, Mildred Buckley, Ann Russell Janes, Dorothy Meyers, Frances Bohn, Rose Marie Haley, Helen Smith, Dorothy Conklin, Therese Wittler, Dornice Cantrell, Maltier Chauncey and Ruth Schulte. The plays are staged by Harry R. McClain and are open to the public.

Are Road Shows Doomed?

By Arthur Hammerstein

Arthur Hammerstein, one of the leading producers of musical comedies, is president of the Producing Managers' Protective Association. The accompanying article was written by him for the members of the Theatrical Press Agents' organization.

THEATRICAL producers are deceiving themselves—and deceiving friends of the Legitimate Theater, as well—when they say road shows are coming back or that the legitimate show business will be restored to its former happy prosperity in this country.

I'm not saying there will come a time when no more productions will be made. I am deep in my own productions and always expect to be—but it is a question of the longest bank roll—sinking a fortune in one venture and at a scale of prices that only the largest cities can afford.

In some respects, American producers are faced with what was learned in other countries years ago. In London, Paris and Berlin they never figure on taking their high-class productions outside of the metropolitan centers. The provincial cities are given over to small touring companies or to stock theaters.

In America, the legitimate theater, as we once knew it, is dead, because the theatrical business outside our very largest cities has been killed—and killed by the theater managers themselves. Not so long ago I was quoted as saying the talking movies had given a death blow to the show business. Our extravagant and costly Broadway productions at $5.50 cannot compete with 75-cent entertainment of the screen in picture palaces.

Ratty Theaters Killed Road Shows.

BUT the true reason of dying road shows can be charged to the theater managers as much as to moving pictures. Not so long ago I was threatened with a suit for damages because I announced publicly I would not play my attractions in a theater where rats were allowed free run of the place. How long would a movie theater hold its crowds once the women and children's feet were being nibbled at by poisonous vermin?

Theatrical business began to die when women found their evening gowns were being ruined and torn in filthy and broken seats, when legitimate theaters needed renovation, new portals and fresh decorations—when those who controlled road show theaters replied to our complaints with the shop-worn alibi: "Don't worry! Give us good shows and they'll come."

That's what killed the show business. That was when the moving picture people began to build palaces to attract the masses. The younger generation grew up without stepping inside a legitimate theater. They followed the crowd to the cheaper and more attractive houses.

Producers Holding the Bag.

THE legitimate theatrical business owes its existence to theatrical producers who furnished the shows that supported the millions invested in theater properties. Yet theater managers—in the face of palatial screen theaters being erected—refused to turn a hand to save the situation.

This heedless policy forced producers each year to bigger and more elaborate productions to attract profitable audiences. Then came higher prices to pay for the more expensive shows. Naturally, higher prices reduced the number of patrons, causing producers to resort to still greater productions and restrict engagements to cities that would support a weekly overhead of $30,000.

This sort of vicious circle would kill motors, steels or any other business. The theaters were not operated on sound business prinsiples when managers refused to make their houses attractive. Hundreds of once-paying theatrical properties have been closed or turned over to screen managers. Thus, legitimate producers either were forced to give up road shows or go down with the road show theaters.

That explains what I said above, that road shows and the legitimate have absolutely no chance under present conditions. Nothing can be done by producers, even toward making a start at improving these conditions, because there is no prospect that producing managers or the two big Erlanger and Shubert booking syndicates, will ever forget their animosities and unite on any remedy that can be suggested.

Booking Offices Let Theaters Rot.

HOW are you going to bring about a United Producers Organization when there are two unreconcilable producer factions with members antagonistic and afraid the other fellow wishes to "put over" something?

Producers will never get together until either the Shuberts or the Erlangers retire. Each group insists on going its own way. The Organized Legitimate Managers Association organized last year to bring both factions together, is already dead. The meeting of the Managers Protective Association on July 20, of which I have been elected President, has its contracts with Equity, stage hands and other affiliated organizations, but its benefits are only for members of our association.

The Shubert and Erlanger booking syndicates could have done something once, but now they have not the power. Once they dictated to producers—it's the producers now that dictate to the booking offices. It might be a different story if the booking syndicates could unite, but that's their business.

So don't make the mistake of thinking any one body of producers is going to save the show business. The show business acts as if it were determined not to be saved.

Going West ON The Train

By O. O. McINTYRE.

GOING WEST, July 20.

NO ONE engages in casual conversations with a fellow traveler wearing a monocle.

An idea there for keeping off bores.

The only improvement in Pullman coaches in the past 10 years is for men only. The slot for discarded razor blades.

Every once in awhile you find a fellow who doesn't call a porter George. He is, however, sure to call him Chief.

Among those deserving a trip-up in the aisle are flappers who carry portable phonographs.

The best tune to blend with the hum of the car wheels is "This Is My Lucky Day." I've tried 'em all.

In the old days conductors used to toss all the day's receipts in the air and the company got what stuck on the bell rope. Today they must depend solely on their salaries.

And it is pretty measly pay when one considers the daily dangers, the monotony, the hours from home and the responsibility that is theirs.

I wonder if there are others who get a kick out of the acrid smell of train smoke.

And no matter what a terrible motorman's glove taste it has, there is a "certain something" about water from a train's ice water cooler you enjoy.

Nothing beats a rainy night, a thrilling mystery story and a cozy berth on a thundering express.

When I was a tad a train trip consisted of stuffing a box of figs and occupying a seat all alone at an open window. Whoops!

Nothing is so typical of America's peaceful domesticity as the back porch view of a small village at eventide.

Nor is anything quite so intriguing as a back door peep into a strange house. Front views are all the same, but there never were two back views alike.

Wonder if anyone ever saw a brand new mail sack?

After a year in the city, a man goes back home feeling sorry for everybody.

After 10 years he goes back feeling sorry for himself.

No one reads all the stuff they take on a trip, but they never get through wishing they had brought more.

Eva Clark for Movie Stage

Fox Theaters Get Former Forest Park Prima Donna Who Will Appear Here Next Month—New Policy of All Pictures to go in Effect at the Missouri August 3.

BY NIE

EVA CLARK, until a week ago prima donna of the Municipal Opera Company has been gathered in by the movie theater stage shows and is to start on a tour of the Fox circuit of cinema palaces at once. She will be seen here as the headliner of the Fox Theater bill on Aug. 10. Miss Clark came up the ladder from one of the Fanchon and Marco stage reviews in San Francisco before those attractions were movie house features. Now the Fanchon and Marco units are playing the Fox theaters throughout the country.

And while the Fox outfit is going ahead with the stage shows here the Missouri Theater, as told in these columns, is about ready to cut them out entirely. The new policy takes effect Aug. 3 at which time Harry Rose, Dorothy De Merle, Newell Goodrich, the Rockets and others connected with the stage show idea make a hurried departure for Indianapolis, Pittsburg and points East. Rose's future is undetermined. He'll either land at Cleveland, Philadelphia or Detroit as an M. C. or return to a Publix Unit. During his stay here Rose has been a prime favorite and a big asset for the Missouri. He, himself, has been delighted with St. Louis and hopes to be returned here at some time in the not too far distant future. Miss De Merle, the Rocket's teacher, is taking over a group of girls at Pittsburg at the Stanley Theater. Arthur Nealy is also slated for Pittsburg. Goodrich, the stage manager, joins the Indianapolis circle of theaters controlled by the Skouras Brothers.

As now planned the Missouri shows will run about two hours and 20 minutes and will include a lively, jazz type of overture and Milton Slosser's organ specialties. Irving Rose will revise his musical offerings somewhat along the lines of the band numbers now done at the Ambassador.

Opening with an overture or band number a short one-reel subject will serve to prepare the audience for the feature. These short subjects are all-talking or all-singing and include such offerings as Rudy Vallee, Chick Sale, Phil Baker, Irene Franklin, Eddie Cantor, Ruth Etting and Trixie Friganza. The news weekly, the organ solo with community singing, a short drama in film and then the feature completes the program.

* * * *

IN THE meantime the Grand Central, patriarch of the Grand Avenue motion picture palaces, is far from its dotage. Despite the ever recurring rumors as to its closing this snug little theater where Gene Rodemich, Dave Silverman and others musically renowned got their starts, has outlined a program of "big" pictures for coming months. Such so-called $2 road shows as the Marx Brothers in "The Cocoanuts," Harold Lloyd's first talkie, "Welcome Danger," Frank Fay in an all-color "Under a Texas Moon," Dennis King in "The Vagabond King" and Paramount's high powered "Four Feathers," have been outlined for early showings.

The history of the Grand Central is always interesting, pioneering as it did the parade of million dollar theaters to the west end's gay white way. Without an orchestra, without an organist, without a stage show and without all the trimmings now deemed so necessary this little house seating some 1800 persons continues merrily on its way pouring a stream of gold into the coffers of the Brothers Skouras.

* * * *

MICROPHONES attuned to pick up dropped H's were needed when "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," Norma Shearer's latest starring vehicle now at Loew's Theater, was screened as a new all-talking feature. Sidney Franklin, who directed the picturization of the famous English stage play, a comedy-drama by Frederick Lonsdale, which scored on the New York stage with Ina Claire in the title role, selected a 99 per cent British cast headed by Norma Shearer, Basil Rathbone, George Barraud and Herbert Bunston.

The British accents, technicians learned, brought on extra microphone worries, but technicians on the sound-proof stages of the motion picture studios are getting used to solving problems, a new one seeming to arise with each new production.

The cast, beside being practically an all-British one, is one with stage experience, Miss Shearer being the only member who has not appeared on the stage. However, this marks her second dialogue picture. She made her debut before the microphones in "The Trial of Mary Dugan." In case one forgets her nationality and looks on her as an American girl, she was born Aug. 10, 1904, in Montreal, Canada.

Basil Rathbone, who plays the romantic male lead opposite Miss Shearer, was born in Johannesburg, South Africa. He was starred on the stage in "The Swan," "The Captive," "The Command to Love" and other productions.

George Barraud, who also has one of the important roles, claims London as his birthplace. He has a brilliant international stage record and has appeared in both silent and talking pictures.

George K. Arthur, Moon Carroll, Herbert Bunston, Cyril Chadwick and Maude Turner were also born in England. In fact, Hedda Hopper is the only non-British member of the cast.

TWITTERING birdies may be lovely as themes for spring poets, but Russell J. Birdwell, director of "Masquerade," the all-talker now on view at the Fox Theater, admits that they've driven all the poetry from his soul.

One hundred Californian mocking birds—than which there is no meaner in the whole wide world—twitted out of turn and soured Birdwell forever on feathered songsters.

The "Masquerade" company, on location at Montrose in the hills just outside of Pasadena, was rushing through several night sequences to beat daybreak.

At the first blush of dawn one hundred (count 'em) mocking birds awakened simultaneously and burst into a chorus number, just as Birdwell was in the midst of directing an intricate sequence.

The youthful director, always a lover of nature, smiled good-naturedly and ordered a retake.

"Perhaps the birds were just sounding reveille," he said kindly.

Again the actors went through their parts, and the sound recording apparatus did its stuff. Again the birdies peeped.

"Silence!" roared an assistant director.

"Another retake, please." Birdwell ordered, his smile now contracted to a slight grin. "Birds will be birds."

The third time it happened the director's sense of humor vanished completely.

"Now, we'll TAKE it," he declared, "birds or no birds."

The mocking birds bided their

WORDS AND MUSIC

As Seen

By Pierre White

Municipal Opera's baritone expresses his views on what the Forest Park audiences, and the public in general, expect from a singer.

IT is quite obvious, I suppose, that a song consists of words and music. And it is also quite obvious that in speaking of a song as words and music we mention the words first. But I often wonder how many singers stop to ask themselves why—whether if after all the music would not have taken some other form than a song if the words were not important to the meaning of the whole, and whether if as artists, they do not fail when they fail to bring out for their audiences the meaning of every word they sing.

It happens that I was taught that so long ago that I always seem to have known it. Like so many of the other members of Municipal Opera's cast this year, I, too, began my career as a boy soprano. But with this difference: I was destined by my family for the ministry.

My father, a physician, came of a family with two traditional professions—medicine and the ministry. And when I began to sing as a boy soprano in the Episcopal church choir at Peekskill, N. Y., it was with the idea that the words I sang were the words of a ritual—words which had a very sincere and sacred meaning and that it was up to me to treat them with the reverence due to their character.

IT happens, of course, that I didn't become a minister, but I have a sort of suspicion that had it not been for that training I shouldn't have been a singer either. For it was through that church experience that I got my first taste of stage life, and though afterward I thought seriously of the church, and even after my voice changed actually started to enter upon the ministry as a career, it was only for a short time. Then the stage claimed me for good.

Years ago, you may remember, they used to show colored slides of the Passion Play at Oberammergau in the nickelodeons. I was a boy of 10 or 11 when those slides were brought to Peekskill. One of the important effects they had was the song, "Holy, Holy," sung by a boy soprano who stood in surplice and cassock, under a dim light at the side. Something had happened to the boy. The manager inquired for a local singer and was referred to my mother. He explained what was wanted of me.

"It's all right," she answered, "but you'll have to find Pierre. I suppose he's down at the picture show."

I was. I went with the manager to the church, explained to the rector what I wanted, got permission to use my surplice and cassock and sang. The result was that they offered me a contract for $35 a week and I spent a year singing with those pictures, touring the country with them.

AFTER that, of course, I used to seize every opportunity there was at home to sing or act. I was in every amateur thing that came along. And several years had passed, and my voice had changed when I got a chance to sing Bunthorne in "Patience." That led me into the ranks of the Aborn Opera Company, and then I went with Joseph Santley in "When Dreams Come True," for the Aborn venture came to the inevitable end, and after all if I wasn't going into the ministry I had to make a living on the stage, and I couldn't take chances on grand opera opportunities.

Only once, since, have I been away from the stage—and that was during the war. For 10 years I had served in the New York National Guard, 13th Regiment. I was down on the Mexican border with them—a Captain and the regimental adjutant. And strangely enough I got that appointment, not because I could sing, but because singing had taught me to enunciate and the regimental commander chose me because I could read the orders in a way the men could understand.

Later came the World War. I had been associated with Rodman Wanamaker, who was then Deputy Police Commissioner in New York, in charge of the police reserves—the home guard organizations. I never got a chance to get to France until the day after the false armistice. Then we sailed from Hoboken. And I did get over as a Captain, but not in time to do any good there.

I SPOKE a moment ago about my belief that singing helped my diction and fitted me the better for a certain soldiering job. I could tell more experiences which show how diction helps singing—so much so that it is surprising more singers do not master the art of speech in song. A few years ago I had been living in Hollywood. I came East in vaudeville by way of Salt Lake, Denver and Omaha. Then here, where I sang at the St. Louis Theater. My songs included "Rose Marie," "The Song of the Vagabond," and "Give a Man a Horse." About the time I reached St. Louis—we were driving through. Mrs. White and I—the change of climate told on my voice. I simply had to ask the pardon of my audiences for lack of tone quality, and yet I managed to "get across," as we say behind the footlights, because I could talk my songs so they were understood.

And after all, that is the main thing. The lyric, I should say, is from 60 to 75 per cent of the success of a good song. I don't mean a popular song. Some of those have lyrics that are such trash you can't sing them to the written words. But I mean the artistic success of a song. For the song is, after all, the union of melody and words and the two re-enforce each other, help and sustain each other in getting the emotion, the essential spirit into the song.

Never was that more manifest than on Municipal Opera's stage. It's a big stage and it looks tricky. The first time you step out before that audience you wonder if you can possibly make your voice reach them. As a matter of fact you don't have to strain to make your voice reach. The amplifier takes care of the distance for you. But you have to take care of the diction. For these operas in English out in Forest Park are words and music. And I've learned out ere that if you take the audience into the secret—if by means of diction you let them understand what you are singing about, the audience is with you. English is a hard language to sing in, but English words can be sung. And the audience likes to know what it's all about.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

June Collyer Comes Naturally To a Stage Career

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.

WHAT is so rare as a day with June—unless it would be two days with June—if June happens to be dainty June Collyer, who is pretty and sweet and also a great girl. We, June and I, eat lunch and decided that interviewing is a nuisance—let's go to a movie. It isn't like the baker's son who never has any bread. Hollywood has plenty of movies, and it's hard to get two people together who haven't seen the same movie at different times. So while trying to find a movie that we both hadn't seen, lots of people came up to talk with June, which is Exhibit A, indication of all the friends she's gathered around her in her short stay in Hollywood. And when I say "stay," that doesn't mean that she is in Hollywood on any sort of a visit. Hollywood is home to June now, even if she does get a terrible desire to go back to New York every once in a while. Some one came up to our table who had just returned from the theatrical ghost city and June had to hear all the news.

JUNE COLLYER.

"Well, let's go back to New York now," I said, suspecting June of homesickness.

"No, let's go to town and buy a porch swing for the house. The family is coming out here, my dad and mother and two brothers, just out of school. But I guess I had better go to the bank first," said June after we had left the place where, according to the advertisements, "the stars dine." It is really a lot of fun to go to the restaurant where everyone looks at everyone else suspiciously wondering just who they are and why. Whenever a star "comes back to civilization" after he or she has been working night and day on a picture for three weeks, their first move is to the Montmarte, where they see people and find out what everybody else has been doing since they went away.

HENRY, or maybe it was John, who herds June's Packard around for her met us and took us to one of the big stores. We rode on the elevators, with stopovers at every floor. June had made a list on a little piece of the back of an envelope hardly larger than a postage stamp.

"Pillows first," said she.

"What kind of pillows, madam?" (Sotto voce to me: "What does she mean what kind of pillows"?)

"Oh, just regular sleeping pillows with feathers in them." June flashed her smile and her dimples. The saleswoman brightened up, thrilled at having recognized June Collyer.

"Oh, yes, to your right, Miss Collyer."

We finally found the pillows and bought a pair of pink striped ones. And then the swings, all kinds and sizes. Big ones, single ones, blue ones, orange striped and all prices. June did not buy the highest priced one, but it was a good swing and matches the rest of the furniture in her yard. She could not resist a small table to go with it. A few extra linens to reinforce the supply at her house on Roxbury in Beverly against the visit of the family which is making June so very happy.

MISS COLLYER has been visiting at Paramount, being a Fox contract star, but loaned to Paramount for three pictures, the last of which is 'The Love Doctor," with Richard Dix as the young doctor, and June his assistant. What she knows about scrubbing instruments you could put in your hat, but that does not make so much difference when you see her in her uniform with her face lit up in smiles and her big dimples all over the place.

JUNE hasn't been in Hollywood long herself, but long enough to firmly implant herself in the movies. The actor's angle is not a new one in her family. Her grandfather was Dan Collyer, whose term of years back of the footlights totals 54. One of his best known plays will be remembered by the old-time theater goers as "King Dodo." June Collyer's mother played with Dan in several shows, until she married Clayton Heermance, a prominent attorney in New York.

So June's name is June Collyer Heermance. She was born and educated in New York. Naturally, she began to make a place for herself in theatricals in school. After she graduated, a friend of her father's told Alan Dwan, the director, about the attorney's beautiful daughter. She had a successful test which lead to the featured part in "East Side, West Side," and a long term contract with Fox. After her first picture she came to Hollywood, where she appeared in "Four Sons," "Woman Wise" and "Me, Gangster." "Not Quite Decent" was her first all-talking picture. Her best pictures have been made during her visit at Paramount. In "The River of Romance," originally Booth Tarkington's "Magnolia," the role of Elvira afforded her seven elaborate costumes and a nice speaking part opposite Buddy Rogers. That's playing in St. Louis now, she told me. She was again featured opposite Buddy in "Illusion" from the novel by Arthur Train.

That's all the news I have on June Collyer in regard to her past. Too many things come up to talk about, and I sometimes suspect June of not caring so much for talking about herself. That might get a laugh from those who are more Hollywood-wise than I—that there should be anyone out here loath to talk about themselves. Some day I will get the hitherto unpublished story of June Collyer, maybe. But June says there isn't any, and anyhow, her public wouldn't be interested. But whenever that public sees June, I'll be willing to bet that her dimples and smile and general good looks won't be soon forgotten.

LYDIA YEAMANS TITUS, internationally famous musical comedy star of the eighties and nineties and now Hollywood's "grand old lady" of talking motion pictures, looks back at herself when she was the toast of London and New York. The veteran actress, who plays an important role in Herbert Brenon's production, "Lummox," for United Artists, is the real answer to what's become of Sally, for in the dim past when even the mothers of the twentieth century crop of Sallies were little girls, Mrs. Titus was starring in "Sally in Our Alley." One of her most prized possessions is a diamond brooch presented to her by the Prince of Wales, afterwards King Edward, when she had all London at her feet. Her husband was the late Fred J. Titus, composer, who wrote many of her songs that were the rage in father's and grandfather's day.

Leonid Leonardi Turns To Acting In Hollywood Studios

THE most interesting Hollywood gossip of the week for St. Louisans concerns Leonid Leonardi, who until recently wielded the baton at the Missouri. Given an opportunity by Charley Skouras to join the Warner Brothers - First National organizations to score the musical effects of sound pictures Leonardi has uncovered hidden histrionic talent. Now from the studios comes the rather startling information that he has been cast for a role in Marilyn Miller's "Sally," now in production. Leonardi will sing to his own piano accompaniment. During the last six months in St. Louis Leonardi devoted much time to vocal training although making no singing appearances. Occasionally, too, Hollywood turns to St. Louisans for ideas. For example when Paramount went into production on "River of Romance," the Booth Tarkington story, which, by the ways is now showing back home, the directors found themselves in a rather embarrassing position. No one in cinemaland was familiar with the technique or construction of river boats of the type necessary to carry out the story. Accordingly an emissary hastened to Capt. Sam Smith, editor of the Waterways Journal in St. Louis. Smith an old river pilot, dug up some 500 photographs of interior and exterior views of various craft. It also is interesting to record that "Broadway Babies" the Alice White that showed at the Missouri some weeks ago was filmed from a story by a St. Louis author. Mrs. Jay Gelzer of the Greystone Apartments wrote the script which was screened by First National.

King Gives to Fund for 'Old Kate.'

LONDON, July 20.—King George has donated $50 to a fund being raised by a London newspaper to provide "Old Kate" with a home for her old age. "Old Kate" is the race card seller who called at Buckingham Palace last winter when the King was dangerously ill to inquire how the King was getting along.

time until the faint hum of the motors on the Fox Movietone equipment gave them their cue, then they set up such a chattering and cheeping that the sound man nearly lost his hearing.

"All hands grab rocks!" Birdwell roared.

Actors, cameramen, electricians, soundmen, grips, script girls and property boys rushed into action, led by the director.

"Fire!" Birdwell commanded.

A shower of rocks raked nearby trees and telephone wires.

Three more volleys were hurled before the birds finally took the hint and departed for less dangerous roosts.

Making the Movies Talk

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 20.

PICTURE a scene from ancient movie history, the year 1923 in the Age of Silence: They are making "The Isle of Lost Ships."

Actors on a boat set register emotions; director, megaphone to lips, shouts orders; cameraman grinds away with competent unconcern; extras loll about, chattering; carpenters on the next set hammer and saw noisily; director raises his voice above the din; electricians, a prop man or two, putter about; the script girl takes notes with leisurely attention. The scene is made—on to the next.

Now span the chasm of a few chaotic years and leap, as the movies did, into this age of noise.

Again they are making "The Isle of Lost Ships." Again the set is there, in the open air—a huge passenger ship, derelict, "adrift" on the studio lot. Director, script girl, prop man—all are there as before; but there are many electricians, many cameramen; and there are others, called technicians of sound.

Just off the "deck;," raised on improvised platforms to its level over the "water," are large booths, soundproof prisons for cameramen; suspended over the deck, invisible to the hidden cameras, are black cylinders—microphones; to one side, waiting, Virginia Valli, Jason Robards and other players "rehearse dialog."

Suddenly, a signal from the set; a shrill siren screams piercingly, dies away to a mounful echo; then silence. Carpenters rest; men tread velvet-footed; the director clicks the "toy cricket" in his hand, and the actors register emotions and speak lines.

The director at length raises his hand: Cut! A moment more of silence, then soft chatter all around, slowly growing bolder, louder. The siren screams again, twice this time, and sound of life on the lot revive; carpenters hammer; men talk, shout, walk as they please.

But the siren moans again, and again the pall of silence falls. [illegible] retake. Actors and their voices [illegible] action; take and retake.

On the fourth attempt, in the midst of silence, save for the players' dramatic utterances, those standing about turn eyes upward. High in the blue, two planes [illegible] on their way, motors humming audibly. The scene is spoiled again because the studio has not yet raised its "captive balloon" as a pleading warning to ward off the craft.

So is created the outdoor movie in the year 1929 of the Age of Noise.

FIVE OTHER CITIES PREPARE DATA FOR AIR LINE HEARING

St. Louis Plea for Direct Mail Route to New York Gets Active Aid From Pittsburg to Oklahoma.

Five cities beside St. Louis and the Oklahoma State Chamber of Commerce are preparing data for presentation at a hearing on St. Louis' demand for air mail by airline to New York. The hearing will be held before the Interdepartmental Committee on Airways Aug. 1 in Washington.

St. Louis will be prepared to prove the Chamber of Commerce Air Board announced yesterday, that no other route could be laid out to include so many large cities or to produce such heavy mail traffic; that the airline route from New York through St. Louis to the Southwest will serve half the population of the United States, and that it can be extended westward to provide the shortest and most expeditious route from coast to coast.

The possibility of extending the route to the Pacific Coast will be a secondary consideration in the hearing, but is considered of high importance in the future of air mail from the national standpoint. Observers declare that the present transcontinental route must be supplemented to care for growing use of air mail, and point out that the trend of the Post Office Department is toward direct, or "speed," routes.

Technical data of flying conditions, terrain and facilities will be presented in expert testimony. The St. Louisans will offer evidence of a preference for this route by Army, Navy and civilian aviators, and cite that it has been the route of virtually every record-setting flight from coast to coast.

City Officials to Attend.

A delegation of five will represent the city of St. Louis, as voted recently by the Board of Aldermen. The delegation will include President Neun of the board, Aldermen Niederlucke, Hirth and Stutt, and Assistant Comptroller Charles L. Cunningham.

The Air Board is organizing a delegation to represent all the business and financial groups of the city. Indianapolis and Pittsburg are preparing their evidence. Columbus, Tulsa and Oklahoma City have announced that they will make a determined fight for the direct route. The route could be extended to the Pacific Coast, it is pointed out, from Oklahoma City or Fort Worth through El Paso and Phoenix to Los Angeles.

A final review of the data is to be conducted late this month when officials of the Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Oklahoma State chambers of commerce fly here to confer with the Air Board and the chamber's research department.

Year of Effort Already.

The hearing is St. Louis' first opportunity, after a year of effort, to present its case to the Interdepartmental Committee. The demand was provoked by costly delays over the present roundabout connection with New York by way of Chicago and the Great Lakes area of poor flying conditions.

A delegation of the Air Board went to Second Assistant Postmaster-General Glover in Washington several months ago with a request for a hearing which elicited no definite response. A similar delegation on June 12 succeeded in obtaining from the Postoffice Department an assurance that no action would be taken on a pending proposal to extend the Cleveland-Louisville route to Dallas and Fort Worth, with a "feeder" line from St. Louis to Memphis until St. Louis had opportunity to be heard on the direct route.

COOLIDGE MAY ATTEND TREATY CEREMONY AT WHITE HOUSE

Former President Will Go to Washington If Condition of Mother-in-Law Permits.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—If the condition of his mother-in-law permits, former President Coolidge will attend the White House ceremony next Wednesday at which final ratification of the Kellogg anti-war treaty will be celebrated.

This was announced at the White House today by George Akerson, one of President Hoover's secretaries, who said former President Coolidge had advised that the condition of Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, was critical.

Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, will arrive tomorrow morning and will be present at the ceremony.

Secretary Stimson will announce at the ceremony, to be held in the east room of the White House, that Japan, the last of the 15 signatory nations, has approved the treaty.

President Hoover then will read a proclamation putting the treaty into effect.

TWO ST. LOUISANS HURT IN BUS

Driver Also Injured in Accident Near Decatur, Ill.

DECATUR, Ill., July 20.—Three persons were injured today when a St. Louis to Chicago bus went into a ditch near here to avoid a collision. Those injured were L. C. Wright, Chicago, driver of the bus, and Ellen Daniels and Mrs. Alta Howard, both of St. Louis. Injuries were not serious.

Amazing New Speed-Iron

Does in 2 hours, the work that took 8 hours before

Permit us, please, madam, to show it in your home.

NOW, the appliance experts of the Hurley Machine Company have perfected an amazing new machine that reduces the ironing day job to a pleasant 2-hour relaxation. Unlike any ironing machine ever built—it embodies new principles of speed, compactness and simplicity that are daily bringing thousands to this new, easier way. And its price, madam, due to the tremendous number we are building and selling, is less than half that of any machine of comparable features and quality.

Eight Hours of Ironing in the Average Home

Students of home-keeping methods tell us that the ironing job takes 8 hours each week in the average home. 8 hours of back-straining, arm-tiring drudgery. No woman can do it week after week and retain her youthful vigor.

Take your own case, madam. Hand ironing ages you faster than any remaining household task. Actual tests show that a 6½-pound iron is raised on an average of twice a minute when ironing clothes. The pressure downward requires as much, if not more, effort. This energy expended over a period of 8 hours (the time it takes to do the average family ironing by hand) could unload from a truck over six tons of brick. Yet—you perhaps wonder why hand-ironing leaves you fatigued—dragged out.

Science Has Found a Remedy

An utterly new type electric ironing machine is now on the market. It operates on a wholly new speed principle. There is nothing else on the market as fast or as economical to buy and operate.

Note first its amazing simplicity. With ten minutes practice anyone can operate it. Note, too, its compact size—its roll of generous length—the comfortable position of the operator. This machine has an ironing surface equal to ten flatirons. It heats in 4 minutes. It irons everything, from the stacks of flat work, that make up some 90% of the average laundry, to the fine dainty things that take so long by hand. It is portable—can be placed in any pleasant room—and removed to corner or closet out of the way when not in use.

Presses Men's Trousers—Women's Skirts

And does them with an efficiency equalled only by skilled hand pressmen. Many tell us it pays for itself in a few months in this work alone.

This machine is a Thor. For 23 years women have accepted the Thor name on a washer or ironer as the highest guarantee of superior quality and service. The world knows nothing finer. Yet, because we are selling thousands of these new speed-ironers where hundreds were sold before, the price is less than half that of any ironer of comparable quality and features.

Madam—make your decision! 8 hours of drudgery or 2 hours of pleasant relaxation with 6 hours to call your own. Your Thor dealer will demonstrate its remarkable ease and efficiency—phone him to come. It costs you nothing to see and be convinced. The Hurley Machine Company, 22nd St. and 54th Ave., Chicago, Ill.

HOSPITAL TO GET $400,000 ESTATE OF W. C. TAYLOR

Ultimate Beneficiary by Will of President of Mellier Drug Co. — Income to Four Nieces.

The St. Louis Children's Hospital is named ultimate beneficiary of the bulk of an estate, estimated at $400,000, in the will of Walter Cerre Taylor, filed for probate yesterday.

Mr. Taylor, president of the Mellier Drug Co., died Wednesday at his home, 4 North Kingshighway. The son of the late George R. Taylor, former president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad and first president of the Merchants' Exchange, he began his business career with the Mellier Drug Co., founded nearly 100 years ago by the family of his sister's husband.

After making specific bequests totaling $18,000, the will placed the residue of the estate in trust of the Franklin-American Trust Co. Two-fifths of the income is to be paid to a niece, Ida Mellier, and one-fifth each to other nieces, Adrienne Meiller, Marguerite Mellier and Reba Pendleton.

However, no niece is to receive more than $6000 a year, any income in excess of that being applied to the principal. As each niece dies, her share of the income is to be applied to the principal and at the death of the last survivor, the trust fund is to be turned over to the Children's Hospital, to be used to equip rooms or erect a building, as a memorial to the testator's deceased wife, Mrs. Martha Lowman Taylor.

Specific bequests in the will were: $5000 to the Rev. Francis O'Connor, pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, for masses in memory of the testator's parents; $2000 to the Bellefontaine Cemetery Association for maintenance of the George R. Taylor mausoleum; $1000 to a sister, Countess Theresa de Noue of Paris; a trust fund of $5000 for a "faithful housekeeper," Mary E. Cawein; a joint trust fud of $5000 for James and Alvina Brooks, in recognition of "loyal service" in looking after Mr. Taylor's interests in the Mellier Drug Co.

Mr. Taylor's hunting and fishing equipment—he was widely known as a sportsman—his chinaware and contents of his former home at 3800 Delmar boulevard were bequeathed to relatives. The will is dated Sept. 19, 1928.

$1,000,000 EQUITY SUIT OVER MOVIE CONTRACT

Tully Marshall and Warner Brothers Made Defendants—Injunction Also Sought.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—Actors' Equity Association today filed suit in Superior Court for $1,000,000 damages against Tully Marshall, actor, and Warner Brothers, Inc., film producers. The plaintiffs also asked the defendants be restrained from carrying out a motion picture contract.

The complaint alleged that Marshall had been a member of Equity since 1913 and had made an agreement with the association June 5 last under which he consented to enter into no contract with motion picture producers without authorization of Equity. About July 1 the actor, it was charged, signed a contract with Warner Brothers, Inc., in violation of the agreement with Equity.

Equity asked for a temporary restraining order against the film contract and requested it eventually be made permanent, and sought damages for newspaper statements alleged to have been made by Marshall.

Superior Judge Arthur McComb signed an order instructing Marshall to appear July 29 to show cause why he should not be enjoined from fulfilling his contract with Warner Brothers, Inc. The producing company was not named in the order.

NEGRO TAKES AUTO AND $68 IN HOLDUP AND ESCAPES

Machine Abandoned After Robbery of Insurance Man When Detectives Give Chase; 4 Shots Hit Car.

Charles D. Holub, an insurance agent, 1811 South Twelfth boulevard, was accosted by an armed Negro as he entered his coupe in front of 3135 Adams street at 9 o'clock last night, and forced him to drive to the Compton avenue viaduct where he was robbed of $68 and his automobile.

Holub hailed Detective Sergeant Wille and Detective Swerderska passing in a Police Department car, and a chase followed. The Negro drove east on Chouteau and abandoned the machine at Cardinal and Hickory streets, escaping in an alley. Examination of the coupe showed that four of six shots fired by Sergt. Wille took effect.

FORMER COLUMBIA U. ATHLETE ADMITS $173,000 STOCK THEFT

Lawrence Sorenson Planned to Sell Securities and Play Stock Market.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20. — Lawrence Sorenson, 29 years old, former Columbia University athlete, today confessed, according to police, to the theft of $173,000 worth of stock from the loan department of the Equitable Trust Co., where he was employed as a bookkeeper.

Nearly all of the stock, which had been deposited at the Equitable Trust by Frederick P. James, of Lockport, N. Y., as security for a loan has been recovered, police said.

Sorenson was detected today while attempting to negotiate a loan of $60,000, using some of the stock for collateral. An employe of the Fidelity Trust Co., where he had previously borrowed $10,000 on part of the securities became suspicious when Sorenson listed his occupation as an engineer where he had said he was a lawyer in negotiating the first loan.

Police quoted Sorenson as saying he took the stock with the intention of pledging some of it to raise cash, use this in market speculation and, when his fortune was made, regain the stock and return it to the trust company.

30 BOY SCOUTS TO GO ON BUS TOUR OF WEST

St. Louis Group Will Visit Yellowstone, Colorado Springs and Pike's Peak.

The West, with its geysers and mountains will be the goal of 30 St. Louis Boy Scouts who will leave Thursday morning for a five-week bus tour to Yellowstone Park under the auspices of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council. The tour, the second conducted by the council to the park, is one of a series of "Roving camps on wheels" inaugurated by the council two years ago to familiarize St. Louis scouts with different sections of the United States.

The scouts, under the leadership of M. D. Shippey, field executive of the South district, will go first to Camp Irondale, summer camp of the organization, where they will spend several days in training and preparation for the long ride. They will then make a huge semi-circle swing through Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming to the Yellowstone, where about 10 days will be spent.

On the way home the scouts will visit Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak and Cheyenne. A stop will also be made at Kansas City. The trip will end at Irondale Sept. 1.

This is the third bus trip to be conducted by the council this year, but is the first to the West. The other two, which began June 14 and July 6, visited Washington, New York, Atlantic City and Niagara Falls.

Troop Notes

Headquarters.

Examinations for the cooking and first aid merit badges were given St. Louis Boy Scouts at a Board of Review meeting at Scout Headquarters, 505 Chemical Building, Friday evening, July 12. Candidates for first-class rank also were examined.

The Board of Review was headed by Harry S. Holbrook, deputy commissioner of the council, assisted by A. W. Lantz, A. C. Lindsley, Clarence Miller, Charles Williams, R. R. Smith, E. Still, E. B. Langenberg, John B. Meyers Sr., and Roy DeStaebler.

A request for local Boy Scouts to help handle crowds attracted by the endurance flights at Lambert-St. Louis field has been made to local headquarters by Field Manager O. R. Parks. Several troops already have furnished scouts for this work.

West District.

Seven scouts of Troop 30, members of the winning Camparall patrol for the West District, have returned from a bus tour to Washington awarded them by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council. One of the patrol members, Ralph Soule, was unable to make the trip because of school. The scouts were Frank Gollub, Melvin Hertzman, Stanley Lopata, Elliott Gillerman, Edward Hopper, Francis Klein and Louis Platt. Scout Hertzman won a prize on the tour for composing the best cheer and song. Scouts Gollub, Hertzman, Lopata and Gillerman received the Honor Rover Award for scouting proficiency on the trip. Troop 30 will continue to meet during the summer as usual.

A fathers' and sons' hike to the troop camp site near West Alton was taken by the scouts and fathers of Troop 49 last Sunday. Troop 49 meets at First Presbyterian Church. Several games in which the fathers competed against the boys were played on the hike.

The United Hebrew Temple, headquarters of Troop 87, has donated a room for the scouts to use as their own. The troop library, which has more than 100 volumes, will be kept in the room, as will displays and other scouting material. The troop is offering a two weeks' stay at Camp Irondale to the winner of an individual

They will then make a huge semi-circle swing through Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming to the Yellowstone, where about 10 days will be spent.

On the way home the scouts will visit Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak and Cheyenne. A stop will also be made at Kansas City. The trip will end at Irondale Sept. 1.

This is the third bus trip to be conducted by the council this year, but is the first to the West. The other two, which began June 14 and July 6, visited Washington, New York, Atlantic City and Niagara Falls.

Troop Notes

Headquarters.

Examinations for the cooking and first aid merit badges were given St. Louis Boy Scouts at a Board of Review meeting at Scout Headquarters, 505 Chemical Building, Friday evening, July 12. Candidates for first-class rank also were examined.

The Board of Review was headed by Harry S. Holbrook, deputy commissioner of the council, assisted by A. W. Lantz, A. C. Lindsley, Clarence Miller, Charles Williams, R. R. Smith, E. Stahl, E. R. Langenberg, John B. Meyers Sr., and Roy DeStaebler.

A request for local Boy Scouts to help handle crowds attracted by the endurance flights at Lambert-St. Louis field has been made to local headquarters by Field Manager O. R. Parks. Several troops already have furnished scouts for this work.

West District.

Seven scouts of Troop 30, members of the winning Camparall patrol for the West District, have returned from a bus tour to Washington awarded them by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council. One of the patrol members, Ralph Soule, was unable to make the trip because of school. The scouts were Frank Gollub, Melvin Hertzman, Stanley Lopata, Elliott Gillerman, Edward Hopper, Francis Klein and Louis Platt. Scout Hertzman won a prize on the tour for composing the best cheer and song. Scouts Gollub, Hertzman, Lopata and Gillerman received the Honor Rover Award for scouting proficiency on the trip. Troop 30 will continue to meet during the summer as usual.

A fathers' and sons' hike to the troop camp site near West Alton was taken by the scouts and fathers of Troop 49 last Sunday. Troop 49 meets at First Presbyterian Church. Several games in which the fathers competed against the boys were played on the hike.

The United Hebrew Temple, headquarters of Troop 87, has donated a room for the scouts to use as their own. The troop library, which has more than 100 volumes, will be kept in the room, as will displays and other scouting material. The troop is offering a two weeks' stay at Camp Irondale to the winner of an individual achievement contest now being conducted.

Assistant Patrol Leader William Casey of Troop 113, meeting at the Church of the Messiah, was announced winner of an achievement contest at the last meeting and, as a result, will receive either a scout ax or a scout shirt. Casey scored 396 points during the contest. A one-day hike to Pattonville, Mo., was taken by the troop last Sunday to dig a swimming pool near the home of Scout Dave Williams of the troop. A new game, "spy in camp," also was played while on the hike. Senior Patrol Leader Robert Miller is planning to attend the Fifth Section Merit Badge camp at Irondale Aug. 1 to Aug. 13.

North District.

The program for the regular meeting of Troop 3, at Grace Holy Cross Church last week was planned by Scout Louis Thompson. Scout Herman Mast had charge of the opening ceremony, Scout Jack Hunt of the games, and Scout Phillip Bergsieker of the closing ceremonies. Scoutmaster Simons gave a talk on camp, and Assistant Scoutmaster Hunt on programs for patrol meetings. Former Scout Jewett Lewis was a visitor at the meeting.

Scouts of Troop 69, St. Elizabeth's Church, who are working on their second class requirements, passed outdoor tests for this rank on a hike to the county last Wednesday. The troop is planning a week's camp beginning July 29. Scoutmaster Sampson and Assistant Scoutmaster Dixon will be in charge of the camp. A new member, Scout Charles Pryor, has been added to the troop.

Nearly 250 persons attended a Troop Jamboree given by Troop 83 on the lawn of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church a week ago Friday evening. The troop had arranged scouting displays, and also gave demonstrations in first aid, firebuilding, signaling and aviation. A presentation ceremony was held to award a ribbon to the troop for winning second place in the last Camparall. The ribbon will be placed on the troop's flagstaff. A minstrel, "The Show Boat," was given as the concluding number of the Jamboree. Scout Anthony Connole is now reporter for Troop 83.

South District.

Practice in signalling and tracking was held on a hike of Troop 160 to Cliff Cave last Sunday. Troop 160 meets at the Immanuel M. E. Church. Four patrols are tied in an inter-patrol achievement contest. The winners will receive medals.

Twenty-eight scouts of Troop 168, accompanied by their parents, made an automobile trip to Bloomsdale, Mo., recently. The expedition was headed by Scoutmaster Metzger and Troop Committeeman Miller. Tests were passed, and a cave in the vicinity was explored. The scoutmaster and 11 scouts are now at Camp Irondale.

Suburban District.

Seven scouts of Troop Thomas Station 1, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Tom Wright are concluding a week's camp on the Big River near House Springs today. The scouts in camp are Merle Lewis, Leonard Lewis, Merle Bone, Henry Blue, Ben Gross, Richard Melbourne and Wesley Wright.

PRINCE OF WALES WILL GREET SCOUT JAMBOREE

Boys From Half a Hundred Nations to Hear Him at Gathering in England.

By the Associated Press.

BIRKENHEAD, England, July 20.—Fifty thousand Boy Scouts from all parts of the world will meet the Prince of Wales here Aug. 1 when he flies up from London to participate in their international jamboree.

The jamboree is scheduled to open July 31 in celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of the birth of scouting.

The Prince will spend the night in camp with the Scouts and the next day will witness a grand rally from the dais in front of the grandstand in Arrowe Park.

In this international rally he will be greeted by boys from half a hundred countries. At a given signal the boys will raise the "Scouts' howl" and dash in camp formation toward the dais. At another signal they will come to a standstill in a semicircle round the Prince and listen to what he has to say.

After which the Prince will fly back to London.

FARM BOARD TO HEAR FLORIDA GROUP AGAIN

Tells Representatives to Get All Agencies Together on Requests for Fruit Fly Relief.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Buried in work at the end of its first week. The Federal Farm Board today passed up the half holiday enjoyed by other Government workers to go ahead with its task of organization.

The Florida fruit emergency caused by the fruit fly is the first and only specific proposition to gain the attention of the board. The Floridians were told to get all state agencies together on the question of relief for marketing and to reappear on Monday.

Pending further consideration of the Florida situation, the board tackled again its problem of determining a general policy for the aid of agriculture and for handling the $150,000,000 at its disposal for loans.

The board has decided that all loans must be to co-operative marketing agencies. No loans are to be made until the usual avenues of credit—the banks and the Government's intermediate credit institutions—have been exhausted. Because it must deal directly with co-operative marketing agencies, the board has sent word to American farmers to organize. Only about 2,000,000 of the 6,000,000 farmers are now in the co-operative associations of the various commodities.

It appears likely that the California grape industry will be among the first to set up a stabilization corporation to take charge of marketing the crop which matures this fall. Lloyd Tenny, vice president of the California Vineyardists Association will appear before the board Tuesday to present plans for the stabilization corporation.

The farm relief act contemplated the organization of these corporations by the co-operative marketing associations and producers as a means of centralizing marketing plans. After the formation of the stabilization corporations, advisory councils are to be seletced for each commodity. These councils will be the intermediaries with the farm board.

The Florida Citrus Exchange presented the appeal of the fruit growers of the State for relief in marketing such of the crop as is spared from the fly pestilence. Earle L. Firt, president, and C. C. Commander, general manager of the exchange, appeared before the board. They are now enlisting the united support of other marketing agencies of the State preparatory to going before the board again Monday.

TRAINING CAMP CADETS ON RANGE TOMORROW

Cleaning of Rifles With Cosmoline Causes New Cases of Homesickness.

Cosmoline, the stuff that makes army rifles rustless, and keeps the trigger spring active, as trigger springs should be, has become a baleful byword among the 1600 civilians learning military fundamentals at Jefferson Barracks.

Thursday, Friday and yesterday morning, in the Citizen's Military Training Camp, labored with cosmoline, generally admitted at the barracks to be one of those army fundamentals that make strong men pine for home. If the military neophyte does not apply cosmoline in generous doses, his Springfield rifle will show dust or rust, and if he does apply it, the rifle will take to "sweating" on parade.

"I never knew that steel would sweat," said a summer soldier yesterday, during a breathing space between drill periods. "I guess drill must be tough on the rifles too. Seems like they ought to be able to make rifles now that don't have to be cosmolined all the time. We haven't started firing yet, and we've cosmolined those rifles about fifty times. After every spell on the range next week we'll have to put on more cosmoline."

Some Start for Gate.

The "cosmolining" phase of summer soldiering this week induced a half-dozen or more cases of extreme and chronic home-sickness which drew the immediate attention of officers of the nostalgia squad. Two cases were reported "improving," but the other cases were finally classed as hopeless. The nostalgic rookies packed their suitcases and lugubriously set out for the old front gate.

The elaborate and continuous cleaning of rifles was in preparation for the first day on the range, scheduled for tomorrow. Tuesday will also be a "range" day when, it is anticipated, the Springfield rifles will show they can kick as well as sweat. Tuesday afternoon, regular army men will give a demonstration of the Stokes trench mortar, on the river bank, while the student Howitzer Company looks on.

Gen. Frank B. Parker, commandant of the Sixth Corps Area, with headquarters in Chicago, will again inspect the training camp on Wednesday morning, and will review a regimental parade. It had been planned that Gov. Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois, on this occasion, would present its regimental colors to the 344th Illinois (Reserve) Infantry, commanded by Col. Floyd of Chicago, but Gov. Emmerson telegraphed Brigadier-General Estes today he would be unable to attend.

Cadets Visit City.

Following drill and "cosmolining" yesterday, the cadets were allowed, if no black marks stood opposite their names, to visit the city. They were required to reach the post before midnight, unless armed, on their return, with a note from parent or guardian. Infraction of this regulation caused a "K. P." assignment. Today, following church services, the summer soldiers will be at liberty until 10:45 p. m. tonight, and may leave the post.

Those who stayed at the post last night were regaled with several boxing bouts. The bouts are to continue four nights of every week until, near the close of camp, on Aug. 6, champion battlers in each division have won their laurels.

Today, at 2:30 p. m., the St. Louis Robin, the airplane which has been aloft almost 200 hours, will fly over the Barracks and drop messages for the training camp "army."

Student Pilot Killed in Crash.

By the Associated Press.

MINOT, N. D., July 20.—Herbert Gingerish, 24 yeaers old, a student pilot, was fatally injured tonight when his airplane went into a tailspin and fell in a grain field near here. He died in a hospital.

SAMUEL BAILEY HICKS WEDS ELIZABETH KOBLER IN EAST

Marriage of 24-Year-Old Railroad Executive at the Little Church Around the Corner.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Samuel Bailey Hicks, St. Louis, director of the Kansas City Southern Gulf and Terminal Railroad, and Miss Elizabeth Kobler, daughter of Mrs. Belle Kobler, Shreveport, La., were married at noon today at the Little Church Around the Corner.

The Rev. Randolph Rap performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends. Virginia Baldwin, Lynchburg, Va., was the maid of honor and Patrick Smith was best man.

After the wedding a luncheon was served in the Hotel Biltmore and the bride and groom left for a honeymoon at Colorado Springs, Colo. They plan to return to St. Louis to reside.

Hicks, a graduate of Princeton University in 1927, is one of the youngest railroad executives in the country. He is 24 years old. His bride attended Shreveport schools and made her debut in that city several years ago.

A Small Boy's FIGHT for LIFE in a Sewer Pipe

Caught as He Was Retrieving a Baseball and Menaced by Poisonous Gases, Johnny Storen Was Rescued After a Two-Hour Ordeal Only by the Combined Efforts of the Fire Department, Ambulance Workers and the Whole Neighborhood.

KANSAS CITY.

YOUNG JOHNNY STOREN "wound up" in the approved big-league manner. And Tommy Gavin swung his bat in preparation for a homer. He was just as serious about it as if he weren't playing in the middle of a Kansas City street, just as serious about the business as though Pitcher Johnny Gavin were 29 instead of nine.

"Zip" went the ball from Johnny Storen's good right arm. But it was wild. It sailed out of the batter's reach; it struck the curbing, it rolled, ambled down the gutter.

"No chips on the ball," yelled Tom (he meant, of course, that John, the fellow who'd pitched it, would have to recover it), and John started out in hot pursuit of the horsehide that now, beyond a doubt, was headed direct for the sewer at the corner of Quincy avenue and Twenty-second street. It was Tom's ball, but John had thrown it. It was up to John to retrieve it.

You know how it is when you run after a ball. No matter how fast you go, the ball has too big a lead. And it always slips through the sewer's grating just as you are about to get your fingers on it. That's what this ball did.

All right, what of it? Almost, you might say, so much the better. It gave a feller a chance to swing his lithe young body between the gratings, catch the ball between his toes before it rolled out of the cup at the bottom of the main catch basin and sailed away forever into the smaller sewer pipe. Gee, that was part of playin' in the street. The fellers did that all the time. Of course, papa and mamma—all the papas and mammas—had been warning the gang against the going down in the sewer. That made it all the more fun.

SO JOHNNY grabbed the grating, swung himself down between two of the iron bars which were very wide apart and caught the ball between the sides of his shoes. Then he catapulted his body up till his toes were as high as his head and sent the ball rolling out on the street.

Then, swinging his legs against the side of the catch basin, he began to pull himself out of the hole, half pushing with his feet, half "chinning" himself with his arms.

Then it happened. Maybe one young arm weakened under the strain. Maybe one foot slid off the concrete surface of the catch basin. And Johnny dropped, fell with all the force of his weight behind him down into the bottom of the catch basin. His feet shot into the smaller sewer pipe that tapered off at the basin's bottom. He wasn't hurt much, he tried to scramble out. And then he yelled for the gang. For one of his legs had become wedged fast, doubled up under him, in the lower pipe.

The gang got together and held a conference. "Gee!" They'd try to get him out theirselves. They tried. They tried again. They couldn't figure out how to help him. "Gee, they ought a' get him out a' there." They were all pretty frightened.

But they couldn't get him out of there. All they could do was tell some people about it. They'd probably get a good bawling out, too, because all their fathers and mothers would say, "See, how many times did I tell you to stay out of that sewer."

But a guy had to do something. So young Mr. Leslie Potter, considerably disturbed, went and told his mother. Mrs. Potter didn't waste much time. She ran to the home of John Piper, a few doors away. Piper is a city fireman and he'd know what to do.

Piper ran and got a rope, but before he did that he called the Fire Department, just as a precaution, and then he hurried to the scene. Somebody else called General Hospital and told them to send an ambulance. Pretty soon the bells were clanging around Quincy and Twenty-second, and Fireman Piper was already lowering his rope.

Little Johnny Storen grabbed the rope all right. He pulled and he pulled while Fireman Piper held fast. But pull as Johnny would, he couldn't pull hard enough to boost himself out of that sewer pipe. He was just as fast as he had ever been.

Crowd's now swarming around. "What's the matter?" "Yeh, a kid?" "Is he dead?" "After a ball! Well, I'll be damned." "Heh, get out of the way. Come on, there, big boy, stand back. Here, lady, let the ambulance doctor through."

The young interne pushes through the crowd. He gets down on his knees, soiling those fresh white trousers. Then he wrinkles up his nose. He sticks his head into the hole again. Wrinkles his nose again.

"Son," he says, "how do you feel? Getting tired? Sort of sleepy, eh?" The interne jumps up.

"This boy says he feels pretty weak," he tells the District Fire Lieutenant. "You see, that sewer gas is seeping up from underneath. The boy is likely to be asphyxiated. How long will it take to get him out of there? You don't know? I see. Well, we'll have to do something about that gas if you want to get that kid out alive."

The Fire Lieutenant realizes the danger. Then the Lieutenant sees a possible way out. "Anybody here," calls out Lieutenant Ryan, "who has an electric fan? All right then, get it in a hurry. Everybody who has any electric wire, get it, too. Get all the wire in the neighborhood."

SOME one runs for a fan. Other neighbors dash to their homes for any odds and ends of electric cord they may have.

"What's the matter? Where you going?"

"Can't stop. Storen's boy's caught in the sewer."

Somebody who knows something about splicing wire gets busy. A couple of firemen help. So does a policeman. They get the wire together, a great string of it together, connect it with a plug in a house almost a block away. The fan starts revolving, whirling its blades as though it knew how important a job it had ahead of it.

They stick the fan over the sewer. The boy, smiles, takes a deep breath. Sure! he feels better now.

The crowd grows and grows, machines stop and their occupants jump out to see what it's all about. Those in the rear can't see what's happening up in front. "Sewer? Gas? Guess they're working over the kid with inhalators? Must be dead, or they'd have him to by now, don't you suppose? You say they work for eight hours sometimes and bring 'em to. Is that so?"

"Oh, too bad. Too bad. Yeh, they say he's dead."

"Heh, now, you'll have to get back, that's all. Come on, lady, get back, this ain't a show. No, the boy isn't dead. But when you push that way, folks, you're just the same as pushing that little fellow down into the sewer. He needs air. Say, you, get back there or I'll run you in. How many times do I have to tell you?"

And the coppers, four of them now, get ropes from a fire truck and rope off the street.

Well, the firemen see there's only one way to get the kid out. He's stuck so fast they can't pull him out. They get out their fire picks, toss off their coats, roll up their sleeves. They'll crack the sewer, dig him out. "Crink," goes the pick. "Crank," goes another. This concrete was made to stay. A neighbor runs to his home and gets a great sledge. "Bam, bam, BAM." The pavement cracks, and the firemen have licked it.

Then a bewildered man runs up. The coppers have let him through the ropes, for he's H. C. Storen, Johnny's father. Storen's a hog buyer at the stockyards. He says a few words to the boy, tells him to stick it out, grabs a pick and goes to it. Another neighbor stretches out on the street at the edge of the catch basin, talks to Johnny good-humoredly, keeps him cheered up.

The men are working in relays on that pick swinging now. One fireman relieves another, another relieves Johnny's father. Neighbors are clamoring for a chance to take a pick for awhile, to give the firemen a chance to get a breath. A woman hurries to her home and comes back with a glass and a pitcher of ice water. It doesn't take the men long to exhaust it. She goes back for more.

"Say, do you know what time it is? It's almost ten o'clock now, that kid's been in that sewer since before dark. He got caught sometime just after seven."

But the picks are sinking into dirt now, the firemen and their voluntary aids are six feet below the surface, down to the bottom of the catch basin. They're going to dig some more. They want to get below the boy, so they can crack the pipe under him to keep him from sliding down still further.

THEN there's a cry as a woman runs up and sees the crowd. She becomes hysterical. She's Johnny's mother and she's just gotten here. She'd gone to a party in Kansas City, Kansas, and someone had called her and told her her boy was in danger. She'd never driven a gear-shift automobile before in her life, but when she got the news, she'd jumped into one and piloted it at pretty high speed straight through the heavy downtown traffic and to her home. A policeman assured her the boy was all right, that they'd have him out in a few minutes now. Some of her friends lead her away, make her sit on her front porch 'til she regains her composure. Then they let her go to the scene of the digging, let her look down the hole.

"Heh, mamma," Johnny cries, "when they get me out can I go over and stay with auntie tonight?" She makes a non-committal answer, and the tears stream to her eyes again. She knows her boy's all right now, he knows when to ask questions. But she remarks to her friends, "I wouldn't let him out of my sight tonight for anything in the world."

Then Johnny calls out, "I can feel the picks hit the side of the pipe against my leg."

A patrolman asks Mrs. Storen if she wants to call her family physician? Just a precaution—in case there are any scratches or bruises on that bent leg. Mrs. Storen asks a neighbor to call her doctor for her.

The crowd's pushing again. The police get more rope. "Get back, there. Stand back."

Now a fireman, deep in the newly-dug hole, carefully, gingerly, swings his pick. The pipe holding the boy prisoner cracks open. The fireman straightens out the cramped leg, and Johnny whimpers a bit as he does it. Then the lad shouts, "Daddy, pull me up." A rope comes down. They attach Johnny to it. Those above pull on it, a fireman pushes from below, Johnny grasps the rope and helps. Up he goes. Now he's on the shoulders of the firemen and the crowd cheers. They hand him to his mother, who's worried about his legs, and his dad massages them.

"Let me down," cries Johnny, "I can walk." They put him down.

Pretty soon they get him home. "Say," says Johnny, "I want something to eat."

THE HUMAN FACE

From Fish to Flapper

Dr. William K. Gregory Traces the Start of This Important Part of the Body Back to the Primeval Mud and Tells What We Picked Up on the Way.

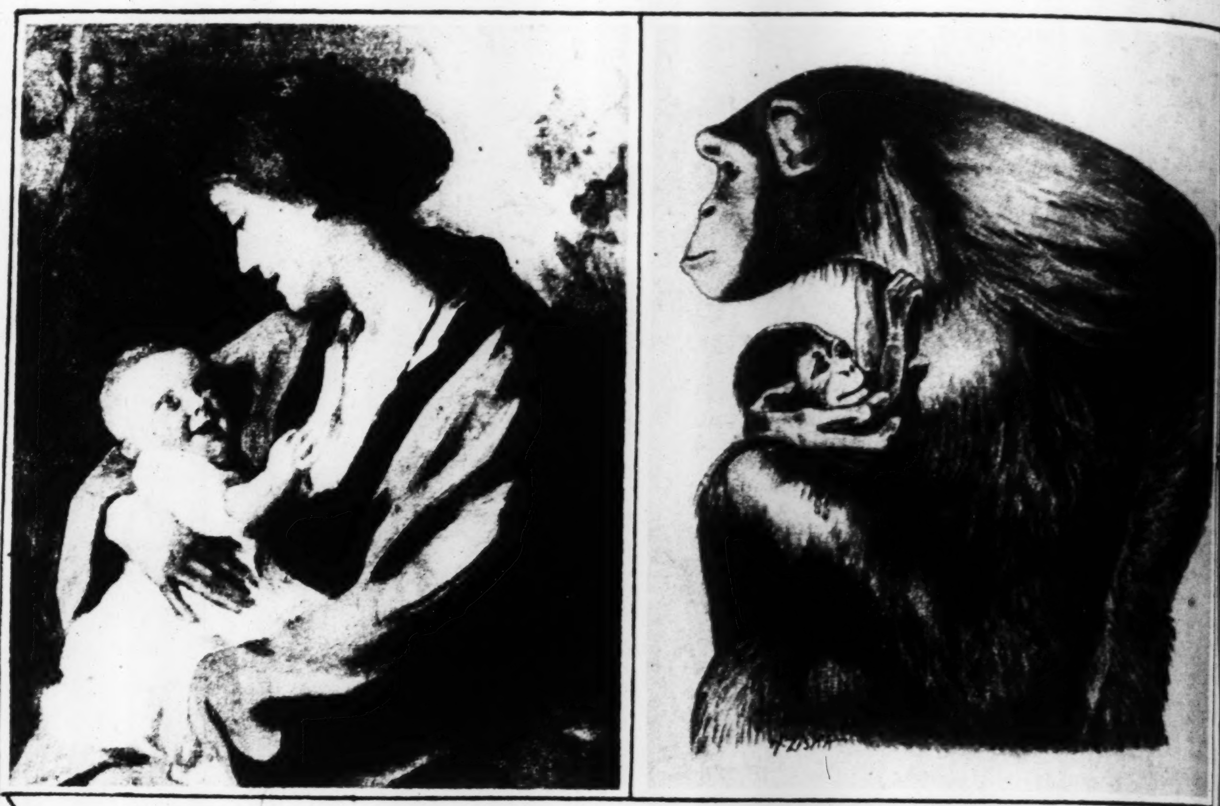
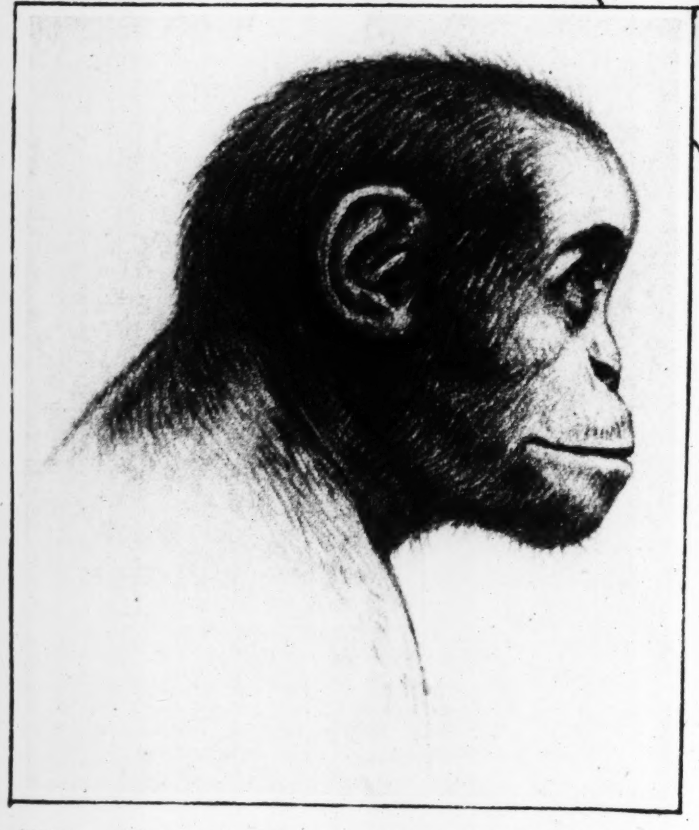
The evolution of the human face. From drawings by Helen Ziska.



A STUDY IN CONTRASTS AND IN SIMILARITIES.

"Motherhood," by Alpheus Cole, showing the tender, sublimated attitude of the human mother toward her young, and drawing of a female chimpanzee with its young. The difference between the two is monumental, even to a scientist, but according to Dr. Gregory and those who reason as he does, the similarity of posture between the brute mother and the human is something more than an accident.



Restoration of the head of the young Australopithecus a link between man and the Anthropoid apes.

BACK very nearly to the primeval ooze a scientist has traced the human face. Dr. William K. Gregory, in a book published the other day, answers the questions: How we got that way and why. It is a work scarcely calculated to increase man's vanity.

For Dr. Gregory, who is professor of paleontology at Columbia University, being a thorough-going scientist, has little regard for the feelings of sensitive anti-evolutionists. He summons from the past an infinite, receding series of faces, human, prehuman, anthropoid, long-snouted, lizard-like, stretching back into the shadows of endless time. He acknowledges a debt even to those crude floating bags that are mostly great mouths opening into an empty sack, to groping worms trying out organs that are not yet eyes. Dr. Gregory his developed his thesis—one accepted by a majority of scientists—with a careful array of data, largely taken from fossil specimens.

Those vain persons who look into their mirrors each day with a sense of pleased assurance will be somewhat taken aback to learn that even the most majestic leader-of-men face or the most winsome flapper countenance are little more than made-over fish traps, concealed behind a smiling mask, but still set with sharp teeth inherited from ferocious pre-mammalian ancestors.

For the over-sensitive, William Beebe, in a foreword to the volume, called "Our Face From Fish to Man," offers a bit of advice:

"I advise no fundamentalist or anti-evolutionist to read it, for if he have no sense of humor he will not understand it, and if he have, his belief will be like Dunsany's King, who 'Was as though he had never been.' If, with Bergson, we believe that the origin of laughter was cruelty, then a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to something should be formed to prevent the spectacle of a fundamentalist's face functioning with the third eyelid of a bird, the ear-point of a deer, the honorable scars of most ancient gills and with his lip-lifting muscles in full action as he sneers at truth."

TRACING down each feature of the face from eon to eon Dr. Gregory sums up as follows:

"I undoubtedly inherit the general ground-plan of my face from my excessively remote shark-like ancestors who possessed paired olfactory capsules, paired eyes and paired internal ears, arranged in the order named, and who had a medium mouth below the nose and eyes. I also owe to these humble creatures the framework of my tongue and vocal organs, my jaw and throat muscles and many other features both useful and necessary.

"Next, I owe to the primitive lobe-finned fishes or crossopts the complete bony scaffolding of the face and jaws, which in them lay on the surface but in my own face is deeply buried beneath the flesh.

"Then I owe to the higher mammal-like reptiles the fact that the right and left halves of my lower jaws are composed of a single piece and that I have a set of teeth limited to the margins of the jaws and differentiated into incisors, canines, pre-molars and molars.

"I also owe to these hitherto much neglected animals the 'basic patents' for the delicate apparatus of my middle ear, together with my bony palate and several other important parts of my make-up.

"In the earliest mammals the bony mask became covered with mobile, sensitive flesh; to them I owe also the very hairs of my head, my eyebrows, eyelashes and other facial accessories. To my earliest primate ancestors I owe the large size of my eyes and a considerable part of my brains.

"To my friendly anthropoid (ape) ancestors I am heavily indebted: for eyes that can focus on things near at hand, that give stereoscopic pictures and that follow closely the flight of a moving object; for a nose that is a real nose and not a snout; for lips that can smile and laugh or curl up in anger or kiss in love; from them I inherited all my baby teeth and my 32 adult teeth; the very shape of my ears is theirs.

"To my early human ancestors I owe the reduction of my hitherto coarse muzzle and the first training of my tongue to speak.

"To my later human ancestors I owe the improvement of my forehead, the general refinement of my features and my rather weak jaw."

In studying the human face Dr. Gregory, in accord with the Darwinian theory, finds the closest relationship to the various ape species. He writes: "The ears of the great anthropoid apes, while highly variable in details, are substantially of the human type, especially those of the gorilla. All have the rolled-over upper rim, but in the chimpanzee the hinder rim, according to Pocock, is 'sometimes flat, sometimes slightly overfolded but never apparently so overfolded as is typically the case in Homo. The lower lobe, varying in size, is not so well developed as in Man.' On the whole the external ears of the gorilla and chimpanzee are remarkably human in appearance and, like so many other features of anthropoid anatomy, they are literally earmarks of man's relatively close relationship to the primitive brachiating (tree-living) ancestors of the chimpanzee-gorilla stock. If man had been derived from some entirely different stock of primates there is no assignable reason why he should resemble the gorilla and the chimpanzee in so many external and internal characters in spite of his widely different habits and notwithstanding the millions of years that have passed since the human and gorilla-chimpanzee groups began to separate."

DR. GREGORY intimates that perhaps the chimpanzee may find our face as ludicrous as we find his. "Everyone recognizes in the chimpanzee a gross caricature of the human face, in which the mouth and lips are absurdly large and the nose flat with little or no bridge. But from the anthropoid viewpoint the human face may well appear equally grotesque, with its weak little mouth, exposed lips and unpleasantly protruding nose. Possibly the common ancestor of man and apes would be shocked by each of his descendants."

In the discussion of abnormalities many curious facts come to light:

"The bulldog and a certain type of human dwarf with a broad face and retrousse nose equally owe their peculiar features to a derangement of the normal functioning of the hypophysis, one of the growth-regulating glands. This condition is called achondroplasia and is largely hereditary. In both the bulldog and the achondroplastic dwarf the base of the skull ceases to grow and becomes ossified at an early stage. The rest of the growing head, being confined at the base, grows out at the side and the head thus becomes short in proportion to its width, or brachycephalic."

The business of character reading from the face is dismissed by Dr. Gregory as, for the most part, a popular illusion. He points to the wide variation in facial types and the frequently recurring fact that criminals have apparently honest faces. He refers to a number of researches now going forward with a view to putting character study on a scientific basis.

The most obvious proof of Dr. Gregory's whole thesis is the diagram used as a frontispiece, illustrating a few of the more prominent types of faces in the long climb to that of the Greek athlete shown at the bottom. It is reproduced on this page. As William Beebe points out, a walk down any city street will disclose types strikingly similar to almost every one of the faces illustrated, even those that go back to the early Mesozoic. As reconstructed by an artist from fossil specimens they all bear a faint kinship to the species Homo Sapiens as he exists today.

Dr. Gregory ventures a prophecy concerning the face of the future:

"In the United States the Indians as a whole have not readily adopted the ways of the white man and with few exceptions have not been absorbed into the general population. Hence by outside political and economic pressure they have been forced into relatively small reservations where a great increase in their numbers seems improbable. Except in very limited regions Indians have seldom been able to compete for a livelihood with a more or less antagonistic white population. It is hardly likely, therefore, that a thousand years from now the Indian features will be very common in the population of the United States as a whole.

"The Negro population, on the other hand, is much larger. But the Negro is peculiarly liable to certain fatal diseases and particularly in rural districts infant mortality has hitherto been high. In the cities where mixed bloods occur in larger number the constant accession of darker features from the country may more than offset the relatively slow infiltration of white blood. Moreover, the white population is so enormously greater than the Negro, and has such great economic and social advantages and there is such a widespread and deep antipathy to the marriage of full-blooded whites and Negroes of any shade that it seems highly improbable that the white population will soon absorb the black population en masse. Hence it seems unlikely that the average white man's face a thousand years from now will show much trace of negroid admixture in the United States as a whole.

"In many parts of Africa, on the contrary, the whites are so far outnumbered and the climatic conditions are so unfavorable that it seems probable that a thousand years from now the Negro, with perhaps some infiltration of white blood, will still be in the vast majority. . . .

"AS TO the changes in the face of the white race, Sir Arthur Keith has adduced evidence tending to show that a thousand years ago the average Englishman had a wider face, a shorter nose, a broader palatal arch and better teeth than the typical Englishman of today, who tends toward a narrow face and a narrow-vaulted dental arch. . . . Possibly the people of these days may extract all their teeth before they begin to give trouble or they may be fed with endocrine and other extracts to combat the ills that we now suffer. . . . From all this it appears probable that a thousand years from now the average adult white person's face will not be profoundly different from what it is today."

Even in a million years from now, Dr. Gregory predicts, human beings will be far less unlike ourselves than we would imagine. We would still, perhaps, be able to recognize certain facial types. The face with all its mobile expressiveness would still have a meaning for those alive today.

Though a Product of the New West, Branche Williams Has Gone Back to the Old Days for a Hobby.

DENTON, Texas.

MISS BRANCHE WILLIAMS is a college graduate, an artist and, when she has time for such activities, a society girl. She is a graceful blonde of the type that looks well on the dance floor or in the drawing room. Certainly she doesn't look like a broncho buster. Yet a broncho buster she is, and such a capable one that she operates a "cowboy school."

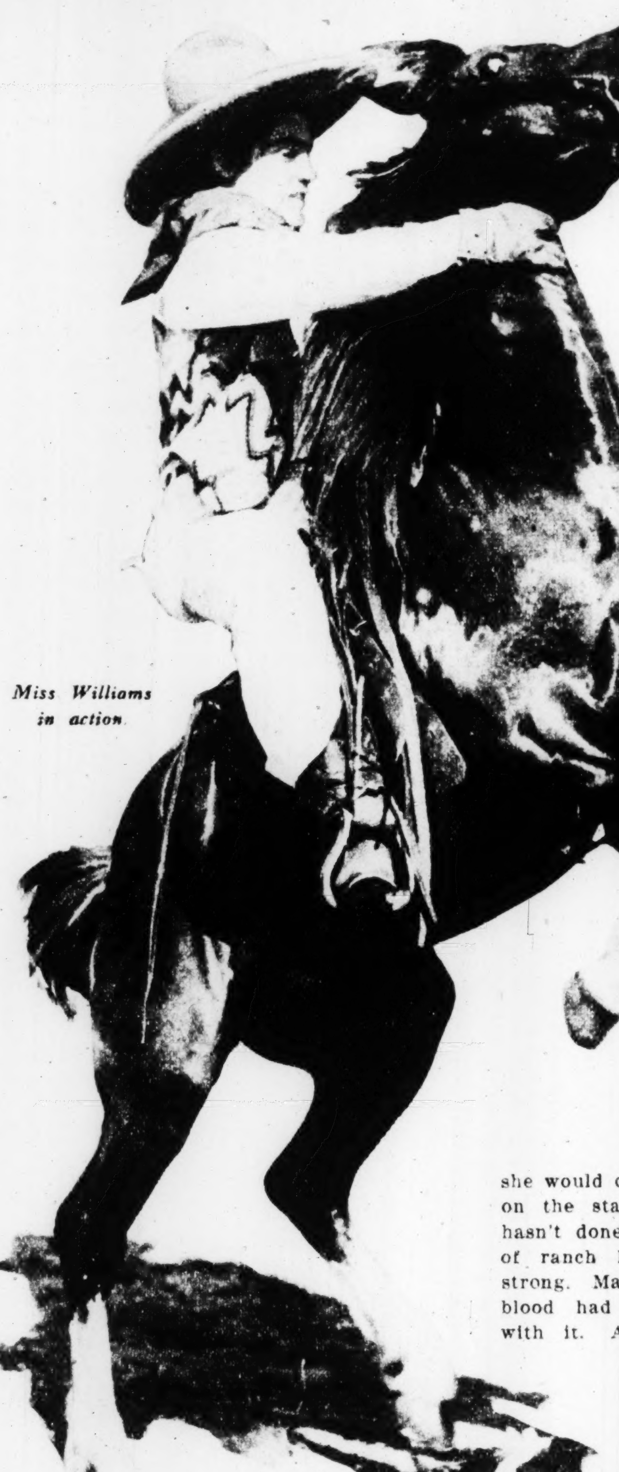
In a cow lot of the Williams ranch, 10 miles north of Denton, this golden-haired flapper may be found almost any day putting "tenderfoot" pupils through the arduous paces of riding mustangs with spurs and "bulldogging" steers. And that isn't all she teaches. Lariat throwing, calf riding (which corresponds to steer riding of adult cowpunchers), hog tying and all the other tricks of the old-time plains horsemen are in the curriculum. She even teaches inexperienced riders how to fall off their horses. Altogether, the cowboy school on the Williams ranch is an engaging institution, with thrills a-plenty for the spectator. A day's "class work" is as good to watch as a first-rate rodeo.

One of the most extraordinary features of this cowboy school is that the student can get his training for virtually nothing. In no sense is the school a commercial proposition. Miss Williams teaches broncho busting and its allied arts for the joy of it. It's a hobby, just like collecting prints and chasing butterflies. The Williams family is wealthy and can afford hobbies. The school fills such a need and the attractive teacher says she gets "a barrel of fun out of it."

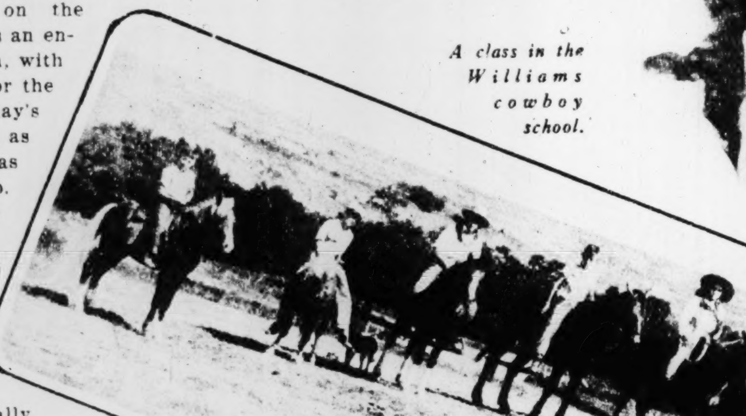
She comes of a hard-riding line, does Miss Branche Williams. In tracing the history of the Williams family, one comes upon a name that has appeared in scores of Texas histories and in a good many fictional works of the romantic Southwest. That is the name of John Chisholm, the cattle king of the seventies, whose ranches in Texas and New Mexico were literally kingdoms, and who blazed the famous Chisholm Trail, driving his cattle to market from Central Texas to Abilene, Kansas. The blood of the Chisholms runs in the veins of Branche Williams, and she gets her unusual name from the trail blazer's wife, Branche Chisholm.

When Branche Williams, as a child, developed what might be called a tomboy complex, her parents regarded it as perfectly natural. Instead of trying to curb it, as so many mothers do—and get gray-haired doing it—her mother took it as a matter of course. Her father gave her the choice of his stables and she and her pony became familiar figures on the streets of Denton. Her early life was a strangely mingled atmosphere of refinement and violence.

DENTON is a sort of cultural center in Texas. It is the home of the College of Industrial Arts and of the North Texas State Teachers' College and has the dignity of the average college town. Yet at the same time the frontier influence is as strong here as in the border country. Wolves still prowl about the ranches at night, carrying off sheep and calves. Raids of cattle rustlers are frequent. In fact, it has not been long since a gang of desperadoes fought a gun battle with Denton County officers on the town square. So, with abundant facilities for either civilization or roughing it, the young Texan has only to choose between them, or perhaps combine the two. Branche Williams chose to combine them.



Miss Williams in action



A class in the Williams cowboy school.

There are four of the Williams children — two boys and two girls. The father, a successful merchant and large land owner, gave them the best of educational advantages. The boys, upon completion of their schooling, took jobs in the store and are launched upon business careers. The girls, Branche and her younger sister, Julia, made excellent records in college, specializing in art. Branche also studied voice and made such progress with it that it was generally expected she would open a studio or go on the stage. But that she hasn't done as yet. The lure of ranch life has been too strong. Maybe the Chisholm blood had something to do with it. Anyway, when she finished college she returned to the cowboy school she had started while a student in high school.

She was scarcely more than 15 when she began giving riding lessons. Her friends, marveling at her health and color and the ease with which she handled dangerous horses, appealed to her to teach them how to be horsewomen also. Thereupon was founded in the high-fenced corral of the Williams ranch the riding school which was to expand and embrace such advanced subjects as "bulldogging" and roping.

Society folk who hoped that out of the girl's plan might evolve a select "riding academy" got a shock when the class met for the first time. The arena was the cow lot on the Williams ranch. Some of the pupils came clad in their best and some wore overalls. There was no gallery to speak of and those who did come to watch the proceedings got no seats except those on top of the high board fence. Branche opened festivities by mounting the wildest pony on the ranch and riding him through a spectacular series of lunges, leaps and sideslips. It made a good show and filled the youngsters with envy and determination.

Miss Branche Williams.

THE greatest response came from boys. There were dozens of youngsters, both natives and visiting "tenderfoots," who had long nursed the ambition to don chaps and spurs and twirl a rope from the back of a wild horse. This was their chance. They came in droves and they have continued to come during the 10 years the school has been in operation. There are now two girls in the class trying to learn how to be expert horsewomen.

Following the modern trend toward specialization, Miss Williams encouraged her pupils to specialize and become expert in some particular phase of cowboy activity—that is, some legitimate phase. Accordingly, she has arranged contests to determine the champion roper, the champion broncho buster and champion steer rider of her class.

Instruction is given in virtually every branch of horsemanship, including that branch which has to do with falling off. It is just as important, Miss Williams explains, to learn how to tumble from a horse as it is to know how to stay on. Falls are inevitable, whether the rider is skillful or not, and the inexperienced rider who braces himself for the shock is lucky if he escapes breaking an arm or leg. The veteran will relax his muscles as he hits the ground and is seldom ever bruised.

The "bulldogging" division of the school is perhaps the most popular. But since the use of wild steers is out of the question, yearling calves are pressed into service.

"BULLDOGGING," it may be explained, is a spectacular method of overpowering a wild steer. Because of its spectacular quality, it is practiced mostly at rodeos. It is adaptable to the arena and makes good "show stuff." The method is to leap from a running pony, seize the fleeing steer by the horns and, with this leverage, twist the animal's neck in such a manner as to cause it to fall to the ground helpless. In other words, it is merely wrestling with steers.

There is a technique that Branche drills patiently into her pupils. The embryonic cowboy may be very speedy in throwing the calf to the ground, but unless the animal's neck is twisted at just the proper angle and the fall is just according to Hoyle, he must do it all over again. Sloppy work is not countenanced.

Calf riding, which is the beginner's form of steer riding, is another popular course. Again the yearlings must serve as martyrs to the cause. The student leaps upon the calf's back, locks arms around its neck and legs around its body. If he remains there for as long as 30 seconds he has made a good fight and is rewarded with a high mark in Branche's record book.

Within the last few years Denton physicians, noting health results, have become much interested in the cowboy school. The value of riding as a tonic is being discussed freely and several have advised patients to try it instead of bottled remedies. That is another reason why Branche feels that she can do more worth-while work on the ranch than on the stage. So it appears that the cowboy school is destined to flourish for a long time to come.

DRESS REFORM on the MARCH

Dean Inge, of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, as he would look in the costume he advocates for business men.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

THE men are looking upon the ladies, which, in itself, is not unusual. But this time there is a difference, a difference tinged with no small amount of envy. For as the sun's blistering beams combine with the well-dressed man's tie and collar to wrap his neck in a ring of molten steel, the fellow cannot help but gaze reproachfully upon some wisp of a woman beside him, her neck as free from entangling alliances as the Swiss Republic.

So, too, the man's knees. Do his trousers irk him at the joints? He has but to glance at the ladies, and he finds their knees not only aloof to anything resembling close-fitting dresses, but, like as not, independent even of those sheer incasements known as stockings. So it is from head to feet. Her shoes are thinner than his, the back of her dress is practically missing, and where for centuries he had it on her, she now has cropped her hair to the point where the same cropping process almost has driven him from the barber shop.

It is no wonder, then, that the discreetly-clad male begins to look upon women with no small amount of green in his eyes. After all, he too has his rights. Something should be done about it, he says. And something has. The crusade is on, and it has started in that paradise of gentlemen's fashions—England itself.

In England they have formed the "Men's Dress Reform Party," and its founders include men embracing such varied professions as acting, teaching, medicine and the clergy.

None other than the Very Reverend W. R. Inge, the "Gloomy Dean" of St. Paul's Cathedral, is one of the founding members, and when the Dean gets going he usually means business. The crusaders' secretary is Dr. Alfred C. Jordan, a gentleman with such robust convictions that not only does he advocate dress reform by the verbal process; he actually is literal about it, and for the past two years has visited his patients attired in shorts—you know, they look like track pants—and a shirt open at the neck.

Says Dr. Jordan: "We want to make men's clothing less unhealthy and less cumbersome; men wear far too much. Perhaps the first thing to abolish is the collar button. Men have far too many buttons to trouble them, anyway. On some of the latest shirts there are as many as 20 button holes. Enormous time is wasted in dressing."

Then there is Dr. Octavio Lewin, noted London woman ear, throat and nose specialist. She says, "Women are getting ahead of men because their necks are free. Nobody is expected to play games in a tight collar, and nobody should be expected to work mentally unless the brain has a free circulation and unimpeded blood supply."

It seems that the proper attire for the male, as suggested by the Reform Party, is a tennis shirt, open at the neck and with sleeves rolled up; shorts; a flannel jacket; woolen stockings, and shoes. A fellow attired in very much that manner, except that he wore a Tuxedo coat instead of the woolen jacket, appeared at the famous English racecourse, Ascot, not long ago.

The brave male pioneers will not find their task too easy. Much will be said against them and about them. But any fellow who enjoys the bliss of a tennis shirt, open at the neck, should find it easy to keep from getting hot under the collar.

What the Hessian Mercenaries Thought About the American Revolution

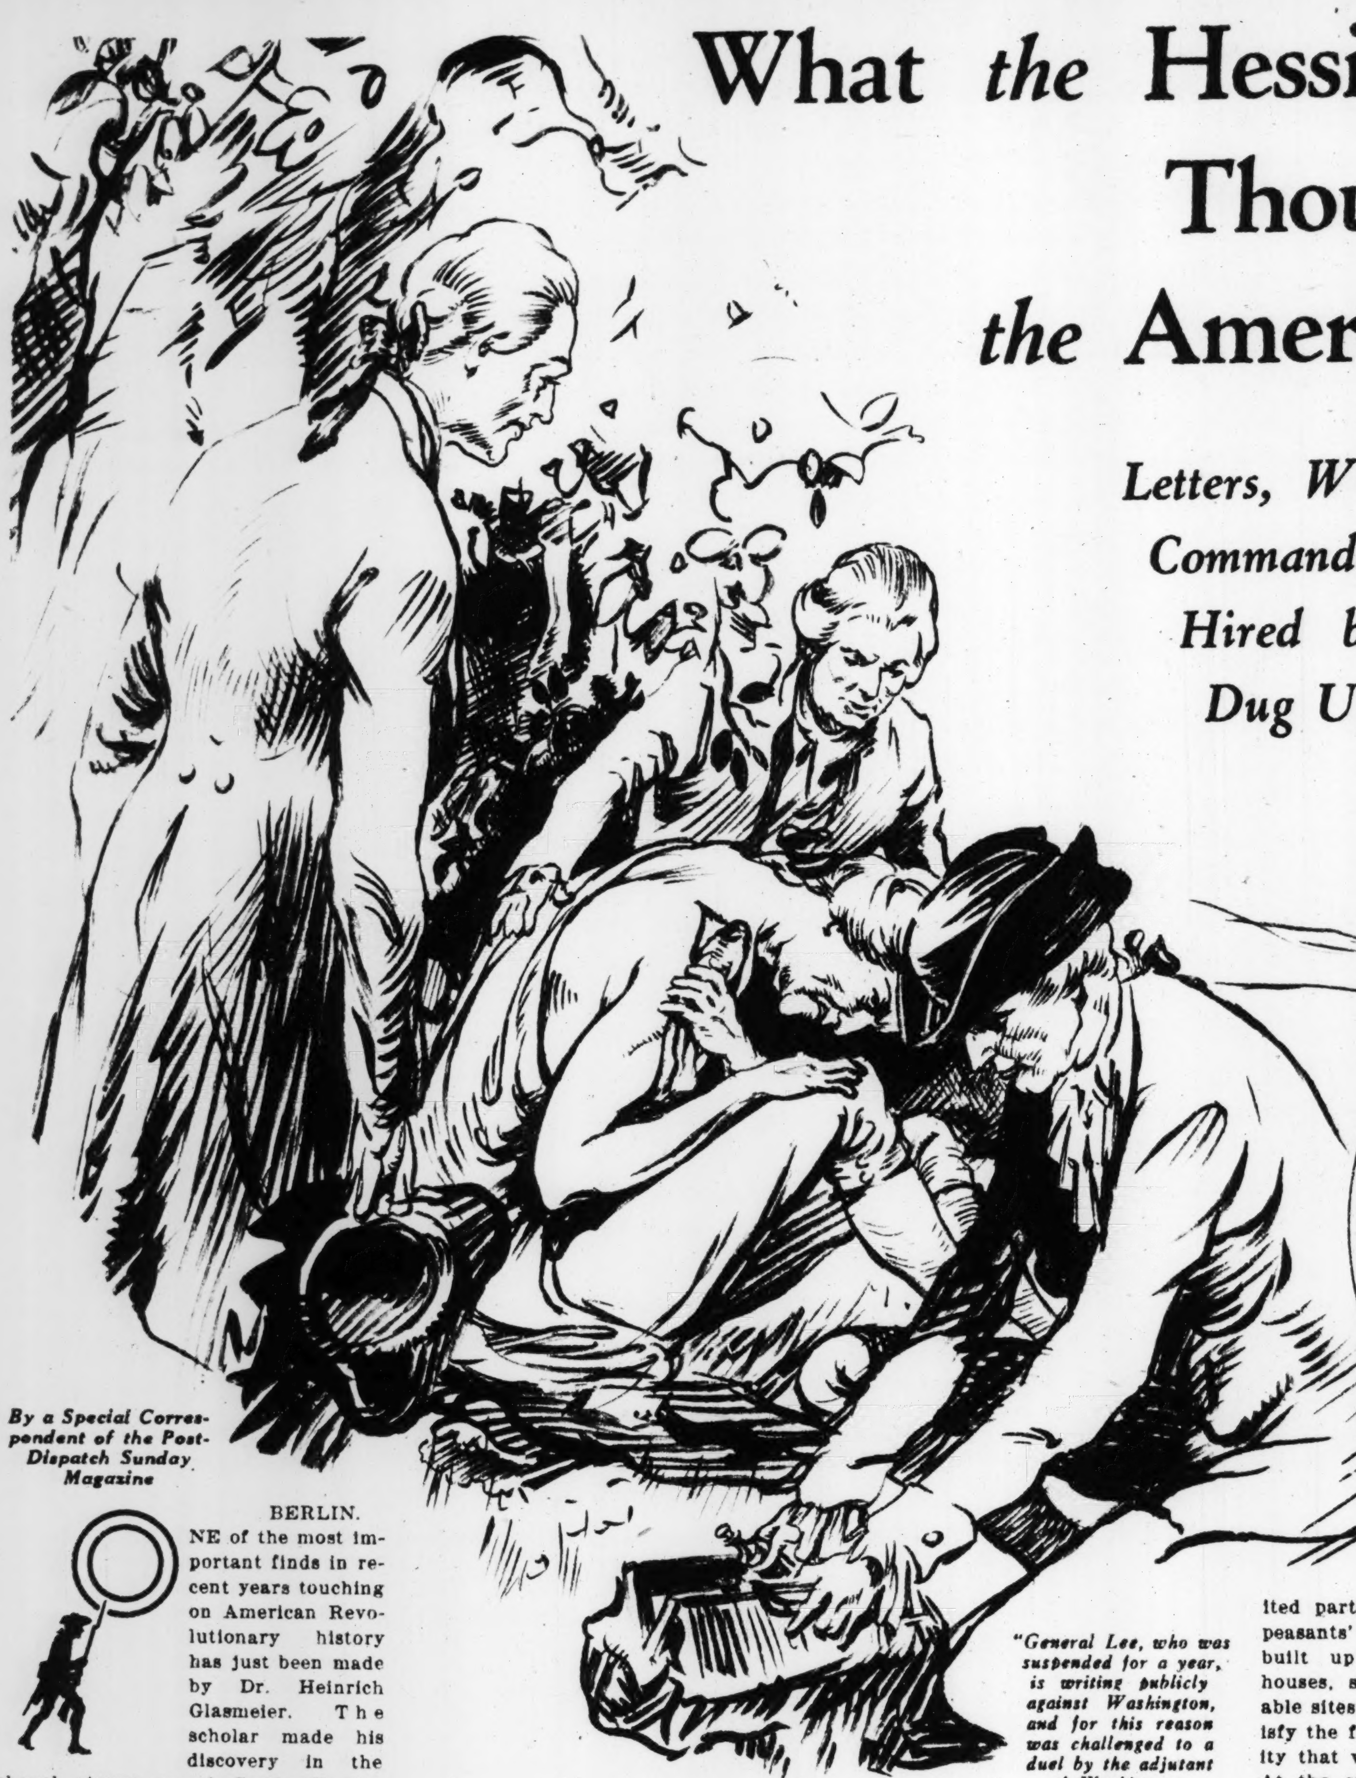
Letters, Written by Officers Who Commanded the German Troops Hired by King George III, Dug Up in an Old Castle.



"General Lee, who was suspended for a year, is writing publicly against Washington, and for this reason was challenged to a duel by the adjutant of Washington, and was wounded."

BERLIN.

ONE of the most important finds in recent years touching on American Revolutionary history has just been made by Dr. Heinrich Glasmeier. The scholar made his discovery in the chapel storeroom of Castle Hueffe, Kreis Luebbecke, Westphalia, and he made it in a properly romantic manner—he held a candle while the treasure was brought forth in an oaken chest.

This important historical find consists of letters written by the officers of those unfortunate mercenaries, the Hessians, who had gone to America in the last quarter of the eighteenth century to help Howe and the brilliant Burgoyne give a sound drubbing to the upstart colonists. Not only do these missives, written, for the most part, to the Minister of War of Hesse-Cassel, General von Jungkenn, give factual evidence of an interesting nature, but they carry a wealth of that evanescent substance, atmosphere, without which history is pretty much of a conglomeration of data.

The American who seems to have caught the fancy of the German officers is quite as you might wish it; he is General Washington. Furthermore, those who think he was a tinny saint, and that the biography recently prepared by Mr. Rupert Hughes was unauthentic, will find Mr. Hughes vindicated in one particular, at least. General Washington was no teetotaler; one Hessian informs his superior that Washington has nothing to drink but rum and water.

ALL told, these letters number about 600. They are written on handsome paper of the best quality, most of it gold-edged. The Hessian officers were largely of noble birth and they spared no expense on their stationery. Thanks to their generous dispositions, the letters have come down to us in almost perfect preservation. The tincture of gall used for ink in those days has browned but slightly and the Gothic script is as clear as though it had been penned yesterday.

Besides the letters, Dr. Glasmeier discovered a packet of diaries, ships' logs and calendars, all recording in minutest detail the movements of the troops and the comments of the officers.

The first mention of Washington occurs in a letter written by an officer named Bauermeister from "Broockland vor New York," and dated September 2, 1776, wherein he records: "Generals Washington and Putnam are very favorably described by both friend and foe, but all their science of war will be futile when applied to the rabble of inexperienced conscripts of war with whom they have to deal. Both of the Adamses are fine intellects, and it was due to their influence and that of the wealthy Hunckkocks and several other rich traders like him that the Rebellion has gone so far as it has. I only wish that the Hessian troops could have taken from the enemy captives as much hard money as we have taken in paper money. But it doesn't matter much, since everything has to be delivered to the English headquarters anyway. Congress, on the tenth of August, managed to distribute among the Hessian corps several thousand printed flysheets wherein they tried to prove that theirs was a just cause, and promised rewards to deserters.

"We have captured 11 enemy flags with the word 'Liberty' on them. General Burgoyne is on the march with the Indian tribes. I met two chiefs of the Mohawk and Iroquois tribes at General Howe's. They then returned to General Burgoyne. We seem to be counting a good deal upon the help of the Indians, and already there is talk of peace and that we will soon go back to our Fatherland."

Bauermeister proved to be one of the most diligent of the War Minister's correspondents. His reports were regular news letters. His letter dated September 24, 1776, from "Quarters near Hellgate," is an excellent example:

"The best part of Long Island," he writes, "will probably be used for winter quarters. But by the time the army gets there everything will be empty of fruit, cattle and especially of horses, since the estates are all being confiscated as rebel property. In this way all the English regiments have completely filled out their need of horses, and whatever lack of horses there may be among the Hessian troops will soon be remedied in the same way. The officers are able to buy horses for next to nothing. I got three myself."

The same Bauermeister gives a picture of the New York of 1776:

"The happiness of the population must have been very great. The genuine quality and vast quantity of their possessions is everywhere to be observed. Their forefathers were all Dutchmen. Their land and chattels contain nothing old, nothing worn out, and nowhere can one see anything that isn't spick and span. The inhabited parts, built very much like the peasants' courts in Westphalia, are built up with the most beautiful houses, situated on the most agreeable sites. Their furniture would satisfy the finest taste, and is of a quality that we cannot boast of at home. At the same time everything is so clean and shining that I can hardly describe it.

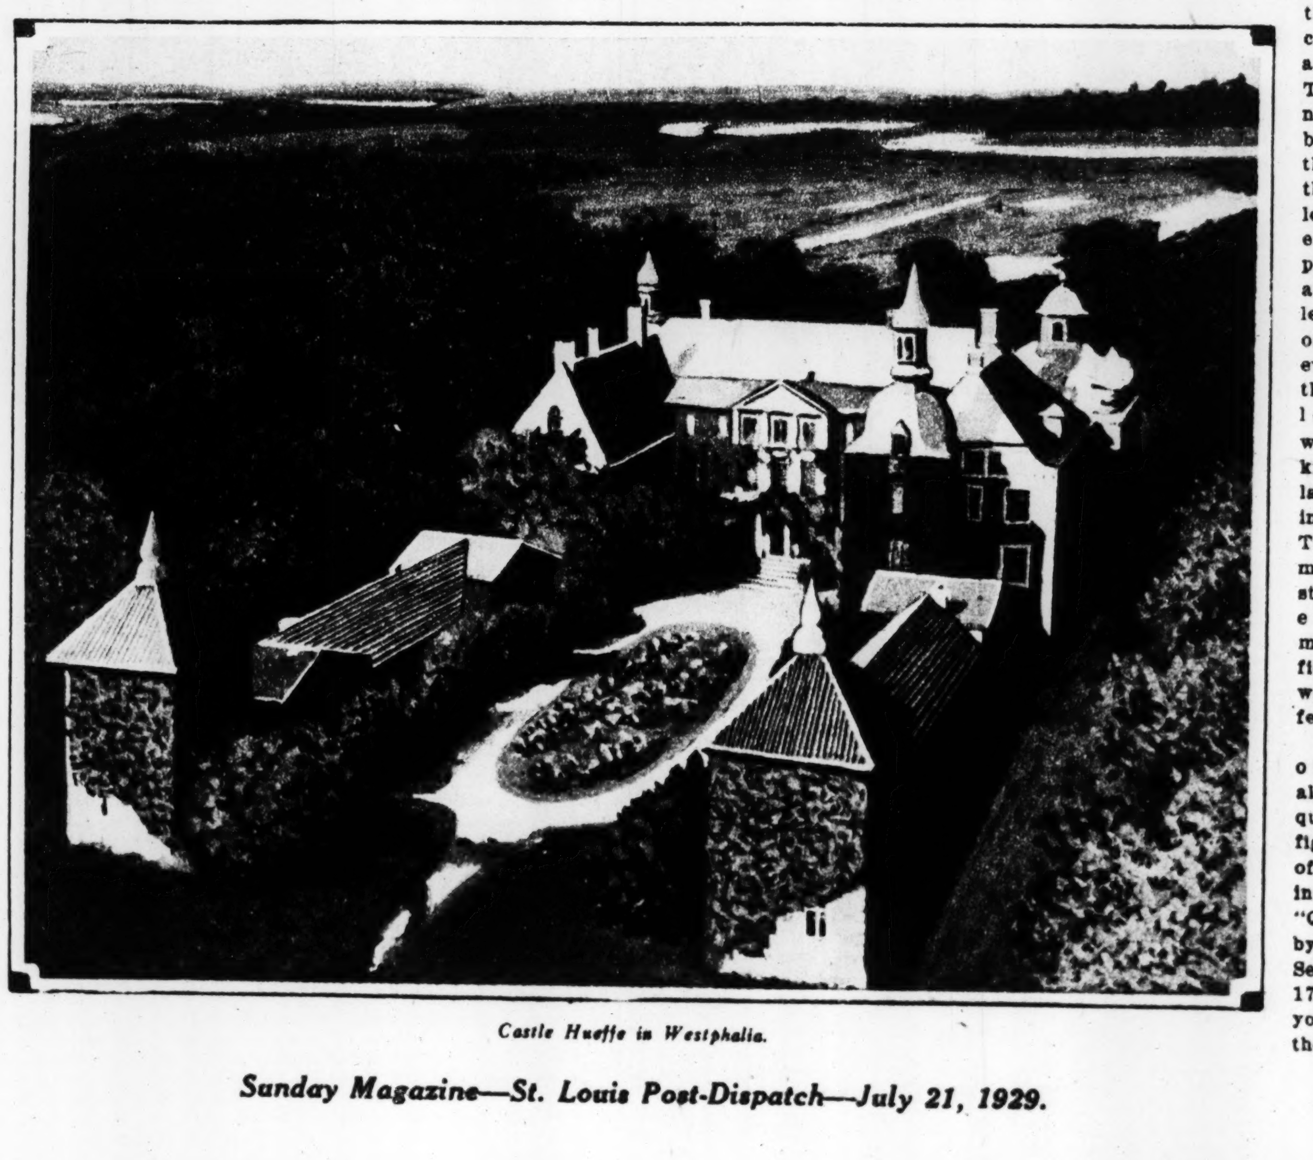
"THE feminine sex is downright beautiful and very gracefully educated. The women are dressed according to the latest European mode in the finest clothes, especially in Indian linen, white calico and silk. There isn't a single housewife that hasn't got at least two carriages. They drive and ride alone, with only a Negro to accompany them.

"In the vicinity of every farmhouse are the quarters of the Negroes who cultivate the extremely rich soil, tend the cattle and do all the heavy housework. The Negroes are Christians and were bought on the coast of Guinea. Here among the local inhabitants they are sold again for 50 to 120 York pounds per head."

The gallant Bauermeister's description of the fair sex in America is given a different turn by his comrade, Henkelmann, in a letter dated "Quarters in Fort Knyphausen, July 15, 1777." Fort Knyphausen was Fort Washington before its capture by the Hessian commander-in-chief, Knyphausen.

After describing the richness of the fruits, Henkelmann writes: "But to the same degree that this part of the world is blessed by nature, just in the same degree are its inhabitants proud and lazy. The women have nothing else to do but eat and drink, adorn themselves, drive out and sleep. A lady who has to go to the trouble of telling the maid what to do in the house must be quite poor. One never sees beggars. Good order, good taste and a superfluity of worldly goods may be seen everywhere."

The first sign of doubt as to how the war would turn out is contained in a letter from General von Lossberg, who toward the end of the war succeeded Knyphausen to the command of the Hessian troops. Von Lossberg, writing from Rhode Island, September 8, 1777, writes: "I cannot see at all—quite between us, of course—how this Rebellion is going to come to an end. We have got to do here with a big part of the earth, and as long as a single human being remains alive here it means that there is a rebel alive, even if he can't admit it. And they have got clever people among them. They really don't need anything but money. On the other hand, they have artillery munitions enough and plenty of food, and they are learning the arts of war better every day. And they are excellent shots, whereby their knowledge of the land stands them in good stead. They know every mountain, valley, stone, woods and every garden, meadow and field, and every wall and wooden fence."



Castle Hueffe in Westphalia.

De Loos, another officer, also takes up the question of the fighting ability of the Americans in a letter dated "Quarters by Philadelphia, September 30, 1777": "I pray you to give up the Hessian notion that the Rebels were not brave. The error of this is manifested by our losses. The Americans press forward. Nobody could do it better. They are not all militia, and if they only had better officers—for their officers outside of the French are no good—we would have a very evil time of it. They are said to have reached a strength of 40,000 men now, with the reinforcements of Gates, whereas we have about 12,000."

The plight of the Americans is depicted in black enough terms by Von Wurmb, in a letter dated Philadelphia, February 7, 1778, but his conclusion that the war is far from over is the same. He writes: "All the deserters, who come very frequently to us, declare there is a lack of all kinds of clothing, and of salt, rum, cognac and wine. General Washington drinks nothing but rum and water at his table. Nevertheless, I do not believe that we will have peace this year. As long as Congress can get up 1000 men it will make no peace."

THE complaint that the English are taking the war too lightly is heard again and again in the Hessian officers' letters. Von Wurmb, in a letter dated Flushing, Long Island, January 7, 1779, writes: "The English flatter themselves that the Rebels are disagreeing among themselves, which is true enough, but not to a sufficient degree to make much difference. General Lee, who was suspended for a year, is writing publicly against Washington, and for this reason was challenged to a duel by the adjutant of Washington, and was wounded. And four other officers have challenged him now. He had better retire or he will be massacred.

"This race of Congressmen is an infamous one. If a man doesn't absolutely agree with them, they hang him. They hanged a good friend of mine in Philadelphia, a Mr. John Roberts, because he said that Congress was unjust to England, and that America had England to thank for everything she was. They hanged him for that, although I know he was the most rebellious man in all America. He was rich, and they confiscated his estate."

The instructive Bauermeister, writing from New York on October 5, 1783, reports: "General Washington is living like a hermit in the vicinity of Princeton. Just as, in the general opinion, he bestowed dignity upon the American Army, it is certain that, by his residence near Princeton, he has given the sinking Congress a certain degree of honor and respectability. It is a fact that in this time of lax government General Washington could attain anything he wished, even the crown of North America. The will of the people is certainly favorable to it. But his ambition does not extend to this gift of fortune, if one can call it that."

The discovery of these letters is due, indirectly, to the fact that six years ago the Government of Westphalia announced that it would soon pass a law compelling the nobility to surrender to the State their family archives. There was an immediate uproar among the Westphalian nobility, but only one of their number had a practicable idea as to how to avoid the calamity.

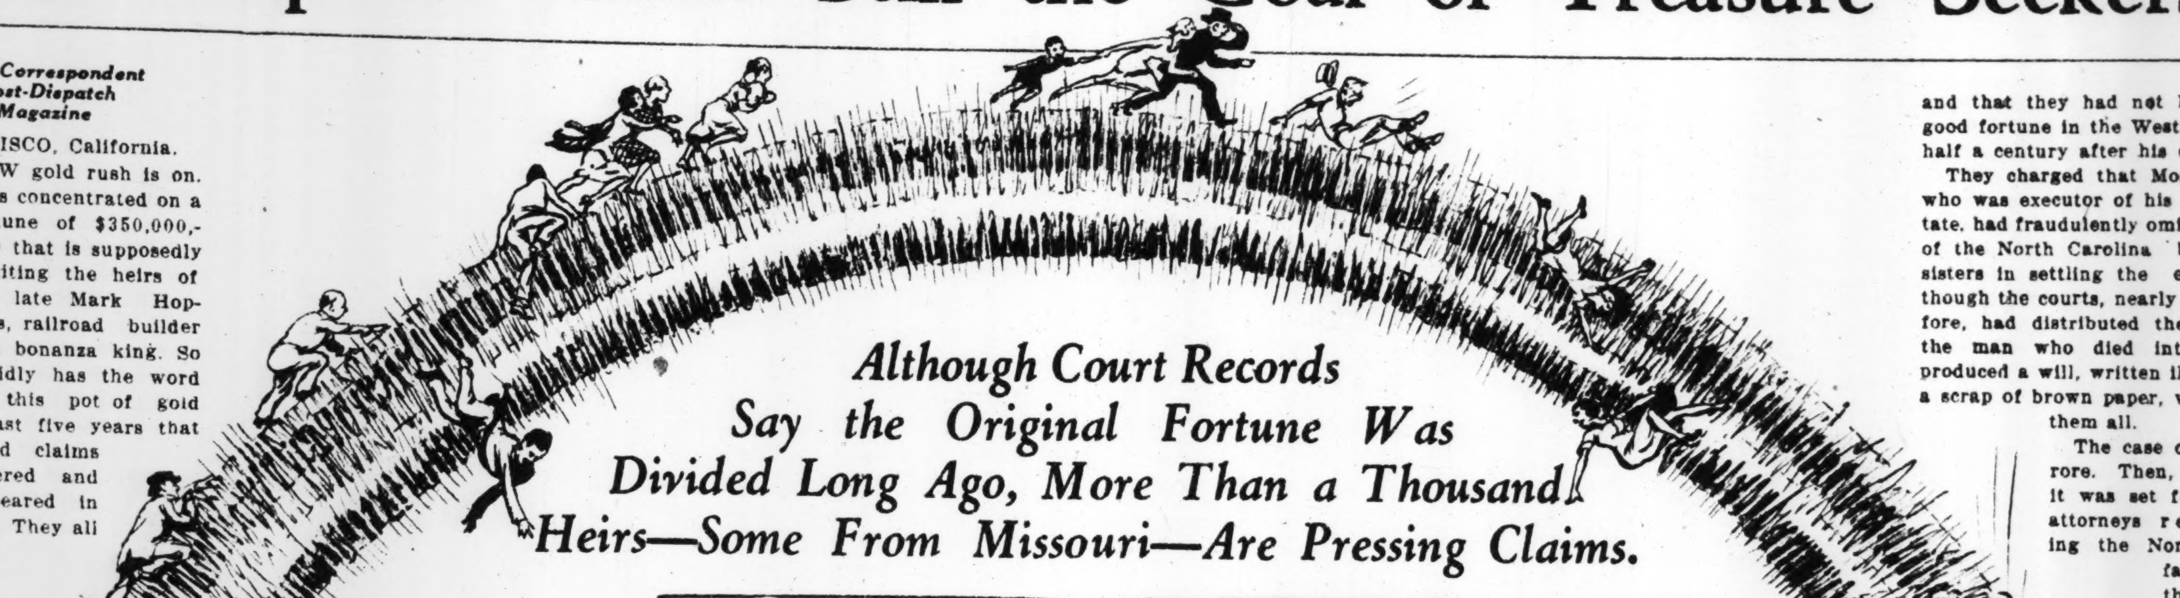
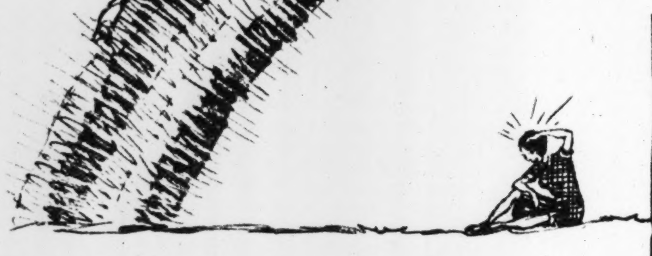
Mark Hopkins Estate Still the Goal of Treasure Seekers





Although Court Records Say the Original Fortune Was Divided Long Ago, More Than a Thousand Heirs—Some From Missouri—Are Pressing Claims.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

SAN FRANCISCO, California.

A NEW gold rush is on. It is concentrated on a fortune of $350,000,000 that is supposedly awaiting the heirs of the late Mark Hopkins, railroad builder and bonanza king. So rapidly has the word of this pot of gold spread in the last five years that nearly a thousand claims have been entered and "heirs" have appeared in nearly every state. They all want a slice of the $350,000,000

Unfortunately, it is non-existent. That is what a careful examination of the court records reveals, and claim after claim has been denied in the courts. Recently a Federal Court threw the case out and was sustained by a higher court.

Yet on they come, or their lawyers for them, these treasure seekers. They are burdened with affidavits and depositions instead of picks and shovels, but the lure is the same as it was in '49.

In some instances lawyers appear to have taken advantage of the publicity given this myth. But many attorneys have accepted the cases of claimants in good faith, themselves deceived by claims which were advanced by "heirs" in all sincerity.

As a matter of record, Mark Hopkins died intestate in 1878 at the age of 66. As soon as the requisite legal procedure could be gone through with, his $20,000,000 estate was divided among his widow and two brothers. There was no slice of his fortune left and the court that ordered distribution specifically decreed that any properties of Mark Hopkins that should later be discovered were to be divided among the three legatees who had shared his fortune.

Virtually out of nothing sprang the story, five years ago, of the unclaimed $350,000,000. For the most part, the claimants have been men and women of the tribes of Hopkins or those descended from Hopkinses. They have come forward with every conceivable kind of a claim, presenting strange family trees, pressing their claims with the aid of legal talent engaged with fees big and small, until the Hopkins will contest has taken its place as one of the most colossal estate hoaxes of the nation.

And the flood of claims persists. Associations of Hopkins "heirs" have been organized in a dozen localities.

THE contests form a fitting aftermath of one of the most picturesque careers of a pioneer Californian, a man whose name stands foremost among those who built the western empire, and amassed a fortune in so doing.

It was in 1849, at the height of the gold rush to California, that Mark Hopkins, a young man, arrived on the clipper ship Pacific at the little port of Yerba Buena, which was destined to become San Francisco.

He was a native of New York State, where he studied law. But he tired of the law even before he had concluded his studies and engaged in the commission business.

Then came the gold rush to California and with a company of prospective miners he made the long journey around the Horn to the land of gold. They hastened from Yerba Buena to Sacramento, near the scene of the first gold discovery in the West, but mining proved distasteful to young Hopkins and he became a wholesale grocer. The business was lucrative until 1852, when fire swept the business area of Sacramento and he was burned out.

A hardware merchant near him likewise lost his business in the flames. He was Collis P. Huntington, whose name stands out among the pioneer railroad builders. Huntington and Hopkins decided to go into business together. They made money and before many years had passed they associated themselves with the late Senator Leland Stanford and Charles Crocker in building the Central Pacific that ran from Sacramento to Ogden, linking with the Union Pacific and forming the first transcontinental railroad.

THE venture earned them a fortune. Hopkins took his place as one of the five outstanding financiers of the West. He built himself a mansion on historic Nob Hill in San Francisco and spent another fortune in stocking it with works of art. It was this home which Edward F. Searles of New York, who married the widow Hopkins after Mark Hopkins' death, later deeded to the University of California as a school of art and as such it remained until its destruction by the San Francisco fire of 1906. The property not long ago was sold to private interests and now is the site of one of San Francisco's most beautiful hotels, named for the original owner of the ground—the Mark Hopkins Hotel.

At his death, his widow, Mary Francis, received three-fourths of his estate and the remaining fourth was divided equally between two brothers, Samuel F. and Moses Hopkins, to whom the legacy came as a godsend. No other heirs could be found and the court gave no recognition to a young man who had lived in the Hopkins home as a son. He had not been adopted until shortly after the death of Mark Hopkins.

This young man was born Timothy Nolan, though he later, after legal adoption by his foster mother, took the name of Hopkins. And today Timothy Hopkins, who has received none of the Hopkins fortune, lives in San Francisco as one of the best known and most highly respected citizens, wealthy through his own efforts—left alone to fight the hundreds of claims that have been filed by anxious "heirs" in the belief that he still holds the key to the Hopkins treasure box.

Timothy Hopkins was two and a half years of age when he was taken into the Hopkins home in Sacramento. He was one of a number of children of a very poor family.

When old Mark died, the boy chose not to contest for a portion of the estate and when his foster mother died, after remarrying, none of her share of the Mark Hopkins riches was left to him.

But, through his association with Mark, he gained an opportunity with the Central Pacific, elevating himself to the position of treasurer, and later became a high official of the Southern Pacific. He has now retired and lives in comfort on an expansive estate on the San Francisco peninsula, the fruit of his own arduous labors.

FOR 45 years Timothy Hopkins believed the estate of his foster mother's husband to be a matter of closed history. Then, to his amazement, he was advised that a family in North Carolina had filed claim to a portion of it, though the widow of Mark Hopkins and the latter's two brothers had long since died and their money had passed to lineal descendants.

The North Carolinans had set up the claim that Mark Hopkins, a long-lost brother, had stolen a mule from somewhere in that State with which to make the long trek to California and that they had not heard of his good fortune in the West until nearly half a century after his demise.

They charged that Moses Hopkins, who was executor of his brother's estate, had fraudulently omitted mention of the North Carolina brothers and sisters in settling the estate. And, though the courts, nearly 50 years before, had distributed the fortune of the man who died intestate, they produced a will, written illiterately on a scrap of brown paper, which named them all.

The case created a furore. Then, a day before it was set for trial, the attorneys representing the North Carolina family advised the court that they had been deceived and asked that the suit be dropped.

Not long afterwards a suit in equity was brought in San Francisco by a new group of claimants. They asserted that they had witnesses who had seen, in San Francisco banks, envelopes holding securities worth $350,000,000 which were held in trust for Hopkins heirs whenever they should be located. The banks and Timothy Hopkins were named as defendants, but the Federal Court dismissed the claims and the higher courts only recently affirmed that order.

BUT, in the meantime, the myth of the $350,000,000 trust fund has spread like wildfire. Claims found their way to the San Francisco courts in droves. They came from men and women in every walk of life—men and women from the farms and from the cities. They came from men and women of various families of Hopkinses, some still bearing the name, others tracing it back to their descent.

Timothy Hopkins estimates that close to a thousand claims were filed, only to be discredited soon after they had found their way into legal files. Lawyers in certain localities, particularly in Mississippi, Kentucky and New York, made rich fees charging clients anywhere from $50 to $100 each only to file their claims.

"It's the result of one of the most amazing pieces of propaganda ever spread in America," says Timothy Hopkins of the whole myth of the Hopkins fortune.

One man who actually believed himself an heir produced a family tree and it was found that exactly 266 years before his birth his line of lineage had converged with the lineage of Mark Hopkins.

In another case, lawyers learned that the head of a group of North Carolina Hopkinses who lay claim to the "huge trust fund" came originally from Ireland while Mark Hopkins was of Puritan stock and his great-grandfather was the Rev. Samuel Hopkins, celebrated theologian, a minister of Newport, Rhode Island, who made a place for himself in history by his fight against Negro slavery.

In still another case a man who claimed to be a brother of Mark and "Mose" Hopkins of California actually was related to John Mosely and Jerome Marcus but he had come to know his kin as "Mose" and "Mark."

In some states Hopkins associations were formed by large groups of claimants who believed they might both save money and make more effective legal battles by pooling their interests and fighting together for the great "trust fund."

Even Timothy Hopkins, ironically enough, has been invited on numerous occasions to become a member of one or another "Hopkins Association" and to buy stock in the enterprises. How long it will be before the myth dies, Hopkins does not venture to say. But he hopes it will be soon.

Missouri Claimants to the Mark Hopkins Estate

HERE in Missouri is a group of claimants who have been encouraged to believe that they may eventually come into a portion of the Mark Hopkins fortune. They have built no great hopes on the claim and they have spent only small sums by way of establishing their identity as Hopkins heirs.

One is Mrs. Mary McKinney who lives at 4105 Jamieson avenue, St. Louis. Mrs. McKinney says that Hopkins was her great-uncle. She says she can remember her father talking about his Uncle Mark who had gone to California.

Mark Hopkins, Mrs. McKinney says, was her paternal grandmother's brother. The family, or at any rate a part of the family, settled in Kentucky some time before the Civil War. After the war there was a general breakup. Her father, Benjamin Purdom, came to Missouri and settled in Ripley county.

Even before this breakup, similar to that which occured in a great many families at this period, the Purdoms had more or less lost track of Mark Hopkins. He had become something of a legendary figure.

A year ago Mrs. McKinney had word from a cousin in Murray, Kentucky, another Hopkins connection, telling of the existence of the great unclaimed fortune and suggesting that Mrs. McKinney enter a claim, too. This cousin, whose name Mrs. McKinney does not care to disclose, wrote that four lawyers had been retained and that the case was being pushed to a higher court. In subsequent letters she intimated that if Mrs. McKinney could conveniently make a small contribution toward legal and other expenses it would be appreciated but was not obligatory in any sense. She explained that a lawyer was being sent to San Francisco. Mrs. McKinney sent no money. She and her husband are people in modest but comfortable circumstances.

"We don't set a great store on this," Mrs. McKinney says. "But if anything is rightfully coming to us we want to get it. I can remember my father talking about Uncle Mark and my cousin tells me that there is a lot of money there. But if we don't get anything it won't make any real difference. I think that sometimes money is more bother than it's worth."

Mrs. McKinney has several brothers and sisters who are also interested in the claim. One is Mrs. Emma Mann of Poplar Bluff, who has probably expended more actual effort to get a part of the Hopkins fortune than any of the others. Mrs. Mann, a widow, is in charge of the Detention Home for Children, on the outskirts of Poplar Bluff. With her daughter, Stella Jane, a high school girl, she runs the home, which houses from five to twenty children.

Mrs. Mann has spent various sums from time to time, running down proof of the Hopkins connection. She has declined, however, to send money to defray legal expenses. But she has hired cars for trips into remote hill sections to get the affidavits of elderly people who knew her father and other members of the family. There have been notary fees and other costs.

Mrs. Mann is inclined to the same view as her sister—if they get something, well and good, and if they don't, then little has been lost. She, too, can remember hearing her father talk about Mark Hopkins and she vaguely remembers talk of a large estate but she does not think it was the estate of her great-uncle Mark.

Others of the family in Poplar Bluff are Mrs. Arthur Jaco, and George and Henry Purdom. They have put less faith in the venture than either Mrs. Mann or Mrs. McKinney. Also there are two other brothers, Ed Purdom in St. Louis, and Neely Purdom in Chicago, and two Purdom brothers who died but left children.

Still another claimant in this immediate section is Mrs. Ellen Ward, 29, a share cropper on a plantation near Ashdown, Arkansas. Mrs. Ward, who goes barefooted and bareheaded and works 12 hours a day hoeing the grass from the cotton rows, has become involved in the claims through the purported discovery of another "will." But Mrs. Ward, too, is imbued with a fundamental common sense and she is much more interested in getting in this year's crop than in pursuing any millions that may or may not exist.

A FAMOUS and Slightly Infamous Gaming Woman.

MME. MOUSTACHE

By
DUNCAN AIKMAN

IT WAS light work, calling for deftness, intuition, tact and the more personal charm the better. It was performed in the West, under the bright lights and the most glamorous social atmosphere. Modish costumery was its chief convention. It was not dangerous except when one happened to be raided by an indoor bandit or to be caught in technical operations grossly inconsistent with personal honor.

It made adventure possible to the sedentary and appealed to the love of excitement. It stirred the passions, but only those that were so sexless as to be virtually sex-protective.

Somewhat in this way I worked up to asking old Dan Spencer, ex-bartender of a score of cow metropolises and mining camps in Wyoming and Montana and philosophical authority on the last phases of the Wild West in these regions, why there were so few women gamblers among the western adventuresses.

Dan was at first inclined to be conventional. Gambling was a "man's job," he said. That was all there was to it. Just like prize fighting or steer roping.

But it wasn't like these manly arts, I insisted. Dan had told me himself that plenty of ladies of ancient celebrity could manage a poker hand or deal faro and handle the dice and a keno outfit as well as a professional. They were certainly a lot safer than a man if they tried to crook anything. Then why, when they got tired of being mauled by men or wanted to make easy money and stay sober, didn't they go in for it? Certainly the West's conventions would not have stopped them.

"Well," said Dan, "I've figured it out this way. Most of the girls knocking around the towns in those days was too dumb to make professional gamblers and those that was smart enough would generally rather get the boys excited about them than about the cards."

I FIND this frontier Freudianism impressive. Most women of the adventurous class who came West on their own in the womanless era were drawn there originally by exceptional sex urges and vanities. Whether they were so drawn or not, they confronted on arrival mass attacks of male interest and admiration which left no room for other concerns. So, although promiscuity may have been a more casual and less profitable—certainly for women a more dangerous—way of earning a living than professional poker, it was emotionally more zestful and lots more fun.

Why repel a potential admirer merely by proving that he could not fill an inside straight when it was possible to prove upon him with one's personal charms that gentlemen prefer blondes? Thus women gamblers remain rarer than feminine exotics of almost any other species.

In spite of a somewhat shady class reputation, there were male gamblers in the old West who lived by their technical skill and no other; who were, apart from their professional lives, neither liquor dispensers nor agents for other resorts, good husbands and fathers in some cases, and even church members. They were as wrapped up and specialized in their grooves as professors of the more abstruse sciences.

But the women invariably were adventuresses first and gamblers incidentally.

Still, some of them were the real thing—when they worked at it.

The greatest and most famous of these stepped into celebrity from the northbound stage coach at Nevada City, California, one afternoon in 1854.

She came from the South, declared herself French, and accent, mannerisms and fluent conversations in that tongue with mining camp sophisticates verified her. But neither she nor any other theorizer on her origins ever announced whether she was a native daughter of the West and some Canadian voyageur, some Louisiana Creole girl fled to escape a scandal, some belle of the New Orleans octoroon balls seeking to "pass" into white society in a new country, or a genuine adventuress off the Paris boulevards.

She announced herself as Madame Dumont. But no one ever learned who Monsieur Dumont was, or how or why he had been eliminated. It was simply that a young woman, charming and vivacious in the Latin manner and with a profoundly olive complexion, stepped from a stage and tacitly claimed protection of the California convention that one's past was nobody's business.

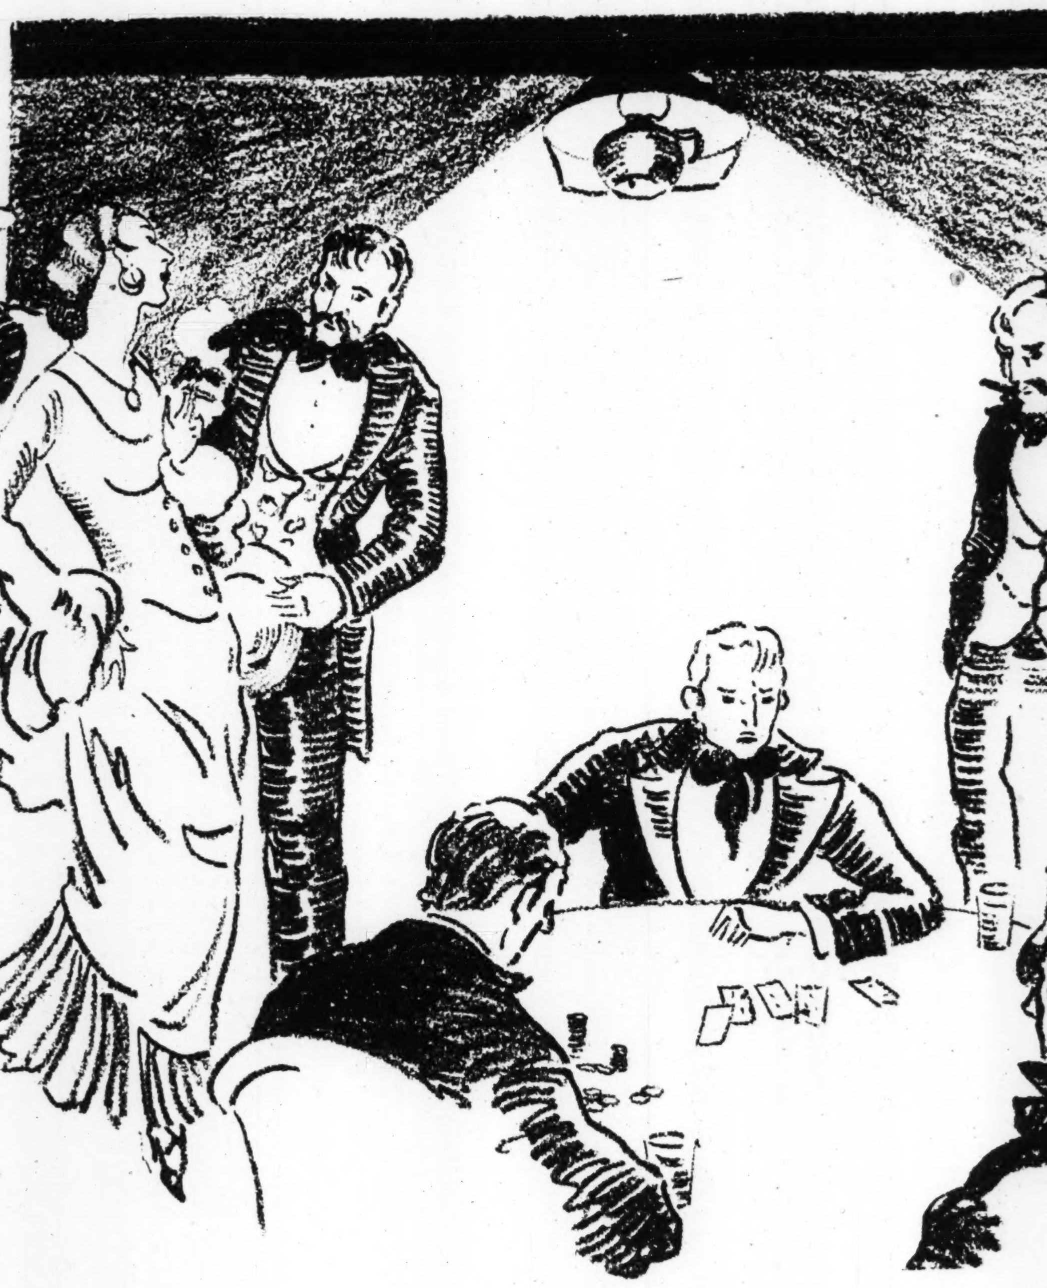
San Francisco was, in fact, swarming with Frenchmen and more than one of the smaller centers had a Latin quarter of noticeable proportions. At the same time that the political commotions of 1848-52 were making voluntary exile attractive, the fabulous wealth and extravagances of California were holding out their lure to French cupidity. Frenchmen, and not infrequently French women, ran the more exotic restaurants and wineshops, the exceptionally exclusive gambling houses, the more suave houses of amusement. As wife or mistress, courtesan or overworked family daughter in some such establishment, Eleonore Dumont more than probably had served her time observing Yankee gullibilities, until her native shrewdness responded to the exhilarating unconventionalities of the local social atmosphere with the inspiration to go out and make a stake of her own. Whether she deserted husband, parents, paramour or patron in her plunge for freedom and fortune remains her own business after seventy-three years. But her more or less incognito flight to the northernmost camps of suitable size and prosperity at least intimates that her departure was not encouraged in the place she set out from.

Nevada City, however, where women were perhaps one to seven in the population in 1854 and where unattached, good-looking ones hardly numbered one out of two hundred, received her with excited mystification. She was not affianced in advance to any of the miners, and she rejected all openings to become so within the first 24 hours. She stayed in her hotel, dressed in a slightly flamboyant manner as to jewels and decolleté, dining alone and locking her bedroom door each night like a lady.

Then in a week the mystery was solved. "The Madame," as the town was already calling her in tribute to her slightly exotic flavor and brisk little air of self-reliance, rented a small store room on Broad street and opened a game of vingt-et-un.

The luckier and better-staked miners made a rush for her debut, first getting out the stove-pipe hats and dress clothes of solemn grandeur that had done duty at southern plantation quadrilles and eastern college commencements. The rank and file carefully refurbished working clothes. For the first time in its somewhat eventful history Nevada City saw a game of chance played by gentlemen with their hats off who made no recourse to profanity, even in exasperation. Familiar topers were hesitant about ordering the usual liquid refreshments and inveterate smokers about consoling themselves with their customary tobacco habits. The Madame's place was not only orderly beyond all local records—it trembled on the brink of becoming ill at ease.

This catastrophe, however, the Madame averted with magnificent tolerance. "Zhee bhoyss," she asserted with an enchanting cordiality, were all her "fr-r-r-rens." In her little house, therefore, they were to do as they liked, just as they did in the other gambling houses, or she would be triste, desolate, what you call broken at the heart. There must be no rough conduct, knife-fights, eye-gougings, gunplays, to be sure. But Madame did not need to ask this, since she realized that all her guests were there to respect her as a lady.



The proprietress passed among her guests with a personal word of greeting for all, a bit of raillery here, a seductive pluck at the coat-sleeve there.

BUT just to show, for perhaps the first time in northern California history, that it was possible to be a perfect lady without being a Puritan, Madame herself sipped her portion of the opening night's champagne treats gaily and rolled herself cigarette after cigarette with the coquetry, but scarcely the inexpertness, of an ambitious ingenue. Between games the proprietress passed among her guests with a personal word of greeting for all, a bit of raillery here, a seductive pluck at the coat-sleeve there, a miracle of that astute general familiarity which women needing the patronage of large groups of men use at once to charm them and to keep them at their distance.

It was a technique in which a sophisticated Latin woman's gifts for innocently commercializing sex lure naturally shone at their best.

Miners came to inspect the novelty, but stayed and came again because they had a better time at "the Madame's" than at the other gambling joints. Seeing guns pulled and blood spilled over a card game was nothing unusual. But sharing a pretty young woman's naive but sportsmanlike emotional reactions to the conduct of Lady Luck certainly was.

Meanwhile, because the Madame never slackened either in friendliness or discretion, and maintained her air of girlish exuberance as carefully as she did her skill at vingt-et-un, the charm of her place held and even grew. Miners began saying that they would rather lose to Madame Dumont than win from any male tinhorn in northern California. And they meant it. No game in northern California had such a constantly full attendance, such a long list of waiting applicants for seats, or such an impressed crowd of spectators as the Madame's vingt-et-un experiment. The fortunate young woman could have played twenty-four hours a day against emulous losers if nature would have sustained her.

French commercial talent naturally saw that a really tremendous opportunity was being but fractionally utilized. Alone, the Madame could only play vingt-et-un with a small group that could play vingt-et-un at a time. But all these waiters-in-line, all these curious, all these impassioned spectators would play something profitable to the house if only the Madame had the facilities. It was, of course, impossible to establish a house of women gamblers only. The Madame knew the social finesse required in that game and realized, as no doubt did the rest of Nevada City, that there was only one "Madame." Very well, she would remain the proprietress and the lodestone of attraction while filling the rest of the house with professional males. Her beloved friends and so easily charmed guests could thus be losing to somebody while awaiting the ecstatic pleasure of losing to her.

Her choice for assistant receiver of the patronage fell upon a young and charming but thoroughly experienced gambler named David Tobin. The youth was suave and presentable and added strong masculine gifts of cajolery to the Madame's feminine ones.

HE HAD, apparently, by recollections surviving down to a few years ago, the combined manner of the ingratiating salesman, the perfect sportsman and the club entertainer. He took up his quarters in the outer chambers of Madame's enlarged establishment, and there dispensed, with a growing corps of assistants, such amusements as faro, keno and poker. The Madame's vingt-et-un and chuck-a-luck operations further within became a sanctuary for house favorites, the larger spenders and for the fortunate few who had braved the astute David's games to their profit.

These happy conditions continued throughout 1855 until there occurred one of those tragic separations which impress one with the lack of business acumen among the intelligentsia. Apparently love was not involved in it, for both the Madame and Tobin were of the cool-eyed, calculating type who kept their partnership on an even emotional keel. It could hardly have been scandal, since Tobin in amours was a gravely discreet youth and the Madame was accentuating her virtue at this time almost to primness.

There was nothing to disagree about, in short, but the division of the spoils, and so Nevada City cherished for a great many years, without any evidence for it except the processes of elimination, the belief that this is what broke up the partnership.

THERE was a slight falling off in the mining prosperity of the district toward the end of 1855 and possibly also in the population. Tobin, the legend claims, insisted on a higher pro-rata share of the proceeds, which would have required the Madame to reduce hers and in effect accept a position as merely a kind of star employe in the establishment which she was famous as founding. Naturally, such arrangments were intolerable to Gallic commercialism and pride of enterprise and Mr. Tobin retired from the firm with a good deal of unpleasant billingsgate sticking in his ears. Nevertheless his share of the profits constituted a stake large enough to take him back to New York, and to establish a Tobin gambling house in that tolerant city, where, after operating on Civil War profiteers and successful politicians of the Fernando Wood and early Tweed rings, the canny David died in 1865, leaving an impressive fortune.

In the Madame, however, the change produced a new restlessness. By taking Nevada City at the full tide of its prosperity, she had made more money than the French girls who were wine-room and restaurant helpers and courtesans back in San Francisco would make in twenty years. Nevada City seemed to be going into a decline but if she caught other camps on the rise and played them while the pay dirt was good, could she not double her money, triple it, multiply it even into one of the great California fortunes? So, early in 1856 the Madame set out on her travels. They were to last twenty-three years.

She tried the northern California camps first. But bucking the gold-rush towns was different from settling in an established, conservative and, comparatively speaking, aristocratic little county seat like Nevada City. Drunkenness, any attempt at indecency or even incivility in the Madame's place at Nevada City, would have been quickly repelled by all her regular male patrons.

But in the rush camps more often than not the spirit of, "What the hell is she here for?" prevailed. The tougher element among the gamblers, jealous of the Madame's success and peculiar emotional attractions, were increasingly anxious to drag her down from her pedestal by involving her in the life and customary scandals of the underworld. However much Madame Dumont tried, or did not try, to maintain her Nevada City discretions, she was forced to make her way against a gathering storm of obstacles and temptations.

Once we catch a glimpse of her flashing out against it all at Pioche in the late '50s. All the roughs in camp one night invaded her rooms, drunk, quarrelsome, flourishing revolvers. The Madame, however, rushed out and scolded them humorously for acting like bad boys out on some Hallowe'en expedition to scare helpless old women.

This Gallic ridicule addressed with appealing sleeve-pluckings to the ringleaders sobered and disarmed them and they departed after an orderly exchange of drink courtesies. But hardly always could tact have been so successful. In other and possibly more rowdy camps there were disturbances in Madame's place which could not be quelled. There were indignities. Hardly a censorious soul to begin with, loving crowds of men and their antics, the Madame was not always on her guard. She had, for instance, in Nevada City stuck to her temperate wine drinking. But the crowds of men went in for the neat consumption of whiskey and brandies almost as a ritual of their vitality and maleness. The Madame, to show that she was a sport, would go with them.

More than once the Madame was a little dull in her play, a little boisterous, a little careless in her once immaculately edifying repartee. There may at times have been knock-out drops, for the rival gamblers in the worst camps were capable of it. At any rate, the life was, while free and in a sense a little heroic, coarsening and degrading in most of its constant associations. And it is possible, too, that the earlier attitude of extreme propriety was a pose only, adopted by the Madame after years of sophistication in the San Francisco tenderloin had suggested to her shrewdness that it might have commercial value. At any rate, it was common knowledge in the northern California camps before 1860 that the Madame no longer invariably disdained to make money otherwise than at the vingt-et-un table.

There were hardships, too, which were not favorable either to charm or to morals. Rush camps were invaded which offered nothing to rush for, and the Madame would be out the expenses of her lavish traveling comforts and of installing the luxurious gambling equipment of the times all for nothing. There were times when she sought to recoup these losses by bucking the games of other professionals with her shrinking capital and the rivals were not, as a rule, inclined to be generous. Time and again the Madame made and lost fortunes no doubt as bounteous as the comfortable one amassed at Nevada City. But she also knew privation. She knew exposure to the mountain weathers, to primitive conditions of trail and camp life and to more and harsher liquors.

It was not good for the swarthy Latin type of beauty, which ages and wrinkles early even in shelter and luxury. The Madame was hardly 30 in 1860. Yet her trim little figure of Nevada City days was already fattening to grossness. Her complexion was roughening and seaming a little with dissipation, her eyes were losing their dark, girlish coquetries and acquiring the beady heartlessness of middle-aged French women of the mercenary classes.

Worst of all, the thin little line of down which had been noticeable on her lip in girlhood almost as an exotic adornment was now growing with a typically Mediterranean luxuriousness. "Madame Moustache" men began to call her with their terrible western gift for mordant nick-names.

The gold rushes led into wilder and wilder regions and Madame Moustache followed them.

Always she held her own in these strenuous environments; she asked no quarter for sex or for novelty. Now and then she astonished even the blase western underworld with her feats of commercial astuteness. Once in the raw camp which has become Boise City, when the miners were strapped after their first pickings of surface ores and all the gamblers, including herself, had been ruined by bucking the games of some slick, fly-by-night strangers, she performed the incredible legerdemain of raising $1000 within 24 hours and starting her establishment just as the town got its second wind.

IN A MORE remote Idaho camp, near the present Blackfoot, she is said to have uncovered the schemes of another group of professional fleecers and, by the sheer bluff of her hardness and one of her rare Latin rages, to have compelled them to decamp and give up their ill-gotten profits. Many a rough, ready for disturbance, holdups or worse, wilted at the touch of her professionally appealing hand on his sleeve, and her command of suspicious geniality: "Sit down and behave yourself, my friend, or out you go." Legend has it that she thus subdued even the ferocious and half-mad Bonne Helm of the Plummer gang on one of his rampages and yet retained his friendship and his patronage. By 1864 she was in Bannock, where her place is still remembered as a long, log house with four rooms downstairs and second-story apartments. There was her little bar, her dance hall, still her own private chamber for the beloved twenty-one game and a larger apartment for keno, poker and faro players. But though gambling was still her first love and her main interest, Madame Moustache had descended to much that Madame Dumont of Nevada City days would have scorned with dignified blushes. Three camp grisettes were installed in the dance hall as insurance that lucky miners would not spend their earnings elsewhere. A little later she had the strapping, 15-year-old Calamity Jane in tutelage.

Four farm boys traveling up from Utah to sell eggs to the poultryless Montanans kept, nevertheless, rather pleasant memories of her all their lives. The miners invariably romanticized her, they discovered, because, once she had won their money, they could eat and drink at her expense indefinitely or count on her for stakes on the wildest prospecting ventures. The boys themselves sold their eggs to her at the profiteer's price of $1.50 a dozen without arousing a single Gallic protest. In her way, too, she mothered them. The more advanced whiskey-drinkers of the group were encouraged to take cigars at the bar as soon as their slight alcoholic tolerance manifested itself. One youngster in particular who drank cider she honored by sticking to that ten-

Governor Roosevelt Works for America's Cripples

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

THERE are now in the United States, according to a reliable estimate, somewhere around 350,000 crippled persons, every one of whom requires a certain amount of assistance from able-bodied persons. It is further estimated that at least 150,000 able-bodied persons are compelled to spend part or, in many cases, most of their time caring for the 350,000. This means, therefore, that approximately half a million people in the United States are removed from active production through this one cause alone, their handicap resulting directly or indirectly in a heavy economic drain on their communities.

How to restore these persons, or at least a large percentage of them, is a problem which has of late drawn increasing attention. Physicians, welfare workers and even statesmen and politicians are getting behind a well-defined rehabilitation movement. One of the statesmen who has come vigorously to the support of the program is no less a personage than Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of New York. Largely through his efforts and influence, there exists now the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation which in the course of four years developed into one of the most effective health centers in the world, and the Governor seeks to make the State-owned springs at Saratoga, New York, available for similar therapeutic use.

At his exercise under water.

It was Governor Roosevelt's own disability a few years ago that drew his interest to the fight for rehabilitation of cripples. He was a cripple himself for a time and was rehabilitated with an effectiveness that he believes can be extended to most other persons suffering from similar handicaps.

In the summer of 1921 when Roosevelt, a strong and vigorous man, was beginning to excite the hopes of the flagging Democratic party as a Presidential possibility, an epidemic of infantile paralysis swept New York and his admirers were stunned to hear that he had been stricken. His political hopes seemed forever blasted.

HE WAS ill for three weeks and during those three weeks he was transformed from a stalwart man in the prime of life to an almost helpless cripple. The disease had paralyzed both legs and specialists feared his affliction would be permanent. Confronted by life in a wheel chair, he turned his attention to the rehabilitation of cripples. His own recovery was one result and the recovery or partial recovery of hundreds of other persons another result. He described to the correspondent recently his own experience and the work now being done by the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation.

"There are two great causes for the large number of cripples we have in this country," the Governor explained. "They are infantile paralysis and industrial accidents, but there are far more victims of the disease than of accidents. In the last 12 or 14 years probably 150,000 persons in the United States have survived infantile paralysis and have been left handicapped.

"There are, in the final analysis, four steps in the cure of the disease. The first is the research step, the effort that is being made today to isolate the germ. The second is treatment during the ordinary course of the disease—the first month or two immediately following the attack. That is purely a matter of proper nursing. The third step is the building up of the muscles over a period of two, three or four or even ten years so that the patient may become able to get about. The final step which is necessary in a very large number of cases is the teaching of some kind of occupation for these people to follow when they are able to get about but have not made a complete recovery.

"I BECAME considerably interested in infantile paralysis in 1921," the Governor continued, "when I realized that I had survived an attack of it. I soon learned from a doctor that if a patient takes the right kind of exercise his muscles will improve. Then in the spring of 1924 I had a talk with Dr. Robert S. Lovett of Boston, who knew more about the disease than anyone else at that time. He said his patients seemed to recover more quickly by swimming and exercising in the water. The water takes the weight off the muscles, he explained, and the patient can exercise much more freely and for a much longer time without strain than he can in the air.

"About two months later I received a letter from George Foster Peabody, who came originally from Columbus, Ga. He had just bought a very old down-at-the-heels Georgia summer resort, called Warm Springs, which had little to commend it except that it had an elevation of about 1,000 feet, a good all-year-around climate and the largest warm spring east of the Rocky Mountains.

"Mr. Peabody wrote me to tell me of the case of a local boy who had gone there. He had infantile paralysis and the doctor had said he would never walk again. There was no doctor at Warm Springs, but they put him into the pool there. Without any particular assistance he kicked around. At the end of one summer he was able to stand up in the water. The second summer he was able to stand up with braces on dry land. At the end of the third summer he got rid of his braces. At the end of the fourth summer he came back to New York City and took a job as draftsman, and he is still here, getting about every day to his business and walking with only one cane.

"I went down there myself and tried it out. When I went I was able to walk only with the greatest difficulty with braces and crutches. I stayed six weeks and gained more in that time than I had in the previous three years.

"I got in touch with a number of orthopedic surgeons, and in 1926 experimental periods were conducted under the direction of Dr. Leroy W. Hubbard, New York orthopedic surgeon, and his director of nurses, Miss Helena T. Mahoney. Twenty-five patients were there.

"They made such astounding progress that we decided to create a permanent organization. We organized the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation as a non-profit-taking corporation, with a representative Board of Trustees."

THE foundation now has 1200 acres surrounding the spring. It has built two new pools and has remodeled the hotel and cottages. Under Dr. Hubbard it has a staff of eight physiotherapists. Governor Roosevelt says it is operating at capacity with about 82 patients and has a long waiting list. It is not a charitable undertaking, but is operated at actual cost. However, a Patients' Aid Fund has been created and through it some patients receive help in paying their share of the cost, which is about $42 a week, including everything.

"We are actually making not what you would call cures," the Governor explained, "but sufficient improvement in the patients to enable them to function in life."

The last part of the task is to give patients training in occupations which do not require too much moving around.

berg-Velen und Gemen. Count Landsberg called the nobility together and in effect told them: "The only way to keep from losing our archives is to prove to the Government that we can handle them better than the State can. Let us organize a United Archives, put it in competent hands and so classify and arrange it that its contents will be available to any scholar."

That is what the nobility decided to do, and Dr. Glasmeier was placed in charge. According to the plan all of the families are to retain their own archives, but Dr. Glasmeier will arrange them. Dr. Glasmeier has quarters at Castle Velen, next to which Count Landsberg has built an archive building. There is such a tremendous amount of work to be done, and so few funds are available, that the doctor is not yet able to issue the Hessian officers' letters, called the Jungkenn letters, after that Hessian Minister of War of Revolutionary days.

These Westphalian archives hold promise of further American interest. One series of letters from the family of Peter Minuit, founder of the city of New York, and another from the century-long pre-Revolutionary trade of Westphalia with the American colonies.

der beverage herself through all the rounds of a somewhat ambitious wassail. When the wiles of the girls in the establishment stirred the young visitors to bashfulness rather than the expected reactions, she called the hussies off and gave them a guitar-playing and jig-dancing party as innocuous as a church sociable among their neighbor Mormons.

Even so, before they left they saw her harder side. A Scotchman named MacFarlane coveted the place and the command of her still buxom charms which had been enjoyed for several months by her male agent and factotum, one McHarney. Carefully filling himself up on the Madame's whiskey one night, MacFarlane ended the rivalry with an accurately-placed revolver shot.

THE dead man had been a faithful worker and, as such relationships went in the underworld, a genuinely devoted lover. Yet the Madame merely had his body removed to a small alcove, called the coroner, bailed out MacFarlane for a thousand dollars, while the games and the dancing went on. Less than an hour later, MacFarlane finished his formal interview with the police authorities and inherited the job. He wanted it, knew the run of the house. This was the Madame's viewpoint; therefore he ought to have it. Twelve years later she was still able to laugh at the remembrance with Gascon cynicism. It cost her a hundred dollars to get MacFarlane out of his difficulties, she admitted, and this was very triste, because "Meestaire MacFarlane" proved not to be worth it.

Nevada claimed her again for a hectic summer, and some time in the late '60s she seems to have followed the construction camps of the Union Pacific through Wyoming. Somewhere in this period her northern California admirers heard, and apparently believed, the report that she had amassed a fortune, bought a farm, settled it upon a scamp of a husband who promptly sold the real estate while absconding with the cash. Her generous side might have been capable of it, but place names and documentary proofs are lacking and her French commercial guile is certainly against it.

In any case, she was in Cheyenne in its great days, in the middle '70s, when Wild Bill stalked the streets, the bridegroom of Madame Lake-Hickok of the circus, and when the clans gathered for the Black Hills rush. She was in Deadwood herself with the "seventy-sixers" and back again for a brief and apparently unprofitable stay with her paraphernalia in 1878. Meanwhile, in '77, Eureka, Nevada, was cheered with her presence, where in a two-story edifice of some magnificence she received guests, jewelry and a huge gold brooch blazing over her black silk evening gown and the moustache looming over all more savagely than ever.

Fittingly, too, Bodie called her at the last,—Bodie standing today above Lake Tahoe uninhabited but the most immaculate and complete of ghost towns, kept like a public monument. But in 1879 Bodie saw the last reunion of the forty-niners still strong enough in muscle, wits and drinking capacity to raise hell. They raised it with the fervor of old graduates, with the snorting pride of finished competence.

BUT the pace was too fast for the Madame. One morning early in September they found her body by the road two miles from town, and a bottle of poison lay beside it. There were no notes, no explanations, no pleas for sympathy.

They had broken her bank, but this could hardly have prompted her. It had happened too many times before and the genius which had raised a thousand dollars in a night at Boise was by no means fled. It could hardly have been love, for the Madame was immunized to its more disturbing temptations and disappointments by habit of mind and long experience. It could hardly have been liquor, though the Bodie brews were vicious and plentiful above average. The Madame knew these toxins too well to be bowled over by the emotional depressions of a chance hang-over.

Women Trained Along With Men in Soviet War Establishment

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BERLIN.

IN DESPERATE endeavor to outstrip her neighbors in the preparation for another possible war, Red Russia, it is authoritatively reported here, has tightened up her compulsory military-service law to include her entire population—women and girls as well as men.

Recently a news photographer was able to smuggle from Moscow a series of pictures which are reproduced on this page and which speak for themselves, showing graphically how girls are being trained in the art of killing and indicating that, in event of another conflict, Russia will be represented by more than one "Battalion of Death."

Both boys and girls, it is stated, are compelled to take daily lessons in the technique of dealing death to hostile forces. It makes no difference what their walk in life may be or whether they are taken to the drill field and the machine-gun range from schools or factories. They are taken and are placed under the tutelage of able instructors chosen by the military authorities.

These instructors are sent to every city, town and village throughout the vast republic to organize citizens' armies. Factory yards are turned into maneuver camps, where every day for an hour or longer workers are marshaled and drilled. School children, during recess hours, run from their books to their weapons. No phase of military training is overlooked, and women stand shoulder to shoulder with men in all branches of the service. There is one unique female organization called the "tractor unit," comprising young and husky women who handle heavy army tractors, used for hauling artillery. There are also machine-gun units consisting entirely of women, who must keep pace with the men in mounting, dismounting and manipulating these deadly instruments of the trenches. Girls are trained as air pilots and are used almost exclusively in the observation-balloon units. All this with a view to releasing all men for more strenuous military duty.

Observation balloon training units also include women.

The SCOURGE of the GOLF CHILD

An Agonized Cry From a Kindly Man Who Opposes Infanticide.

P. G. Wodehouse.

COME with me to the golf links at Viewport, Long Island. Let us stand at the first tee and survey the scene that confronts us. The emerald turf, so smooth and inviting. The gentle bunkers, so easily overcome even by the novice. The crisp air. The beaming sun. The sparkling waters of the Great South Bay. I hear you murmur, "Is this Paradise?"

No, Rollo, it is not Paradise. You have overlooked the Golf Child. Just as he who would dive into the sparkling waters that lave the shores of Viewport draws back as he is about to spring because he sees that the s.w. are not so much s.w. as a solid mass of jellyfish; so does the golfer, about to tee off from the local clubhouse, hold back his stroke when he notes that the emerald turf is almost black with Golf Children. A kindly man, he does not wish to add infanticide to his other minor sins. He says, "I will pause awhile, and let the children get ahead before I make my big drive." And he waits and waits. And waits. . . .

There they are, the little pets. There they are, toddling along in couples and giving lifelike imitations of men rolling peanuts with toothpicks for an election bet.

See, Rollo! Over yonder two of the cute angels have just done the third hole in a hundred and ninety-one, so now the patient-looking, grizzled man and his wistful friend can make another stroke. Then, if they wait half an hour or so, they can make another. This is what is meant when you hear people talking about the fascination of golf. It is a great game, as played at our Long Island summer resorts, for it inculcates patience, philosophy, and control of the nerves, and it keeps one out in the open air.

BUT it is thought by some that our genial committee at Viewport made a mistake when they passed that law by which by paying, say, the sum of one hundred dollars down, any individual may become a member for the season and enjoy the privileges of the links not only in his own person but in the persons of as many of his family as he cares to have enjoying his generosity. For it is this law that has produced the Golf Child.

As Bacon finely puts it in his widely read Shakespeare, "The evil that men do lives after them." It is thus with many parents. Papa is a business man. He can only afford to take week-ends off, and Viewport only knows him on Saturdays and Sundays. But he insists on his wife and children enjoying our soothing air right along. So he pays his hundred bucks to the golf club, and passes away, like one of those unpleasant moths which lay a million eggs in a bee-hive and then go away from that place. The evil that he has done lives after him.

On the strength of what he has stripped from his roll, by virtue of that one hundred iron men which the committee have thrust into their jeans with a fatuous smile of satisfaction, the entire family may overrun the links like a European army corps swooping blithely onto a neutral country. And it is one of Nature's strange, immutable decrees that the fathers who do pay the all-the-season-come-yourself-and-bring-the-whole-family subscription always have a quantity of offspring.

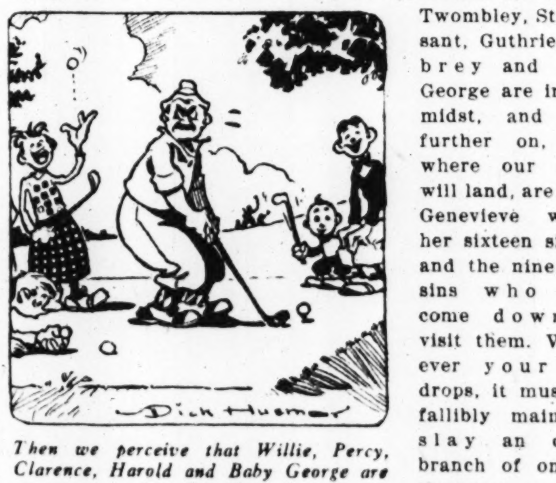
And so, as I say, just as we are about to drive off, we stay our hand and lower our club, for we perceive that Willie, Percy, Clarence, Harold, Twombley, Stuyvesant, Guthrie, Aubrey and Baby George are in our midst, and that further on, just where our drive will land, are little Genevieve with her sixteen sisters and the nine cousins who have come down to visit them. Wherever your ball drops, it must infallibly maim or slay an olive-branch of one of the sexes.



Then we perceive that Willie, Percy, Clarence, Harold and Baby George are in our midst.

It is impossible to outgeneral the Golf Child. You rise at five sharp and get to the links at five-thirty, and you find a platoon of progeny hard at it. You hang around till the dinner-hour draws near, and through the gathering darkness you can still hear the clear, fresh, young voices of a whole drove of issue as they quarrel over whether little Claude has taken two hundred or two hundred and twenty approach-shots to reach the seventh green.

SOME hold that the Golf Child is more sinned against than sinning. They advance the theory that the pestilence is due to the ineradicable trait in human nature that urges a man to get as much as possible for his money. A man, they say, who has paid a subscription of a hundred dollars feels that the more people he can decant onto the links, the more value he is getting for his outlay. His adult friends are probably men like himself, who cannot get away from New York except for the tail-end of the week, so he has to fall back on children. There is something in this, one feels.

The Golf Child aids and abets his parsimony. He likes doing it. It tickles him to see a long line of adults forming up patiently by the clubhouse, waiting for his little ones.

And so, what happens is that Papa, anxious to make his hundred-dollar payment cease to seem an extravagance, rushes out into the highways and byways, scooping in children with both hands and packing them off to Viewport. Nor does he desist until Mama telegraphs him, "House full. Three sleeping in bath already. Can put one more on dining-room mantelpiece, but that is limit." When that message comes, he rubs his hands and says, "Well, it wasn't such a bad idea, after all, paying that century. I've given a lot of pleasure to an extraordinary number of children."

He misses the point. Golf is, or should be, a game for the grown-ups. Papa should think for a moment of the wretched adults who have been lured to Viewport by its advertised links and who must punctuate their every game with long pauses for fear of massacring the kindergarten. There is only one thing to say to such a parent, and that is, "Have a heart!"

But I must cease, for I hear the voices of my own six little ones who have just returned from a happy day on the links.

P. G. WODEHOUSE.

A Finer Powder in a Smarter Container

SEVENTY-FIVE years ago French and English royalty enjoyed the exclusive use of a face powder exquisitely soft and delicate.

The formula for this powder, recently disclosed to me, has been utilized anew in compounding Lucretia Vanderbilt Face Powder. This powder, laden with the luxurious, seductive Lucretia Vanderbilt Perfume, is now available to you.

The container — as adorable as the powder! — is of metal, in rich blue and silver — with a generous puff of downy velour just inside the cover. Evolved by a gifted French designer, you will accord to this charming receptacle a permanent place upon your dressing table.

The coupon and 25 cents presented at the toilet goods counter displaying the Lucretia Vanderbilt announcement will entitle you to one of my miniature presentations containing Perfume and Powder Compact (in your favorite shade).

If perchance you do not obtain one, mail your coupon and 25¢ to Lucretia Vanderbilt, Fairfield, Conn., giving your dealer's name.

Unguentine
"The First Thought in Burns"
Antiseptic Surgical Dressing

ADVERTISEMENT

Unguentine permits health-giving ultra-violet rays to penetrate without burning

Take a sun bath —but don't risk

SUNBURN'S agony

SWIM OUT to the raft and show them some fancy dives. Feel the sun on your bare skin. In vacation days get a smart, deep coat of tan and store up that "overplus" health which will see you through the sunless winter months.

But don't risk sunburn's tortures. Just as every burn does, sunburn kills the living cells on the surface of the skin, and produces poisons which are absorbed into your system.

Severe sunburn shows all the symptoms of a deep burn—high fever, nervousness, general weakness.

Even the few minutes on the beach before and after your swim may lead to red, angry shoulders and arms, and ugly painful blisters.

Yet it is all needless. At the first sign of redness apply plenty of Unguentine, the famous antiseptic surgical dressing used in 8 out of 10 hospitals for all burns.

The soothing, antiseptic oils in Unguentine penetrate the injured area and remain in contact with it. The dreadful pain is stopped, and healing is insured.

Get a tube of Unguentine today, and have it ready. Take it to the beach and on your vacation. Always keep a tube handy in your auto kit. At your druggist's, 50¢. The Norwich Pharmacal Company, Norwich, N. Y.

Sunburn is serious. Don't rely on ineffective lotions or other cosmetics with no healing power. Unguentine stops the burning.

With Unguentine applied beforehand, you'll tan evenly, smoothly.

Unguentine Soap, bland and pure, is the perfect soap for tender, sunburned skin. And because of its Unguentine content it rapidly clears up blemishes.

YES WE HAVE STEAK FOR DINNER. WHY DO YOU ASK?
WELL I CAN'T EAT MUCH OF ANYTHING. I'M FULL. TODAY I HAD THE TREAT OF MY LIFE. TRIPE. DELICIOUS TRIPE. AFTER EATING TWO PORTIONS I GOT THE RECIPE FROM THE COOK AT ALF'S CAFE. STEWED TRIPE. WE'LL HAVE IT SOME EVENING SOON, EH?
TUESDAY
WHAT; PORKCHOPS FOR DINNER? MY WORD, I HAD MY MOUTH ALL SET FOR TRIPE. I THOUGHT ABOUT IT ALL DAY LONG. STEWED TRIPE. BOY, OH BOY. YUM YUM!
I FORGOT ALL ABOUT THE TRIPE TODAY.
WEDNESDAY
WHAT! NO TRIPE AGAIN TODAY! HOW COME? I GAVE YOU THE RECIPE MONDAY AND....
OH DON'T GET SO EXCITED. TOMORROW YOU'LL GET TRIPE?
THURSDAY
UGH, I JUST CAN'T GO THAT TRIPE. AND I CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY YOU LIKE.....
IT WAS GREAT! GREAT! BR-RUP! I ATE TOO MUCH. OH WELL RICH FOOD LIKE THAT CAN'T HURT A PERSON. TO BE FRANK THIS TRIPE ISN'T AS GOOD AS I GOT AT THE CAFE BUT AFTER YOU GET EXPERIENCE IN COOKING IT OFTENER YOU'LL KNOW HOW.
FRIDAY
TRIPE AGAIN! FINE! ATTABOY GREAT!
I HAD SOME LEFT OVER FROM LAST EVENING. AND AS YOU SUGGESTED PUT MORE PEPPER IN IT.
SATURDAY
TRIPE AGAIN THIS EVENING?
YES TRIPE AGAIN TODAY. YOU LIKE IT DON'T YOU?
MONDAY.
I WONDER IF SHE'S GOT TRIPE AGAIN? WELL I STILL THINK IT'S GREAT.
TUESDAY.
MY WORD JO. DON'T TELL ME YOU HAVE TRIPE AGAIN!
YES. YOU TOLD ME YOU COULD EAT IT SEVEN DAYS A WEEK, DIDN'T YOU?
WEDNESDAY
TRIPE AGAIN! I CAN SMELL IT. MY WORD!
THURSDAY
HELLO..........JO.........LISTEN I'M DOWNTOWN. WHAT HAVE YOU FOR DINNER? WHAT.
TRIPE AGAIN! LISTEN I WONT BE HOME UNTIL LATER. AWAY AFTER DINNER. NO DON'T SAVE ANY FOR ME.

PICNICS ARE SO MUCH FUN -- GEE, I LOVE TO PLAY ALL THESE KID GAMES AGAIN
I SPY ROD!
SH-H- PIPE DOWN OR WE'LL GET CAUGHT
AW, LET'S CUT OUT THIS HIDE-AND-SEEK" RACKET AND GRAB OFF SOME CHOW
JUST A LITTLE WHILE LONGER, JIMMIE ... I'M GETTING THE BIGGEST KICK OUT OF IT
SCRAM, EVERYBODY! I'M GOING TO START COUNTING
20 -- 30 --- 40 -- 50 --- 60 --- 70 -- 80 --- 90 -- 100 -- 110 --
I MUST FIND A GOOD PLACE TO HIDE ... ROD WILL TRY ESPECIALLY TO FIND ME
WHAT A SWEET GARDEN -- HE'LL NEVER FIND ME HERE
HERE I COME -- EVERYBODY WATCH OUT!
WELL - ER - GOOD AFTERNOON! THIS IS AN UNEXPECTED PLEASURE
I DIDN'T DREAM THIS WAS A PRIVATE HOME --- I'M SO SORRY TO INTRUDE -- I -- I -- REALLY --
SORRY? I'M GLAD! GEE, YOU HAVE PRETTY EYES --- WON'T YOU SIT DOWN AWHILE AND TELL ME ALL ABOUT YOU
I DON'T CARE ABOUT THE REST OF THEM, I'M OUT TO FIND DORA! THE LITTLE RASCAL HAS A GOOD HIDING PLACE ALL RIGHT
TEA FOR TWO, MOTO, AND MAKE SOME OF THOSE GOOD CAVIAR SANDWICHES
HOW LOVELY
I'LL BET DORA WENT INTO THAT GATE OVER THERE -- I SAW HER RUNNING IN THAT DIRECTION
HOLY SMOKES! THAT'S A PRIVATE ESTATE! SHE'LL BE ARRESTED! I'LL TRY TO GET HER OUT BEFORE SHE GETS CAUGHT
BUT JUST THINK, WE DON'T EVEN KNOW EACH OTHER'S NAMES
SHE AIN'T SO DUMB!
BUT I DO KNOW I LOVE YOU MADLY
WE'RE NOT GOING TO PLAY ANYMORE HIDE-AND-SEEK -- IT'S TOO BABYISH!
NOT THE WAY DORA PLAYS IT!

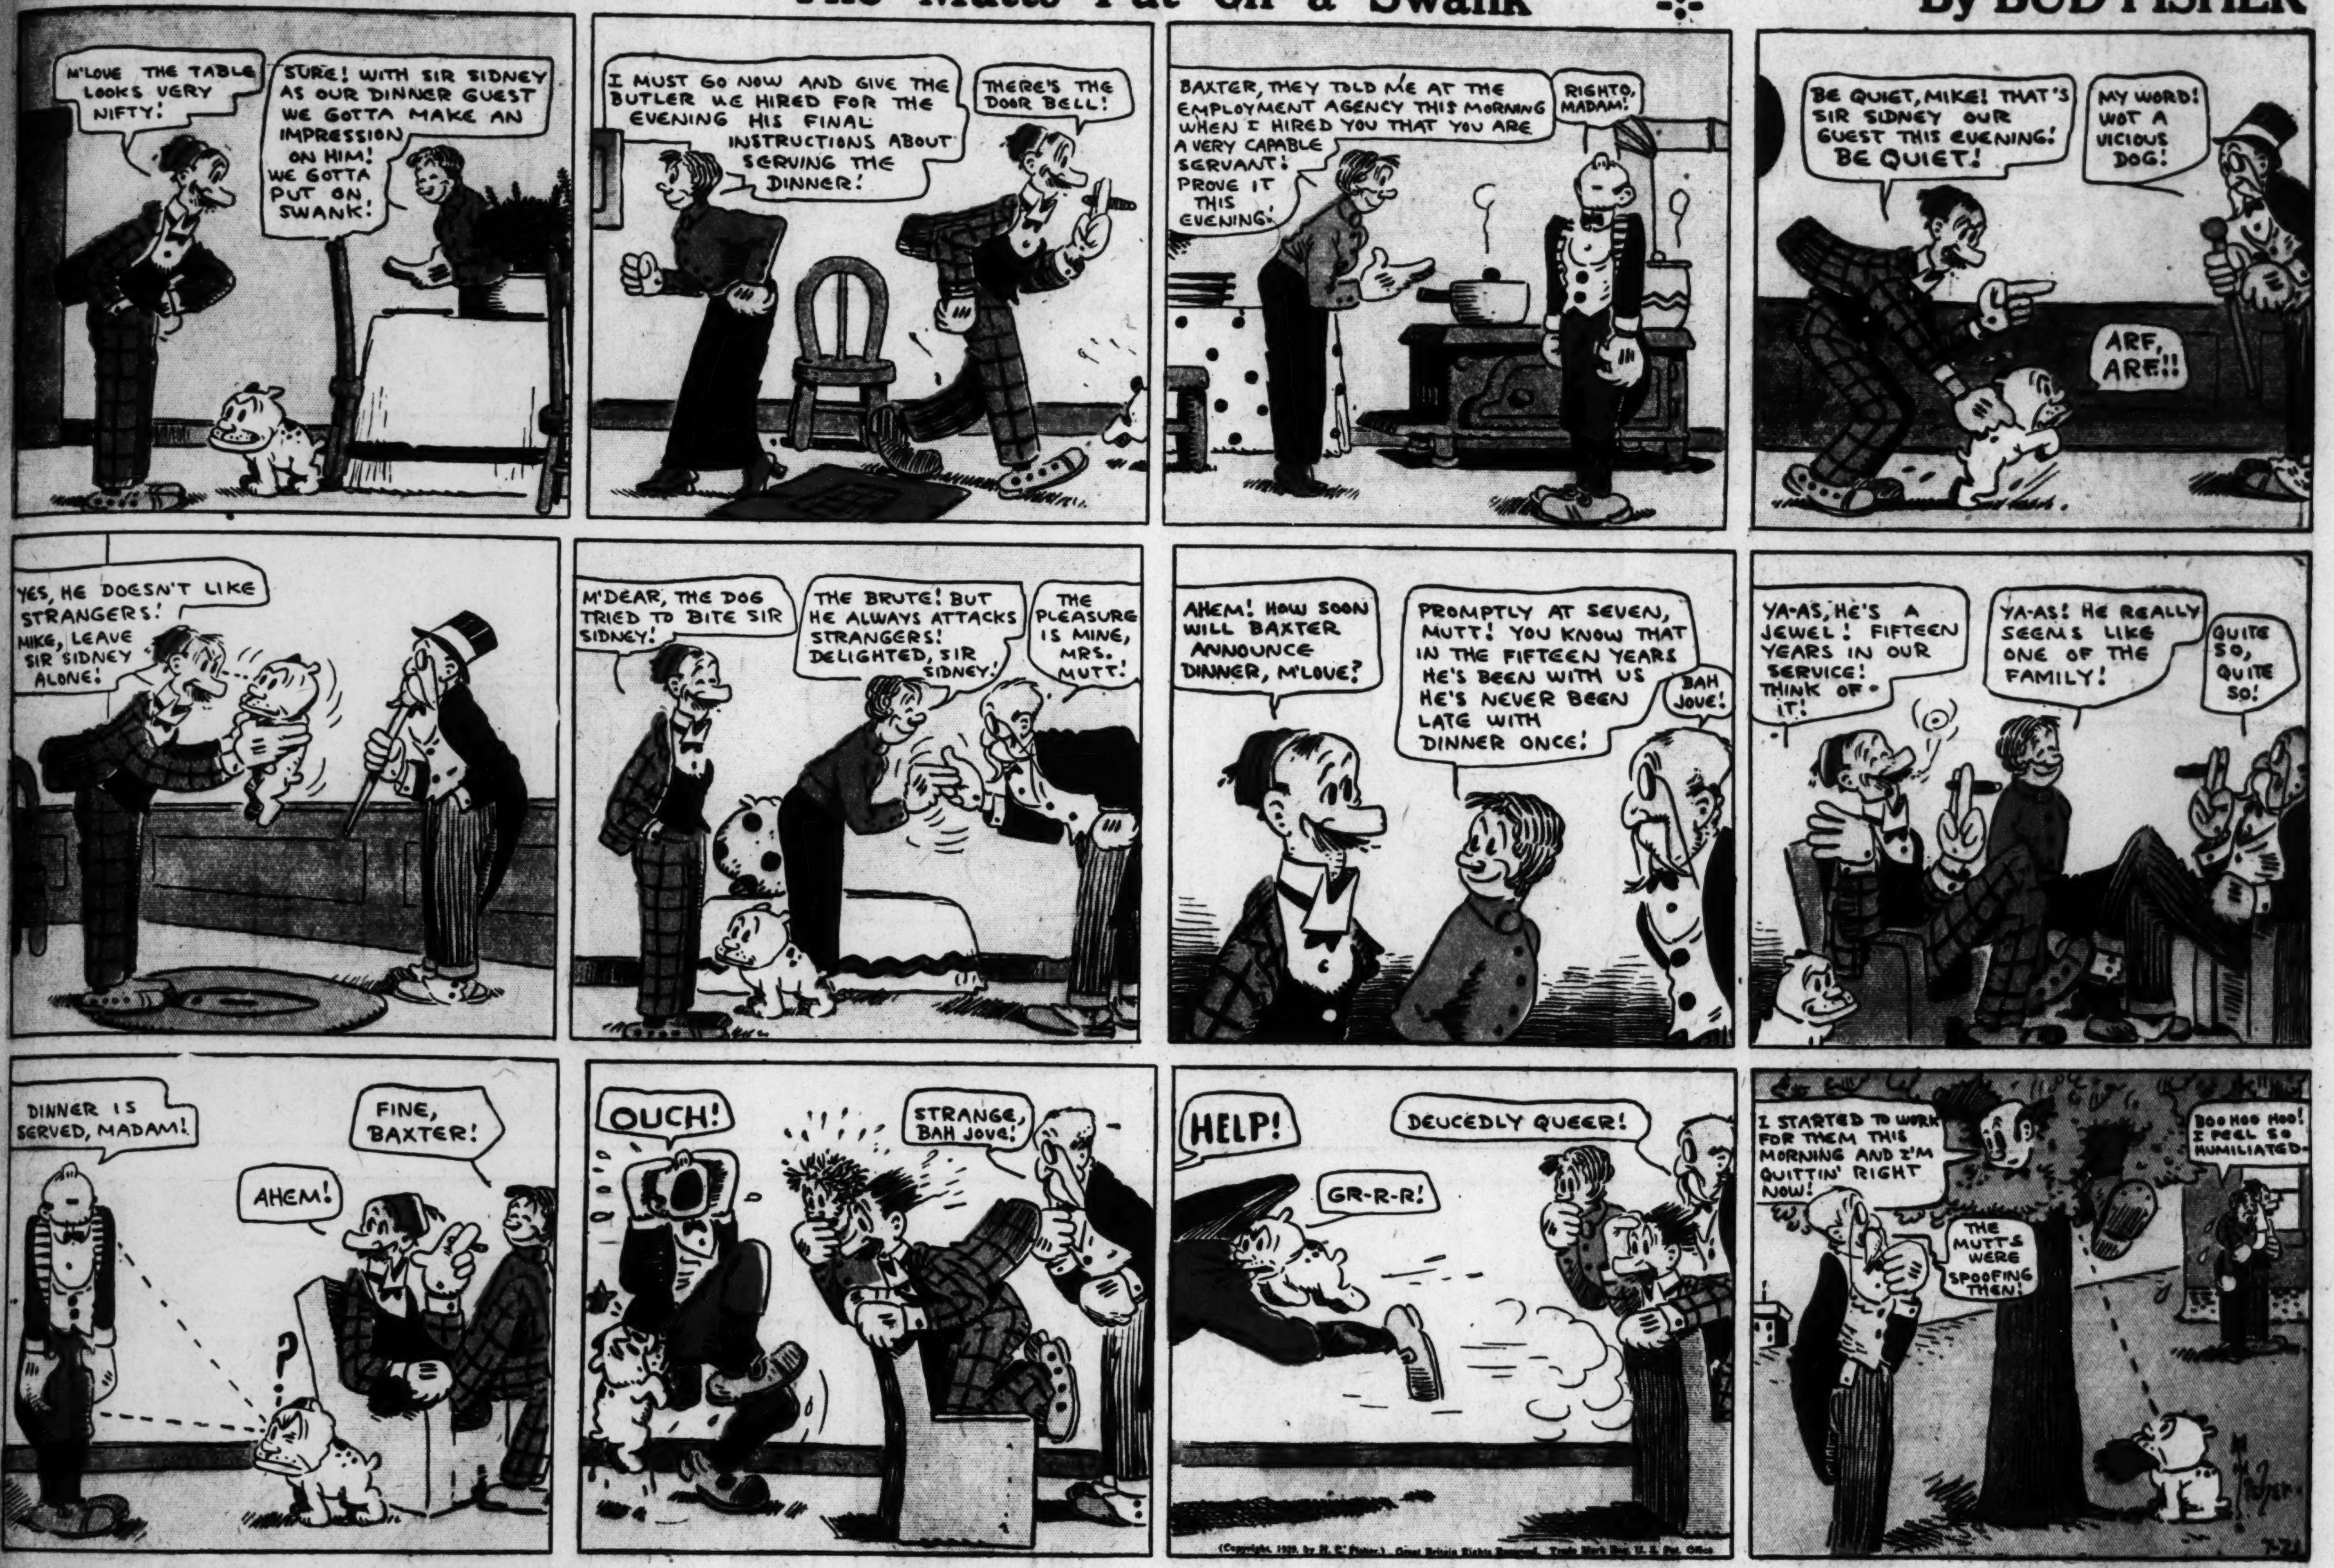
The Mutts Put on a Swank

By BUD FISHER



M'LOVE THE TABLE LOOKS VERY NIFTY!
SURE! WITH SIR SIDNEY AS OUR DINNER GUEST WE GOTTA MAKE AN IMPRESSION ON HIM! WE GOTTA PUT ON SWANK!
I MUST GO NOW AND GIVE THE BUTLER WE HIRED FOR THE EVENING HIS FINAL INSTRUCTIONS ABOUT SERVING THE DINNER!
THERE'S THE DOOR BELL!
BAXTER, THEY TOLD ME AT THE EMPLOYMENT AGENCY THIS MORNING WHEN I HIRED YOU THAT YOU ARE A VERY CAPABLE SERVANT! PROVE IT THIS EVENING!
RIGHTO, MADAM!
BE QUIET, MIKE! THAT'S SIR SIDNEY OUR GUEST THIS EVENING! BE QUIET!
MY WORD! WOT A VICIOUS DOG!
ARF, ARF!!
YES, HE DOESN'T LIKE STRANGERS! MIKE, LEAVE SIR SIDNEY ALONE!
M'DEAR, THE DOG TRIED TO BITE SIR SIDNEY!
THE BRUTE! BUT HE ALWAYS ATTACKS STRANGERS! DELIGHTED, SIR SIDNEY!
THE PLEASURE IS MINE, MRS. MUTT!
AHEM! HOW SOON WILL BAXTER ANNOUNCE DINNER, M'LOVE?
PROMPTLY AT SEVEN, MUTT! YOU KNOW THAT IN THE FIFTEEN YEARS HE'S BEEN WITH US HE'S NEVER BEEN LATE WITH DINNER ONCE!
BAH JOVE!
YA-AS, HE'S A JEWEL! FIFTEEN YEARS IN OUR SERVICE! THINK OF IT!
YA-AS! HE REALLY SEEMS LIKE ONE OF THE FAMILY!
QUITE SO, QUITE SO!
DINNER IS SERVED, MADAM!
AHEM!
FINE, BAXTER!
OUCH!
STRANGE, BAH JOVE!
HELP!
GR-R-R!
DEUCEDLY QUEER!
I STARTED TO WORK FOR THEM THIS MORNING AND I'M QUITTIN' RIGHT NOW!
THE MUTTS WERE SPOOFING THEN!
BOO HOO HOO! I FEEL SO HUMILIATED—
